The Magnificent Display of Silks.

The Far East, the Balkan States, the Russian Ballet, the costumes of Louis XVI days-all have had a hand in the evolving of these silks, that differ more widely in coloring and design than those of any season for years past.

Soft, "drapery" charmeuse and crepe, plain and brocaded; brilliant Bulgarian printed and crepes; dainty figured "Dolly Madison" silks; there are scores of new and novel weaves and designs, in colorings so glorious as to make feeble any attempt to describe them.

New Spring Suit Fashions of Distinction.

The woman who dresses most effectively, looks beyond the fact of mere newness; she seeks the little distinctive touches such as characterize every suit in this wonderful garment store.

Of course, new Spring Suits to be found anywhere, exhibit most of the new fashion features-proper coat lengths, extending to blouse, plaited waist lines, vented skirts, etc.

But in the Smart & Silberberg suits all these fashion "kinks" are worked out in original ways-ways that less original makers never thought of, or else lacked the fine style portion of the southerr half of the knowledge and exquisite taste, of which these new arrivals bear

PERUVIAN RAIN TREE

Has the Power of Collecting Dampness in Air and Condensing.

The rain tree of Peru grows very large, is rich in leaves and is called by the Indians tamaicaspi. It has the power of collecting the dampness of the atmosphere and condensing it into a continuous and coplous supply

In the dry season when the rivers ere low and the heat great the tree's ower of condensing seems at the ghest and water falls in abundance om the leaves and oozes from the runk. The water spreads around in erliable rivers, part of which filters uto the soil and fertilizes it. These vers are canalized so as to regulate he course of the water.

It is estimated that one of the eruvian rain trees will on the averte yield nine gallons of water per ent. In a field of an area of one lometer square-that is, 3,250 feet ch way-can be grown 10,000 trees parated from each other by 25 This plantation produces illy 385,000 liters of water. If we low for evaporation and infiltration e have 135,000 liters or 29,531 galas of rain for distribution dally. be rain tree can be cultivated with ery little trouble, for it seems inlifferent as to the soil in which it The tree increases rapidly and resists both extremes of climate. -Espana Moderna.

The Texas Armadillo. During the last three years Drs. Newmand and Patterson of the school of zoology at the University of Texas have been much interested in working out certain points concerning the biology of the armadillo, probably the most unique animal in Texas. This little creature represents a migrating species which has in large numbers crossed the frontier of Texas from Mexico and now inhabits the greater

The point of special interest in the piology of the armadillo lies in its peculiar method of development. Drs. Newman and Patterson have found out that the Texas armadillo normally gives birth to four young and that the individuals of any given litter are invariably of the same sex; that is, they are either all males or all females, never mixed.-Houston Post.

British Saints.

December 1 appears from old calentheir names. It is the Feast of St. "patron" of Hawarden and gave his name to the library which Mr. Gladstone established there. This date is also the "memorial" of the saints of the Isle of Bardsey, which was the long of Wales, and formerly a favorite place of pilgrimage. A farm on the opposite mainland still remains tithe free because anciently charged with the expense of supplying rest and refreshment to weary pilgrims bound for Bardsey.-Westminster Gazette.

Any one who wants to start a ynching in Ouray could do it by killing one of the big mountain sheep that come down to the town for food in cold weather.

They are to be seen every winter morning near the railroad station and are becoming very tame. People have approached them closely enough to obtain good snapshots. The citizens of Ouray look upon them as community pets. Last winter the Ouray Commercial Club provided food for them regularly.-Ouray correspondence Denver Times.

The Furs Capital. Consul Theodosius Botkin writes rom Campbellton, New Brunswick, that he knows of no community where the women, old and young, were so generally supplied with fur sets, fur suits and fur cloaks as were those in that city prior to the recent fire. How He Timed His Talk.

A successful salesman for a hardware line of goods had a novel way ast season of exciting at least a monentary interest in his prospective ustomers in the new territory he had een given. On entering the office of is prospect his first remark was: "Mr. Smith, we are both business en with whom time is money. 1 only ask for three minutes of yours. I can only give you three minutes of mine. Let's be sure we keep to s limit.

Thereupon he pulled from his ocket quickly and placed on the desk of his hearer, well within his vision and reach, a neat little article of the same shape as and patterned after the well known hour glass, but containing only sand enough to require three minutes for its passage from the upper to the lower compartment. "You keep tab and don't let me overtalk the limit."-System.

The Isla of Leis, the principal sland of the Outer Hebrides, is to be sold by order of Major Matheson. Iu extent about 500,000 acres, the island provides sport with deer, grouse, woodcock and snipe and it has three salmon rivers. The principal mansion, known as Lewis Castle, standing in 600 acres of ground, overlooks Stornoway. It was visited by the late King Edward and Queen Alexandra in 1902. It has also been visited by King George, and the late Duke of Edinburgh on one occasion spent a week there. The population of the island is about 28,000, of which Stornoway has 4,000, the majority of the remainder being crofters.-London Evening Standard.

Steamer Hit Swor fish.

W. G. Hall while crossing the Hawaii Channel struck an enormous swordfish and the impact was so great that the sharp edges went through the planking of the vessel. it was necessary to put the Likelike on the run during the repairs.

When the story was told of course landsmen were sceptical of it and refused to belive that a swordfish could pierce even a wooden vessel, but it was pointed out that the fish could gather speed of fully sixty miles an hour. There is sufficient evidence to show that the fish damaged the boat.-Honolulu Star.
