The Lawrence foot bridge at the mouth of Tionesta creek is again in commission. It is practically a new bridge now, having been completely rebuilt. When a new pier is built in the center, it will be so high and staunch that no ordinary flood can damage it.

There's an opportunity for a high class man to get an exclusive and protected territory for the sale of the Sostmann Sanitary Sweeper (the one with the brush in the suction nozzle). It's proved a big seller, and will be advertised by us in your territory. For particulars address the Excelsior Drum Works, Camden, N. J.—Adv. 4t.

Frank Sebell, aged 63, died at his home at McDonald, Pa., June 15, 1913, where he had been a resident for the past 25 years. Prior to going to McDonald he had been a driller in the Balltown field in this county, and is still remembered by many friends in this section. He was a member of Olive Lodge, No. 557, Free and Accepted Masons of Tionesta; the Knights of the Maccabees of the World, and the First United Presbyterian church of McDonald. His widow and two sons survive. Funeral services were held yesterday with interment at Parker, Pa.

Monday was the hottest day of the season, and then some. At noon the thermometer registered an even 90 in the shade and between 2 and 3 o'clock four to six degrees were added, making the average temperature 95. That's hot enough to suit 'most any knocker, but a good soaking rain would be more welcome still.

Oil City's "booster week" campaign for members and funds for its new Chamber of Commerce ended in a blaze of glory Saturday night. When all accounts were summed up and a balance was struck it was found that 2,223 members were secured and a guarantee fund of $60,565 had been raised, exceeding the committee's aim of $50,000 by more than ten thousand dollars.

A new order from the Postoffice Department provides for the acceptance of "collect-on-delivery" parcels after July 1, providing the amount does not exceed $100. A premium of 10 cents in parcel post stamps must be paid by the sender, and the package is insured, free of charge, to its full value, up to $500. No examination of its contents will be allowed until it is received for and all charges paid.

Six logging cars broke away from the train crew on the Coleman, Harter & McCormick railroad one day last week and were badly wrecked when they jumped the track on a heavy grade. The accident happened near the logging camp on Hemlock creek and one of the cars struck and demolished a storage tank of the Blitken Oil Co., releasing about 25 barrels of oil. Luckily no one was hurt in the mixup.

Col. Robert B. Magee, one of Oil City's pioneer residents and for a number of years one of its most prominent citizens, died Saturday at the Soldiers' Home in Erie. He was a civil war veteran and for a number of years he was a colonel in the National Guard, his command being one of the first located in the oil country. The body will be brought to Oil City and buried with military honors. As a warm-hearted, genial and good-natured man Col. Magee will be remembered by a host of friends.

Lanson Bros. shipped out from their grist mill to Volant, Pa., last Saturday the first car load of wheat ever shipped from Tionesta. The shipment amounted to 1,000 bushels and was all native wheat. For a number of years the mill here has depended entirely on the home grown variety and at this time had such a large surplus on hand that part of it had to be disposed of before being ground. This is a pretty good indication that Forest county farmers are improving conditions on their farms and raising more wheat.

The open season for bass and other game fish was ushered in Monday with more or less ado, but with a whole lot less doing in the way of big catches. The only landing worth while was by Alex. Thomson, who lifted the big 4 pound bass that has for the past month excited the envy of pedestrians as they passed and to our fover the river bridge. We don't count ourselves much as a bass-fisher, but we just have to go out occasionally and show the boys how it is done. But as yet we haven't noticed any symptoms coming on.

Miss Marjorie Wilkins of Titusville, whose serious illness of typhoid fever in a Florida hospital was heretofore noted in these columns, died Monday, after seven weeks' suffering. The young lady was aged about 19 years, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Wilkins, were former residents of West Hickory, in which community she was well known and very highly respected as one of the town's best young girls. Besides the parents she is survived by one brother, Fred. G. Wilkins. Her remains will be brought to Titusville for burial.

Miss Marie Brehm, of Chicago, Ill., who has been secured to speak at the Forest County Teachers' Institute, Oct. 29, was an honor guest at a brilliant reception held recently in the Conestoga Building, Pittsburg. Miss Brehm will sail later in the month for Europe to attend the World's Sunday School Convention in Zurich, Switzerland, where she will make an address. She will also give a report of temperance education in the schools of the United States before the World's Congress on Alcoholism, in Milan, Italy, Sept. 22 to 28.

G. G. Gaston has begun work on the remodeling of his home which stands on one of the prettiest lots in this pretty little city. The house will be considerably enlarged, raised to a higher foundation, and otherwise much modernized. He has purchased sufficient building stone for his needs from the M. E. church people, and the same are being taken out of the wall that has for so many years fronted the old church-yard, and expects to get enough dirt from excavating and lowering of the "hump" to grade his lot so as to comport with his raised house.

Last Thursday while leisurely driving his car over the road leading from the Hickory bridge to the village above, Bert Stiles got into a mixup with the deep sand and before he knew it the blamed machine was trying to climb a telephone pole on the opposite side of the road. The auto was too much for the pole which toppled over, but before doing so it administered enough kicks on the car to put it out of commission for a bit, and Bert was not quite so handsome as before the mishap, nor was he any wiser, for to this day he doesn't know just how the pesky machine cut up such a miserable caper in so short a time.

Saturday George Monday of Hunter Station killed a rattlesnake without the slightest qualms of conscience, for Mr. Rattler tried to do it to him first and only failed by a hair's breadth. George had occasion to pass from one field to another on his farm and as he stooped to crawl through a fence the reptile made a spang at his face, his venomous fangs just grazing George's nose. The snake's tenth part of an inch nearer and George would in all likelihood have been a corpse before an ordinary Monday dawned upon him. And so we say, he was in fine humor to slaughter that snake with the utmost promptitude.

A Paying Occupation. We are desirous of securing an active, energetic representative, in this county, to represent one of the oldest and best American Companies. To such a man an exceptionally liberal (and actual) contract is offered. Address, Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., Agency for North-western Pennsylvania, William M. Cole, General Agent, 508 Marize National Bank Building, Erie, Pa. Adv. 1t.

Prof. C. F. Feit, of Kane, is visiting Tionesta relatives and friends for a few days. Supt. J. O. Carson is in Edinboro this week as one of the State's examiners at the Normal School.

Mrs. J. E. Wenk is spending the week with her mother, Mrs. S. M. Whitehill, at Marienville. Parke Stokes, of Toronto, Ohio, is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Emma S. Pierce, at the Hotel Weaver.

Mrs. R. O. Carson, of Neiltown, was a guest at the home of her son, S. T. Carson, last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hepler, of Franklin, were guests over Sunday at the home of his brother, J. L. Hepler.

Joseph Green, of West Hickory, was one of our pleasant callers while attending to business at the county seat yesterday.

Mrs. J. A. Chappell and Miss Edna Chappell, of Sandy Lake, Pa., are here for a visit with Mrs. P. Moor and Mrs. Boris.

Mrs. L. Fulton, of Danbury, Conn., is enjoying a visit with her many Tionesta friends as the guest of her son, E. A. Fulton, at the Central Hotel.

County Commissioner H. H. McClellan, Leo F. Keating, Al. Hoover and Wm. E. Niece motored over from Marienville yesterday and were transacting business here.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kelly and young daughter, of Chicago, are here to spend their annual two weeks' vacation and Ben expects again to establish a new record for bass fishing during his stay.

Rev. W. S. Burton's class of sixteen members in the Nebraska Sunday School drove down by tallyho last evening and spent a very pleasant hour with the minister and his family at the Methodist parsonage.

D. W. Clark, artist, and T. F. Ritchey and J. T. Carson, viewers, are up in Howe township this week looking over the ground with a view to relocating a road leading from the Porter farm to the Jenks township line.

Mrs. Bart Wiles and two children left Tuesday for Falconer, N. Y., for a few weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. C. A. Becker, of Mt. Savage, Md., who is visiting her sister and her grandfather, W. W. Walford, went with her for a few days.

Fred Scowden, accompanied by Misses Essie and Genevieve Scowden, drove over from Meadville Monday evening on learning of his brother's illness, and was glad to find him much improved. He returned yesterday, leaving Miss Essie with her father for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scowden were called to Clarion last Wednesday to the bedside of their daughter, Miss Bertha, one of this year's graduates from the Normal school, who was seriously ill with appendicitis. She was better when they arrived and is again able to be about.

W. S. Beers went to Pittsburg Monday with the intention of consulting specialists in regard to the condition of his young son, Winfield, who was left a cripple through a serious attack of infantile paralysis several years ago. He may stop on the way to consult Bonessier Reese.

Mrs. Charles H. Hunter entertained the large party of Franklin guests of Mrs. Clark, with local friends, in a six o'clock dinner at her pleasant home on the West Side, one evening during the past week. She was assisted in this function by Mrs. W. H. Hunter and Mrs. F. P. Amster.

Sunday evening about eight o'clock County Commissioner J. C. Scowden was stricken suddenly and violently ill with an acute attack of indigestion, and for a time his suffering was most intense. Relief came later in the evening by the aid of heroic remedies, and while still distressed he is able to be about again. It was a close call.

Miss Mary Thompson and her niece, Miss Alice McCullough, of Nebraska, departed Monday for Portland, Oregon, expecting if suited with the country to make their home in the Pacific coast states. Many Forest county friends will wish the young ladies abundant success in their adopted home and in whatever vocation they may become engaged.

Wilson King, of Church Hill, was a caller at the REPUBLICAN office Monday. He reported more or less damage by the recent frosts to all crops excepting that of the rattlesnake yield, which he thinks will be fully up to the average, although there will be at least one less since last Sunday, when he dispatched one that sported thirteen full grown and well developed rattles.

One of the happy girls who successfully passed her grade in the school in Erie city last week is Miss Corinne Wyman. When she entered the school she was assigned to the same grade she had left here, and upon completion of her work in that grade was allowed to skip one and enter the second higher. In this grade she finished with the highest mark in the class. Tally another for a Tionesta girl from the Tionesta school.

Harvey Lynch, an old friend and a former well known resident of Endeavor, sends us a highly artistic postal illustrative of the wonderful city of Tacoma, Wash., and extends this invitation: "Better come out 'Festo Week,' July 28, and see the finest Stadium in the world, city water plant 35 miles away, city power plant, and many other good things in this great country, including Mt. Ranier, etc." We'd like mightily to accept that bid, Harvey, but the dust is awful and the walking bad. Thanks.

Rev. F. W. Bible occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church Sunday evening, and in a brief talk gave the congregation some entirely new ideas of the Republic of China, in which great country he has been doing missionary work for the past ten years. He predicts great things for the people of that wonderful nation now that they have thrown off the yoke of monarchy and taken on the republican form of government, patterning largely after the United States as they have done. Mr. Bible's boyhood days were passed in Tionesta, and after the meeting a large portion of the congregation gathered about the rostrum to extend greetings and a hearty welcome, and express their pride in a Tionesta boy who has surely "made good."

Two Barns Struck By Lightning. During a severe electrical storm which passed over that section Sunday night the large farm barn, 32x42, belonging to George Norton and located on Church Hill, was struck by lightning about 10:30 o'clock, and was entirely consumed by the fire which ensued. All the contents, consisting of a mowing machine, many farming implements, and one pig, were burned up. By extraordinary efforts Mr. Norton succeeded in rescuing one pig from the burning building. Mr. Norton had barely finished remodeling his barn, having replaced the roof which was blown off by a windstorm early this spring. He carried $400 insurance on the building and $200 on the contents in the Farmers' Mutual company through the Arner Agency, which only partially covers his loss.

In the same evening about nine o'clock the farm barn of George Burhens, located on his farm on the road leading from the Whig Hill road down Ross run to Tionesta creek, Kingsley township, was struck by a bolt of lightning, knocking a hole in the roof about a foot square and then following the lightning rod to the ground. The building was not fired by this stroke, and no damage, except as noted, was done.

Suicide Near Tylersburg. Peeved over a difference existing between himself and Mr. and Mrs. Smith, who were keeping house for him on a farm in Farmington township, Clarion county, J. H. Brown, aged 58, committed suicide Friday afternoon by shooting himself in the mouth with a revolver. The ball passed through the roof of his mouth and top of his head and lodged in the ceiling above him.

Last October the deceased came from Rockland, Ill., and purchased the George Sigworth farm, which is located near Tylersburg. Accompanying him were Smith and wife, who allege to have had a verbal agreement with the gentleman to keep house for him and assist in the farm work for a share of the profits of the place. Matters moved smoothly enough until a few days ago when Brown refused to give any part of the proceeds to Smith, who threatened legal proceedings.

On Friday Brown went to Tylersburg, from which place he forwarded by parcel post a copper teakettle, which he claimed was a hundred and forty years old, and some old coins to a niece in the west. Returning to the farm house he went into the kitchen and, seating himself in a chair placed the muzzle of the revolver in his hand and pulled the trigger. Mrs. Smith was in the room at time, but the action was so sudden that she was unable to prevent it.

The body was shipped Saturday to Allegan county, Michigan, where a sister of the deceased is living. No inquest was deemed necessary by the authorities.

Kills His Friend Then Himself. An appalling tragedy was enacted at the sand plant five miles below Cochran on the Franklin branch of the Erie railroad late Monday afternoon.

After holding a Sheriff's posse at bay all night Edward Bartholomew, aged 60 years, slashed his throat with a razor yesterday morning in a shanty in which he had barricaded himself, at the plant.

He had evidently provoked a quarrel with his friend Samuel Crowther, who was superintendent of the plant. Bartholomew had been away the day before and had been drinking heavily, but had gone to work as usual Monday morning, being the engineer at the plant.

No one knows what the quarrel was about, but Bartholomew, in a fit of frenzy, ran after Crowther some distance and shot at him with a revolver. The latter turned and begged his assailant to spare his life, but the crazed man shot him down and after he had fallen fired three more bullets into the prostrate body of his erstwhile friend. He then went back to the shanty which both had occupied previous to the quarrel, and ended his own life as stated. The shooting was witnessed by a number of Austrian laborers, who ran in fright and pelted alarm.

Both men were residents of Cochran. Crowther was never married. Bartholomew was once an engineer on Erie railroad, and his brother, M. B. Bartholomew, is at present a popular conductor on the Franklin branch. The dead man was a widower and leaves three children living in Pittsburg.

On The Other Side of The Globe. George W. Mong who sailed from San Francisco six weeks ago for the Burma oil fields with a number of friends sends us a number of souvenir post cards depicting scenes of interest along this great voyage, and writes as follows from Singapore as follows under date of May 15, 1913:

"We are all well and happy. Arrived here on the 12th of May and will sail today at 4 o'clock. There are nine of our party and we expect to reach Rangoon about the 25th, and get to the oil fields about June 23; as near as we can figure it.

Will write you from there when we get settled. Singapore is a very pretty place and a large city with a population of 250,000, located on the southern extremity of the Malay peninsula. It is very warm here, but has rained a little every night since we landed. Everything is so different from the States, but very beautiful. The public parks are certainly grand. I have surely enjoyed the voyage thus far with no sea sickness for me yet, and I think I will get through without any, the grub being the worst thing we have to contend with. I have but one thing to ask of you at this time, and that is, I want my paper sent to me if there is a possible chance to get it. Send to Rangoon, India, care Burma Oil Co., and I will pay all extra charges gladly. Will write you when I get settled. With kindest regards to all, G. W. Mong."

We shall make haste to place George on the REPUBLICAN'S mailing list for no doubt even a yellow dog from the States would look good to him.

Bowling Alley for Sale. A first class bowling alley for sale cheap. Double alley. Everything connected in good condition. Address, G. A. McDaniel, Tionesta, Pa. Adv. 1t.

The June Sale at the Monarch Clothing Co's store is still going merrily on, and many are taking advantage of the fine bargains offered. A broad gauge invitation will be found on page one of this paper. Read it. Adv.

Matrimonial. M'CAULEY CALDWELL. Earl G. McCaulley of Oil City, and Miss Velma Caldwell of Elberta, Pa., were married by legal acknowledgment before Clerk of Courts Maxwell Wednesday of last week.

HOOD-FULTON. Miss Frances Fulton, daughter of Robert Fulton, the well known retired P. R. passenger conductor of Oil City, and Archie Hood, formerly of West Hickory, but of late employed at the Empire refinery at Reno, were married at Christ P. E. church, Oil City, at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning, 11th inst. After a trip over the Great Lakes they will spend several months in Oil City and then go to Pittsburgh, where the groom has prepared to take a course in a dental college.

MASTERSON-WIKIAL. The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Welkall on Fleming Hill, Harmony township, was the scene of a pretty June wedding, Thursday afternoon last, June 12th, 1913, when their charming daughter, Miss Marian Etta, became the bride of Mr. Roy Masterson, a worthy young Oil City gentleman. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Hetrich of Dempey town, and was witnessed by about twenty-five guests. At the conclusion of the ceremony the company was served with a five o'clock course dinner. The happy newlyweds left on the evening train for a brief honeymoon trip which will include Buffalo, Niagara Falls and other cities in Western New York, bearing with them the well wishes of a host of friends for a happy and prosperous future. The tokens of friendship bestowed upon the bride were many and beautiful, including silver, china and linen. Upon their return the couple will reside near Oil City in a home already prepared for their reception.

ANDERSON CRAIG. In the presence of a few close friends of the contracting parties at the home of the bride, near Sligo, Pa., Prof. Charles A. Anderson and Miss Anna B. Craig were united in marriage Thursday, June 5, 1913. The bride was attended by her brother, Roll Craig, and the groom's brother John P. Anderson, of New York, acted as best man. The ring service of the Methodist Episcopal church was read by the officiating minister, Rev. C. J. Zetter, of Falls Creek. After a sumptuous wedding dinner the happy couple boarded the train for an extended honeymoon trip, embracing points of interest in and about New York, after which they will proceed to Washington, Philadelphia and Harrisburg. Mrs. Anderson is a graduate in the regular course of the Clarion Normal and in the music and art department of Westminster College. She has had charge for several years of the primary work in the Big Run school. Prof. Anderson is also a graduate of the Clarion Normal and has been for some time principal of the Big Run schools to which he has been re-elected. He is a native of Forest county, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Anderson of Brookston. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will make their home in Big Run, where they will be at home to their friends after September first.

Some Tionesta Creek Scenery To Be Preserved For The Future. Travelers up and down the beautiful valley of Tionesta creek have had good reason to exclaim over the grandness of the scenery as shown in her forest covered hills and valleys. One of the particularly beautiful spots in this respect is in the pretty village of Nebraska, creek and directly facing the village there yet stands one of the few remaining growths of virgin timber. In this are shown all the varying shades of green of the stately pines and hemlocks as well as the sturdy hardwoods. As travelers gazed on this natural picture the sad thought would intrude that in a few years the ruthless axe of the woodsman would lay it low, leaving nothing but a blackened waste of hillside. For years it has been in the mind of Mr. T. D. Collins, of the firm of Collins, Darrab & Co., to make a permanent reserve of this tract and the public generally will be pleased to know that this is now taking definite form. For several days Mr. F. F. Whitekin of Tionesta has been at Nebraska surveying out a plot of ground on which the timber shall remain standing if arrangements can be satisfactorily made. We hope that Mr. Collins can persuade his partners to see the project as he does and that this one beauty spot almost at our very doors will be left to gladden the eyes of future generations as they travel the roads in this, the most beautiful valley in all this section.
