He is survived by his wife; also by his father, Leonard Wray. The deceased was aged about 35 years. He was buried at Knox, the home of Mrs. Wray's

-Destructive forest fires that were raging up in Kingsley, Howe and Jenks townships last week were gotten fairly well under control toward the latter end of the week by the small army of men that had been fighting the elements, but not until much damage was done to timber and oil property, bundreds of scres having been burned over. Capt. Haight lost several rigs, and his large gasolene plant at Hastings was barely saved. Several hundred cords of chemical and pulp wood, and a large quantity of down timber were consumed by the raging fires.

-John Mercilliott, a lifelong citizen of Jenks township, died at his home in Marienville, Friday morning very suddealy following a stroke of paralysis. Mercilliott of Franklin, and Charles of Oil City. The deceased was one of Marienville's oldest residents and is the last of the original family to pass away. He was an bonorable man, highly respected in the community in which practically all of his life was spent,

-On the first page of the REPUBLICAN today will be found a broadgauge ad. concerning a broadgauge banking institution, to which special attention is directed. It will be seen that the Oil City Trust Co. furnishes, in accordance with a call from the Commissioner of Banking under date of May 1, a report which shows that this company has on deposit the astonishing amount of almost $4,100,-900, or, to put the proposition in fractions. $4.086,000. The assets exceed $5,000,000 exclusive of the trust funds of the institution, which amount to $1,186,000, a total of $6,189,000. The capital and surplus of this remarkably successful institution aggregate $970,000. Such an array of figures is almost beyond comprehension, and accentuates the flourishing condition one Oil City bank.

Recent Deaths.

STRAIN. Mrs. Nettie (Walford) Strain, many weeks of suffering, died at her home in Oil City Sunday morning, of cancer of the stomach. She was the daughter of our townsman, W. W. Walford, and was aged 38 years. Her first marriage was to a man named Vandermark, who died leaving three children, now aged: Mabel 19, Millard 17, and Zora 15. Her second marriage was to Michael Strain, well known in this community, to which union three children were born, Henry, Mary and Edward, aged respectively 13. daughter, of Jamestown, Pa., are guests 7, and 3 years. Connected with this death the Oil City Derrick of Monday tells. this pathetic story: "The mother begged to be taken from a comfortable bed in the Oil City hospital, where every possible care was taken of her, to a hare and desolate room, entirely unfurnished, save for a cot and a chair, in order that she tnight spend her last days with her three small children. The physicians of two bospitals having given up her case as hopeless, the woman asked to be taken to the dingy Eikhart, Ind., where he attended the two rooms that her husband had rented funeral of his aunt, the late Mrs. Alex- on Bridge street; so 10 days ago her wish was granted, and there she lingered until Sunday morning at 1:20 o'clock when marriage lisense on the 7th inst. to the death angel came and took her away,

When she passed away, her father, W. W.

her bedside." The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, with interment in Pinosk cemetery, near Oil City. ENGDAHL. Andrew John Engdahl, one of the highly respected residents of West Hickory, Pa., died at his home there at ten o'clock Sunday morning, May 11, 1913, after a long illness. He was born in came to America in October, 1881. He spent a short time in Sheffield, Pa., and a number of years in the west, principally in Minnesota. In 1886 he located in West Hickory, which was his home to a valued employe in the tannery of the Pennsylvania Hide and Leather Co. Being an expert workman and faithful in work as a teacher in the Curwensville the discharge of his duties, he was made foreman, holding the position for fourteen years. As soon as possible Mr. Engdahl became a citizen of his adopted country, being naturalized in the courts of Forest county, and was a good citizen in every sense of the word. He was frugal and industrious and until ill health compelled his retirement from active work he was never idle. As a kind husband and father, and a good neighbor, he will be greatly missed in the ommunity. For about ten years he was a great sufferer from asthma, which, with a complication of dropsy and heart trouble caused his death at the time stated. In early life he was confirmed in the Swedish Lutheran church, remaining faithful to the end; he was also a member of Tionesta Lodge, No. 369, I. O. O. F. April 21, 1888, in Titusville, Pa., Mr. Engdahl was united in marriage with Miss Marie Josephine Peterson, who survives him, together with these children all at home: Arthur Engdahl, Mrs. A. Rochelle, N. Y., attended church services H. Carson, Clarence and Josephine Engdahl. He is also survived by two brothers and one sister, namely: Peter C., of Fitzgerald, of Kane, Pa. The deceased had entered the hospital at her home Monday evening and submitted to an operation so trivial in its nature that she did not think it worth while to mention it to her most intimate friends. Complications arose, however, which rendered her condition extremely critical and her husband and parents were hastily summoned to her bedside, and they were with her till the end came, which was peaceful and painless. Death was caused by exhaustion from hemorages, which baffled the best medical skill. Few deaths have shocked and saddened so many hearts in this community where the deceased was reared to young womanhood, or at Kane where the past six or seven years of her life were spent. As a Tionests girl Emms early won and retained the admiration and esteem of all by her modest, yet cheery, lovable ways, and in womanhood and motherhood the beauty and grace of her character continued to grow ever more charming until her list of loval friends was bounded only by the circle of her acquaintanceships. Upon the parents, brothers, sisters and near relatives this death falls beavily, but to the devoted husband thus anddenly bereft of his sweet, loving companion, the blow comes with crushing sorrow, and in this, the darkest hour of his life, the deepest sympathy of a community which feels a share in the great loss, goes out to him in heartfelt tenderness and sincerity.

Born at Henrys Mills, in Warren county, Jan. 14, 1877, while her parents were temporary residents there, but who returned to Tionests a few weeks after that date, her life was spent here until her happy marriage with Mr. Fitzgerald, The following additional particulars Dec. 8, 1904, to which union were born been their home city.

Brief funeral services in memory of the gists. Adv. deceased were held at her late home in Kane Thursday evening by her pastor, Rev. George A. Sutton of the first Presbyterian church, of which she had been a devoted and useful member since her residence in Kane, and on Friday the funeral party came to Tionasta, being accompanied by Mrs. W. S. Calderwood, a very dear friend of the deceased, who had been her constant companion from the No. 21. beginning of her fatal illness. Saturday afternoon the funeral was held from the Lawrence home, and was attended by a very large concourse of relatives, friends and former neighbors. Rev. Mr. Sutton, assisted by Rev. H. A. Bailey of the Tionests church, conducted the services. His remarks were most appropriate, and in the hearts of all who heard it. The Presbyterian choir composed of Miss Lizzie Randall, Mrs. Alice Swanson, Mrs. H. A. Balley, Misses Kate Arner and Katharine Osgood, Mr. Jay N. Bankhead, Mr. Howard Donley and Dr. Bovard, sang "Nearer, My God, to thee," and the 23d Psalm. The members of the order of the Eastern Star, of which Mrs. Fitzgerald was a member, attended the foneral in a body.

Besides the parents, husband and children above mentioned, the deceased is survived by four brothers, Hart, Albert and Edward Lawrence of Tionesta, and John Lawrence of Vinita, Oklahoma, and two sisters, Mrs. J. D. Greaves of New Alexandria, Ps., and Mrs. Will H. Clark of Schnectady, N. Y., all of whom were present at the obsequies.

The funeral was in charge of Director Charles Smullen of Kane. Adler-Rochester and Clothcraft.

Masters of the tailoring art in their respective lines, and whom we represent in this city.

Taking this for granted, as you will if you are well posted, it only remains for you to come and make your selection.

We make a point of carrying unusually large assortments of models, patterns and shades-you don't have to take "something else" because the right thing is lacking.

A Word on Quality Never Comes Amiss

For quality is the foundation of satisfaction. There isn't a garment in our entire vast showing that we cannot conscientiously recommend for good materials and durable putting-together.
