THAT White House mind-bed should be done away with before it corrupts our Secretary of State, and others.—Blizzard.

The big institutions of learning of this state, and the lesser ones, too, for that matter, are displaying no particular modesty in asking for appropriations this year.

This quail is acknowledged to be the most valuable of all birds to the farmer. It is the greatest of all bug exterminators, and is also very fond of ants.

This is the positive statement of our truthful Brother Smith of the Pansu-lawney Spirit. If not sensational it surely is remarkable.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Johnston of Tionesta were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. DeForest Hunter, the parents of Mrs. Johnston.

A goodly number from this vicinity spent Saturday afternoon and evening in Pineville celebrating the birthday of Mrs. W. S. Clark, and reported a most enjoyable time.

Mrs. F. W. Dreyer spent Wednesday in Pleasantville, the guest of Mrs. Homer Bryner.

Mrs. A. C. Karnes drove over to Neilltown on Thursday.

Mrs. M. F. Catlin, Mrs. F. J. Henderson, Rev. Henry Smalinger and Dr. H. L. Davis appear on the program, so Kellettville will be pretty well represented at the convention.

Mrs. John Peterson and daughter Audra spent the week visiting friends at Mayburg.

Mrs. A. H. Downing returned home Saturday from a week's visit in Tionesta. Mrs. Wm. Sizle had her index finger taken off at the second joint Wednesday morning. The heavy rains have brought a number of large fish down the creek, which the boys have been quite successful in landing. Ray Weller caught a sucker which measured 16 inches. It is a long time since such fish have been caught in the creek here.

The trustees of the campmeeting held a meeting at the home of T. D. Collins in Nebraska, Saturday.

At an early hour Thursday morning a young stranger came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sager Watson seeking admission and by the broad smile Sager wore all day we decided it was all right, but when we saw him gravely surveying his new home several days after it almost seemed as though he thought it too small for such a fine fellow. But it was not long until he was seen unloading a load of lumber and they have given him the name of Gerald Elmer, so I guess they intend to let him stay.

Floida Kinch of Strobleton, who is in town attending summer school, visited her parents over Sunday. She was accompanied by Marjorie Nash and Esther Smalinger.

Recent Deaths.

PETTIGREW. Alexander Pettigrew, aged 79 years, died at his home at East Hickory, Friday afternoon, May 30, 1913, after an illness of about two weeks following a stroke of paralysis. He was born in Armstrong county and came to this section when a young man 58 years ago, entering the employ of H. Stow & Co., at what was then known as Stowtown, now Endeavor. Not long after this he was united in marriage with Miss Jeannette Kerr, who preceded him to the grave five years ago. Of the union three children survive, John K. Pettigrew of East Hickory, Mrs. E. S. Rudy of Kellettville, and Mrs. Thomas P. Karns, of Lamson, Alabama. After a short residence at Tylersburg Mr. Pettigrew moved to President, Pa., where he resided for 20 years prior to his return to East Hickory, which had been his home for the past 16 years. He was a man whom everybody respected, just and honorable in all his business dealings, a friend in time of need, and always jolly and good natured. Funeral services in his memory were conducted Sunday afternoon by Rev. W. W. Dale, and were attended by a very large concourse of neighbors and friends, following which his body was laid to rest beside that of his beloved wife in the East Hickory cemetery.

MORGAN. A telegram conveying the sad intelligence of the death of Frederick M. Morgan at his home in Denver, Colorado, on Sunday, June 1st, 1913, was received here Monday by his brother, James R. Morgan. The message gave no particulars further than to say the funeral would be held from his late home on Tuesday. It had been known for some time that Mr. Morgan was in delicate health, yet the announcement of his passing away was quite unexpected and has saddened the hearts of many Tionesta friends where the deceased had passed many years of his younger life and where he was always popular.

Mr. Morgan was born in Embleton, Pa., about 54 years ago and was the youngest of a family of 15 children of the late George and Elizabeth Morgan, four of whom survive, Mrs. Sarah Keating of Pittsburgh, George Morgan living in Ohio, James R., of Tionesta, and Wm. E. Morgan of Syracuse, N. Y. In the late 60's Fred came to Tionesta with the family and it was here his boyhood days were spent. When yet a vigorous young man he met with an accident which affected his spine and incapacitated him for much manual labor, but his failing strength never deprived him of his indomitable will and ambition which proved his strength and reliance in the years which followed, and which brought him success in business activities. After a couple of years spent at Bolivar, N. Y., he transferred his interests to Oil City, where he engaged in mercantile pursuits about the year 1886, in which city he was very successful and in which city he still held property interests up until his death. Failing health compelled him to seek a more congenial climate and about 15 years ago he moved to Denver which had since been his home, and where he had been successfully engaged in the hardware business.

It was while living in Oil City that he was united in marriage with Miss Della Naylor, who, with two daughters, Mildred and Elizabeth, survive. His devotion to his family and to the church of his faith, the Baptist, was ever steadfast and loyal, and it was in the service of these that he found his greatest joy and comfort. And it can truthfully be said that this devotion, love and loyalty was ardently reciprocated by the faithful wife and children, who never wavered in their solicitude for the ease and comfort of husband and father.

In all his list of acquaintanceships the writer has never known a morally better man, one who more nearly measured up to the standard of the ideal Christian gentleman, than he. Kind, generous, genial, just and sympathetic Fred, we shall miss him as few others who might have been taken. Peaceful be thy rest.

Digestion begins in the mouth. Food should be thoroughly masticated and insalivated. Then when you have a fullness of the stomach or feel dull and stupid after eating, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets. Death of Former Forest County Lady.

No doubt many of our readers will remember the lady mentioned in the following obituary taken from the Postville, Iowa, Review of May 30: "Loretta Range was born in Erie Co., Penn., May 4, 1836. Here her early life was spent, and when 14 years of age she moved with her parents to Forest Co., Penn. In 1858 she was married to John Tuttle. Two children were born to this union, Dorcas Marilla and George S., the daughter dying in her 19th year. Mr. Tuttle was killed at the battle of Fredericksburg, Dec. 30, 1862. In 1865 she came to Iowa and in the spring of 1866 she was married to Chas. Sonnkalb. Four children were born to this union—Theresa Kapler of Alberia, Canada; Charles, deceased; Milda Leui of Postville, and Bertha Meyer of Belle Plaine, Iowa. Mr. Sonnkalb died Jan. 15, 1882. Mrs. Sonnkalb resided on a farm in Grand Meadow township from the time of her second marriage until the spring of 1899, when she sold her farm and bought a home in Postville, where she has since resided. Seven weeks ago she went to the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Leui, where she remained until her death, which occurred Tuesday, May 20, 1913. The funeral was held from the home at two p. m. last Thursday, Rev. J. F. Childress officiating. Interment in the Grand Meadow cemetery. Deceased was a good mother, true friend and noble woman, loving and kind, charitable and unselfish. Earth is better that she lived, and heaven is richer for her coming home. Sympathy in full measure goes out to those bereft."
