FELL OUT OF WINDOW

Commercial Traveler Dies After Accident in Jamestown Hotel.

Victim Went to His Room Early in the Morning and Sat on the Sill of the Window to Cool Off, When, It is Thought, He Lost His Balance and Fell Out—Other News Items of General Interest.

George McAvoy, 38 years old, a commercial traveler, whose home is in New Kensington, Pa., fell out of a window on the third floor of the Hotel Frederick in Main street, Jamestown, early Sunday morning and died as a result of the injuries sustained about six hours later.

McAvoy went to his room about midnight and sat on the sill of the window to cool. It is thought that he lost his balance and fell out.

When he fell from the window, the body struck the roof of a bootblack's stand on the Taylor street side of the hotel, on which his room faced. Then it tumbled to the street, striking with a thud that could be heard around in Main street.

McAvoy was picked up unconscious and rushed to a hospital. Physicians did everything possible for him but he died without recovering consciousness.

BOY DRAGGED TO DEATH

Was Riding on Back of Cow Which Became Frightened and Ran Away.

Falling from the back of a cow to which he had been tied by his playmates, Lewis Burns, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Burns, was dragged by the frightened animal around a field until he was dead, according to word which reached Utica from Pulaski.

Lewis, with his two sisters, 8 and 10 years old, went out to the pasture to take turns riding on the back of the cow that long had been a pet of the family.

It was a sport the youngsters had enjoyed. The cow was gentle and had never tried to throw or harm the children while they were driving it around the field. Laughing merrily, Lewis started off on the ride that was to end his life in a shocking manner.

He had not gone far when the rope, which apparently had not been tied securely began to slip, the boy tried to cling to the cow's back, but his hands slipped over its hide and he fell.

This frightened the cow. It dashed off on a wild circuit of the pasture, dragging the little victim along the ground. Terrorized by the scene, the child's sisters dashed to the house for aid and several members of the family rushed back.

Though exhausted by its long run, the cow still led the rescuers in a fast chase. It was finally stopped and the boy cut loose. His skull was fractured and right arm and jaw broken. He was dead when picked up.

Body of Missing Man Found in Lake. The body of Guy Rumsey of Corning, N. Y., was found floating on the surface of Lake Lamoka Saturday by Fred Storrs. Rumsey went out on the lake two weeks ago Saturday night while intoxicated. Next morning his boat was found, also his fish pole and his coat. The search for his body was finally abandoned. Friends thought he had met with foul play, but his watch and $12 in money were found on his body. The body was badly decomposed.

Stop Trolley Line's Workmen. The police were called by Mayor Ellison of Corning to prevent the P. M. & W. trolley line from securing an entrance with its car to Corning, where it holds no franchise. The company began tearing up the Eastern part of the city preparatory to removing a sharp curve around which its cars could not pass. The police ordered the work stopped and the workmen complied to escape arrest. The mayor holds that the company cannot alter its tracks without the consent of the city. The Erie railroad controls both the suburban line and the local traction company.

Bank Teller Suicides. The dead body of Arthur Rhodes, teller of the First National bank at Dolgeville, N. Y., who, with his wife, was visiting Utica, was found in a field at Cold Brook. A bullet wound in his head and a revolver close by indicated suicide.

No examination has been made of his accounts, but the officers of the bank express confidence in him. He was to have gone to work today.

Brage Canal Work at Albion. Contractors have begun to build the cement wall for the north bank of the large canal at Albion, N. Y. The large old building on the south bank used for various purposes is being removed, as others have been. It is said under the law Albion can get a large canal warehouse and dock by petition to the state official, which will no doubt be done.

Mad Dog Killed at Arkwright. A mad dog was killed in the town of Arkwright, N. Y., yesterday, after it had bitten several horses and cattle on the farm of N. Black and frightened several farmers.

POTATOES WILL BE SCARCE

Great Dearth in That Article Is Reported Around Canajoharie.

Potatoes promise to be a scarce article of diet in the vicinity of Canajoharie, N. Y., the coming winter. The indications are that they will bring at least $2.50 a bushel. The dry spell is to blame, so the farmers say.

The potatoes are small and there are few in hills.

Potatoes are now selling around $2 a bushel retail. This brings those of commercial size up to about 2 cents apiece. You can buy a good apple for a cent.

FRIGHTENED TO DEATH

Horse Trembles, Then Drops Dead When Automobile Approaches.

Edward Moyer, a resident of the Creek road, near Mt. Morris, N. Y., harnessed a horse, hitched it to a buggy and start for town Saturday morning. He had gone but a short distance when he met an automobile and the horse became so frightened that it trembled for a few seconds and dropped dead.

Mr. Moyer had never been able to break the horse from being afraid of automobiles.

Narrowly Escaped Drowning.

Word has been received in Utica, N. Y., that Professor Ralph Tarr, who is a well-known zoologist, had a very narrow escape from death by drowning in the Big Delta river in Alaska a short time ago and that a summer's work of data collected for the National Geographical society in exploring the glacial region of Northern Alaska was lost when a skiff which Dr. Tarr and other scientists were being transported capsized out in Fairbanks, Alaska. The party of zoologists succeeded in swimming ashore.

Made $200,000 in Moving Pictures.

Michael Blewitt died last week in Scranton, Pa., after having amassed a fortune of $200,000 in operating a chain of five moving picture shows in Scranton, Pa., and vicinity. In his will his mother, Mrs. Mary Blewitt of Corning, N. Y., inherits a third interest in the business, which pays $1,800 a month and $7,000 in cash. To Miss Helen McCarthy of Corning, a niece, his mother's companion, he gives $3,000.

Westfield Mill Building Destroyed.

The two-story mill of the Westfield (N. Y.) Lumber & Coal company was destroyed by fire. It is thought a spark from a passing train fired the roof. The fire department succeeded in saving the office building and several smaller buildings, used as store-rooms. The loss is about $10,000, with about $5,000 insurance. It is expected a modern fireproof mill will be built.

New Bank For Bath.

It is reported that the Lang Brewing company of Buffalo will establish a state bank at Bath. Bath has at present two private banking houses. It is claimed that the building owned by the Lang company in Liberty street formerly occupied by the European hotel, will be fitted up. The Lang company is already interested in several banks in Western New York.

Accidentally Killed Sister.

While cutting corn with a grass sickle at Marathon, near Binghamton, the ten-year-old son of Wilford Morgan accidentally slashed the throat of his little sister. The lad bravely bore her to the house, where, in terrible agony, he watched her die. It was impossible to summon medical assistance in time to render any help.

Canaseraga Man Killed.

Franklin Eldred, 75 years old, an inmate of the Masonic home at Utica, was run down and killed by an east-bound West Shore milk train. Eldred was walking on the track. His home is at Canaseraga.

28 PEOPLE PERISHED

Lehigh Passenger Train Plunges Off Bridge Near Manchester N.Y.

More Than 60 Are Injured, Many of Whom Are Severely Hurt — Train Was Crowded With G. A. R. Veterans and Excursionists From the Encampment at Rochester — Wreck Was Worst in History of the Lehigh Valley Railway.

Lehigh Valley passenger train No. 4 ran into a spread rail on a trestle near Manchester last Friday and two day coaches from the middle section of the train plunged down ward 40 feet, striking the east embankment like a pair of projectiles. Twenty-eight persons were killed and more than 60 injured. The injuries of several were so serious that it is feared they will die.

The wreck was the worst in the history of the Lehigh Valley line in New York state and one of the most disastrous ever recorded on the system.

Crowded with passengers, many of whom were war veterans and excursionists from the G. A. R. encampment at Rochester, train No. 4, made up of 14 cars, drawn by two big mogul engines, was 40 minutes late when it reached Rochester junction and from there sped eastward to make up time before reaching Geneva.

The engines and two day coaches had just passed the center of a 400 foot trestle over Canandaigua out-let 500 yards east of the station at Manchester, at 12:35 o'clock when the Pullman car Austin, the third of a long train, left the rails. It dragged the dining car with it and two Pullmans, in this order followed.

All bumped over the ties a short distance until the coupling between the first day coach and the diner broke. The forward end of the train dragged the derailed Pullman, Austin, and the diner over safely, after which both plunged down the south embankment and rolled over.

The free end of the ill-fated Lehigh Valley day coach, where most of the slaughter occurred, shoved out over the gulf and, followed by a Grand Trunk day coach, stripped the rear guard off the south side of the trestle and plunged into the shallow river more than 40 feet below.

Buried in Wreckage. The end of the first day coach that went over struck the east embankment of solid masonry and with the other 60-foot cars behind it, both shot against the wall with terrific force. In an instant the crowded cars lay a mass of crumpled wood, metal and glass, under which a hundred men, women and children, many of whom were killed instantly, were buried.

The most destruction occurred in the head day coach and a dozen persons were later taken dead from the second day coach, which, following the first over the trestle, snapped its rear coupling and thus saved the rest of the train from being dragged over. This second day coach struck on the bottom and stood end up, the rear end projecting a few feet above the top of the trestle. All of the passengers in this car were piled in a tangled mass of broken seats at the bottom of the car.

The cars did not catch fire. Axes were secured and body after body was removed and carried by the rescuers, knee deep in the river bed, to the bank on the west side of the trestle. There the dead and injured were laid out on the damp ground while planks and timber, taken from buildings in course of construction, were requisitioned and a field hospital was established.

At the Rochester hospitals, four more injured are not expected to live. They are Miss Susan Everett of Virginia avenue, Niagara Falls; Mrs. Joseph Hickey of 1839 South street, Philadelphia; Howard Headley of Philadelphia and Mrs. Army Lawrence of Philadelphia. If these die, the death list will reach 33.

HEART RENDING SCENE

Death List in the Canonsburg Moving Picture Disaster Reaches 26.

Rewards have been offered for the arrest and conviction of the person who cried "fire" in the Morgan Opera House at Canonsburg Pa., last Saturday night, causing a panic in which 26 persons were trampled to death and at least 40 others hurt. The police fear that if he is captured he will be dealt with violently as threats on all sides.

Most of the dead have been identified and the bodies removed to their homes in Canonsburg.

The scene at the entrance to the opera house was indescribable. As the injured persons were carried from the building they were attended on the sidewalk in front of the theater by physicians.

Mrs. Minnie Lemon of Lawrenceville, who was one of those who escaped the stampede, is a raving maniac in the Canonsburg hospital as a result of her experience.

Many of the mutilated, all but dismembered bodies, were grouped together at the main entrance of the building and followed by dazed grief-stricken crowds, were taken to the morgue.

Henry Clay Beattie is expected to take the stand in his own defence at the resumption of the trial next week, when the fuel has been replenished.

JUDGE SAVES PRISONER

With Mob Threatening, He Sends Accused Out Back Door.

Mahanoy City, Pa., Aug. 29.—The quick wit of Magistrate Robert Wyatt saved Frank Zamanski from rough treatment at the hands of a mob which surrounded the magistrate's office last night during Zamanski's preliminary trial for attempted murder. The prisoner, who is 23 years old, during a quarrel stabbed Samuel Jones in the left side with a pocket knife.

While the crowd of 500 in an angry mood busied itself watching Jones, weak and bleeding, being lifted into an automobile to be taken to the hospital, Justice Wyatt had the prisoner hastened away at a back door to the borough lockup under strong guard. He was sent to jail at daybreak. Jones, who was a well-known baseball player, is lying at the Miners' hospital with few chances of recovery.

PARENTS RELENTED

Frankfort Girl Weds Youth Freed From the Workhouse.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 29.—The romance of Walter Onan, aged 16, and Lizzie Grifflie, aged 15, starting on their elopement to Lexington last week to get married, resulting in their arrest and concluding in Onan's being sent to the workhouse, reached its climax when Onan and Miss Grifflie were married today. The marriage license used was the one secured in Lexington. The bride's parents had relented.

LOST FISHERMAN IS ATTACKED BY SHARK

Forced to Eat Part of Coat After Drifting Three Days.

Bath, Me., Aug. 29.—Joseph A. Pottle, a fisherman, who three days ago was lost in the Atlantic, having lost sight of his vessel, was rescued today by a party of Bar Harbor yachtsmen and taken to port.

Pottle told a tale of terrible suffering. While out in his boat gathering in his trawls he became lost in the fog, and, despite his cries, he was unable to learn how near the vessel was. Finally, he concluded to row around in a circle, broadening it at times.

Pottle then decided that he would throw all the fish overboard, thinking it would be but a matter of hours only when he would reach the coast, but his reckonings proved to be incorrect. In throwing over the fish a shark was attracted and showed fight, thinking, apparently, that the man in the boat was throwing missiles at him.

Pottle fought off the infuriated fish for 40 minutes, finally beating it off with the oars and throwing the netted trawls around the fish's sword, which at one time penetrated the boat above the water line.

Pottle, growing weak the third day, started to eat parts of his coat to appease his hunger, and was almost deprived of strength when rescued.

FRENCH ROUT REBELS

Series of Engagements Reported Between Liberian Outlaws and Republic's Troops.

Paris, Aug. 29.—The minister for the colonies has received dispatches informing him that there have been a series of engagements between French troops and Liberian rebels on the Franco-Liberian frontier.

The French soldiers routed several bands of rebels and outlaws. The dispatches add that a new and well defended boundary line will prevent incursions by these outlaws in the future.

GIANT DEVILFISH CAUGHT

Monster Weighed 1,600 Pounds and Was 14 Feet Across.

Port Aransas, Tex., Aug. 29.—F. C. Nicodemus and J. C. Cotter harpooned and landed a giant ray or devilfish. It measured 14 feet across, and with two harpoons in it weighed 1,600 pounds. The monster towed the launch three miles to sea, and was captured only after it had been shot ten times. The struggle lasted an hour and a half.

BARN ARE WASHED AWAY

Heavy Rainfall Floods Coderus Creek, Causing Much Damage.

York, Pa., Aug. 29.—A flood on the Coderus creek caused much damage in this city. The towns of Glen Rock and Seven Valleys were partly under water and many corn fields were washed out.

Barns and other farm buildings were washed from their foundations and considerable livestock drowned.

Caught Within Three-Mile Limit. Ottawa, Aug. 29.—The gasoline schooner Sarah of Seattle was taken into New Westminster, B. C., harbor in charge of a Canadian fishery protective cruiser. The Sarah was taken by the government cruiser while, it is alleged, fishing within the three-mile limit. The capture was reported by wire to the marine and fisheries department.
