20,000 MASSACRED

Americans and Englishmen Among Bulgarian's Victims.

With the occupation by the Greek army of the town of Xanthi it is reported that it was found to have been pillaged by the retreating Bulgarian army early in the month and all the inhabitants, including seventy foreigners, among them Americans and English, massacred.

Twenty thousand Greeks and many Mussulmans and Jews are said to have been killed before the town was pillaged.

The Greek bishop and a score of leading citizens were carried away by the Bulgarians and are supposed to have been killed later.

The fate of Xanthi has been in doubt since July 15. At that time two Greek armies were attempting to overtake and intercept the retreating Bulgarians before they could take Xanthi. The Bulgarians had sworn to wipe out the town. The Greek troops failed to arrive before the Bulgarians. The arrival of the Greek army disclosed the fulfillment of the Bulgarian vow against Xanthi.

TEDDY MAY STAY AWAY YEAR

Australia Likely to Be Added to the Colonel's Itinerary.

Perhaps Colonel Roosevelt is to be away from this country for a year. A report was in circulation that when he finished his visit to South America he will go to Australia and that the two trips will take up the better part of a year. It was reported also that when the colonel gets back he will retire as contributing editor of the Outlook.

"It is true that intimations have been received that the Australian want Mr. Roosevelt," said Mr. Abbott of the Outlook, "but thus far he has received no direct invitation. There is not much doubt that he is considering going there but I am certain that nothing is settled yet."

FOUND IT HARD TO CUT TARIFF

Senator Williams Admits Logic Is Lacking

BLAMES REPUBLICANS FOR IT

Manufacturing Leg of Tariff Stills Is Longer Than Agricultural Leg, Complains Senator Cummins in Debate.

Senator Williams of Mississippi in the tariff debate said the Democrats had found it difficult to deal logically with the tariff because the industrial conditions had been placed on high stilts by years of Republican protection.

"I am prompted Senator Cummins to ask why the Democrats had not cut off a little of both stilted legs, 'instead of leaving the industrial body crippled with the manufacturing leg longer than the agricultural leg.'"

Senator Williams replied that they were "afraid it would kill the poor thing" to walk straight all at once.

"You have put the country on stilts," said Senator Williams, addressing the Republicans. "We can't reduce the duties in one bill all that we would like to on account of the chaotic artificial condition you have created. We cannot run a thread of logic through this bill for that very reason."

"I agree with the senator from Mississippi that the Payne-Aldrich law gave the American legs stilts that were too high, but I think the way to correct the trouble is to saw off a fair length from both legs. But the senator from Mississippi would saw off one leg entirely and leave the other where it was, thus leaving a very disjointed and perverted industrial body. He should leave the agricultural leg no shorter than the manufacturing leg."

"Well," said Senator Williams, "we found the poor thing with one leg already longer than the other and we took off proportionately from the long leg, but still the poor crippled thing will have to go stumbling along."

"But you should equalize the legs," said Senator Cummins.

"Oh, we struck a fellow so in the habit of walking with one leg longer than the other that we were afraid it would kill him if both legs were made exactly even," Senator Williams retorted, arousing laughter of the Democrats.

Senator Bristow declared that in the pending bill the Democrats had "deliberately and outrageously discriminated against the farmer in favor of the manufacturer."

"Does the senator mean to say," asked Senator Williams, "that the Democrats of the house and senate deliberately got up a scheme to injure the American farmer?"

"I would not want to attribute to the senator from Mississippi and his colleagues such an unworthy purpose," replied Senator Bristow, "but I say they have framed a bill which does."

SLAB ON EDITOR'S GRAVE

Is Make-up Stone Used For Fifty Years in Newspaper Office.

One of the most remarkable grave-stones on record was placed in the cemetery in Jefferson, O. It stands at the head of the grave of J. A. Howells, veteran editor of the Ashland Sentinel, who died recently. It consists of a "makeup" stone used by Howells for fifty years during his successive evolutions as printer's devil, printer and editor.

On it is inscribed a verse written by William Dean Howells, a brother of the dead man. The boyhood of William Dean Howells was spent in the office of the Sentinel.

Militiamen Hurt in Wreck.

Twelve members of the Eighth regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, were injured in a trolley accident near Selins Grove, Pa. Three of the injured. Quartermaster Sergeant Virgil Kennedy and Artiller A. Sponsor of Harrisburg, and Private Henry Wright of Mahoning City are in a serious condition. Two trolley cars met head-on.

Boy Found in Pitiable Plight.

Constable William Hall and Justice of the Peace M. D. Lehner were called to the home of Michial Zodaic in Wick-boro, Pa., where they found Zodaic's son, William, aged twelve, entirely nude and locked in an outhouse, where he had been kept for forty-eight hours without food or water. Zodaic was arrested.

STRONG DEMAND SENT TO MEXICO

Shooting of American Official in Juarez Arouses Capital

AMBASSADOR AT WHITE HOUSE

Administration's New Policy in Mexican Affairs Soon to Be Announced, Capital Thinks—Situation Critical.

If another scrap of evidence were needed to demonstrate that the Mexican situation is sadly in need of a remedy the administration has it now in the shooting of Charles Dixon, United States immigration inspector, by federal soldiers at Juarez.

The Dixon shooting was made the occasion of the most vigorous representations yet ordered by the department of state. Aside from the gravity of the incident in itself the wantonness and reckless defiance of the United States which inspired the occurrence has proven to Washington that the United States, its authority and its representatives are being regarded with contempt in Mexico.

Representations were made both to the military authorities at Juarez, and to the responsible authorities of the Huerta government in Mexico City. Peremptory demands were made for speedy reparation and redress for the offense.

Cousul Edwards at Juarez has demanded the arrest and confinement of all the federal officers and soldiers concerned in the shooting of Dixon. It is not known definitely in Washington whether his demands have been acceded to. Mr. Edwards has also been busy gathering the names of witnesses to the shooting and seeing that these witnesses were not spirited away. He also demanded that permission be granted for the removal of Dixon to an El Paso hospital.

Charge d'Affaire O'Shaughnessy in Mexico City has been instructed by Secretary Bryan to call at once on the minister of war in Mexico City and demand that all concerned in the shooting of Dixon be imprisoned immediately. He was also directed to demand that the trial of the offenders proceed forthwith. He informed the minister of war of what the American consul at Juarez was doing in the case and insisted that every facility be extended to him to expedite the apprehension and proper punishment of all concerned.

It is confidently expected that the Huerta government will not be slow to express its extreme regret at the occurrence and to expedite the punishment of the guilty parties.

Though the Dixon incident would have been an affair of serious consequence at any time it is felt that the ultimate effect on the situation is likely to be increased coming as it does at the most critical moment in Mexican relations in recent years.

Washington feels that it is on the eve of a momentous decision upon the part of the administration in regard to Mexico. What that decision will be nobody seems to know, but that it will be a turning point in the situation no one doubts. Out of the tension of the last few days has come unanimity in regard to at least one fact in the Mexican trouble and that is that something must be done and done at once.

Even Secretary of State Bryan, who has been reluctant to admit the gravity of the Mexican situation, now holds this view.

Ambassador to Mexico Wilson met the president and urged as a cardinal principle of his policy the recognition of the Huerta government and other steps calculated to throw the entire support of this government to the side of the Huerta government and to the discouragement of all the movements in opposition to him. On the other side nonrecognition has been and still is the cardinal principle of the Wilson administration.

Senator Bacon and other powerful men in the senate and house are fully in sympathy with this course and all the propositions which have received the most serious consideration at the White House have involved a continuance of this policy. It is difficult to see therefore how the ambassador can get very far toward convincing the administration of the wisdom of his course with this apparently irreconcilable difference of opinion as to fundamentals encountered at the very outset.

Mr. Wilson believes that the plan which he has presented for the approval of the administration will not only protect the lives and the property of Americans in Mexico, but that it will have such a markedly favorable influence upon the two countries bordering on the Rio Grande that all the present alarming symptoms of friction and possible conflict will shortly disappear. The ambassador not only believes that this plan will compose the situation, but that nothing else will.

THREE KILLED IN CABIN CREEK

Mine Guards Are Fired Upon; Strikers Blamed

PARTY ATTACKED SUDDENLY

Wounded Guard Shoots Down Two Before He Dies—Sheriff With Dogs Goes into Hills Hunting Assaultants

Three men were killed and another was fatally wounded in a battle which occurred at Wake Forest, on Cabin creek, West Virginia, when an attack was made by a party alleged to be striking miners on two mine watchmen.

The dead are: Frank Ginn, employe of the Wake Forest Mining company; Cleve Woodruff, a striker; Don Slater, an employe of the coal company.

An unidentified striker was wounded.

Since the mining town of Ohley, on Cabin creek, was attacked by strikers three weeks ago it has been the custom for the operators to have watchmen scout the hillsides before the miners are allowed to enter the mines where a strike is on.

Slater, who served several years as a deputy sheriff on Cabin creek, and who has acted as a guard for the coal companies, accompanied by Ginn, was making the usual search when a band opened fire on them.

Ginn fell fatally wounded and Slater was shot through the leg. Slater returned the fire, killing two of the attacking party and recognizing a third, who is reported to be under arrest. Slater was shot through the stomach later.

The Wake Forest mine is under the control of the Cabin Creek Consolidated Coal company, against whose mines a strike has been called by the United Mineworkers of America. Reports that strikers have been arming themselves around the strikers' camps at Eskdale and elsewhere have been received frequently by Sheriff Hill the past few weeks.

"NO RIGHTS, NO CITIZENS"

Dr. Bernstein Fathers "Birth Strike" Idea in Germany.

The declaration of a "birth strike" was suggested at a meeting held to discuss the advisability of a general strike as the best means of bringing about electoral reforms in Prussia. The father of the idea was Dr. Alfred Bernstein, who declared that most successful pressure would be exerted on the government if mothers would announce:

"We will bring no children into the world to become citizens of this state unless better rights of citizenship are recorded."

The slogan of the mothers could be "No rights, no citizens," said Dr. Bernstein.

TURKEY SPOILS THE PLANS

Everything Was Going Along Nice in Balkans, Too.

Just when the situation in the Balkans seemed to be taking a most favorable turn, Bulgaria having recognized the fact of her defeat and being willing to negotiate for peace, a new situation was caused by the reappearance of Turkey on the scene and the whole affair has now taken a most serious aspect.

A feeling approaching consternation has been caused by a report that the Turks were advancing toward Philippopolis and it is understood that King Ferdinand of Bulgaria has asked for the intervention of the powers.

Woman Farmer Killed.

Mrs. Poyers Reed, aged fifty-six, died from injuries received in falling from a load of hay near Franklin, Pa. Farmhands are so scarce in that section that women are helping getting in the crops and Mrs. Reed was on a hayrack assisting her husband when the horses ran away. The wagon upset and the woman alighted on her head, fracturing her skull. She died unconscious.

Remnant Day, the largest, most renowned, and most effective means utilized by any store to dispose of the season's accumulations brought thousands from the country-wide to the store July 25th and 26th.

After the hubbub and excitement of this extraordinary event was over, large quantities of merchandise remain—the kinds of wearables for men, women and children left in the wake of the greatest sale this store ever held.

In the great mass of merchandise gathered for the Remnant Sale, and only two days to sell it in, there were hundreds and hundreds of garments and articles, wearables and usables "snowed under," and now we find thousands of dollars' worth of goods which must be sold, no matter what the loss.

It will pay you handsomely to make a special trip to the store within the next fortnight, and note some of the values.
