Lost.—Pocket book containing a sum of money and several Warren street car tickets. Owner thinks the pocket book dropped out of his pocket near the pipe line near the mouth of Hunter run. The finder will be liberally rewarded by leaving same at this office.

The Kane Republican has changed ownership, G. Scott Smith, a newspaper man of many years' experience having purchased the stock owned by the late R. K. Godding, and W. C. Collinge. The best wishes of this REPUBLICAN are extended to the new management of the Kane Republican.

E. Milton Corab, a former Tionesta boy, who has more than made good in the southwestern oil regions, is spending a short vacation among eastern friends, and was a Tionesta visitor last week as a guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank S. Hunter, being accompanied by his wife, Milton has charge of a large producing and refining company at Vinita, Okla., of which he is part owner.

He familiarized himself with the refining business while residing in Warren, being employed at the Corplanter plant.

Ray Weller, of Kellettville, last Wednesday purchased the half interest of Herman F. Blum, of the firm of Geist & Blum, which owned the land and timber on what was formerly known as the Genesee Oil Co. tract, and the saw mill at the mouth of Jake's run, Kingsley township. There is about 200 acres in the tract, which contains 125,000 feet of saw timber, mostly oak, and 1,500 ties. J. C. Geist, of Tionesta, owns the other half of the property and the new firm expects to begin sawing in a short time. They have considerable other timber in that vicinity which they expect to manufacture into lumber at this mill.

Murder and Suicide.

The partially decomposed bodies of Bert Dearolph, constable of Beaver twp., of his wife and of Miss Ina Exley were found in their home a short distance from Knox, Clarion county, yesterday morning by Reuben Whitting, a pumper. That woman and girl, who were mother and daughter, had been murdered by Dearolph, who had then committed suicide, was evident from the condition of the bodies. A heavy monkey wrench, a shotgun and revolver had been used to kill Mrs. Dearolph. Two shots from the revolver had been fired into the body of the girl and the suicide was by means of a rubber hose detached from a stove in a room adjoining where the murders had been committed. It is thought the tragedy was enacted Friday night, as that is the last time any of the family had been seen.

Several weeks ago Asa Heath, of Hunter Run found a package containing some footwear, on the road between Tionesta and his place, which the owner can have by calling at his house, describing the property and paying for this notice.

Daniel Crowell, Jr., of Little Tionesta, killed a black rattlesnake Friday, which measured nearly four feet and carried fourteen rattles. He was hunting the cows and while going through the berry patch below his home the snake struck at him, but he escaped the blow by a quick jump backward.

The public road leading down the river to the mouth of Little Tionesta creek, which has been neglected for many years on account of not having been in general use, will be put in good shape again. Work on the road was begun yesterday morning. A great deal of the work is being done by interested parties. This will make a delightful drive when the road is made safe for travel.

Joseph Gay, of Olean, N. Y., employed as a freight conductor on the river branch of the P. R. R., was thrown to the floor of his caboose by the sudden application of the air brakes near Hickory lake Saturday night. His arm was broken above the wrist, but he remained in charge of his own train, arriving in Oil City with its early Sunday morning, before he received surgical attention. He returned home Sunday.

Our veteran friend, John Arno, of Clarion, was among our callers on Tuesday of this week. "Uncle John" is past eighty years of age, but still hale and hearty, and his annual visits are always occasions of joy to the editor, not alone for the dollar which he brings, but as well for the interesting line of reminiscence history with which he is familiar and in the telling of which he is a master.

Brookville Republican.

What is said to have been a very uncommon occurrence happened at the farm of Hamilton Webber, living three miles from Troy Center, on the Guy's Mill road, when a mare owned by him gave birth to a colt in which there was not a colored hair, the animal's coat being perfectly white.—Titusville Herald.

That being the case it is doubtless the first occurrence of the kind on record, and the colt would no doubt be a drawing card for any exhibition.

Our townsman, Philip Emerit, has received the announcement of the marriage of his daughter, Miss Iva, to Mr. Lawrence Miller, on August 1st, at Buffalo, N. Y., where both reside. Rev. Mr. Bommer officiating. They will make their home in Buffalo, where the groom is profitably employed. The bride is a native Tionesta girl, where she has many friends who will join in extending congratulations and well wishes to her and to the lucky man who succeeded in winning her as a life partner.

Geo. F. Watson returned from his western trip Saturday, accompanied by Mrs. Watson, who had spent the past two months with her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Shewman at Milwaukee, Oregon. He reports a wonderful improvement in all lines of business throughout the western country, far beyond anything he has ever before known. Farmers are happy over the prospects of immense crops to be harvested this season, while the lumbering interests are flourishing wonderfully, every mill and plant which he visited being run to its fullest capacity.

Marienville's "old home week" begins next Monday, 19th inst., and extends over the entire week. The citizens of the town are bound that old friends, and new ones, too, shall have a royal welcome and a good time when they come back, and to that end have been preparing for a big turnout of former residents. Many announcements have been arranged for the entertainment of those who can make it suit to be present, and it doesn't matter how big the crowd, all will be made to feel "at home" the minute they strike the town, and will be expected to stay the week out. "Buckwheat Day," which occurs on Thursday will likely be the big day of the week for which a special program has been arranged, although every day will be a feature in itself. So lay aside a few days and accept the invitation to meet old-time friends in the bustling town.

Homer Ball who was formerly a resident of Oil City and engaged in the livery and hack business, was down from Endeavor yesterday. For some years he has been carrying the mail and express between West Hickory and Endeavor and maintaining a hack line. Through a combination of liberal patronage and the improvement of the highway under State supervision, he has reached a point where he intends to install an automobile service and bought the car at the Eclipse Truck Co. sale in Franklin yesterday. While Homer is waiting for trade between trains he spends his time in fishing. He has not broken any records personally but reports that a Mr. Sutley, an oil well driller, caught a bass last week that measured 19 inches. Old time anglers say it is the biggest bass caught in the river in that section of the country. Mr. Sutley was fishing from the bridge at West Hickory when he hooked this prize.

Derrick, Sib.

The Republican joins the host of friends of Wm. E. Morgan in wishing him and his bride abundance of prosperity and happiness in their new relation. The fortunate bride is Mrs. C. A. Grant, of 630 Park avenue, Syracuse, N. Y., and the wedding took place in that city yesterday, 13th inst., which was also his birthday. "Billy" slipped away quietly last week without letting any but his most intimate friends into the secret of his mission, not even the writer, who, as a kid, played mumble-the-peg and carried stonebrass on his heels with him the size of half-dollars all summer long. But as that was some few years ago, we forgive him for giving us the slip, and only hope that he and his new spouse may live as long again to enjoy all the sweets of double blessedness. The happy couple will reside in Syracuse, where Mrs. Morgan has for some years past conducted the Elmhurst Sanatorium, a beautiful home of which she is the proprietor.

Mrs. Clara M. Sharpe, of Ulysses, Pa., who was elected assistant principal of the Tionesta schools, has resigned the position. The vacancy has not been filled.

Mrs. J. A. Small and daughter, Miss Laura, of Nebraska, visited Dan L. Small Tuesday, going from here to Chautauqua for the balance of the week.—Warren Times.

Charles Bonner and Benjamin Kelly of Chicago, and W. H. Rodgers of Louisville, have come to town within the past week, called here by the critical illness of Mr. Kelly.

Mrs. A. C. Brown entertained a large party of lady friends Wednesday afternoon, honoring her house guests, Miss Anna Brown of Brookville, and Miss Mabel Wilson of Lewisburg, Pa.

Mrs. William Wardle and children, Daniel and Anna May, of Amsterdam, Ohio, are guests at the home of the former's brother, R. D. Creswell, at Little Tionesta, intending to remain for a month.

Dr. D. H. Edwards of Washington, Pa., spent the Sabbath at Wm. Smearhaugh's Mrs. Edwards, who had been visiting her parents for the past three weeks, returned home with her husband Monday.

Mrs. Anna Horton, of Marienville, was operated upon at the hospital Wednesday for appendicitis.—Mrs. John Marshall, of Tyersburg, was operated upon at the hospital Thursday.—Kane Republican.

Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Hunter of the West Side go to Oil City today with the expectation of having their young son, Russell, operated upon for appendicitis, the lad having suffered several attacks within the past week.

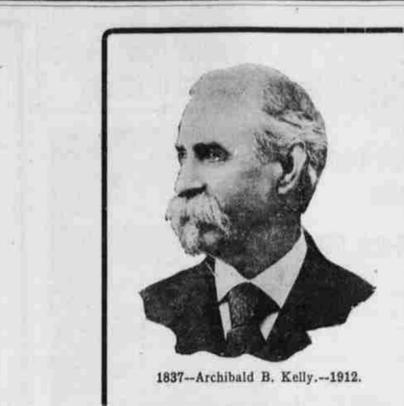

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Yetter drove down Friday evening from Kane, and of Sunday returned taking with them their daughters, Misses Margaret and Madeline, who have been guests of their aunt, Mrs. J. E. Weck the past two months.

Mrs. Dr. Price, of West Chester, Pa., a sister of Mrs. S. D. Irwin, and her niece, Miss Florence J. Thomas, of Montrose, Del., arrived on Monday for a visit. Both have visited here in the past and will be pleasantly remembered by old friends.

Prof. F. W. Gill is back from Wooster University, Ohio, for a short stay before entering upon his work as principal of the Tidoute high school. He favored the congregation with a beautiful solo at the Sunday morning services in the Presbyterian church.

Rev. G. A. Garrett officiated at the ceremony which united Ernest Sibble of German Hill and Mrs. Laura Brewster in the bonds of wedlock, Monday afternoon of this week. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home, near Tyersburg, in the presence of a few intimate friends. The REPUBLICAN extends congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy life.

Frank Hood, for the past three years employed near Nickelville, was a visitor to Tionesta friends Friday and Saturday. He is now located at Van, Venango county, where he is one of the engineers in charge of the large pumping engines of the United Natural Gas Co., a position which Frank enjoys because there is no lost time connected with it.

1837—Archibald B. Kelly.—1912.

NO better immigration ever reached the soil of our Republic than that of the Scotch-Irish people who sought a home in western Pennsylvania. By their enlightenment of the Word of God above all human authority, by their faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, and by their fidelity to what they believed to be His will concerning them, they left their impress for good on everything that tended toward the uplift of humanity. To such a people belonged our honored friend and neighbor, Mr. Archibald Bennett Kelly, whose death, at 3:15 p. m., Tuesday, August 13, 1912, removes from our midst one of the rarest specimens of a true Christian gentleman. Although a prince among men by reason of a strong, rich nature, by the range of his abilities, and by the devotion with which he gave himself to God and men, yet through his quiet, unobtrusive life, we did not know how large a canvas he could fill and how nobly, until we set ourselves to the hopeless task of picturing him. He was the only son of the late James Dunlop and Sarah Bennett Kelly, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and was born in that city January 10, 1837. From them he inherited that innate refinement so characteristic of the gentry of County Down, Ireland, which only served as an adornment to the high and noble character which he possessed. Carefully reared and trained in the faith of the Scottish Covenanters, he early learned to place an unflinching trust and confidence in the Lord, and in this gained an invincible fidelity to conscience and truth which served as an anchor throughout his life.

His father being a prosperous business man, afforded him the privileges of a liberal education in the public and private schools of his native city and also at Washington and Jefferson College where he graduated in 1858. Attracted to the Venango county oil fields, he began his business career at Reno, in 1860. One year was spent in drilling a well with a spring-pole which proved a decided failure and would have disheartened a less courageous spirit than he possessed. But with true Spartan bravery, he embarked the next year in the manufacture of tight oil barrels, with Kelly, Holmes and Co. at Tionesta in which he was engaged till the fall of 1866, during which time he was also interested in a refinery owned by his father on the Tarr Farm which was destroyed by fire at a total loss to its owners. About this time he became interested in the manufacture of lumber, and in company with Hall and May, began lumbering on the Taylor tract in Kingsley township. These enterprises proving successful, he was enabled to become a member of the firm of May, Park & Co., bankers, of Tionesta, and was made cashier of the bank from its organization till it was merged into the Forest County National Bank in 1896, when he was continued as cashier under the new organization. Too much cannot be said of the high esteem in which he was held by all who knew him in the business world. He was honest and upright and his word was always regarded as being as good as his bond.

In 1881 he, in company with Messrs. H. H. and B. W. May of Tionesta, and E. B. Grandin of Tidoute, took a lease of the famous Cook lands, on Tionesta creek, which doubtless proved the most fruitful of all his enterprises. The first two wells were failures, and a third was begun, being located by Mr. H. H. May who did so by sticking his cane in the ground at a place where the conductor hole was to be started, and at a distance of half a mile from the last wells. As soon as finished it began to flow at a rate of 1000 barrels a day, which caused great excitement throughout the oil regions and had quite an effect upon the oil market. Within a short time over a million barrels had been realized from the lease and for many years its annual production was 60,000 barrels. During this time and to the close of his life, he still retained his interest in lumbering, his last operation of any consequence being in what is known as the Warren Lumber Co., with Messrs. Lawrence and Smearhaugh of Tionesta, which also proved a successful enterprise.

Mr. Kelly was a well-rounded, many-sided man, a student of high order, with a decided taste for classics. He loved history and was always on the search for facts. Africa was his special delight and his choice library contains many volumes of the history of the Dark Continent. He took a keen interest in municipal affairs and contributed largely to the welfare of the borough as well as to national affairs. Although he had no ambitions, whatever, for a political life, yet he was given the honor of representing his district at the Republican National Convention of 1888, which met in Chicago. He also held, from time to time, various borough offices, including justice of the peace, town councilman, and school director. He was keen and alert to the best interests of the community as long as he was able, and was, perhaps, as one has said of him, "the youngest old man the town has ever known." No doubt this was largely due to his love of outdoor sports and exercise. From his boyhood he loved to swim and play ball and at seventy could outdo those many years his junior at a game of tennis.

But, though Mr. Kelly made a fine business record and proved an exceptional man in the vigor of his clear, clear, clear sympathy, and his understanding of men and affairs, that which firmly fixed the fine alloy of his whole manhood and made him the man he was to every other man who knew him, was his simple, beautiful faith in the divine message as revealed in Jesus Christ. Weighed in the flawless balances of heaven, there are results which dwarf all other accomplishments, and which he wore memory we treasure were one who possessed such virtues and endowments. The organizing element of his life was deep spirituality and piety, and with him he carried the subtle fragrance belonging to those who walk with God. For thirty-five years he held the office of ruling elder in the Tionesta Presbyterian church, and for over twenty-five years was superintendent of the Sabbath school. In these positions he proved himself a careful student of the Word, with an experience of grace that was positive and rich. He was uncompromising in his ideas of right, was gentle and cordial and had large views of the commission of the church. He was liberal in the support of its work and its loss cannot be estimated. He gave unstintingly to the cause of Christ, and his gifts, unknown to the world, amounted to the thousands. All denominations and the various temperance societies went to him for help and none were ever refused. Whatever he did was done "as unto the Lord."

On April 23, 1863, he was united in marriage with Miss Frances Augusta May, daughter of the late Ezekiel Huntington and Frances A. Thatcher May, a lady of excellent qualities, who proved a splendid helpmeet throughout their married life, and who survives him. To them were born five sons and two daughters: May Stanley, wife of Charles Bonner, of Chicago; Arthur Wellington, deceased; James Huntington, assistant cashier of the Forest County National Bank; Benjamin May, teller of the N. W. Harris Bank, of Chicago; Henry Edward, with the Vulcan Crucible Steel Company, at Philadelphia; Elsie Stow, wife of Dr. W. H. Rodgers, of Louisville, Ky., and Archibald Howard, an assistant in the Forest County National Bank. It was, perhaps, in his home life that Mr. Kelly excelled. It was there that love shone brightest, and that wisdom, grace and prudence were exercised. It was a home the children loved to reach as soon as a vacation was afforded them, and where kindness and hospitality were unstinted. His life will be an abiding influence for good that is not entombed with the body, but lingers, as the breath of the springtime, or the summer sunshine, to continue year after year in the hearts of those who remain. His home going was a notable victory. His faith was clear and bright and there was "no moaning at the bar as he put out to sea."

Funeral services in memory of the deceased will be held at his late home tomorrow, Thursday, evening at 8:00 o'clock, Rev. H. A. Bailey, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. The interment will be in Riverside cemetery.

Had His Hand Cut Off.

Last Thursday just after the noon hour, Edward Fox, residing on the Smokey Hill road, and who was employed on the mill of James Landers, sawing automobile spoke timber on the Kelly farm, met with a most distressing accident, maiming him for life. He was running a bolt saw which is pulled down by a lever to cut the bolt or log in two and then swings back into its place automatically. This saw is about 38 inches in diameter and necessarily runs at a high rate of speed. Mr. Fox had reached up to pull the saw down and when it struck the bolt it flew into a dozen pieces, one piece striking his left hand and severing the four fingers at the knuckles. He was immediately brought to town and Dr. Dana assisted by Dr. Henry, gave the necessary surgical attention, finding it necessary to amputate the hand just back of the knuckle joints, leaving only the thumb, which was not injured. The operation was a successful one and Mr. Fox is getting along very well, but being a laboring man will be badly handicapped and almost incapacitated for much of the work he was accustomed to doing.

The other departments of the mill having just at this period been shut down the balance of the crew was outside sorting and inspecting spokes, so that no others were injured when the saw, which was flawed, went to pieces. One piece cut through the roof, but no material damage was done to the mill or machinery.

Harvest Home Festival.

The annual harvest home and missionary festival will be held by the Mt. Zion Lutheran church, Gorman Hill, in the grove opposite the church, Thursday, Aug. 22. There will be a ball game at 10 a. m. Afternoon exercises begin at 2 o'clock. The speakers will be E. P. Ebert of Pittsburgh, and Rev. C. F. W. Brecht, of Chisora. Special music by the Mt. Zion choir.
