Eight hundred dead is the average estimate of seven-eighths of Dayton's undertakers called together for FED IN DAYTON a conference. They reported eightytwo bodies had been recovered and now are at various places in the city. Individual estimates of the undertakers were from 500 to 1,000, but the City Faces Big Problem in consensus of opinion was that 800

Zanesville Wrecked.

There are only four known deaths in Zanesville as a result of the flood. The property loss in Zanesville is estimated at between $6,000,000 and $$,000,000. Water completely covered the "Y" bridge to a depth of fifteen feet. All the other bridges are washed out and it is said not another bridge remains standing between Zanesville and Marietta. The Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad stations are gone. Hundreds of buildings have been undermined and may topple at any moment.

Twenty Dead at Hamilton.

At Hamilton, O., search is being made for bodles of the flood victims. A conservative estimate places the dead at twenty. Suburbs on the north of Hamilton are in ruins. No smoking is permitted anywhere in Hamilton as the city is without fire protection. The militia is in complete control of the

STOCKS UNAFFECTED

New York Market Prepared For Morgan's Death.

New York, April 1 .- The news announcing the death of J. Pierpont Morgan was received in the financial district two hours before the opening of the stock exchange and found everybody prepared for the event.

The occurrence resulted in no commotion whatever in the London market either in the American department or in any other class of securities.

At the outset here prices were shaded a little bit. From the brief recession there was a vigorous rally followed in turn by a trickling decline and from then on until the end of business the market remained relatively quiet but firm and steady.

It may be truly said that the death of Mr. Morgan seemed to exercise no influence whatever upon quoted values. and that a person who had not learned of the fact otherwise could have in no way gathered from the action of the market that the greatest financial genius of modern times had passed Prominent Men Pay Tribute to Memory of Financier.

New York, April 1 .- The announce ment of the death of J. P. Morgan that he was suffering internally only brought forth tributes to his memory from men distinguished in almost all vocations of life.

Financiers of the world, bankers, vailroad men, industrial men, lawyers, ministers, physicians, men distinguished in belles lettres and men in public office spontaneously testified their appreciation of the commanding genius and wide unselfish public spirit of the man.

"We have lost our foremost financial magnate," was the word from Andrew Carnegie, "the man who insuired confidence and hence could gather around him the ablest and best counsellors during times of financial panics and prevent absolute ruin.
