Charles Smith, 34 years old, a negro, who was arrested for breaking up a church meeting at Oneida, and who later escaped from an asylum at Binghamton, created consternation in the First Methodist church in Rochester on Sunday when he attempted to mount the steps to the pulpit. The congregation had just finished an anthem and the Rev. Gardner Selbridge was about to begin his sermon when the negro attempted to brush by him. "Why, man," inquired the pastor, "what do you wish?" "I mean to make a few remarks here," said the negro, as he tried to reach the pulpit. The negro, struggling and shouting, was turned over to a policeman by ushers.

Mr. Mead also asks that the charges be brought to the attention of the department of justice. T. M. PLEADS INNOCENCE.

Pastor Richeson Will Face Jury in January.

District Attorney of Suffolk County Has Issued a Call For a Special Session of the Grand Jury to Consider Evidence Against the Pastor. Miss Edmonds Leaves For Chicago. Miss Linnell's Grave Guarded Night and Day.

Boston, Oct. 24.—A special session of the Suffolk county grand jury has been called for next Thursday to consider the case of the Rev. Clarence V. F. Richeson, accused of the murder of Miss Avis Linnell, the music student from Hyannis.

This means, if an indictment is found, that the clergyman will have a speedy trial and probably he will face a jury some time in January. District Attorney Pelletier has assumed charge of the prosecuting end and he issued a call for the meeting of the grand jury, at which the evidence gathered by the police will be submitted.

The regular sitting does not come until the first Monday in November. This calling together of the grand jury in special session is not unusual, but indicates that the police consider that they have sufficient evidence against the clergyman to bring about these indictments, otherwise they would not go ahead so suddenly with the prosecution of the accused man.

Says He Is Innocent.

From Richeson's cell in the Charles street jail today came his cry: "I am innocent, and will prove it when the time comes." The Rev. George Holt of James-town, R. I., who is engaged to be married to Miss Rose Edmonds, sister of the accused man's latest fiancée, visited the prisoner. When he emerged from the gloomy structure he repeated the statement made to him by Richeson and added: "Those were his words."

Miss L. V. Richeson, a sister of the accused, who is said to be a trained nurse at a sanitarium in Saranac Lake, N. Y., also visited the prisoner. Philip R. Dunbar of the accused's counsel had a short talk with the clergyman. His other visitors were A. S. Watson, treasurer of the Immanuel Baptist Church of Cambridge, and N. E. Hughes, a member of the church. They called to see Richeson on a matter of business, they said, and reported that he seemed to be in a cheerful mood and talked as if he had no fears of the outcome of his case.

Movements at the Edmonds house in Brookline gave indications that Miss Violet Edmonds, Richeson's fiancée, had gone away to seek a change of scene and to recover from the strain she has been under during the past week. A messenger boy went to the house with an envelope containing two tickets for Chicago, so it is said. He received the envelope at the Hotel Bellevue in Boston, from a man believed to be Moses Grant Edmonds, the girl's father.

Miss Edmonds Leaves Brookline.

Later a young woman dressed in black alighted from a carriage in front of the house and at 4:25 the family coachman drove up to the door. Two young women, heavily veiled each with a suit case, entered the vehicle hurriedly and were driven in the direction of the Boston & Albany station at Chestnut Hill. While it is not believed by the family of Avis Linnell that her body will be exhumed, it was made known this morning that her grave has been guarded day and night and a watch will be kept over her last resting place until the question of exhuming the remains is definitely settled by the authorities.

Some of the colored people that attended service occasionally in the Immanuel Baptist church, of which Richeson is pastor, received invitations to his wedding with Miss Edmonds.

WANT BAILEY RETAINED

Cornell Alumni of State College of Agriculture Ask Him to Withdraw Resignation.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 24.—The agitation of the 2,000 or more alumni of the New York State College of Agriculture of Cornell University, backed by other Cornell men and influential citizens to procure the withdrawal of the resignation of Director Liberty Hyde Bailey of the college has borne fruit in the unanimous request of the university board of trustees asking Dean Bailey to reconsider his resignation and upon his refusal to do so in the appointment of a committee of the board, which is to endeavor to provide some way in which Dean Bailey can remain in charge of the state college. Strong sentiment against Dean Bailey's leaving Cornell came from all parts of the state.

The trustees invited Dean Bailey to come before them at their fall meeting Saturday and express his ideas on what should be done in the way of organization and administration of the State College of Agriculture.

Mr. Bailey made a number of suggestions, most of which met with the approval of the board. He was then asked to withdraw his resignation, and although he refused, the board adopted a resolution appointing a committee to put Dean Bailey's suggestions with reference to the State Agricultural college into effect as far as possible and also to endeavor to provide some means whereby Dr. Bailey could find it possible to do his own work and still remain at the head of the college so he might see his ideas put into operation.

ROBBERS CAPTURE MEXICAN VILLAGES

Rurales Have Been Sent to Exterminate the Bandits.

Monterey, Mex., Oct. 24.—A dispatch from Mexico City says the minister of coercion has received renewed requests from the state authorities of tobacco asking for reinforcements to the federal troops in that state. The governor has asked that the garrison at the capital, San Juan Bautista, be reinforced at once, as he is expecting an attack to be made on the place by the revolutionists.

Several minor encounters between the revolutionists and the federal rurales are reported to have occurred in the state and the town of Tlaxaacan has been captured and looted by the revolutionists.

A band of robbers, captained by Elligio Carrillo, is reported to have entered and captured the town of Joluitla, and at the same time another band entered the town of Santa Catarina, in the state of Guerrero, a short distance from the first named place. Rurales, both Maderistas and federalists, have been sent to the places to exterminate the bandits.

ROBINSON NOMINATED

Herkimer County Republicans Name Him For the Assembly.

Herkimer, N. Y., Oct. 24.—The Herkimer county Republican convention was reconvened here by order of Supreme Court Justice Merrill and nominated Theodore Douglas Robinson, a nephew of ex-President Roosevelt, for member of assembly and William Watts of Little Falls for county treasurer. These conventions supercede those of Charles L. Fellows for assembly and Frank Senior for treasurer made on Sept. 30 at a convention controlled by the Republican organization.

The insurgents were in complete control and the regulars played the part of spectators, refusing to vote for or take part in the proceedings.

Herkimer county polls a normal Republican majority of about 1,500, but it is recognized that the split in the party will jeopardize Mr. Robinson's chances of success.

Riding a Giraffe.

General Wood of the English army was the hero of many adventures, but the one he called the strangest is the time he rode a giraffe in India. With a party of friends he was being entertained by the rajah of Jowra, who exhibited his rare collection of wild animals to his guests. General (then Major) Wood was a daring horseman and on a wager offered to ride the giraffe with no bridle save a rope. The rajah warned him of the danger, but he would not listen. So the giraffe was brought to a balcony, from which the major vaulted on its back. Instantly the great creature was off like the wind, and, once fairly started, it settled down into a curious gallop that soon made the rider so sick and dizzy that he fell off like a log, receiving a blow on the head from the animal's knee and then in the face from its foot. He was unconscious for an hour, and the first use he made of his voice was to resolve that he would never ride a giraffe again.

Morgan as a Mathematician.

J. P. Morgan was almost bred a mathematician. While at Gottingen Morgan specialized in mathematics, and with the professor of mathematics he would spend long hours at problems. Some years ago a number of New Yorkers who had been at the Gottingen university together held a dinner and invited their old professor of mathematics, who happened to be visiting his country, to be present. The German stood his ground—he gave them his own idea. Looking at Mr. Morgan, he said that he was indeed very glad his old pupil had succeeded so well as a banker. "But I regret," he went on, "that you did not remain at the university. Had you stayed with me you would have been my assistant as long as I lived, and unquestionably at my death you would have been appointed professor of mathematics in my place."—Metropolitan Magazine.

Dust Whirls.

Seaward flowing waters are not alone responsible for the denudation of soils. Those who have watched dark dust storms approaching will be interested to know that estimates of solid material suspended in the air run from 100 to 125,000 tons per cubic miles of air where such storms are prevalent. The aeolian geologist, Ud-den, taking conservative values and using fairly accurate data for the number, velocity and duration of the dust storms in the western states, concluded that "on the average about $50,000,000 tons of dust are carried 1,440 miles each year, thus doing in this region alone about 1,225,000,000,000 mile tons of transport." The dust whirls run such an average distance of 218 miles.

Millepedes.

The little creature which possesses the distinction of having more legs than any other animal is that which belongs to the family of insects known as millepedes or thousand footed. There are several different species of these, but they all possess the common characteristic of having segmented bodies, each segment of which is provided with its own pair of feet. These are set so closely along the body as to resemble hairs, and when they move one after another with perfect regularity the effect is precisely the same on a small scale as that of a field of oats undulating under the influence of the wind. Some species of millepedes have as many as 350 separate and distinct legs. They are all perfectly harmless.

Encouragement Enough.

"But why should you be so dreadfully surprised and disappointed when I decline your offer?" she asked recently. "I am certain that I never gave you the least encouragement to propose to me."
