Funeral services in memory of William Stangenhaupt were held at East Brady Tuesday. Five weeks ago while he was employed as janitor at the public schools, Mr. Stangenhaupt caught a rat which turned and bit him. The injury was not considered serious at first, but last week blood poison developed and he suffered great agony until his death last Saturday. His wife, two sons and three daughters survive.—Emuleton Herald.

—Ray Cole passed through town Saturday morning with a hay rack loaded with grapes, which he was taking to Nebraska. The load contained 410 baskets and were shipped to this station from the lake shore grape belt. Our thanks are due Ray for a basket of the delicious fruit.

—The Standard Wood Co., which has a large plant at Kellestville, this county, is a heavy loser in the Austin disaster, an immense plant belonging to the company having been damaged by the fire which followed the flood, and a large amount of wood carried away by the torrent.

—Chestnuts are so plentiful as to be almost a drug upon the market. The quality is fine and wormless, and the size is regular and above the average. Go out and pick what you want, but don't try to climb the trees unless you're an expert. Many accidents are being reported from this cause.

—Titusville is to have a prize fight on the 17th inst., when Jack Ryan of Chicago, and George Henderson, a local heavyweight will try to knock one another out in 10 rounds. These fights are called glove contests, but that doesn't make 'em smell any sweeter, and Titusville is about the only place in the state where such affairs are still permitted.

—Geo. H. Lowe, owner of one-half of the Baird lease at Dawson, has taken over the other half interest, which makes him one of the nicest oil leases in this vicinity. Mr. Lowe has given lots of attention to this piece of property, putting it in the best possible order, and is reaping a harvest accordingly. We believe it is his intention to develop it to the fullest extent.

—Miss Allison Wagner, daughter of Lewis Wagner of Tionesta township, had her right arm badly lacerated while sealing a glass fruit jar, Thursday last. The top of the jar twisted off and the young lady's arm above the wrist came in contact with the jagged glass cutting a deep gash several inches long, and which required several stitches to close. Dr. Bovard gave the needed surgical aid.

—An explosion of one of the high compressor cylinders in the gasoline plant at Mayburg, Saturday, did a small amount of damage, but injured no one, and the building was not damaged to any extent, as was rumored here. The plant is owned by Richards & Collins, and is one of the most complete and up-to-date in the country. The delay and inconvenience in making repairs will be but slight.

—Reports from the potato fields are gratifying to those who feared, an account of the generally discouraging reports concerning potatoes this year that the high prices established during the interval between the consumption of the old and the free arrival of the new crop would be continued throughout the winter. The crop will not be a bumper, but sufficient to make the price about right for both producer and consumer, from all indications.

—The Republican acknowledges receipt of an invitation from Gov. Tener and the Legislative Commission to attend the unveiling of the groups of stately sculptures by George Grey Barnard for the capitol of Pennsylvania in Harrisburg. The unveiling ceremonies take place today and we're sorry we can't be there, but since the groups have been so much discussed, pro and con, some being of the opinion that they should never be "unveiled," perhaps it is just as well.

—With the Austin horror before them how much longer will the State water supply commission hesitate to turn down the applicants for Tionesta creek and Clarion river water charters? If a fifty-foot dam would cause such a calamity what would the breaking of a 300-foot structure, forming a lake from one to five miles in width and forty miles long, result in? One shudders to think of it. Will the authorities at Harrisburg longer hesitate to throttle this heinous crime? We shall hope not.

—Just listen to this from Editor Borland of the Franklin News, and he a married man at that: "Often you hear people say that a woman should stay at home and be safe in her proper place. But many who stay at home belong out on the street three times as often as they appear there and ought to go to the stores oftener and make more visits to relatives and neighbors. The reward of the stay-at-home is not always quietness and joy. A Springfield, Mass., woman lost an eye the other day by the explosion of a bottle of catsup. If she had been at the matinee where she belonged she would have been better off."

—The appeal book in the sensational Andrews' murder case which was tried at Warren, Pa., a few weeks ago, will be printed in Dunkirk. John M. Andrews, convicted murderer of Amann, has taken an appeal from his conviction and the appeal is pending. The copy for the appellants paper in the case has been received by the Dunkirk Printing company, D. U. Arid, attorney for the condemned man, bringing it personally. It consists of 1,100 typewritten pages and is much larger than the Burnett murder evidence which consisted of 807 pages, and was also printed by this company.—Dunkirk Observer.

—The Warren Times of Saturday says: Today there arrived in Warren from Mayburg, Forest county, two Italians, Tony Fago and John Nates. When news of the war declared by Italy reached them, notice that they must quit their jobs was at once given. Tonight these two men leave for Rome to do the uniform of their country and engage in the fight against Turkey. When they left their native shores many years ago the two Italians promised to return did they continue their services were needed in defending the flag of their country. They are keeping their word—keeping their word because they love old Italy.

—When the big dam broke at Austin on Saturday it was generally reported in Kane that it was the dam that Mr. George Miller, contractor of Kane, had built, but this is not true, as the one Mr. Miller built is a few miles above the one that broke, and was so constructed that water pressure of the dam can be released without any apparent danger, which has been done several times this summer owing to the heavy rains.—Kane Republican.

Mr. Miller has been in Tionesta for some time past, and is an expert in the construction of dams. The one he built is still standing firm as a rock and he has no fear of its ever giving way, because it is erected on scientific principles, and has the staying qualities. Mr. Miller expects soon to begin work on a mill dam for Messrs. Coleman and Watson at the mouth of Johns run.

—Miss Marjorie Wilkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Wilkins of West Spruce street, left last night for Winter Park, Fla., where she will spend the winter at Rollins' college, studying music. She will pay special attention to the pipe organ. She went in company with her aunt, Miss Eva Wilkins, who is one of the instructors in Rollins college. She is the author of an Irish Legendary play, which has received favorable comment recently from New York cities.—Titusville Herald.

The young lady has numerous friends in this section, her parents being former residents of West Hickory.

—Word comes from Warren that George B. Munn, one of the two attorneys who recently defended Perry Gray at his trial for murder, has gone to Pittsburg to consult his client in the Western penitentiary relative to making application for a pardon. The move is not a surprise for Judge Criswell, in sentencing the old man, suggested that that would be the proper course for those who desire to save the accused from a long penitentiary term the statement being made in connection with the petitions asking for a suspension of sentence. Gray was sentenced to serve not less than two years and not more than 12 years, under which he would probably get his freedom in two years.

—The well of M. S. Carnahan on the north end of warrant 5195, the Wheeler & Densbury lands, near Newtown Mills, was finished last week in the Balltown sand at 172 feet. Two good pay streaks of oil were found in the Tiona or Queen sand at 1169 feet. There was 120 feet of sand and the well was shot with a hundred quart shot, the hole filling up for some distance with oil. The owner is having a lot of bad luck with the well. When they started to clean out after the shot the well caved in and buried the tools and later a string of fishing tools on top of them. However, they expect to have them out in a few days and will know what the well is good for. This is the second fishing job on the well. A well drilled many years ago 500 feet south of this well made a good showing of oil and will be cleaned out.

—Captain Pringle, of the local Salvation Army, was at Butler Thursday, where he had been called to appear as a witness in the case of a chap who was arrested at Harrisville and held on a charge of soliciting money under false pretenses. The fellow claims that his name is William Jennings Bryan and gathered up the money in the name of the American Salvation Army. Captain Pringle had some experience with the fellow about the 5th of the present month when he was here. Word of his collecting money came to the Captain's ears and the latter sought the man at one of the hotels, but the stranger became alarmed and fled out the window. He was brought up in Judge Galbraith's court in Butler yesterday morning, sentenced to the workhouse for three months, ordered to pay a fine of $25 and assessed for the costs of the case.—Oil City Derrick.

This is the same man whom the police of Franklin chased out of town at the request of Captain Whorton.—Franklin News.

Court Minutes.

When our report of the September court closed last Wednesday the case of H. S. Suttley vs. F. C. and O. W. Prober was on trial. The jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff for $73.75.

In the case of C. F. Coon vs. N. Y. & Pa. Co., known as the pulp-wood case from Marienville, the court ordered a verdict for the defendants. The case of John Hibarger against the same defendants was discontinued.

In the case of Commonwealth vs. the instance of Jacob Wagner, et al., vs. Jesse Carson, the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff for $4.00.

The case of Com. vs. C. O. Thomas, charged with receiving stolen horses and rig, was continued to November term.

Peter Curcio, convicted of assault and battery, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500.00, costs of prosecution, and to be imprisoned in the county jail for one year.

In the case of T. D. Collins et al. vs. L. S. Clough et al., the plaintiff's application for a change of venue was withdrawn and the case ordered placed regularly on the list for trial at November term.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

The grand jury reported that they acted upon four bills of indictment of which three were found true bills. They inspected the county buildings and found the court house and jail in good condition, interior of both and grounds well kept. They visited the county home and report the county farm in a good thrifty condition, nicely cleaned up and apparently in good state of cultivation. The different rooms and wards in the home were nice and clean and in good shape, the inmates happy and well cared for. They found that the walks about the grounds are in bad condition and recommended that they should be taken up and replaced with either stone or cement; the cornice on the roof of the same building should be taken off and roof so constructed as to prevent snow and ice from freezing on the edge of the roof and damming the water back and causing the roof to leak and damage the wall and interior; that cracks in the top row of stone in the stone wall be pointed with cement to prevent water from getting into the wall; that it would add very much to the appearance of some of the rooms to have them painted. They recommended that the road commissioners of Tionesta and Harmony townships be instructed to repair the sewers and cut the brush out of the public road being parallel with the river between Jamieson run and Dawson run. The grand jury also presented the following report on the water power propositions:

We, the grand jury, September term, Court of Quarter Sessions, have been informed that the waters of Tionesta creek are about to be appropriated to a corporation or company and that a large dam is supposed to be erected at the mouth of Tionesta creek. And we, deeming it a matter of public interest, do hereby protest that we have examined the protest presented to the Governor and the Water Supply Commission of the State, by the County Commissioners of Forest county, and that we hereby approve of the action taken by the County Commissioners in entering a protest against the granting of the charters and recommend that they take any action that may be necessary to prevent the destruction of property in Forest county, especially in the Tionesta valley and Barnett township, by the granting of the charters approved for.

Announcement Party.

One of the most unique announcement parties of the season was given Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. George Joy, at their home at Kinzua, Pa., announcing the engagement of their daughter, Gladys Victoria, to Mr. Dallas Reek, of Tionesta. The home was beautifully decorated with flowers. The color scheme of pink and white was charmingly carried out. Covers were laid for sixteen and the menu of the luncheon was very choice. One of the unique features was the table decorations of pink and white hearts. The hours were spent in a very enjoyable manner and the party was broken up at the advent of an automobile which departed some of the guests. Upon departing their host and hostess received many compliments for the charming manner in which they were entertained.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Austin Horror.

Second only to the Johnstown horror of 22 years ago is that which practically wiped the thriving towns of Austin and Costello, in Potter county, off the map, and destroyed between 100 and 150 human lives. The lesson is a terrible one and ought to be effectually put a stop to the hazardous practice of building big dams on streams inhabited low down. The most rigid investigation should be made of this horror and the blame placed where it belongs. The fact that the people of Austin have for some time lived in dread of just such a calamity is evidence of the weakness of the structure that gave way last Saturday afternoon. Let the investigation be thorough and complete. The people will be satisfied with nothing less.

The latest reports up to last night state that 38 dead have been recovered at Austin and a poll of the population shows 40 others missing. This does not include any strangers who may have been in the town. Only two lives were lost at Costello, the residents being warned in time to escape.

A dispatch from Harrisburg says: The State Water Supply Commission will meet here Thursday to outline the investigation into the breaking of the dam at Austin, and it is probable that John Birkinbine, president of the commission, and other members, will go to Austin to make a personal inspection. Engineer Farley Gannett will make an early report. The investigation will probably have direct bearing upon applications for authority to construct power plant dams, and may also lead to an investigation into the stability of other dams. The Austin dam was built before the commission went into office.

Harkless will act as librarian and only members of the club will have access to the books.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shafer and daughter Gladys, of Sheriff, were called to town Thursday on account of the serious illness of the former's father, Jacob Shafer. The Primaries passed off quietly Saturday and the results show how Kellestville will stand by their man when they have one in the field, W. H. Braze, receiving 152 votes out of 156 polled.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Weller and son Roe, and Mrs. J. C. Miller drove to Tionesta Sunday, where they spent the day with Mrs. Weller's sister, and brought Ross and Reed Weller, who had been picking chestnuts there for a few days, home with them.

Lewis Jensen and H. B. Dotterer drove to Ross Run Saturday to visit a place near there where there had been a large spot of ginseng growing a number of years ago, but they found that there had been so many changes in the intervening years that it was almost impossible to locate the place, and when found only one small root could be obtained. But they consolated themselves by loading up with hickory nuts and wild grapes, of which there was an abundance in the woods all around.
