"Your Hats Are Simply Wonderful."

The Millinery at this store has been the talk of hundreds all through the "Opening," and indeed it has proved a showing worthy of the copious showers of praise.

The styles offer a range for individual selection that's as pleasing as it is varied, for it's the hat that's appropriate that is the keynote of this season's Millinery. In other words, it's not necessary that a hat be large or that it be small to be in the height of fashion. When Madam buys her hat at this store, she can select whatever is most appropriate in size to her face and figure and rest assured that her selection will be the last word in style and taste.

Hundreds of exquisite new creations to choose from.

The Latest Style Tendencies Are Reflected in These Suits.

Direct from the world's most famous fashion centers, come the details which enter into the designing of the elegant suit models we're showing for Spring. You get here in those new models a correct picture of fashion's decree. And you may come here with the comfortable assurance that the style, tailoring, fit and service of any suit you may select will represent a real standard of excellence.

Notable among the varied materials are the much sought for whip cords and diagonals; the fashionable homespuns; the handsome wide-wale serges and French serges; the distinctive mixed suitings.

Exquisite touches of trimmings on these models give them an air of individuality quite at variance with the modest prices.

$10, $12, $15, $20, $25 and $35.

LOUISA ALCOTT RAN AWAY

Characteristic Incident of the Early Childhood of That Popular Story Writer.

Louisa May Alcott, who was probably the most popular writer of young people's stories of the last generation, left in a diary the following characteristic story of her own early childhood:

"Running away was one of the delights of my early days," she wrote. "On one of these occasions I passed a varied day with some Irish friends, who hospitably shared their cold potatoes, salt fish and crusts with me as we revelled in the ash heaps which then adorned the waste lands where the Albany depot now stands. A trip to the Common cheered the afternoon, but as dusk set in and my friends deserted me I felt that home was a nice place after all, and tried to find it. I dimly remember watching a lamp lighter as I sat to rest on some doorsteps in Bedford street, where a big dog welcomed me so kindly that I fell asleep with my head pillowed on his curly back, and was found there by the town crier, whom my distracted parents had sent in search of me. His bell and proclamation of the loss of a 'little girl, 6 years old, in a pink frock, white hat, and new green shoes,' woke me up, and a small voice answered out of the darkness: 'Why, that's me!'"

The story adds that the fun ended next day when the little runaway was tied to the arm of the sofa to repent at leisure.

Suitable. "That young painter's wife is not pretty nor clever, but she is as good as she can be."

"Then I suppose he married her for economy's sake."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, isn't it economy for an artist to marry a model?"

A Roland for An Oliver. "Please, ma'am, my mistress told me to tell you when I took your card upstairs just now that she wasn't at home."

"Indeed! Then you can go back and tell her I was so glad to find she was out."

OBLIGING.

Splasher—Now, take this picture to the exhibition gallery, but be careful, for the paint isn't dry yet."

Servant—Oh, that's all right; I'll put on my old coat.

Hard to Convince. "We got the news that meat had dropped. And we joyed to receive it. But it seems we rejoiced too soon. Our butcher don't believe it."

While Waiting for His Oatmeal. "What has become," asked the inquisitive boarder, "of the old-fashioned man who used to say, 'as the feller says?'"
