zine, 381 Fourth Ave., New York City, 2t -Fifty-two years ago Wednesday, August 30, 1859, was the date of the be ginning of the oil industry in this country, says the Warren Times. On that day a dozen or more men stood around the original Drake oil well and for the first time watched the pump give forth the greenish fluid, called "rock oil." The well was 6914 feet deep and yielded 20 barrels per day. From this small beginning has grown one of the most gigantic industries extending around the world.

RECENT DEATHS.

KIFFER. Alfred Leroy, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Kiffer, was born July 25, 1911, and died August 28th. The funeral services were conducted at the home Wednesday at 10 o'clock, by Rev. J. F. Scherer, of Endeavor, and the four little girls that acted as pall bearers were, Ida Ball, Beulah Ball, Olive Jones and Vera Halladay. The body was taken to its last resting place at Town Line. Mr. and Mrs. Kiffer desire to thank the friends of East Hickory and Whig Hill for their help and kindness through the sickness

MILES. Clarence Lloyd Miles, son of O. F. Miles died at noon, Tuesday, August 29, 1911, at the parental home, No. 8 Brook street, Warren, Pa., after an illness of several months' duration. November 27, 1892, Lloyd was born in Tionesta where his parents resided for about 15 years. He was a quiet, manly lad, studious in habits, and in his young manhood gave promise of making his mark in most any calling in life. Popular with his associates and highly esteemed by all who know him, his early taking away is sincerely regretted in this his native town. He is survived by his father, stepmother, one brother and one sister. Dwight and Josephine. Funeral services were held Thursday morning at his late home, after which the body was taken to Plain Grove, Lawrence county, and laid to rest beside his mother, who was taken three years ago last April. YOUNG.

Nancy Young, daughter of Peter Switzer, one of the early settlers of Clarion county, was born near Sligo, November 9, 1828, and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Scandrett of East Hickory, September 2, 1911.

In 1848 she was united in marriage with Robert R. Young, and for a number of years they lived in the vicinity of Callensburg. At the beginning of civil war, when the call was made by the President for volunteers, although she understood what it would mean to her and the family. she gave her consent for him to enlist, and with the spirit of the true patriot took upon her shoulders the support of the family, and with the aid which her soldier husband sent home from his meager wages, she kept the children together, giving them all the advantages it was possible for her to do under the circumstances. After the honorable discharge of her husband from the service of the Government, the family lived in several places in Clarion county, as the mills of these times furnished employment, un til they purchased a home in Sigel, where they resided until the death of Mr. Young, 13 years ago, since then making her home with her children. Mrs. Young was a woman of deep religious convictions, Her parents being members of the Lutheran church she remained in that communion until she united with the Presbyterian church in Sigel, of which she remained a consistant member until ber

Guilty of Manslanghter.

"Guilty of voluntary manslaughter with a recommendation to mercy," was the way the jury returned the verdict in the trial of Perry Gray, the aged veteran of the famous old Bucktail regiment, charged with the killing of Jack Spence at his (Gray's) home near Pleasantville in the night of April 7th last. The trial was held in Franklin last week, and after six hours' deliberation the jury reached the above verdict Friday night at 10:38 o'clock. Gray stoutly maintained his innocence of the crime to the last claiming that one of two strange men who called at his house while he and his chum, Spence, were having a social time, was responsible for the killing. The minimum penalty for this degree of murder is three years and the maximum twelve years. Gray was ably defended by Attorneys Shawkey and Munn of Warren. who gave their services for almost nothing, as the defendant had no money to put up for attorney fees and expenses of unable to bear their own expense. By agreement Judge Criswell, before whom the trial took place, will defer sentence until next Tuesday. The attorneys do not expect to move for a new trial, but hope to get as light a sentence for their client as possible. The Derrick of Mon-day said: "Gray is completely crushed by the verdict. He was confident of acquittal and was in no way prepared for even a verdict of voluntary mansiaughter. His nerve has deserted him and his con dition is pitiable. He has slept but little since Saturday night and at times he shakes as with palsy. He has a horror of the penitentiary and declares that he will not live a year after going there. Three years is the least sentence he can receive unless the judge should suspend sentence altogether, which is within his power. Gray is now past 71 years."
