Life and Fifteen Years for McNamaras,

James B. McNamara was sentenced to life imprisonment in San Quentin prison, California, and his broth-r John was sentenced to 15 years in states prison yester day. The former made a written state ment to the effect that he placed a suitcase containing 15 sticks of dynamite and a clock-work bomb in the Times building, Sing On, Solo-Newcom. Mrs. C. Y. Detar containing 15 sticks of dynamite and a which was set to explode at 1 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 1, 1910.

OWNERS of stallions in the state of Pennsylvania are by a new law required to secure from the state livestock saultary board a license, which will be issued only after the board are satisfied that the animal in question is sound and will not be the cause of any lowering of the general standard of horseflesh. It is a mathematical certanity that some day in the future the state will have as much care for the health and soundness of the human specles as that of any other and when the physically or deficient or ailing unfit will be forbidden to marry .- Franklin Herald.

THE confession of the McNamaras came as a clap of thunder out of a clear sky, shocking alike to organized labor, to capital and to the people of the whole world. While it is a stunning blow to labor organizations it need have no serious effect with them except in so far as guests some of the hot-headed leaders may attempt to condone, explain away or create sympathy for the self-confessed perpetrators of this arch crime -a crime which has few if any parallels in criminal history. Honest labor has no occasion to hang its head in shame, because it had no hand in the dastardly crime of blowing up the Times building in Los Angeles and the killing of twenty-one innocent laboring people. Whether the McNamaras and McManigal were alone in this desperate work is a question for future settlement, as the authorities are not letting up in any degree in the sitting of the crime to the very bottom. And this is as it should be, and not a single honest lawabiding organization is going to suffer in the least by this rigid investigation. On the contrary they will be benefitted in a high degree if the desperate criminals are weeded out of every organization and made to pay the penalty of their crimes.

Not Playing Politics.

In the current issue of The Outlook there appears an article entitled "President Taft's Own View, an Authorized Interview," in which the President discusses current topics at some length and with that freedom and candor so familiar to him. The President talks vigorously on the tariff, reciprocity and other matters vitally interesting the nation, and then closes with this frank and manly declaration: "Certainly, as is the case with all administrations, much of what I have done since I have been in office has had some political color put upon it by those who were inclined to be critical. The truth is, however, that political considerations have not weighed heavily with me. I have tried to do in each case what seemed to me the wisest thing, regardless as county treasurer. of its effect upon my own future. Indeed, one instance I have been perfectly conscious whose bad blood would be stirred by some act of mine or some refusal to act. The circumstance that the same persons who hail me, after one application of equal justice, as a farseeing, conservative patriot, denounce me after the next as an unreasoning radical, does not greatly disturb my equanimity. I set that down as 'all in a day's work. "I am very grateful for the honors the people have given me. I do not effect to small sum of money was given her to deny the satisfaction 1 should feel if, after casting up the totals of pro and con, and token from the members of the Union. striking a ballance, they should decide that my first term had been fruitfu enough of good to warrant their enlisting me for another. Any man would be proud of such a verdict. But I have not been willing, nor shall I be, to purchase it at the sacrifice of my freedom to do my duty as I see it. My happiness is not dependent on holding any office; and I shall go back to private life with no heartburnings if the people, after an unprejudiced review of my administration, conclude that someone else can serve them to their greater advantage,"

Harrisburg .--- Officials of third class cities in various parts of the state are reviving the movement for the passage of a general third class city act to take the place of the act of 1889 and its numerous amendments. This proposition was broached several years ago and since there have been questions raised about a number of the laws governing this class of municipalities, especially since the election on November 7, it has reappear-

At the last two or three conventions of third class city leagues the subject came up, but the commission plan of government had so many advocates that it deemed best not to bring up the question of a third class city code until the people of the state had a chance to show what they thought of the commission plan. However, the suggestion is now made that a general third class city set of laws be drafted and that provision be made for adoption of a commission form, if the voters of a city prefer it. This, it is claimed, would be preferable to working under the present laws which have been so much amended that it is difficult to keep track of additions and changes scattered over twenty years.
