Republican Ticket.

President—Hon. William H. Taft, of Ohio. Vice President—Hon. J. S. Sherman, of New York. State Treasurer—Hon. R. K. Young, of Tioga County. Auditor General—Hon. A. W. Powell, of Allegheny County.

THE zeal and enthusiasm of Prof. Wilson for the Bull Moose candidate for governor of New York shows what the professor would like to say of the Bull Moose candidate for president if policy did not restrain him.

FINAL figures from 87 of the 88 counties show the following proposed amendments to the constitution defeated at the special election in the State of Ohio recently: Equal suffrage, 30 million good roads bonds, prohibition, out-door advertising, regulation of labor injunctions, abolition of death penalty, use of voting machines, appointment of women to certain offices, and elimination of the word "white" from the constitution.

Clarion County To Be Swamped.

A Pittsburg dispatch under date of September 16, says: "Plans involving the construction of two lakes, with a combined length equal to that of Lake George and Lake Champlain and a coast line of approximately 600 miles, were completed here today, when the Clarion River Power Co. announced, after six years of preliminary work, that construction was about to begin on its hydro-electric power project in Pennsylvania. One dam will be erected half a mile from the Allegheny river, on the Clarion river, and will be 239 feet high and 1,200 feet long. Thirty-two miles north, on the Clarion river, another dam, 237 feet high and 1,400 feet long, will be built. The water held back by these immense structures will cover approximately 25,000 acres. It is located in the counties of Clarion, Elk, Forest and Jefferson, and water for the lakes will be drawn from 2,100 square miles. It is proposed to develop 200,000-horsepower daily, and transmission lines to the Pittsburg district will be about 50 miles long. The work will entail the expenditure of $15,000,000 and will require two years and a half to construct."

Dam Sham Conservationists.

Commenting on a letter recently published in REPUBLICAN on the subject of attempted water rights steals, the Franklin News adds this very forcible piece of advice: "When the Shenango river mill owners want a dam built for Pymatung Swamp, so as to make them a mill pond to save coal, they shout 'Conservation' and try to bunco the taxpayers of the state into building the dam for nothing and giving them the benefit. When the group of exploiters who want to receive the water power at Tionesta as a gift and sell it back to the public propose to build a dam that will endanger the lives of thousands they yell 'Conservation.' Now that there is opposition to the game it is natural for us to expect that there will be an association of exploiters of the public property in water power, all to line up and cry 'Conservation' at the top of their voices. We do not believe it will fool the people of this Commonwealth. That the 'conservation' bluff will be tried at Harrisburg is probable, but the man, elected to represent the people, who votes for that kind of robbery will hear from the public in a decidedly unpleasant way. Furthermore, self-defense is the first law of nature; the men who try to build dams where they will repeat the Austin horror will need to make them dynamite-proof."

A crew of workmen are engaged at dismantling the A. W. Cook saw mill, near the North Fork bridge. For many years the buzz of this one time active life of industry made merry music to the citizens of town and the pay roll coming from its offices was a substantial item towards the prosperity of the town. The tearing down of this mill brings back recollections of a day when the lumber business was the chief industry in our town and with the finishing up of activities in this line passed from our midst many citizens who had followed the business during their entire lives and who, reluctant to leave their friends and former habitations in this place, emigrated to points in various parts of the country where lumbering operations were still active and where they could again indulge in their favorite occupation. It is to such readers of this paper that notice of its annihilation will bring a tear of sorrow to their eyes. However, the building as it has been for several years past has been an eyesore to the people of town and its removal will perhaps give up valuable building space to some manufacturer craving a suitable site in the center of town.—Brookville Republican.

THE DESPERATE SCHEME PROGRESSES

Water Power Grabbers Getting Busy. Scheme to Take The Whole Upper Allegheny And Its Tributaries.

A MOST FRIGHTFUL PROPOSITION

The following facts concerning the desperate game of grabbing the waters of the Allegheny river and its tributaries are taken from an article in Tuesday's Oil City Derrick, and will doubtless be read with bated breath by the citizens of western Pennsylvania. "A proposition that seems so monstrous as to be beyond belief but for the fact that its feasibility is being investigated by engineers from the United States government has been made by the Flood Commission of Pittsburg."

"Briefly stated it means that the Allegheny river valley above Horse creek eddy to the New York State line is to be transformed into a great reservoir of water—a constant menace to the residents of river towns south. The Pennsylvania railroad is to be obliterated as is shown by the maps prepared by United States engineers, the valuable oil property that lines both sides of the river within a radius of many miles of Oil City will be valueless and the fleets of barges and finished lumber that come from Tionesta and vicinity will no longer float on the river."

"C. E. Ashcraft, E. F. Archibald and H. S. Robb, of the United States Engineering department, Pittsburg, arrived in the city yesterday and will be here for a few weeks securing data regarding the business and commerce of the stream north of here, preliminary to making their report."

"Mr. Ashcraft spent yesterday afternoon and evening viewing the situation at Rockmere and therefore could not be interviewed but his colleague, Mr. Archibald, talked freely and unreservedly and his interview brought nothing in the way of comfort or reassurance to any resident of Oil City or any other town that lies adjacent to the Allegheny."

"There is no announced intention of improving the river in any way. The confiscation of railroads, highways, oil and lumber properties, the farms that line the river banks and other interests are to be buried under 63 feet of water in order that Pittsburg's wharfage may be protected from high water in rainy season."

"A dam is to be constructed the entire width of the river at Panther run, at the head of Horse creek eddy. It is to be 63 feet breast. Its length is to be 810 feet from bank to bank and it is calculated to back the water to a point one mile above Tionesta, Forest county, where 'dam No. 2' will then be constructed. In all, three of these terrible menaces to the lives of river valley residents will be constructed above Oil City, with one or more on Tionesta creek, but it is with Dam No. 1 that Oil City is most concerned at present. The body of water in the proposed dam when filled with flood water will be 63 feet high against the concrete breast of the dam and will extend up the river 16 3/4 miles."

"Engineer Archibald's maps show that much of the property along both sides of the river, most of it valuable for oil purposes and upon which there are now many producing wells and others in the process of drilling, will be wiped out. 'The tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad for the entire length of 16 3/4 miles, will suffer a like fate and several wagon roads will have to go. These include the road at Panther Hollow, one near Eagle Rock and a considerable stretch of highway at the lines of Forest and Venango counties. 'At least 30 trains daily, with heavy tonnage of coal and coke, northbound from Pittsburg to Buffalo, are sent over this low grade daily by the P. R. R. As many more come south between the two points with ore and merchandise."

"It will be well to remember that the dam is to be built entirely for impounding purposes. That is, there will be no locks and there will be no means by which any river craft can pass the dams to be erected. At Panther run the dam would be a sheer 63 feet, and that means the elimination of any means by which the manufactured lumber and barges being turned out at the important river towns north of here would be able to get to Pittsburg. The industry of barge building would immediately become a lost art, so far as the residents north of here are concerned."

"The menace to lives below the dams is to be constant, for a part of the scheme is to furnish navigable water for the Ohio river and hold it until the boating stage is low and then release it, that the heavy tons of the Pittsburgh river trade may be sent south without interruption the year around, except when winter closes navigation."

"This Flood Commission is pure and simple a Pittsburg combination, and its aims are not only mercenary and selfish, but they contain an element that is appalling in its disregard for human life and interest. With Johnstown and Allegheny in the minds of all, and with Oil City's awful experience following the giving way of the small dam at Sparrowsburg on Oil Creek in 1892, the proposition could scarcely be accepted as being made seriously but for the fact that the representatives of the National Government are investigating its feasibility and upon their recommendation depends the furtherance of these designs that are scarcely to be classed as of human origin."

"Aside from the pre-eminent question of safeguarding human life, the Commonwealth and the Government, both of which are to be asked to make appropriations for these reservoir dams, would probably be required to pay the recompense. For in planning this wholesale confiscation the Pittsburg Flood Commission show their spirit of parsimony in their estimate of costs to be incurred, not only in the construction of the dams that are to hold this immense lake of water but in the estimate of damages to be paid."

"The figures are direct from the note books of the United States engineers. The estimated cost of the construction of the Panther Run dam is $1,219,900, and of that total the sum of $402,700 is for the construction of the dam and only $817,200 to pay for property confiscated, and railroads and highways eliminated from public service. The remainder of the sum total is what is to be paid for engineering and contingencies."

"Dam No. 2 is to be constructed one mile above Tionesta. Its breast will be 60 feet and nine feet of the breast is to be submerged by the water impounded by Dam No. 1. It will submerge both East and West Hickory, all of Middletown and Endeavor and the lower part of Tidoute. Truckville is to be wiped out entirely and the famous Carter Farm, below the mouth Hickory Creek, will be submerged. The estimated cost of No. 2 dam is $3,057,000."

"No. 3 will have a breast of 54 feet, and is to be located two miles above Tidoute and will back the water up to a point within two miles of the mouth of Brokenstraw. The estimate of this is $1,386,000. 'The dam in Tionesta Creek will have a breast 103 feet high, and its impounded water will wipe out Nebraska, Forest county, and the whole valley up to and including the lower part of Kelleitville. It will cost $1,362,600, according to the estimates of the engineers of the Flood Commission. These estimates include what the projectors expect to pay in the way of damages, as well as for engineering expenses and construction. 'The three river dams and the one in Tionesta Creek will have a total holding capacity of 10,417,800 millions cubic inches of water. 'This is only a part of a scheme which, as a whole, includes impounding the waters of the Allegheny, Monongahela, Youghiogheny and Cheat rivers. It is the expectation to erect 17 dams on these streams, with numerous dams on the large tributaries entering them, such as French creek, Tionesta creek, Clarion river, Red Bank creek and the Mahoning and Kiskiminetus rivers. 'So far, the Pittsburg Flood Commission is a private concern, born of the Pittsburg Chamber of Commerce, and asking the sanction of the United States government to carry this terrible and terrifying proposal to a successful conclusion. 'After all, the Derrick's article does not reveal all that is back of this desperate scheme. The same schemers who have been after the Tionesta creek water rights, and who failed to get their charters because the State Water Supply Commission does not have the power to grant the right of eminent domain, are back of the whole nefarious effort, and have already begun their campaign of 'educating' the people up to the point of asking the next legislature to pass laws whereby they may grab every available water power in the state, and all on the specious argument of averting floods and making use of the power for generating electricity. And all for the purpose of further enriching a lot of multi-millionaires. Watch and see."

Livery Team Likely Stolen.

J. C. Renning, a Clarion livery stable proprietor, was in Titusville Saturday afternoon in search of a fine pair of horses carriage and harness that had been hired from him on Thursday and which had not been returned to their stable. Mr. Renning, who went to Titusville in an automobile accompanied by chauffeur, stated the animals were not to a large heavy man about 55 years old. After a proper time had elapsed and the horses and outfit had not been returned, he set out in search of them. They were traced to Rousseau and were thought to have been headed for Titusville, or in that direction. The liveryman could not get any trace beyond Rousseau, nor could he find out where the stolen property crossed the Allegheny. It was stated that no clue could be found of the horses and carriage at either Tionesta or President, the natural crossing places from Clarion in the direction of Titusville. There are fords that might have been used ordinarily in summer, but the recent rains have put the river in an unfordable condition, the water being too high to permit wading the stream with safety. Finding no clue at Titusville of the missing outfit, Mr. Renning and his driver turned back toward home with the hope of getting some trace of the stolen rig in another direction. The horses are described as being a handsome pair of roans, one somewhat darker than the other. They would be easily recognizable wherever seen and would probably attract attention wherever driven. Their harness was nickel plated and the buggy had a top and red running gear. It is thought not unlikely that the thief drove as far as he could the first day and that since then he may have driven by night, thus avoiding notice.

H. P. Cassidy Dismissed. Harry P. Cassidy, for a number of years special agent of the Pennsylvania state dairy and food commissioner in Philadelphia, was dismissed by Commissioner Foust on the ground that he had failed in his duty, charges being made that he had not prosecuted alleged violations of the oleomargarine and rotten egg laws reported to him.

Freed of Infanticide Charge. Charged with the murder of their infant daughter John C. Phillips and his wife were discharged following a hearing before Justice of the Peace Miller at Woodlawn, Pa. In the opinion of Justice Miller there was not sufficient evidence produced by the Commonwealth to hold the man and woman.

Steel Probe to Shift to Pittsburg. The investigation by the federal government of the United States Steel corporation, which has been going on nearly all of the summer in New York, will be resumed in Pittsburg about Oct. 1. Andrew Carnegie will be called as a witness by the government.

Rural Carrier Murdered. Harrison Brown, aged fifty, a rural mail carrier, was shot from ambush and killed two miles from Addison, Pa. His slayers escaped to the mountains. Robbery was the motive, as the thugs stole the mailbags and considerable money carried by Brown.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
