—The mushroom season is fairly on now, but toad-stools are as deadly poisonous as ever, so if you are not absolutely sure of the difference, don't try to make a guess at it by eating either species of the fungi. Your guess might be wrong, and then there might be a job for the undertaker.
 —The 28th annual reunion of the Northwestern G. A. R. association, Department of Pennsylvania, will be held Tuesday, August 20, at Exposition park Connaught lake. Colonel Ned Arden Flood, of Meadville, will be one of the principal speakers at the campfire held during the afternoon.

—John Bush, the fishing and trapping expert, is also something of a snake catcher. He captured a big black rattler one day last week and sent to Rattlesnake Pits at Rochester, N. Y., where it will add to the attractions of that famous snakeologist's reptillery. Mr. Pierce, of the Hotel Weaver, also sent a live rattler to Pete.
 —A storm on Friday afternoon over this section was quite severe, but did no great damage. Out in the township south of here considerable hail fell and a strong wind accompanied the storm, but corn, oats and buckwheat, the crops most likely to be damaged by such a storm, stood the racket well and little permanent damage is reported.

—M. S. Carnahan, of Pleasantville, who has drilled five wells on warrant 5193, the Wheeler, Dusenbury & Co. lands, near Newtown Mills, was here Friday making arrangements to move to warrant 5213, in the same township, where a number of wells will be drilled. Of the five wells drilled two were fair gassers in the Queen sand.
 —The Kellestville ball team won an interesting game here Saturday from Tionesta, score 10 to 5. For eight innings it was a good game, Tionesta leading 3-2. The fireworks exploded in the ninth and Kellestville scored eight runs after a good chance had been given to retire the side. Tionesta came back with two runs in the ninth, but that left us some shy and allowed the Kellestville boys to go home feeling happy.

—Mrs. Douth and her daughter, Mrs. J. P. Grove, went to Rochester, Pa., Friday, in response to a telegram announcing the death of the former's son, Calvin Douth, which occurred on Thursday after a protracted illness. The deceased, who was also a brother of A. M. Douth of this place, leaves his wife and six children surviving. He had been a visitor in Tionesta and is remembered by a number of our people.
 —Last week the Tidoute News reprinted the following local item taken from its news columns 30 years ago: "Last Sunday morning the mill of ex-Sheriff Bruce in Hickory township, Forest county, was totally destroyed by fire, the origin of which is not known. Good work was done in saving the lumber, only about 15,000 feet out of the 2,000,000 feet destroyed. Loss about $15,000; insurance $5,000."

—Leonard R. Cropp, of Cropp Hill, brought in the champion rattlesnake which he killed Tuesday afternoon on the Pigeon Hill road. The snake was a yellow one measuring five feet one inch in length and seven inches across the skin at the largest point when laid out flat. It carried nine rattles. That is some rattlesnake and the record is likely to stand for a time. Mr. Cropp refused $3 for the skin.
 —The power house and gas pump rig belonging to Charles Carnahan on the hog back just below Gordon Run caught fire Wednesday afternoon while the men were at work at the river, and was totally destroyed. The plant was all right seemingly when the men left and the cause of the fire is unknown. The loss is heavy—over $1,000, saying nothing of the loss of production while the plant is rebuilding.

—The building occupied by Anderson & Carlson as a barber shop for the past several years, located on Elm Street between Lanson's store and the Walters millinery store, is being torn down, the intention being to replace it with a modern two story building. Wm. Lawrence owns the property and will erect the new structure. The barber shop has been moved to the little building just above the Italian fruit store.
 —Maria C. Westmore, widow of the late Judge L. D. Watmore who for ten years was President Judge of the district composed of Forest and Warren counties, died at her home in Warren last Saturday, following a stroke of paralysis sustained two months ago. She is survived by two sons, Edward D. Watmore of Warren and Albert L. Watmore of London, England, and a step-daughter, Mrs. J. P. Jefferson of Warren.

—The ladies of the Nebraska W. C. T. U. gave a variety shower last Thursday for Mrs. Ada Wiant, presenting her with wearing apparel, as well as a nice sum of money. A goodly number of the ladies gathered for the occasion, bringing a substantial lunch, and spent a very pleasant day. Mrs. Wiant has not been able to work since she was badly burned when her home was destroyed by fire some time ago, and the kindness of the members of the union and other friends is thoroughly appreciated.
 —Middletown, situated about eight miles below Harrisburg, on the Susquehanna river, is one of Pennsylvania's most progressive little cities, and among its many wideawake institutions is The Journal, which last week printed a 38-page industrial edition in which are exploited the towns many advantages for business and manufacturing concerns. The citizens will be delighted indeed if they fail to properly appreciate the Journal's efforts to give the town a boom and place it on the map.

—G. A. R. Day is to be observed at Chautauque this year on Saturday, August 17. Rev. R. A. Buzza, pastor of the M. E. church at Edinboro, who is a member of the program committee, is visiting the towns throughout Northwestern Pennsylvania in an effort to break the attendance record by interesting members of the great patriotic fraternity in the meeting. He was in Meadville Tuesday and secured the promise of many of the Civil war survivors to be on hand. One of the attractions is a six o'clock dinner.
 —State Fish Commissioner N. R. Buller is making arrangements for distribution of trout this fall in a number of streams which have not received fish for a long time, satisfactory guarantees that the young fish will be looked after by fishermen and members of clubs having been given. This will not only be the first fall in which trout have been put out, but it will probably be the most extensive planting. Good results are looked for as only stock fish will be distributed, and there is an abundance in the hatcheries.
 —Starling W. Waters, postmaster of Warren since 1867, died suddenly on Monday from heart trouble, which attacked him two days prior while visiting the North Warren hospital, of which he had long been one of the trustees. He had been prominent in Warren county's social, industrial and political circles since his 22d year when he was elected prothonotary, and his popularity was general throughout the county. Mr. Waters was born in Warren 62 years ago. He is survived by his widow and three sons.

—Attention is directed to the ad. of Ralph Cook, who has taken the agency in this section for the Buick automobile. Mr. Cook expects soon to have an up-to-date garage in operation, equipped for taking care of all kinds of repairs. He owns a very pretty Buick car with which he will do lively work and with which he will take parties out for business or pleasure at all times. Let him demonstrate the good qualities of the Buick to you and encourage his enterprise by your patronage.
 —Frost is reported from some sections of the county Monday morning. Out toward Tylersburg, and up in Jenks township it is thought town was touched up to some extent. In this immediate vicinity, while the past few mornings have been excessively cold for August weather, no actual frost is reported, but it has been a mighty close call for some of the crops. And it seems these unreasonable conditions are to continue for some time, according to the following bulletin issued by the Weather Bureau in Washington Sunday night: "The first part of the coming week will give moderate temperatures in the eastern and southern states, followed by a change to somewhat warmer weather the latter half of the week. This will be followed by much cooler weather."

—The Clarion Republican of last week states that a sad accident occurred at Snyderdors Monday afternoon when the eight year old son of Andrew Groldmond had his right foot badly cut in a mowing machine. The little fellow was trying to capture a cat when the accident occurred. Drs. R. W. Phillips, of Leeper, and F. P. Phillips, of Clarion, were called in and upon examination it was found necessary to amputate the foot above the ankle.
 —Noting a recent visit of Rev. H. A. Bailey to his town to fill the pulpit of their absent pastor, the Seneca Kicker says: Rev. Bailey preached at Seneca on Sunday evening and a good sized congregation listened with interest to an excellent sermon delivered by the visiting minister. He made a very favorable impression upon his hearers and from the comments upon his discourse it is apparent that our people would be glad to hear him again whenever the opportunity presents itself.
 —The old Crawford county jail at Meadville, which has just been torn down to make room for a new and more modern structure, was occupied by 22 sheriffs of Crawford county. During the 63 years the old jail stood there was but one hanging within its walls, and that was on April 16, 1901, when Daniel S. Kehoe alias Frank Major, paid the death penalty for the murder of Chief of Police Daniel McGrath of Titusville. Of the 22 sheriffs who lived in the old jail, 15 have gone to their long home.

Lightning Causes $1,500 Total Loss.
 Our Kellestville correspondent gives us the following account of a destructive lightning bolt:
 During the storm about two o'clock Friday afternoon lightning struck Ralph Grove's barn on his farm on the hill north of here and it was burned to the ground, together with twenty tons of hay, a wagon, a new manure spreader, a back, harness, etc. A load of hay had just been driven into the barn and left standing while the family was at dinner. When the explosion of lightning came the doors were blown from the barn and in a moment it was enveloped in flames. Three work horses, which were harnessed, and a colt were saved by Levi Grove, who loosed them after the barn was in a blaze and they ran out unharmed. On account of the wet weather a portion of Mr. Grove's hay and his wheat were yet in the fields. He carried no insurance and his loss will be heavy, it being at least $1,500. The barn was a good bank structure, about 40x50 feet, and had been rebuilt by him about three years ago.

The Team was His Own.
 The Derrick of Friday contained the following item: "W. M. Groner, a prominent farmer of Washington township, Clarion county, was in town on business Thursday and experienced a few unpleasant minutes, from which he was relieved by identification by some Oil City acquaintances. On Saturday of last week a pair of sorrel horses, weighing about 1,050 pounds each, and a slat buggy, with red running gear, were stolen from Scott Agnew, of Cooksburg, Forest county, and the last heard of the outfit was that it headed this way. The team driven to town by Mr. Groner answered the description of the one stolen in Forest county, even to a white strip on the face of one of the animals, two white hind feet on one horse and one white hind foot on the other. While he was on the road between here and Venus, an Oil City Livestockman, who had been furnished a description of the stolen outfit, passed and at the first farm house where a telephone was installed, he used it to notify persons interested here that he believed the stolen outfit was coming to town.
 When Mr. Groner arrived and put up his team he was naturally surprised at the large number of men who gathered around the outfit and was puzzled at the questions asked him, most of them pointing towards the manner in which he had secured the horses and the route he had taken to reach Oil City. It finally dawned upon him that he was suspected of having stolen the team and was looking to be put to some trouble and possibly expense when an Oil City friend appeared and explained matters and the crowd drifted away. Their mistake was natural as not only did the description of the horses fit, but Mr. Groner's buggy was a slat-box one, with red running gear. When it was all over no one enjoyed the joke more than the Clarion county visitor."

 At His Old Tricks Again.
 The notorious Adam Ruth, alias Frank Barnes, who came into the limelight a few years ago in this section by having figured in the robbery at Pithole, of Miss Eliza Copeland and who, while serving a term in the Franklin jail following that crime, gained notoriety by claiming to know who killed City Treasurer Blevins of New Castle about 10 years ago, is again to the fore. Newspaper readers of this section will remember the stories told by Barnes at Franklin and of how, when they were investigated by the Lawrence county authorities who had been searching for Blevins' murderers, they were found to be false.
 Barnes, when next heard of following his jail sentence at Franklin that was given in lieu of a penitentiary imprisonment after he had told his stories, was after the disappearance of Kane and Ludlow of two boys a couple of years ago. One named Adams from Kane, and the other named Stefan from Ludlow. He went to the father of the Ludlow boy and, under representations that he was a detective and knew the whereabouts of the Stefan lad, was able to obtain $25. He was arrested for this crime and sent to the Allegheny county work house, where he now is doing time.
 At that institution he has again got busy and, by telling the story that he knew where the two McKean county lads are, induced the county detectives and an attorney to investigate the matter and again he was found to be at his old tricks.
 He first wrote a letter to a woman named McFarland, in McKean county he having obtained her name from a newspaper containing an account of her husband's suicide. He claimed to be the husband's half-brother and that there was considerable money coming from an estate to the McFarlands. He also told her a story of how the boys at Ludlow had been stolen for a ransom and of where they had been taken.
 Mrs. McFarland placed the letters in the hands of the authorities and also engaged an attorney to look up her husband's claim to the supposed estate. The investigation proved the yarn a tissue of falsehoods.
 Barnes is a plausible liar and made friends of a prisoner in the workhouse and made him believe that he was a half-brother of the man thus securing money for tobacco, etc.
