Our Suits Are the Best Values. We'll Tell You Why.

Nowadays every woman wants to have more than a surface knowledge of the apparel she buys. She has learned from experience that a suit must have something beyond stylish outlines to be a genuine value, that it must contain the best of material and findings and the most conscientious workmanship that can be had, before it will afford the amount of wear and satisfaction which madam has a right to expect.

That's why we tell you in detail of our Tailored Suits today, why we consider them, and have a right to consider them, absolutely the best values for the money to be had in this section of the state.

All Coats of Suits in Stock Must Have

1. A foundation of custom tailors' Belgium linen flax canvas, thoroughly shrunk, which makes the coat retain its shape.
2. Edges and lapels of all coats to be stayed with cotton tape—prevents stretching and edges from curling.
3. Hand padded lapels the same as in men's custom made suits.
4. English shaped shoulders following natural shoulder lines, feather weight interior.
5. All coats to have silk covered rubber shields in the armholes.
6. All coats to have close fitting collars and lapels, due to the Belgium linen canvas being properly worked.
7. All buttons are to be sewed on with German linen waxed thread and stayed.
8. Bar-tacked button-holes to prevent tearing.

All Skirts of Suits in Stock Must Have

1. 2 1/2 inch placket, reinforced with band of satin—prevents tearing.
2. 2 1/2 inch basted hems.

Materials in These Suits as Follows:

1. Only wool materials to be used—proven by acid test.
2. Men's wear fabrics in as exclusive patterns as can be secured.
3. All cloths London cold water shrunk. Materials are sprayed with cold water, then dried in the air and re-finished. The cold water shrinking process improves the fabric, crowding the warp and filling together. All the shrinking that the fabric will do is done before it is cut.
4. All materials and linings guaranteed for two seasons' wear.

T. J. RYAN KILLS HIMSELF

Democratic Leader in Philadelphia Uses Gun to End Life.

Thomas J. Ryan, Democratic leader of Philadelphia and member of the Donnelly-Ryan-Guffey triumvirate that for so long controlled the organization of that party in Pennsylvania, ended his life in his office in the Land Title and Trust building, Philadelphia, by shooting himself with a revolver.

Ryan was hopelessly involved financially, it is said, and from a man of great wealth it is understood that he has through unfortunate investments become practically penniless. A year ago Dreamland in New York burned down and that loss, sustained almost entirely by him, was sufficient to have bankrupted anyone without unlimited resources.

This season he built another amusement resort on the site of the old Point Breeze race track, but it has not been a success and there was a meeting scheduled when his creditors were to get together and consider plans for a trusteeship.

COMMISSION PLAN URGED

Third-Class Cities of State Want Form of Government Changed.

Enactment of a law which will allow third-class cities of Pennsylvania to adopt the commission form of government, if they desire, was urged at a meeting at Harrisburg, Pa., of the allied civic bodies committee, representing the third-class cities and larger boroughs of the state.

The committee will demand a commission form of government with a council of five, each man to be the head of a department. Councilmen are to be elected for two-year terms. The bill will embody the initiative and referendum, but the proposition to insert the recall was defeated. Civil service was eliminated from the bill. Changes in election and taxation laws also were recommended.

NINE JOY RIDERS KILLED

Automobile Goes Over Bridge in Philadelphia—Machine Crushes Bodies.

Nine young men lost their lives in Philadelphia when an automobile in which they were joy riding crashed through the railing on the side of the new Thirty-third street boulevard at Master street and fell into a coal yard seventy-five feet below.

The machine, a big touring car, turned over in the descent and the occupants were crushed and mangled in the hood of the machine. The body of the car was smashed to splinters.

The car was owned and driven by Edward Shaw, Jr. The others in the machine were: Robert A. Boyd, Alexander Nevin, W. Lawrence, Gordon H. Miller, Daniel Wilks, Jesse H. Holmes, Ernest Schofield and Robert Geisel.

Demands $10,000 For a Dog's Bite

Stating that the defendant's dog bit her on the leg, Mary L. Saura asks $10,000 damages from Thomas P. Jones of Pittsburgh. The plaintiff says she was a servant for the defendant and that on July 7, 1909, the dog attacked her and bit her severely. She swears the defendant knew that the dog was of a ferocious and mischievous nature and that he attacked others.

The Best Way to Still Activity

The country has enjoyed an unusual wave of prosperity, reaching to every village and hamlet. The very best way to still activity is to elect a Democratic free trade congress. Past experience should be sufficient to put every bread winner on his guard against the machinations of a party that travels with free trade as its chief ally and leaves free soup in its wake.

A vote for the free trade ticket and platform is a vote for more imports, less employment and lower wages.

REAL PROGRESS UNDER TAFT.

Many Progressive Measures Put In Force.

THE WHOLE PEOPLE SERVED.

Express Companies Compelled to Reduce Rates, Parcel Post Law Enacted and Other Notable Progressive Policies Made Effective by Taft Without Boasting and Noise.

Dispassionate Judges will accord to the Taft administration the credit of putting in force more measures of a positively progressive character than any other administration since the civil war. Not only have such measures been numerous, but they have been of great and far-reaching importance. President Taft has labored indefatigably to serve the whole people, and by means of his broad experience and rare judicial mind and having at his command legal talent of the highest order he has put his progressive policies one after another into valid and practical legislation. This has been done without boasting and noise. Whether vindicated or not at the coming election, Mr. Taft's work will stand as a chapter of achievement as brilliant as it is meritorious.

We wish at this time to invite attention to two specific features of governmental progress. One consists of the interstate commerce commission's investigation of the express companies, resulting in the recent report ordering the companies to reduce rates and institute sweeping reforms in various directions. The other is the enactment of the Bourne parcel post bill, one of the most useful measures ever put in force in this country under any administration. These two reforms, taken in connection, will exert a powerful influence for a reduction of the cost of living.

Mr. Taft has been in complete sympathy with the interstate commerce commission's inquiry into the express business, a process consistent in all respects with the administration's general policy of compelling big corporations to square themselves with the law and the public interest. Some of the more powerful corporations do not like that policy, but the public ought to endorse it. The enactment of a parcel post law brings to fruition a plan that found indorsement in the platform upon which the president was elected. Through the action of the senate the Bourne bill, looking to a parcel service at the lowest practicable rates within a given territory, was substituted for the house bill with its flat rate provisions. The measure as passed probably is not perfect, nor should the rates be regarded as permanent. The plan is experimental in certain respects. But we believe the principle of the act is correct. One of the most important aspects of this measure is its bearing on the food situation. It will give consumers and producers a new medium of direct contact. The interstate commerce commission's rulings respecting the express companies also make special account of this problem. The express companies are required to order their business in such a manner as to give quicker service and lower rates on food products.

It is recognized by all economic investigators that one of the greatest problems related to the cost of living is that which has to do with the system of distribution. Express reforms and the parcel post will be of great value in promoting prompter and cheaper distribution of food products especially, and at the same time the scope of these measures is so comprehensive as to apply to all classes of merchandise. Production, too, should be greatly stimulated by the influence thus invoked.

We do not say that President Taft deserves the sole credit for these departures, but we cite them as features of an administration that some persons would have us believe is nonprogressive, when in reality they form a logical part of a great progressive epoch, which opened with the inauguration of Mr. Taft and which, in the people's patriotism and good sense, will be continued during four more years of the same courageous and able leadership.

More Work Than Workers

To the Editor of The World: I have read your paper for about fifteen years and during that time I have always found it very much on the level, but just now I don't agree with you on Wilson. I am a Republican, and have been for more than fifteen years, so I am for Taft always. I will answer why by taking up your advertising sheet of Sunday, Sept. 29.

That's the answer. Can you or Mr. Wilson tell me, if he is elected, whether you will have more pages of help wanted advertisements than you had on that day? Eight pages of help wanted, female and male, and a little two and one-half pages of situations wanted, male and female! Don't you think that means something? Business must be good in this little city. Will it be better if Wilson is elected? I know it won't be nearly as good and you don't want to know it.

H. C. RODDER, New York, Oct. 1. —New York World (Dem.), Oct. 2.

The man who votes the Democratic presidential ticket this year votes for free trade bankruptcy and ruin. The man who votes the Republican ticket votes for protection and prosperity. There is no escape from that conclusion.

A tariff for revenue "only" means free trade. Farmers do not want free trade. Laboring men do not want free trade. Better think pretty hard for a time if you have an inclination to vote that way.

IRONWORKERS ON TRIAL

Forty-eight Charged With Being in Dynamiting Conspiracy.

Forty-eight labor leaders, indicted for alleged complicity in the McNamara dynamiting conspiracy case were put on trial before Judge Anderson in the federal court at Indianapolis, Ind., last Tuesday. The defendants were all former or present officers of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers. Orlie McManical, who will be the star witness for the prosecution, pleaded guilty to the indictment.

Senator John W. Kern is the chief counsel for the ironworkers, which, it is said, has raised $100,000 for the defense.

The statute under which the defendants will be prosecuted provides that any person who is connected with the conspiracy in the slightest manner may be punished as a principal. The sentence for each charge in the indictment cannot exceed eighteen months, but the court can fix a cumulative sentence that would keep the convicted men behind the bars for life if he desired to be that severe.
