WHY DISTURB CONDITIONS?

President Asks, Contending That Prosperity Is Here

ROOSEVELT NEAR END OF TRIP

Colonel Will Have Visited Twenty Seven States When He Arrives Home in Oyster Bay Wednesday.

Asked for an interview on the present political situation President Taft said in part: "A chief issue of the most immediate importance in this campaign in my opinion is whether we shall allow prosperity to remain and expand or whether we shall halt it by our political election."

"And prosperity is here. Evidence of industrial activity are abundant. Commerce has grown by leaps and bounds. The great transportation systems of the country are hard pressed to move the myriads of products that enter into interstate commerce. The activities of the financial institutions that furnish the funds for the successful raising of various branches of business has never been so extensive. The workman and mechanic has never been before so well and steadily employed nor so well paid."

"The president declares that the demand for labor is greatly in excess of the supply and asks who would disturb these conditions. He declares that the only danger that menaces prosperity is the putting of the Democrats completely in control of all branches of the government. He concludes: "Let us cultivate prosperity by maintaining our present economic business basis and by the encouragement of business expansion and progress through legitimate use of capital."

Teddy Nearing Home.

Colonel Roosevelt will finish on Wednesday his swing around the country. When he arrives in New York he will have completed a tour of 16,000 miles and have visited every section of the republic. He will have made his appeal for Progressive support to the people of twenty-seven states.

Section 15. No obligations which have been heretofore issued, or which may hereafter be issued, by any county or municipality, other than Philadelphia, for the purpose of the construction or acquisition of waterworks, subways, underground railways or street railways, or the appurtenances thereof, shall be considered as a debt of a municipality, within the meaning of section eight of article nine of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, or of this amendment, if the net revenue derived from said property for a period of five years, either before or after the acquisition thereof, or where the same is constructed by the county or municipality, after the completion thereof, shall have been sufficient to pay interest and sinking-fund charges during said period upon said obligations, or if the said obligations shall be secured by liens upon the respective properties, and shall impose no municipal liability. Where municipalities to provide for the construction of property, as herein provided, said municipalities or counties may also issue obligations to provide for the interest and sinking-fund charges accruing thereon until said properties shall have been completed and in operation for a period of one year; and said municipalities and counties shall not be required to levy a tax to pay said interest and sinking-fund charges, as required by section ten of article nine of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, until after said properties shall have been operated by said counties or municipalities during said period of one year. Any of the said municipalities or counties may incur indebtedness in excess of seven per centum, and not exceeding ten per centum, of the assessed valuation of the taxable property therein, if said increase of indebtedness shall have been assented to by three-fifths of the electors voting at a public election, in such manner as shall be provided by law. The anti-home rule covenant pledging its signers not to recognize an Irish parliament, to pay its taxes nor to obey its laws received the signatures of Ulster Orangemen by the thousands last Saturday. In expectation of rioting troops were quartered in Belfast, but were not needed. Religious services preceded the signing of the covenant and services of a similar nature were held in many churches throughout Ulster. Sir Edward Carson, who has announced his willingness to stand at the forefront of the battle until victory is won—however fought out—was the dominant figure of the day.

With the surrender of General Mena and 200 Nicaraguan rebels to Rear Admiral Southernland at Granada officials in Washington regard the Nicaraguan revolution at an end. His surrender was accepted with the understanding that Mena would be permitted to go to Panama and thence into exile from Nicaragua. Minister Weitzel stated that there was great rejoicing in Granada and in Managua when the news of the surrender was received. He described the conditions in Granada as most distressing and the people in a most pitiable situation.

PARADE BROKEN UP BY POLICE

Big Fight in Lawrence; Two Officers Stabbed

DOPS MACE SEVERAL OF MOB

Industrial Workers of the World Prevented From Marching to Cemetery to Decorate Strike Victims' Graves.

MRS. ELMER BLACK.

Police and paraders fought with knives and clubs at Lawrence, Mass., prior to a demonstration by members of the Industrial Workers of the World. Two officers were stabbed, a number of demonstrators were clubbed and a labor leader captured after a hard fight and then freed. Two arrests were made. One shot was fired from the ranks of the paraders.

Carla Tresca, an organizer of the Industrial Workers, was in custody, but gained his freedom a minute or two later. Persons who saw Tresca's arrest said he was rescued by comrades. Tresca, with a smile, said the police let him go. The clash was unexpected. More than 5,000 operatives met in the railroad station to welcome 700 members of the Industrial Workers of the World, who had come from Boston to participate in a parade to the graves of Anna Lopizzo and Johnny Ramo, who were killed during the strike riots in January. After the visitors had de-trained an impromptu parade was started, finally turning into Essex street.

When the head of the parade reached Essex street a line of officers halted it and an argument began. The police notified the marchers that they must disperse because they had no permit. Those in the front rank were endeavoring to fall back when suddenly the marchers in the rear pressed forward and the mill workers tried to pass the police. They struck right and left at the officers, who responded by swinging their clubs. Many paraders were knocked bleeding to the ground. In some instances the marchers robbed the officers of their clubs and began to beat the police. The latter were forced to retreat into Lawrence street. It was here that Tresca was seized by the officers, who started with him toward the police station.

Angered by the arrest of their leader the crowd made a rush for the police, who appeared to be fighting to hold the prisoner, but a moment or two later Tresca was at liberty. During the fight two Italians were arrested and taken to the station house. As they were being taken through the door of the station a revolver shot was heard. It appeared to have been fired by someone in the crowd. Later the crowd was driven onto the common, where the paraders dispersed.

After the excitement was over Policeman Thomas McCarthy discovered that he had been cut on the head and had also received a slight stab wound behind the ear. Another policeman, whose name was withheld, received two slight stab wounds in the back.

PENNA. BATTLE STARTED

State Democrats Notify Candidates at Scranton and Cheer Wilson.

The fight for progressive democracy in Pennsylvania was formally begun in Scranton Monday with inspiring declarations from Governor Woodrow Wilson, the presidential nominee, and the six state candidates. The proceedings started with the notification and acceptance by the state candidates and ended in a demonstration for Governor Wilson. That the Democratic party in the state and nation, parged in the heat of sixteen years of constant battle, of reactionary and un-democratic elements and ideals, today was the only instrument for restoring government to the people and for reviving the equality of opportunity, to which the nation was pledged in the beginning—this was the keynote.

WANTS TO "SAVE NATION"

Teddy Tells South It's Folly to Stay Democratic.

In New Orleans Colonel Roosevelt made a statement of the reasons why the Progressive party should appeal to the people of the south equally with the north, east and west. "I want to free the nation," he declared, "and I want to free yourselves from that rather absurd folly of supporting the Democratic party. A party is of value just so long as it is an instrument of good."
