At the close dainty refreshments were served, the favors being little baskets of candy in the Juniors' colors, white

-The "swat the fly" csmpaign is already in full swing. One swat in April, Ohio; F. M. Morgan, Denver, Col. we are told, will be worth a million swats in August. But listen to the voice of science as interpreted by Professor C. F. Hodge, of the department of biology at Clark University: More than 6,000,000 germs have been washed from the body of one fly-which probably did not think it needed a bath at that. About 100,000 persons die by fly infection each year; about $500,000,000 lost each year to the fly. Each fly lays from 620 to 900 eggs, it lives from two to four months and lays every eight or ten days." If these figures are only half true they are big enough to be alarming, and show that every fly should be killed on the spot.

-The Coleman & Watson mill at Johns run is already well under roof and work on the extensive plant is progressing nicely under Millwright DeVilder, a considerable force of men being employed on winh Work on the railroad has begun in earnest, and it is expected this part of the plant will be carrying the huge pine timber into the pond in ample for the sawyers when the mill whistle blows its first blast to call the erew to work. The contract for the grading of the railroad has been let to Harry Putnam of Oil City, and is already well under way. Harry Watson, who is one of the managers in these operations, believes the mill will be turning out lumber the first of August, and that the firm will be able to launch several barges before the summer is over.

-Capt, J. J.
