Editor of New York World Dies of Heart Disease on His Yacht

at Charleston, S. C. Joseph Pulitzer, editor and proprietor of the New York World, died at 1:40 o'clock last Sunday afternoon on board his yacht Liberty in the harbor of Charleston, S. C. He had been ill only about 48 hours and until just before he died it was believed that the illness was only a slight indisposition. Death was caused by heart trouble caused, it is believed, by an attack of acute indigestion. Mrs. Pulitzer was summoned from New York Saturday and left for Charleston in a private car attached to a train leaving New York at 2:58 Saturday afternoon. She reached her husband's bedside half an hour before he died.

Mr. Pulitzer was 64 years old. He had been in his usual good health up to the time of the brief illness preceding his death. Last Wednesday he left New York on his yacht for a short cruise to the south, intending to be back in New York on Election day,

What the Edict Says.

Among other things the edict says: "I have now reigned for three years and during all that time I have acted conscientiously for the interests of the people so far as lay in my power. It is my regret that I have not employed men properly, but that is due to my lack of political skill. I have employed too many nobles in political positions, which is in contravention of the constitution. "In matters concerning the railways gr some one has fooled me when I trusted to their faithfulness and in this me manner public opinion has been opposed. When I urge reform the officlass among the gentry seize the opportunity to embezzle. When the old die laws are abolished high officials take advantage of the situation to serve their own ends. Thus much of the people's money has been taken, but nothing for the benefit of the public has been achieved. thaca Minister Believes More Men Will Attend Church If Headgear Is Taken Off.

Is order to remove an excuse offered by many men for not attending church the women of the First Methodist church of Ithaca, N. Y., have decided to remove their hats during services. It is not that the men do not admire fine millinery; they say they want to be able to see the minister when they attend church.

This action was taken at a gather ing of men and women of the church The "hat excuse" was introduced by the Rev. Wallace E. Brown, who re ferred to the question at church service and especially as regards the lack of attendance on the part of men. This he attributed to the complaint that men make that they cannot see the pastor because of the large hats women wear

In a very tactful manner Mr. Brown made a suggestion that a committee of women might be doing a great service to the church if they would take some action relative to the hat question. Apparently none of the women had the courage to introduce a resolution on the subject.

Finally one of the men made a motion to the effect that the women remove their hats while attending church services. It was seconded and stipulated that only the women should be allowed to vote. The men were barred. The motion was carried by a decided majority.
