ings The bill as it was passed by the senate also retains an amendment admitting foreign built vessels to American registry In the event that the vessels are owned by Americans. This amendment opens the shipyards of the world to Americans and amounts to free trade in ships.

Senators Root and Lodge, of the opinion that the granting of free tolls to American ships constitutes a viola tion of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, made a final effort to have these amendments stricken from the bill. They failed. The amendment granting free tolls to vessels of American register engaged in foreign trade was adopted by a vote of 33 to 29. The owners of the vessels in order to enjoy this privilege, however, are obliged to agree that such vessels may be taken by the United States in time of war or other public emergency on payment of the fair actual value.

Wool Bill Gets A Veto.

President Taft vetoed the wool revision bill sent to him as the result of the coalition between the Demoerats and the Republican insurgents. The president takes a firm stand or revision based on scientific data furnished by the tariff board. He holds that most of the rates in the Underwood-La Follette compromire bill are so low they would, if enacted into law, result in irretrievable injury to the woolen industry and throw thousands of workmen out of employ-

The president in sending the bill back to congress appeals, however, to both sides to drop partisanship and in the interest of relieving the people of an unnecessary burden, return to him a wool bill based on the findings of the tariff board. If congress will accept this challenge, the president assures them he will promptly give

BULLET ENDS HIS TROUBLES Colonel Cornwell, Alleged Defaulter, Kills Himself on Train.

To escape the shame of passing as a risoner, accused of defaulting with thousands from estates intrusted to his care, through crowds of townspeo ple whom he knew awaited his coming. Colonel Gibbons Gray Cornwell of West Chester, Pa., commander of the Sixth regiment, national guard of Pennsylvania, and prominent as a lawyer and clubmen, shot himself through the head and died instantly on a Pennrylvania railroad train in Philadelphia.

He was on his way to West Chester accompanied by William Mullen a constable, and as the train pulled out from the North Philadelphia station he suddenly reached into a grip which he had placed on a seat in front, whipped out a thirty-eight caliber revolver and sent a bullet crashing through his brain. The shooting came as a tragic climax to developments that gave some inkling of the extent of Colonel Cornwell's entanglement. Lawyers who have made a hasty investigation of the estates for which the colonel was counsel place the losses at $55,-000, but it is said that the total amount may exceed $150,000.

NO REVOLUTION NEEDED

Says Wilson, Accepting Democratic Nomination-Gradual Tariff Lowering. "Our task now is to effect a great readjustment and get the forces of the whole people once more into play. We need no revolution; we need no excited change; we need only a new point of view and a new method and sulpit of counsel.

So spoke Woodrow Wilson in his speech of acceptance of the Democratic nomination for president.

Speaking on the tariff the governor "When we act we should act with caution and prudence, like men who should be made only at such a race and in such a way as will least interfere with the normal and healthful course of commerce and manufacture. "But we shall not on that account act with timidity, as if we did not know our own minds, for we are certain of our ground and of our object. There should be an immediate recision and it should be downward, un-
