

THE FOREST REPUBLICAN.

J. E. WENK, - EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1912

If authentic, a book on "Who's Who in Constantinople" would be a good seller.

This would seem to be Mr. Wilson's opportunity to, once and for all, knock Mr. Bryan into a cocked hat, by putting him in as head cabinet official.

It is presumed that at the opening of the Panama Canal the Republican party will not be confined to the gallery on the charge that it is not progressive.

IOWA, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Indiana are the only states in the Union that batted over 200,000 bushels in corn production for the season of 1912.

While Mr. Wilson is thinking over the advisability of an extra session he can save time by remembering the word "immediate" in the Baltimore platform.

A DEMOCRATIC senator remarks that there are Democratic protectionists. No doubt of it, and they will shortly realize the folly of voting for a free trade party.

Under the Democratic tariff to be passed shortly the Canadians expect to get greater advantages than were provided in the reciprocity bill, and at the same time Canada will maintain its own protective duties unchanged.

It is given out that the new President-elect has decided to call an extra session of Congress to meet not later than April 15, to "revise" the tariff. That's just what he should do. If this "robber tariff," under which this country has grown so prosperous as to make all nations stand aghast, is wrong, then the quicker the Democratic party smashes it into smithereens the better, we suppose.

THE Denver Republican says: "No better workers than the women were at the command of the Anti-Prohibition league. All day pretty and handsomely gowned members of the fair sex stood at the polls, coaxing and cajoling voters to cast their ballots for a 'wet state,' which moves the Oil City Blizzard to remark, 'How womanly and lady-like. Yet some old-fashioned folks will continue to think there are more suitable occupations for women.'"

It would be a good idea to so amend the Constitution that retiring ex-Presidents of the United States would become Senators at large for life. There is never likely to be more than one or two. Taft and Roosevelt would both be valuable additions to that body, and such employment would be sufficient to utilize their activities without exposing them to the temptation of seeking re-election to the Presidency. If the Republican party is to be reunited, neither Taft nor Roosevelt should be seriously mentioned as a candidate for President in 1916. It would arouse old antagonisms and spell defeat for either from the outset.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

THE election returns for this Congressional district, as completed, show a smaller vote than in the last Presidential election of 1908, says the Derrick. The whole number of votes cast for Presidential candidates four years ago in the five counties comprising this district totaled 38,996. This year the total was 36,144, a difference of 2,852 votes. Considering the combined vote for Taft and Roosevelt as fairly representing the Republican vote, that party shows a falling of 693 votes in the district, as compared with the number cast for Taft in 1908. Wilson got 2,738 fewer than did Bryan four years ago; Chafin fell off 2,134 votes and Debs showed an increase of 2,894. The total vote cast for the Congressional candidates was 3,110 less than that given to the Presidential candidates. On the total vote for President, Elk county made the best showing, as it polled within 73 of as many as were cast four years ago, while Mercer county fell off 1,019. The decrease in the other counties was: Venango, 787; Warren, 281, and Forest 302.

Water Grabbers are Busy.

The campaign for getting control of the waterways of the State by private power companies is being energetically pushed through public agencies. Articles are being sent to the State press insinuating that the Water Conservation Association of Pennsylvania and prominent engineers are favorable to the project. These are couched in such language as to disguise the real intent, but are aimed to create a sentiment favorable to permitting dams to be built on the main streams of the State, which will then be taken over by the water power companies. The latest article of this kind, sent out under date of November 14 from Philadelphia, quotes the following resolution passed by the late Congress of Navigation held in that city.

"The navigability of rivers having but one current can be improved, as has been stated many times at the Navigation Congress, by various methods, such as regulation of the bed by permanent works, regulation of the bed by mechanical dredging, increase of depth by additional water supply furnished by storage reservoirs; canalization of the bed, or construction of a lateral canal."

The comments on this resolution by the water power's press agent indicate that the Navigation Congress advocates the construction of reservoirs for river regulation. This is a false insinuation. The matter of placing dams, 60 to 300 feet high, across navigable streams, so as to completely stop all navigation, was never brought before the Congress. If it had it would have been rejected and condemned as absolutely contrary to the purpose of the convention and the object for which the association had been formed.

The persistency with which these water grabbers are pursuing the subject show that they are determined to get control of the streams and rivers through any means. Public sentiment will be falsely created; the press will be deceived to aid their schemes, and the Legislature will be appealed to when it meets to so amend the laws that the way will be made easy for the plotters. The people of this section and of the whole State should be alert against this vile attempt to monopolize the water-ways for private speculation, and which would at the same time place thousands of homes and millions of property in jeopardy.—Derrick.

Strongly Oppose Water Grabbers.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 15.—The Water Conservation Association, organized here several months ago at an unheard-of meeting of water company promoters and attorneys, has not yet succeeded in winning public confidence. Morris Knowles, of Pittsburg, its president, appeared today at a meeting of the advisory board and legislative committee of the State Conservation Association, and tried to convince those men that it is eminently proper to give water companies the right of eminent domain, so that they can build big storage reservoirs and do other things on a gigantic scale. He failed. Among the members of the State Conservation Association present were its president, A. R. Farquhar, of York; Bishop James H. Darlington and J. Horace McFarland, of Harrisburg; Dr. J. T. Rothrock, of West Chester; the state commissioner of health, Dr. Samuel G. Dixon; Dr. H. S. Drinker, president of Lehigh University, and the deputy state forestry commissioner, I. C. Williams.

The conservationists were not backward in expressing suspicion of the plan outlined by Knowles, and declared that they will fight such legislation to a finish unless a bill that properly safeguards the people is drawn up and approved by the conservation association. Strong objection was advanced to the name used by the water grab group, and it is said that the word conservation will shortly be dropped from its title.

Hon. N. P. Wheeler of Endeavor, a member of the advisory board above referred to, was advised by his physician that it would be dangerous for him to attempt to attend this meeting owing to the present state of his health. Mr. Wheeler was much disappointed at not being able to attend.

Revising the Tariff.

"Gentlemen," said the newly elected President, "the Tariff is about to be revised. How shall we do it? I await your pleasure."

"Revise it so that I may buy things cheaper," said the consumer promptly.

"Revise it so that I may get a better price for my product," said the protected manufacturer.

"Revise it in any way you like, so long as you cut off some of my profits," said the monopolist.

"Revise it so as not to offend any of the people who make campaign contributions," said the politician.

"Revise it according to the judgment of experts who have studied it," said the college professor.

"Don't let experts have a hand in it whatever you do," admonished the "practical" man.

"Revise it in such a way as not to hurt business," said the business man.

"Revise it upward, it's too low," said the stand-patter.

"Revise it downward, it's too high," said the Democrat.

"Abolish it," said the Free-Trader.

"Gentlemen," said the newly-elected President, "I have heard your pleasure in the matter of the Tariff. Anybody wishing my job for the next four years may have it."—Brooklyn Times.

K. L. Haugh has been on the sick list for the past week.

Miss Rachel Hunter is home from Pittsburg on a visit.

Miss Ruth Cook was a Tionesta visitor on Saturday.

Ray Reed was a visitor at Kelletrville Saturday.

Miss Iva Preston is staying with Rev. W. S. Burton's at Tionesta at the present writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones returned to their home in Oil City last week, after a short visit with the former's mother, Mrs. Wallace Imhoff.

Misses Grace Reed and Beba Cole were Oil City shoppers on Saturday.

Mrs. James Thomson returned last week from Kittanning, where she was called to attend the funeral of her little nephew, Russell McKee, who died at that place from the effect of a tumor on the brain.

Gilpin Small, Miss Flora Kerr and friend of Oil City called on relatives here on Sunday last.

Wm. Thompson was down from Sheriff over Sunday.

Bottled Milk and Bottled Germs.

Karl de Schweinitz, executive secretary Pennsylvania society for the prevention of tuberculosis, says, "Milk is put into bottles in order to keep it clean and free from germs. Impure milk is responsible for most infant mortality and often for the spread of typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever and tuberculosis. Milk if properly bottled will reduce the danger from these diseases. There are hundreds of milk-men, however, who fill the bottles in their wagons instead of at the dairy. They hold the bottles over the milk can, thrust the long dipper into the milk, and then pour the milk into the bottle allowing the excess milk to drain back over their hands—the same hands that have been holding the reins, taking care of the horse and accumulating all sorts of dirt.

What good does bottled milk do you if it is bottled in this way? You are then not only using bottled milk but also bottled germs. Your baby sickness and dies. Your child shows a predisposition to tuberculosis—and still in good faith, you receive improperly bottled milk and think that it is pure and clean. Find out how your milk-man bottles his milk. Point out to him that it will pay him to serve clean milk. No one wants to buy dirty milk and in proportion as the milk-man's goods are high class, his customers will increase. Dirty milk means disease, clean milk means health. Which would you rather have?

Hon. PETER M. SPEER, who was caught in the bull moose stampede, takes his defeat very philosophically. His vote was a most complimentary one, being considerably above that cast for the head of the ticket in nearly every precinct. He received 296 more votes than President Taft in Oil City, and 111 more in Franklin, while Gen. Hulings dropped behind Spaer in both places. There is nothing to suggest lack of personal popularity or public approval of his work, and under normal conditions he would have been returned.—Blizzard.

Miss May Showers was down from Blue Jay Wednesday and spent the night with Mrs. A. H. Downing. She called on other friends in town and returned home Thursday. May leaves Monday for Philadelphia to enter a training school for nurses and made this flying visit as a farewell to old friends in town.

Mrs. G. R. Johnson went to Sheffield Thursday to spend a few days with her son. Mr. Johnson went up Saturday and returned home with her on Monday.

Our town now boasts of a first class Tailor. C. G. Lundsted of Sheffield has taken rooms above Dr. H. L. Davis' dental parlors and announces himself ready to do all work that comes under his line of business.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Burch of Canada, N. Y., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Popp during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyman and Miss Ada Huling of Tionesta were guests of Mrs. Mary Tobey Monday.

Mrs. W. L. Watson was a Warren visitor Saturday.

Mrs. J. McCullough of Mayburg was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson over Sunday.

Mrs. Armstrong of Philadelphia is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. H. Kribbs, this week. Her son Jack has been with his aunt for the past two months, and a wish to spend a few days with her son prompted the visit.

The freight train came to grief Saturday when the engines refused to carry the heavy load, and the passenger was held up for an hour and a half on return Saturday evening until No. 3, one of the log engines, came to the rescue and pushed the freight into Sheffield.

Two basket ball teams known as the Cyclones and the Whirlwinds, which have been lately formed among the school girls, had their first battle in the hall Wednesday evening, where the Cyclones were defeated by the Whirlwinds, but they are going to have another game in the near future, and as the teams are quite evenly matched it is hard to tell which wind will blow the stronger next time.

R. W. Grove is building a new barn to replace the one destroyed by lightning, and has put in a very busy week getting it raised and ready for cover.

Sherman Butler came up from Tionesta Sunday calling on relatives and old friends in town.

Mrs. Clara Watson died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jenkins, Saturday evening, Nov. 16, 1912. She had been a sufferer from diabetes for the past year and on Thursday contracted a sudden cold which developed into pneumonia and in her weakened condition she was unable to cope with the disease, which claimed her as above stated. She was the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins. She graduated from the high school in the class of 1909 and taught school for a year. About two years ago she was united in marriage with Clark Watson and went with him to Salem, Ohio, where they lived for one year. Her health failing she began to pine for the home of her childhood and they returned home and spent some time with her parents. They then took up housekeeping for a short time but she was soon compelled to give it up and return home. She was born and spent her whole life in Kelletrville, except the one year in Salem, and beside her husband and young son Clarence, she leaves her parents, brothers and sisters, an aged grandmother, a number of other relatives, and a host of friends in town to mourn her loss. She was bright, congenial and lovable, and will be greatly missed by her many friends. Funeral services were held in the M. E. church Tuesday morning, Rev. Henry Smallenberger officiating, and interment immediately followed in the Whig Hill cemetery.

Whig Hill.

People of this vicinity are getting ready for winter. Some are doing a stroke of fall plowing, some are hauling coal and some are cutting wood.

Some are posting "no trespassing" signs but in spite of posting the outside pot hunters will go in and shoot and then sneak out. Very little game except rabbits are killed. The rabbits don't seem to stand as good a chance as the pheasants when the ferret comes in play, which we are sorry to say two or three parties have been using. The hunters are disappearing and so are the birds. In the beginning of the season you could flush from 10 to 25 in a flock. Now you can hunt a whole day and you can scarcely flush two birds. There don't seem to be any shack or berries for them. Birds that have been examined seem to have their craws filled with leaves and buds. If we could have a law to prohibit the killing for two or three years it would be a nice thing for the birds.

The roads in this vicinity are quite good, considering the perky weather.

A lot of beef cattle for sale here but no bids, but if you go to the meat market to get fifty cents or a dollar's worth of steak you could hide it in a key hole. A hunter got fifty cents' worth of old cow's neck for his bird dog and the noble dog made a dandy point and thought he would get something, but when he got sight of the critter he dropped his tail, changed ends and went way back and laid down. High living.

Alton Milton Flaw, B. B. Barber and "Wild Bill" Ogleby of Embleton finished their hunting for this season Saturday evening. "Wild Bill" shot six boxes of shells and killed one pheasant and two rabbits. Mr. Flaw shot about the same number of shells and killed five birds and somewhere in the neighborhood of five or ten rabbits. Come again boys.

FALLS DEAD IN TABERNACLE

McKeesport Man Excited by Crowd Gathering to Hear Sunday.

Robert Taylor, aged sixty-nine, former president of McKeesport (Pa.) select council, fell dead in the McKeesport tabernacle before Rev. William A. Sunday began preaching. Mr. Taylor was a wealthy retired lumber dealer.

Mr. Taylor went to the tabernacle an hour in advance of the scheduled time for the meeting to get a seat. He had been ill some time and the large crowd arriving is believed to have excited him. He fell from his seat. Persons sitting near him went to his aid, but found that he was dead.

Peculiar Illness Saved Boy's Life. Near Altoona, Pa., Harry Gamble, aged ten, with several companions was hunting with a revolver when the weapon was accidentally discharged, the bullet entering Gamble's body half an inch below the heart. The doctors say that because the boy has been suffering from diabetes and had very little blood in his body he will recover from the bullet wound unless blood poisoning develops.

Berry Files Campaign Statement. The campaign expense account of William H. Berry, Democratic candidate for Pennsylvania state treasurer, shows he spent $244.24, of which approximately $200 was for traveling expenses and $10 was contributed to the Democratic national campaign fund. His expenses as the Keystone party candidate were less than $50.

One Cent Is Burglar's Haul. The man who burglarized C. W. Young's grocery in Altoona, Pa., has sufficient cause for reforming. The burglar wrenched the cash drawer from its fastenings, carried it into the alley and extracted four pennies when a neighbor gave the alarm. Dropping three pennies the burglar fled, retaining one cent for his trouble.

Labor Proposition Fails. The ordinance in Pittsburg providing that contractors doing city work shall employ only union labor and that a working day on city work shall not be more than eight hours was negatively recommended by the councilman finance committee by a vote of 5 to 3.

State to Breed the Wild Turkey. The propagation of wild turkeys is to be undertaken in the three southern game preserves of Pennsylvania and the stocking of the big preserves, closed at all seasons, in Westmoreland, Franklin and Perry counties, has been started by the state game commission.

Lone Prohibitionist in Legislature. Asa Dale of Venango county will be in the next Pennsylvania house of representatives as the lone representative of a party. Dale is a Prohibitionist and is the first man connected with the cold water party to be elected to the legislature in recent years.

Dragged at Mule's Heels. Dragged 1,800 feet at the heels of a runaway mule, Albert Rhoades, an employee of the Enterprise colliery at Shamokin, Pa., still lives, although there is scarcely a square inch of flesh on his body which is not torn. He may recover.

Fraud Indictments Found. Three indictments charging use of the mails to defraud were found by a Philadelphia federal grand jury against the seven officers and directors of the International Lumber and Development company.

Family Has Remarkable Record. Although married fifty years and have eleven children, twenty-seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild, not once has death visited the family of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hull of Rimersburg, Pa.

Almost Dead in Gas Filled Room. Almost overcome with the deadly fumes from a gas stove C. E. Brown was found in his room in New Kensington, Pa. He is still in a serious condition and it is feared he may not recover.

Child Dies From Scalds. James H. McKelvin, aged one year, died at the home of his parents in Pittsburg. The child pulled a tub of hot water over on himself, sustaining scalds which caused his death.

City Hall Roof Garden. If the plans of Mayor Blankenburg are carried out the roof of the Philadelphia city hall will be utilized next summer as a garden for the free use of the public.

Burglars Obtain Little. A safe in the East Pittsburg (Pa.) station of the Pennsylvania railroad was blown by burglars, who escaped after obtaining a small amount of money.
