It is surprising how many people there are, otherwise well-bred, who speak the English language carelessly, lazily, and consequently, incorrectly. 'Szat so! Eh-yuh, for yes. Didjuh, for did you. Many inquiries have been made recently by veterans of the Civil War regarding the matter of transportation of honorably discharged soldiers to and from Gettysburg next year, the 50th anniversary of the great battle which marked the turning point of the rebellion. It has been published in a number of exchanges that the state had made arrangements to transport all veterans free of all charges to them. This statement, however, is somewhat premature as no appropriation for this purpose has been made, but it is altogether likely that such provision will be made by the legislature which meets in January next.

Friends here of Frank P. Walker have word from him to the effect that he recently met with an accident in which he sustained a broken rib and had one arm and a leg severely injured. Since returning to Lamson, Alabama, he has been engaged at his former job of running the engine on the logging road connected with the Watson-Buzard lumber company, and while out taking up the rails on a spur of the road which it was intended to abandon, his engine broke through a trestle and toppled over. Frank was thrown a distance of fifteen feet and sustained the injuries mentioned. Six negroes of the crew were also more or less injured, but none seriously.

"Old home week" was celebrated in Marienville last week, and from all reports was a decided success, scores of old time residents returning to meet former friends and acquaintances. The big event of the week was "Buckwheat Day," when the biggest crowd the town has ever held came in and enjoyed the day. On this day no less than six automobile loads and several other conveyances from Tionesta drove up to see the sights and have a good time. A street carnival was in progress during the week and many forms of amusement were provided for the visitors, among which was a daily balloon ascension and parachute jump. The town's lath-string was on the outside and all were bidden to help themselves to the jollities of the occasion, and the hospitalities of its good people. The best of order prevailed throughout the entire week, not a single arrest being necessary.

People who retired Sunday night in this community at a reasonable hour saw as pretty a night as ever the moon shone on, and little dreamed that they would be awakened in the early morning hours by an electrical storm such as is seldom witnessed even in this latitude. Shortly after three o'clock the gathering storm broke and from then on till day began to dawn the heavens seemed to be in a continuous blaze of electrical flashes, so that not alone the timid but the braver ones as well, experienced a feeling of uneasiness bordering on absolute fright. The down pour of rain was heavy, in the meantime, but the deluge came later and between eight and nine o'clock the precipitation amounted almost to a cloud burst. In many sections of the town the surface sewers were insufficient to take care of the downpour, and a number of lawns and cellars were flooded. No great damage was done, however, and by noon all was tranquillity in the valley.

From the Los Angeles, California, Daily Outlook of a recent date, the following item of local interest is taken: "K. C. Heath, the Second and Oregon St. real estate dealer sold the Grigby lot in block 198, Ocean avenue to-day for $10,000. Less than a year ago Mr. Heath sold the same property to a Mr. Weber of Los Angeles for $7,500 and the sale today to a Miss Wilson now living on the south side, is an advance of fifty dollars a front foot. It is considered cheap at that. It was learned from outside sources that the property was bought for investment and that a garage, a big and modern one would be built. The lot is right in the heart of the notorious eye-sore and if Miss Wilson builds she will be doing a great thing for this city. Mr. Heath, during his short business career here has sold about $100,000 worth of property mostly in small lots." We Tionestans are all pleased to learn that "Kory," who was formerly one of us, is doing well in the golden state.

NEXT LEGISLATURE MUST ACT.

State Water Supply Commission Will Turn Tionesta Charter Over to Legislature.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—The State Water Supply commission did not take up that Tionesta dam affair at its meeting yesterday for the reason that it has gotten wise to the fact that to recommend a charter for a water power company of that character, and the purpose for which it is intended, is just a trifle beyond its jurisdiction, and at this juncture with the many protests from people who will be injured if the dam is constructed as intended, starting it in the face, the commission is disposed to go slow, and it will very likely adhere to its first determination not to take any action until it has powers granted in specific legislation. The application for the charter was passed over and still hangs by the eyelids, and it is probable that it will hang there for all time to come.

"That application was laid over," said former Deputy Attorney General Fred W. Fleitz, a member of the commission, "because we think now that there must be some specific legislation covering the subject. I do not think that the application will be brought up again before the Legislature does something, and it is possible that the legislation enacted may prevent the very thing that this charter would grant. At present the commission has no specific legislation to govern it—only the broad powers of general legislation, and there arises a question on which there should be something specific, either to forbid or to permit the issuing of a charter granting the privileges that this Tionesta dam company wants. We do not think that we ought to act until we have a more specific law, and that is why I say that the application for the company's charter will be held up until after the Legislature has something to say that will cover the question.

"Under a charter the company could do a number of things, among them the building of a dam 300 feet high which would back up the water and form a lake that would inundate Forest county. That's bad enough, but the waters of Tionesta creek would be diverted from the Allegheny and the people below the mouth of the creek would be deprived of water that is needed for daily use as well as for protection. The water in the river at Oil City would be so low that sewage would not be swept away, and sickness may result. This has all been considered, which is why the charter is held up."

It is evident from what Mr. Fleitz says that the protests and representations of the people of Forest and Venango county have not been in vain and that they have made an impression. T. M. J.

Needs Close Watching.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 15, 1912.

ED. REPUBLICAN.—

The marked copy of the Forest Republican of August 14th is just received. I am glad you have taken occasion to draw such a good lesson from the washing away of the Government dam at Gallipolis, Ohio. I heartily approve of your suggestion that the political parties should add another plank to their State platform pledging strenuous opposition to any scheme by which great corporate interests may steal the rights of the people away and drive them from their homes by the building of gigantic death-trap dams over their heads.

You are right too, when you sound the alarm that a scheme is on foot to do that very thing, or at least some of us so interpret the motive behind the New Water Conservation Association of Pennsylvania. The purpose of this organization, so far as known on the surface appear to be for the public benefit, but when analyzed they resolve themselves into nothing more than a scheme for the water companies to monopolize the water power rights of the state for private interests. It is the plan of this new organization, by the use of the argument that they will make use of valuable water power which they now say is going to waste, and by the saving of coal and the prevention of floods, to do a great service for the people of this state. However, it appears since their officers are to be high-salaried men, that it is nothing more than a plan to have enacted legislation that will benefit a few people who are directly financially interested. I therefore suggest that your good people consider with caution any advances that may be made by this Association. (Water Conservation.) Sincerely yours,

WOLFE-ALLO REUNION.

A reunion of the immediate relatives and children of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wolfe was held at their home at Wolfe's Corners on Wednesday last. It was the first time the different members of the two families had ever met in a body and the forenoon was spent in greetings and recalling old times. One hundred and thirty-four were in attendance, many coming from other states. A sumptuous dinner was served in the apple grove. Scripture reading and prayer were offered by Rev. J. C. Wygant, of the Lickingville Evangelical church. Every body was happy and it was a day of fun and good cheer. A feature of the afternoon was a wrestling match between Andrew Wolfe and his brother, John Wolfe. Rev. B. F. Felt, an old friend of the two families, delivered an address and spoke interestingly and intelligently of the advantages and opportunities of farm life. The climax of his speech was when he urged the cultivation of social activities among the farmers and their families. The Fryburg band, consisting of twenty pieces, furnished excellent music for the occasion. Everybody present enjoyed the day to the fullest extent, and big-hearted "Andy" and his estimable wife enjoyed it best of all.

Deep Well May Be Abandoned.

The celebrated deep well at Mayburg, Forest county, which has been drilled to a depth of 3,250 feet, is only about forty feet less in depth than Louis Kraer's deep hole in the Sheffield township, Warren county, and both can be said to be the deepest wells ever drilled in Pennsylvania. After the above depth had been reached, the tools were lost and diligent effort was made about two months ago to recover them. On a second attempt the fishing tools were also lost about a month ago, and nothing more has been done, thus leaving two sets of tools at the bottom of this deep well.

Rev. Wm. Richards who has superintended the drilling of the well for T. D. Collins, gave us a very complete record and account of the operations from the beginning which was published in the REPUBLICAN some months ago. The owner was very anxious to complete the well to the Medina sand, which should be found at a depth of 4,500 feet, but it is now extremely doubtful that it will ever be drilled any deeper. This state of affairs is to be regretted, as under the present conditions it cannot be decided whether there is oil or gas in the Medina sand in this vicinity. The expense of drilling this well has been very heavy, but Mr. Collins was willing to stand the expense as long as the drill could be kept bouncing.
