After blowing open the vault of the national bank at Greene, N. Y., three yegmen, frightened away, escaped on a handcar. Police officers from Binghamton, summoned by telephone, pursued them.

In a furious battle on the railroad tracks five miles north of Binghamton, they shot two of the burglars, one giving the name of Charles Adams, being seriously wounded. The third escaped to the woods.

The captured bandits were brought to the county jail. They obtained no booty in their raid on the bank.

BEATTIE ELECTROCUTED

Pays Penalty for Murdering His Wife Last July—Confesses.

After making a complete confession of the murder of his young wife, Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., was electrocuted shortly after dawn at Richmond penitentiary, Friday morning.

He went calmly to his death showing no trace of a break in the iron nerve which has marked his demeanor since he was arrested for the crime.

Wearing the black cap that hid any expression of emotion that his face might show but otherwise revealing no trace of any break in the iron nerve that he has displayed ever since he was arrested for murder, Beattie was executed at 7:23 o'clock in the little death house of the penitentiary in which had gathered only the necessary officials and the twelve witnesses selected by lot. With his death, was run down the curtain on the tragedy of Middlethian turnpike on which Louise Owen Beattie was shot to death on July 18 last.

EX-SENATOR DRYDEN DEAD

Was Seized With Pneumonia After an Operation for Gall Stones.

John P. Dryden, president of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, died Friday night at his home in Newark, N. J. He had been unconscious since the early morning. Mr. Dryden was operated on for gall stones. The operation was successful and he was recovering when, on Tuesday, he was seized with a chill and pneumonia developed. After that his condition grew steadily worse.

John Fairfield Dryden was United States senator from New Jersey from 1902 till 1907. He established the Prudential Insurance Company of America, and was its president from 1881 until his death.

He was born on August 7, 1839, at Temple Mills, near Farmington, Me.

Lloyd Manville of Tiona near Clarendon, Pa., had his left heel blown off. Young Manville was hunting near Clarendon. The shotgun he was carrying was discharged when the hammer caught in the youth's clothing. The barrel was pointed groundward, the charge entering the left heel and tearing most of it from the foot. In an auto with Dr. Willard of Clarendon the young man was hurried to the Emergency Hospital here, where surgical attendance was secured. This is the first serious hunting accident in Warren county this season.

People in the building who heard the shot found him. He was lying on the floor with the rifle under him. Dependence is given as the cause for suicide. He was about 28 years old and a brother of Chloe Hancock, who was shot and killed a few years ago by her cousin, Percy Hill, afterward electrocuted for the crime.

CHANGED PLEA TO GUILTY

Rather Than Have Grandson Testify Against Him Aged Farmer Acknowledged He Killed Wife.

Rather than have his 8-year-old grandson go on the witness stand and testify against him, Harry Ingham, 61 years old, a well-to-do farmer of Mill wood, who killed his wife on May 21 last, during his trial for murder in the first degree at White Plains, suddenly told his lawyer, George C. Andrews, to change his plea to guilty.

Mr. Andrews said that Ingham desired to enter a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree, and Assistant District Attorney Lee Parsons Davis accepted the plea. The grandson was the only eye witness to the crime.

Bowed down with grief and with his hair turned white by the anguish he has suffered since he blew away part of his wife's head with a shotgun while he was on a drunken debauch Ingham was a picture of misery.

The sudden plea of Ingham caused surprise to the spectators and many bowed their heads as the white-haired murderer faced Justice Tompkins who sentenced him to Sing Sing prison for the remainder of his natural life.

POTATO PRICES RISING

Buyers Predict $1.50 a Bushel by Spring. Due to Snows and Frost.

The price of potatoes, contrary to expectations, took a rise last week of about 30 cents a bushel. Buyers from New York and Chicago have been in Westfield the last week buying them in carload lots and paying from 70 to 80 cents a bushel. They predict that by spring they will be worth $1.50 per bushel.

The rise in price is due, no doubt to the fact that many farmers were unable to get all of their potatoes out of the ground before heavy snows and frosts came. It is also claimed that potatoes that remain in the ground after a heavy snow or frost will rot quickly in storage. In view of this fact potatoes may be scarce and high priced, just the opposite of what was predicted in the early fall.

REVOLT IS SPREADING

Dr. Gomez Will Head Impending Mexican Revolution.

American Officers Have Information Which Leads Them to Believe That Reyes Has Been Used in Texas to Divert Attention From the Real Impending Revolution—United States Officers Seize Munitions of War.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 28.—Adjutant General Henry Hutchins of Texas has sent a report to Governor Colquitt that he believes there is serious possibility for a revolution in Mexico. He believes that Emilio Vasquez Gomez is working up the revolution in Texas and that his brother, Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez, is at work in Mexico and advises received from Dr. Gomez himself admits that he plans to carry out what he says Madero failed to do.

Information which he has caused Adjutant General Hutchins to believe that General Reyes had been used in Texas to divert attention from the real impending Mexican revolution.

Francisco Gomez Leader of Revolt. General Hutchins said in his message to Governor Colquitt that he secured this information from Interior Mexico and that he believed it showed the revolution is being planned in Mexico and that its leader is Francisco Vasquez Gomez, former vice presidential candidate and one-time closest advisor to Madero.

Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez was written to General Pascual Orozco, who is in Ciudad Juarez, giving his views in regard to the trouble which now threatens the country. In the letter which Orozco gave out, Vasquez Gomez says that he is not a Peystla and not connected with the Reyista revolution, but that the old revolution has not been completed and that he is still carrying out the San Luis Potosi plan for which the Maderistas fought against the Diaz government.

Dr. Vasquez Gomez in his letter, says that this plan will be carried out by him as the present government in Mexico is not doing it. This is the strongest statement yet made by any of Madero's opponents.

One hundred additional rurales from Chihuahua were brought to Ciudad Juarez from the capital today and will be added to the permanent Ciudad garrison.

This makes the garrison in the city number 500 men, as 100 were brought to the city a week ago and added to the garrison.

Trouble Feared in Juarez. Trouble is feared in Juarez over the municipal election held Sunday, the first ever held in the city, where a mayor was voted upon, the office having in the past been a gubernatorial appointment. Juan N. Medina, an ex-mayor officer, is elected, but the Maderistas have protested his election and charge frauds.

Medina is an anti-Madero man and was relieved from the office of acting mayor last August when General Orozco raided the gambling dens in Juarez and found them all running wide open.

If Medina is a Reyes man his election by a majority, which it is thought will amount to 296 will indicate that the Reyista sentiment in Juarez is strong. It is openly charged on both sides of the river, by the enemies of Medina that he is a Reyista.

MATTEAWAN PRISONER CAPTURED IN SHARON

Woman's Brother Will Fight Against Extraditing Sister.

Sharon, Pa., Nov. 28.—While sitting in a room and penning a letter to her brother, Rihohold Schneider of Sharon, to inform him that she had escaped from Matteawan insane asylum in New York, Ottilla Schneider was arrested at the home of James Briser. She was taken into custody on a bench warrant issued in New York.

Miss Schneider was taken to the Mercer (Pa.) asylum, where she will be held awaiting extradition papers. Her brother has engaged attorneys and will fight against extradition.

At police headquarters the woman said: "Harry Thaw is not insane. He has endeared himself to every inmate of Matteawan asylum, and has earned himself his freedom. Some of the attendants, yes, many of them, believe the young man to be in his right senses, but they fear that should he be able to get his freedom he might make some startling disclosures."

Expressing her own opinion of the horrors of the New York asylum, the woman added that the boys in the field have a cleaner plate to eat than that accorded the inmates of the detention house for the weak-minded.

MODERN METHODS IN FARM WORK

Valuable Service of Pennsylvania's Agricultural Department.

MODEL ORCHARD MOVEMENT

Prosecution For Manufacturers of Bogus Fertilizers—Instruction at Movable School and Institute.

Pennsylvania has taken the front rank of states which have adopted scientific methods for the advancement of agriculture and horticulture. The work of the Keystone State's Department of Agriculture has been of incalculable value to the farming interests. Since the creation of the department the legislature has appropriated more than $2,000,000 for that branch of the state government. Each year its work has been extended and the appropriation to maintain it increased. Owing to its success its methods are being adopted by agricultural and horticultural bodies throughout the country.

A phase of the department's work that has attracted widespread attention is presented by what is known as the "Model Orchard Movement." The movement had its origin thirty years ago in the selection of thirty orchards which were taken under the department's charge. This number has grown to such an extent that now more than 1300 orchards are on the "model" list. The owners of these orchards depend upon the department for direction and assistance in their efforts to grow fine fruit, under the terms of a signed contract, executed when application was made for the service. More than 1918 public orchard demonstrations, embracing work in spraying trees and other horticultural operations, have been conducted since Jan. 1 last, and about 1200 model orchard inspections made. The attendance at the demonstrations was many thousands of fruit growers.

Ridding Orchards of Deadly Pests. In the inspection of orchards the inspector determines the kinds of insects injuriously infesting the trees on each of the premises inspected, as well as the degree of infestation. A report is made of conditions for the department and a duplicate left for the use of the owner and tenant. Of the orchard inspections, 4584 have been made in thirty counties during this year. Inspections of nurseries to the number of 219 have also been made and 330 boxes of foreign importations of nursery and greenhouse stock inspected.

Original investigations have been carried on in the effects of certain insecticides on oyster-shell scale, leucanum scale and the grape-vine flea beetle, in which 300 trees and vines have been sprayed. Special investigations have been conducted as to the distribution, habits and life history of the Hessian fly and the appearance in Pennsylvania of the seventeen year Cicada.

The Bureau of Farmers' Institutes may be regarded as the right arm of the State Agricultural Department. Through this bureau the college is brought to the
