President—Hon. William H. Taft, of Ohio. Vice President—Hon. J. S. Sherman, of New York. State Treasurer—Hon. R. K. Young, of Lehigh County. Auditor General—Hon. A. W. Powell, of Allegheny County.

RURAL delivery service employs 42,000 carriers at an annual cost of $40,000,000. It is but one item in what has been done for the farmer.

EVERY important campaign begins with an appeal to the populace for dollar contributions, and ends by having some rich man foot the bills.

PROF. WILSON has been in politics three years. The idea that the chief need of the United States is inexperience in the White House is new.

THE colonel remarks that Wall Street leeters for the two old parties. But Mr. Perkins is an exception along with the other trust magnates "going my way."

THE automobile is getting a rest as a death-dealing agency, the motorcycle having displaced it for the time. But the auto has always the faculty of coming back which none of the victims of automobiles or motorcycles have.

COME to think about it, does any person know of a single good reason why P. M. Speer should not be returned to Congress?—Oil City Blizzard.

We readily confess we know of none, and if we can read the signs aright there's a vast majority up in these parts who believe Mr. Speer is strictly all right, has made a splendid record so far, and by all means should be returned at this particular time.

ALTHOUGH there never was a man in the Presidential chair who worked more sincerely for the welfare of the country than President Taft, or who did more statesmanlike things with less bombast and circumstance, he has been so persistently misrepresented that many well intentioned citizens are prejudiced against him to the extent of disloyalty to the Administration. When they finally awake to the realization that he has been the victim of slander and vituperation on the part of selfish and unscrupulous politicians, they will try to reverse the wrong they have done him. But it will then be too late.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

New Parcels Post Law To Go Into Effect January First Next.

The provisions of the new Parcels Post Law appear to be quite satisfactory and it has this advantage that it can be put into operation practically with the present postoffice equipment, and so as to increase the revenues of the department and enable further extension in rural service to be made more rapidly. Its principal provisions are summarized as follows:

First.—It includes in fourth class mail matter, farm and factory products, and all other matter now included in the other classes, up to eleven pounds weight, the size being limited to seventy-two inches in length and girth.

Second.—It fixes a general rate on such fourth class matter, for light packages, of one cent an ounce up to four ounces, for which charge a package can be sent to any part of the United States.

Third.—It fixes a cheap rate for rural parcels post service of five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound. For this price packages can be sent by any person on any rural route, or in the town from which it goes out, to any person on any of the routes connected with that postoffice or with its delivery system.

Fourth.—In addition to this cheap rural service it provides for a general parcels post system, the charges being regulated by the distance, the first zone being within a circle from the starting point 100 miles in diameter in which the rate is practically the same as the rural service being five cents for the first pound and three cents for each additional pound; in the second zone, which has a diameter of 200 miles, the charge is six cents for the first pound and four cents for each additional pound, thus increasing one cent per pound each zone. The eighth or last zone, which takes in the Philippine Islands and all territorial possessions, the charge is twelve cents for the first pound.

Fifth.—It gives the postoffice department the right to change from time to time classifications, which limit rates, zones or conditions, with the consent of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and to make provisions to indemnify shippers from loss by insurance or otherwise when desired.

Sixth.—It provides by the appointment of a commission to investigate operation of the law and to make further inquiries into the subject of general parcels post to report to Congress as early a date as possible in order that necessary changes and improvements may be made in the law.

The above summary of the law was furnished by Congressman P. M. Speer, who was largely instrumental in securing its passage and who has given out the following interview in reference to it:

"I consider it a very satisfactory law, and for a beginning as liberal as we had any right to expect. As to rates and zones it is necessarily to a certain extent experimental, and one of its best features is the power it gives the postoffice department to change these if necessary for a proper working of the plan.

"The weight limit for the present was fixed at 11 pounds, that being the international weight limit, and with this limitation in weight the department can begin business at once with its present equipment, and if found practicable the weight limit can be increased later. It will no doubt increase the revenues from the rural routes, thus reducing or wiping out the loss that has heretofore resulted from their operation, and will, I believe, enable the department more rapidly to extend the rural service where asked for and pay better salaries to the carriers.

"I am glad that I was a member of the Congress which finally enacted a parcels post law, and that it is of so liberal a character. It is nearly twenty years since the agitation for parcels post legislation began, but while favored by the people generally, yet the opposition of the express companies, as well as of local merchants who feared they might be injured by it, has prevented its adoption. I found the majority leaders of the House, and some of the minority leaders, much opposed to it and by sharp parliamentary practice they prevented a roll call on this issue in the House until about the close of the session. The fight against it was very bitter and skillful, one method being to divide those favoring parcels post legislation into different groups, supporting different bills and thus preventing their being united in favor of some fair and honest proposition.

"I made a short speech in favor of a rule which enabled us to incorporate parcels post provisions into the post office appropriation bill and afterwards spoke in favor of a liberal measure, not only for rural routes but for a general parcels post, and against the provisions of the House Bills as originally brought in. These original provisions were in every way unsatisfactory for service on rural routes they were absurd and the general parcels post provision was merely for a flat rate of 12 cents a pound all over the country, which would be of no value. The majority in the House would not permit amendments to be made. The bill went to the Senate, where it was amended by substituting the bill prepared by Senator Bourne, who has made an exhaustive study on the subject and the workings of such laws in other countries. As finally passed it is substantially Senator Bourne's bill, with amendments giving greater powers to the department in order to regulate its workings.

"This measure I consider real progressive legislation. I have been in favor of it for years, and during the campaign in which I was elected to Congress I promised to support it. Notwithstanding the opposition of the special interests opposed to it, I did so. I not only spoke for it, but solicited support from other members, which is the most effective way to aid the passage of a bill. I made good my promise to the people of my district in this respect and am now a candidate for re-election, and it remains for the people of my district to make good to me.

"I also favored the creation of permanent non-partisan tariff commission to gather reliable information so that Congress may act intelligently upon tariff bills. I regret that the majority of the House defeated this measure, which I consider the most progressive legislation ever proposed along this line, and I am confident that the rank and file of all parties agree with me.

"I voted for the bill providing for the election of U. S. Senators by vote of the people, for the campaign expense publicity bill, for all progressive measures in the interest of the laboring man and for the betterment of the condition of the people.

"If any one wants to know my position as to progressive legislation, I point to my record, and I believe the people of my district are sufficiently intelligent to realize that a record of votes is more to be relied upon than a world of promises. In my case I have made good every promise."

Porkey.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Burdick of Sheffield visited the latter's sister, Mrs. O. E. Rupert, over Sunday and returned home on Monday. They had a very pleasant time out here in Forest.

Several people in this part of the country bought mandolin-guitar harps from an agent a short time ago. These harps are a fine thing for those who cannot play other instruments and the only mistake we find in the make-up is in the second chord of the bass section the F string is not tuned properly. It should be in tune with the F string in the next chord, thus in playing the second change of the C chord the G should be seventh, instead of G major. Any criticisms will be thankfully received.

George Welsh visited his father at Balltown last week before going to his work at Erie. We did not get to see him while here.

Rupert was called to Blue Jay last Thursday to photograph a bunch of pretty women from Kellettsville, who were having a party at that place, and the result is an illustration of exceedingly loveliness.

Mr. and Mrs. Holland Daly were at Kellettsville on Sunday last for a drive and found the roads fine but not as good as before the State got them.

George Vandenberg of Cherry Grove was down last week working for the South Penn Oil Co. on the lease.

The teacher at Hastings has a dose of the measles and was unable to teach last week for two days.

Clarence Parks, Frank McCauley and Harry Christensen were in town with their motor-cycles on Sunday last and had them photographed, which will be a fine view.

Miss Rosie Ruffman of Henrys Mill was the guest of friends at Minister on Sunday last and called on Porkey friends also.

TEST BLAST WRECKS MINE

Realistic Disaster Shown Experts at Bruceton Colliery.

With a terrific detonation that was heard for miles the most powerful pre-arranged mine explosion ever witnessed in this country took place at the government experimental mine near Bruceton, Pa.

So great was the force generated that two wooden poles, each a half foot in diameter, fifty feet from the mouth of the mine were broken off at the ground and a car loaded with a ton and a half of slate hurled 450 feet across a ravine.

The exposition of the danger of dry coal dust was arranged especially for the benefit of the foreign delegates to the international mining experiment stations conference and was witnessed by the mining experts of practically every European country and by many inspectors from states throughout the Union. In the audience were also high officials of the department of the interior, coal operators and representatives of the miners' organizations.

NAPLES SAFE FOR YEAR

Miracle of Boiling Blood Accomplished. Natives Weep For Joy.

The yearly miracle of the spontaneous boiling of the blood of St. Januarius was accomplished in the overcrowded cathedral in Naples, Italy, after two hours of incessant prayers. The impatience of the congregation was such that the police had the utmost difficulty in keeping order.

A salute of 100 guns was fired when the blood boiled, a Te Deum was sung and the bells pealed, while the Neapolitans applauded, shouted and wept for joy, convinced that there would be immunity from eruptions of Vesuvius for another year.

U. S. TO PROBE COAL DEARTH

Will Investigate Cause of Anthracite Shortage in New York.

A telegram received at Pottsville, Pa., from the acting secretary of the department of commerce and labor in Washington gives assurance that the government intends to begin at once a detailed investigation of the causes of the short supply of anthracite in New York and New England.

Leaders of the mineworkers in Fottsville declare that there is no necessity for a scarcity of coal and that large quantities of anthracite are being stored in that region, particularly at Landville, where there is said to be enough coal piled up to last New York city all winter.

Steel Prices Continue to Rise, Says Dun's Review. Trade says this week:

"All the developments of the week confirm and strengthen the improvement in business activity. Each week brings a higher price level in iron and steel and the resumption of several merchant furnaces that have been idle two years is expected.

"Firmness prevails in pig iron at all leading centers with substantial advances noted in some districts. Tinplates and sheets are very active and a better market is noted in merchant pipe with quotations firm at the regular discounts."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.
