MARSHAL KILLS DETECTIVE

Illinois Central Strike Breaker Fired on Crowd and is Shot Down by a Policeman.

Calro, Ill., Sept. 19.—Charles O. Knight, a special detective on strike duty at Mounds, Ill., was shot and killed by Marshal Walbridge. Mounds is made up entirely of Illinois Central employees and is the freight terminal of that railway and is six miles north of Cairo. The villagers are in hearty sympathy with the striking railway clerks.

Knicht ventured into town, and displaying a revolver defied some strikers and also the town marshal, finally opening fire on them. Marshal Walbridge emptied his revolver at Knicht, seven bullets taking effect. Walbridge was excoriated by a coroner's jury. Illinois Central officials are bringing men from Chicago to relieve the strike situation. All the clerks and even the women stenographers employed at Mounds are on strike.

WILL START TODAY

Rodgers Hopes to Overtake Ward, Who is Stalled at Corning. Middletown, N. Y., Sept. 19.—With his Wright flying machine, which was smashed by a fall 20 feet, Galbraith P. Rodgers, the flyer who started from Sheepshead Bay Sunday is waiting for the Wright Flying Machine company, which will determine when he can resume his flight.

Rodgers has not given up his hope of overtaking James J. Ward and when he heard that the latter had been detained at Corning he remarked: "Well, that will make it so much easier for me to overtake him." Manager De Kraft stated that night that he would try to secure the Orange county fair grounds for Rodgers to make a start from tomorrow and that admission would be charged in order to make a little towards the expenses incurred by the accident.

FOWLER WILL RESUME FLIGHT TODAY.

Auburn, Cal., Sept. 19.—Fowler expects to resume his flight across the continent today. All the necessary parts of his machine arrived and the work of completing the repairs was finished. After preliminary trials in the morning he will take flight across the mountains.

WANTED BARGAIN IN FINE

Trading Stamps Demanded From Justice by Man After Sentence. Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—After paying a fine of $10 on a charge of cruelty to animals, Louis Grossman surprised Magistrate Belcher yesterday by asking for trading stamps.

Grossman, who conducts a poultry store near Eighth and Wood streets, was arrested by Agents Doyle and Buehler of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The agents testified that Grossman had live pigeons in crowded crates and that several of the pigeons died. When Magistrate Belcher imposed the fine Grossman lingered about the office, and when asked what he wanted he asked for the trading stamps. No stamps were forthcoming.

Without an instant's warning, the big lioness, Victoria, sprang from the back of the cage, and thrusting her paw through the rails, seized the child's head in its claws. Few of the spectators noticed the girl's peril until attention was attracted by her screams for help. The child was rescued by James E. McElroe of Buffalo, a spectator.

SENTENCE TO HANG

John N. Andrews, Convicted of Murder, Smiles and Says He Has Nothing to Say.

John N. Andrews, convicted of the murder of Emilie Amann, was sentenced by Judge Hinckley at Warren, Pa., to be hanged on a day to be designated by Governor Tener. Asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed on him, Andrews said:

"I thank not, your honor, under the circumstances. I feel that it will all come out right in the end." He smiled as he spoke. His lawyers took a formal exception to the sentence, pending as part of the appeal which they are pressing.

SLOW VOYAGE PROFITABLE

Sugar Cargo Now Worth $100,000 More Than When Ship Left Java.

Boston, Sept. 19.—When the steamship Northumbria, Captain Hadley, ten weeks ago from Ekelongan, Java, poked her nose through the fog and dropped anchor in Boston harbor yesterday there wasn't a bit of food on board her and the mixed crew had been on half rations for days.

She left Java on June 30 and was eight days late. Bad weather was encountered almost all the way. At Port Said provisions for six weeks were taken on. She was ordered to the Delaware breakwater to await instructions and this and the thick weather caused her delay and the shortage in food.

The Northumbria carries 20,185 bags, or 12,535,100 pounds of sugar in her hold. This is worth 600,000, which is $100,000 in excess of its value when she left Java, the price of sugar having climbed meanwhile.

The Northumbria is the first of a fleet of 30 steamships which are to carry sugar to the United States.

WISH TO RIDE ASTRIDE

Bryn Mawr Horse Show Women Angry at Rule Against It.

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—Several of the younger horsewomen of Main Line social circles are decidedly angry because the committee of the Bryn Mawr horse show has seen fit to bar all women from the hunting and jumping classes this year and to rule that in one class those women who enter must show under side saddle, instead of astride.

The younger woman riders have gained whatever proficiency they have by riding astride, and they maintain that the rule will put them to a decided disadvantage.

Among them are Miss Polly Page, who will be introduced to society this winter; Miss Ruth Wood, who manages her own farm at Broomall, and Miss Kitty Smith, who also is to be one of the coming season's debutantes.

JACK RABBIT ATTACKS HIM

When Motorcyclist Goes to Animal Struck by His Machine Victim Leaps at Him.

San Bernardino, Cal., Sept. 19.—Angered because it was struck by a motorcycle, a jack rabbit attacked W. W. De Hart of Redlands yesterday. Mr. De Hart was bowling along at a high speed. The rabbit was speeding along a path at right angles to the motorcycle. The motorcycle struck the animal, knocking it 20 feet into the air, while Mr. De Hart was thrown from his machine. The motorcyclist got up first and started for the jack rabbit. Instead of running the jack rabbit leaped at Mr. De Hart, who was so startled that he sweated aside. The jack rabbit did not follow up his advantage, but kept on his way, quickly disappearing.

LUKE McHENRY DEAD

Publisher of Chittanooga Times and Oneida Democrat-Union Passes Away at Clifton Springs.

Luke McHenry, clerk of the New York state assembly and publisher of the Chittanooga Times and Oneida Democrat-Union, died at the sanitarium in Clifton Springs Sunday. He had been there about a month and seemed to improve for a time, but there was recently a change for the worse in his condition.

His wife and son have been here with him during his illness. The body will be taken to Chittanooga today.

Mr. McHenry was 49 years old. His home was in Chittanooga, where he edited a weekly newspaper for several years. Last January he was elected clerk of the assembly.

Prominent in state, county and town politics, Mr. McHenry was wellknown and liked. He was at one time president of the New York Press association and twice president of the Democratic Editorial association. He was also a Mason, Odd Fellow, Velled Prophet, member of the chapter, Elk, and members of several clubs and business organizations.

BLOWN TO PIECES

Batavia Pole Instantly Killed by a Black Hand Bomb.

Theodore Czernyewski, a Pole, of Batavia, was instantly killed by the explosion of a dynamite bomb Friday morning. The bombs tore a great hole in Czernyewski's head, also taking off one of his legs and an arm. Jimmie Roch, an Italian, was arrested shortly after on suspicion.

Czernyewski's wife, who was in the yard with him, was seriously injured as a result of the explosion. She was taken to the Batavia hospital. Physicians who examined her wounds were unable to account for the fact that most of them were made by small lead slugs. These slugs were painted green and are supposed to contain poison.

Tot Killed on Way to Meet Father.

A. W. Livermore, a farmer living a mile from Bonckville, N. Y., went to the state fair at Syracuse. His six-year-old daughter Alice remained at home and watched for her father all day. Nearing evening the child slipped out of the house and ran toward the station to meet him who was expected soon. A work train backing down ran over her and she received injuries from which she died in a few minutes.
