Autumn Suit Displays

Await You Here.

A Showing That Includes Every New Material.

No need to go to the big cities for an insight into the wonderful variety of weaves which fashion is favoring this fall.

A half hour spent here in Oil City's finest Appareling Section will show every one of the numberless weaves about which you've read in the fashion books, and which you have a natural curiosity to view.

We are ready to show you, among others, new tailored suits of Duvetyn, Baby Lamb, Cut Velour, Bayadere Broadcloth, Chiffon Broadcloth, Kitten's Ear, Matelasse, Wafel Eponge, Brocade Eponge, Ottoman Cloth, Wide Wale Cheviot, &c.

The variety of weaves this fall is the greatest in history. That is why we suggest an early inspection of these suits, to the woman who would keep well posted on the styles. Tailored Suits all the way from $11.75 to $85.00.

Ready With The Latest In New Trimmings.

Ready to show you beautiful examples of every style of trimming which Fashion has favored this fall, but to describe them here—well, that is another matter. For the colorings are so rich and harmonious; the patterns are so beautiful; the styles, in colored trimmings and in laces, are so exquisite and so varied; that you must view them for yourself, if you would gain an adequate idea of their charm.

May we make you acquainted with them?

Job Sticks to Him.

Lynn H. First, postmaster at Henrys Bend, a summer colony near Oil City, Pa., has a job which he wants to let go of and can't. Despite numerous letters to the postoffice department he has not been able to get an order to close the office. The receipts for the last two weeks have not averaged two cents a day.

Neither Get 51 Per Cent.

Joseph G. Armstrong and Stephen G. Porter, both candidates on the Republican ticket for mayor of Pittsburg, were nominated at the primaries. Neither man was able to get the necessary 51 per cent and the battle will now be fought out in the November election.

Child Eats Poisoned Bread; Dies.

As a result of eating bread which had been saturated with poison, Glenn Curtis Wilson, three-year-old son of Policeman Bryant C. Wilson of Greensburg, Pa., died. The bread had been placed in the collar of the Wilson home to rid the place of rats.

Loose Tonneau Kills Autoist.

E. P. Connelly of Brooklyn, N. Y., was killed when pitched headlong from a speeding automobile at Wendersville, Pa. E. F. Gaylor of Woodhaven, L. I., and E. G. Heines of Philadelphia were slightly injured. The tonneau was detached.

Girl Saw Too Many Films.

Placing the cost on the mother of Miss Edna Moore of Pittsfield, Pa., and declaring that the girl undoubtedly had attended too many moving picture shows and therefore suffered hallucinations, the jury in the case of George Wilson, charged with misdemeanor, and George Gordon, charged with sending threatening letters, decreed that the young men were not guilty. The girl was found several weeks ago in the Moore home with her hands tied.

Time He Quit.

"See here, young man," said the angry father, "how many times have I told you that I don't want you to call on my daughter?"

"Oh," replied the suitor coolly, "about twenty."

"Well," said the exasperated parent, "don't you think that's about enough?"

"Yes, I do," was the reply. "When are you going to quit?"—Magazine of Fun.

Unsettled.

"I want some sort of present for a young lady."

"Yes, sir—fiancee or sister?"

"Er—why—she hasn't said which she will be yet."—Exchange.

POISON AND KNIFE FOR INCURABLES

Rev. Schmidt Says He Planned Huge Job of Killing

DOES NOT FEAR ELECTRIC CHAIR

Trial to Be Set For Next Month—Insanity Can Be Schmidt's Only Defense, Says Attorney For Prisoner.

"I don't see why there is so much red tape about this. I'm ready this minute to go to the electric chair. Anybody who thinks that this life is worth while is mistaken. I have faced death many times and would face the chair without a quiver of a muscle."

So Rev. Hans Schmidt, the confessed murderer of Anna Amuller, told his counsel, Alphonse G. Koelble, when the latter visited him in the Tombs in New York.

He declared that not only was he alone responsible for the killing of the girl he loved, but he had been planning to do away with the hopelessly insane, the permanently crippled and diseased incurables by poison or the knife.

The book of certificates issued by the board of health had already convinced Inspector Faurot and his men working on the case that Schmidt had hit upon what he believed an easy way of getting his victims under ground without exciting suspicion.

Koelble said he was sure Schmidt's cool admission of his plan to put folks out of their misery for their own good was further admission of his insanity.

"Schmidt showed spirit for the first time," said Lawyer Koelble. "He was mad and very excited. He was disturbed because he said the newspapers were dragging in innocent people and touching them with scandal."

"Schmidt," continued the lawyer, "said he did not want to answer the questions of the district attorney but simply say 'I did it,' meaning that he killed Anna Amuller."

"Then he made this astonishing statement when I asked him about the death certificates: 'I was planning to do away with a knife or by poison a number of people for whom life wasn't worth while. What's the use of living if life is worthless? The wailer one goes the better for them. I believe that the next world is better for the hopelessly insane, the hopelessly crippled and the hopelessly diseased.'

"He strenuously denied that Muret, the fake dentist, is his brother or a cousin or any relation whatever. 'I have known him only ten months and not a day longer,' he said. He said that he went to Muret one day about some plates and the dentist told him he was crazy because he spoke about St. Elizabeth whereupon they had a quarrel."

A cable dispatch from Aschaffenburg, Germany, says that an investigation there indicates that Ernst A. Muret, under arrest in New York as a counterfeiter and an accomplice of Hans Schmidt, slayer of Anna Amuller, is Adolph Mueller of Mainz, Germany, and a cousin of Schmidt.

Schmidt, the priest, and Muret, the doctor, says the dispatch, occupied themselves a great deal in Germany several years ago with hypnotism and spiritualistic seances. They had a quarrel and were bitter enemies for a time, but were reconciled before father Schmidt left for America.

The priest has said that St. Elizabeth ordained him; and ordered him to kill the rectory girl who loved him. Schmidt will be brought to trial for the girl's murder next month before Judge Foster. His defense will be insanity because that is the "only possible defense" according to his lawyer.

"I want to get a trustworthy alienist of the highest standing to examine Schmidt," said his lawyer. "I appeal to such a man to come forward and give his services without charge."

Father Evers, the Tombs chaplain, said he is getting more convinced every minute that Schmidt was never authorized to assume priestly functions, but believes that the real "Hans Schmidt," the priest, is dead and that the murderer of Anna Amuller is a person who perhaps stole the dead priest's credentials.

The police discovered a fourth flat which Schmidt used in his crime operations. It was at 124 West Eighty-fourth street and Mrs. Handor, who rented it to Schmidt, was worrying because she had forgot to tell inspector Faurot that when Schmidt came to this flat he sometimes brought with him a two-year-old boy.

ENDS LIFE IN NIAGARA

Man Plunges Into Torrent Above Whirlpool Rapids.

A man believed by the police to be John Hawkins, aged sixty-eight, of Erie, Pa., jumped to death into the Niagara river from the lower steel arch bridge. The bridge spans the river just above the start of the whirlpool rapids and is 200 feet above the water.

Hawkins crossed the bridge to the Canadian side and then started back for the American shore. A few minutes later two women saw a man climb upon the railing of the bridge. They notified the bridge ticket takers.

The man sat astride of the rail for several minutes looking down at the turbulent waters. When the official ran toward him he leaped forward.

Had "Henpecked" Life, Man Avers. Dishes thrown at him, his life threatened and his coat and hat hidden to keep him at home, locked in his own house and not allow to peacefully enjoy a meal in a restaurant! Such has been the "henpecked" existence of Daniel Brodnos of Pittsburg for three years, according to his statement in a bill of particulars filed against his wife and from all these things Brodnos seeks relief by divorce.

Phone Girl to Get $2,000,000. Miss Jean Connell, operator at the private telephone exchange of the Carnegie Steel company in New Castle, Pa., left her job to get a $2,000,000 bequest. She joined her mother, Mrs. Agnes Connell, at Pittsburg whence they went to Philadelphia to secure their share of a $10,000,000 estate of her grandfather, John Ross, deceased. His property had been in litigation, but this has recently been settled.

Reservoir Walls Torn Away. A cavern in the Butler mine of the Pennsylvania Coal company at Hugshestown, near Wilkes-Barre, Pa., tore down the supporting walls of a reservoir of the Spring Brook Water company and 1,400,000 gallons of water flooded parts of Pittston, just below. Residences for three blocks were almost submerged. There were several narrow escapes from drowning.

Likes Boy's Garb. Comfortably ensconced in a box car on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in the Pittsburg yards with two boy companions, Mabel Pyles, aged thirteen, dressed in boy's clothes and ready to travel, disguised as William Brown, was discovered by a policeman. The girl said she had been fatigued by selling papers and had crawled into the car to sleep.

Father Schmidt and Amuller Girl, Murder Victim

Hans Schmidt, an assistant priest at St. Joseph's Catholic church at 405 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, New York, has confessed murdering and dismembering the body of Anna Amuller and depositing the parts of the torso in the Hudson river. The girl was a servant in the house of another priest. Mystery surrounding the finding of parts of the body baffled the police departments of two cities, but New York officers were successful in finally running down one clue and after locating Schmidt obtained a complete confession from him.

Killed in Dash to Pay Car. An investigation into the death at Ellsworth, Pa., of Fred Reeds showed that Reeds' anxiety to get his pay envelope led directly to his death. He dropped his work and dashed between two coal cars. As he got between the cars they were run together.

Schoolboy Wins Golf Championship. Francis Ounmet, a schoolboy and an amateur golf player, not only outplayed but outgained Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, the greatest golfers of England, in the national golf match at Brookline, Mass., thereby winning the American championship.

Her Eight Daily Meals. Somerset, in England, is rich in mines for the intervalated meal. In "Red Letter Days" Mrs. Andrew Cross gives a delectable sketch of her old nurse, a Somersetshire woman, "who lived to be nearly a hundred. She used to say that folks should take their meals regular. All her life she had eaten a dew bit and breakfast, a stable bit and dinner, a mornmet and crummet and a bit after supper—eight meals in all."

Teeth of the Sperm Whale. Instead of having plates of baleen the square nosed sperm whale carries a row of twenty to twenty-five heavy teeth on each side of the lower jaw. These fit into sockets in the roof of the mouth and assist in holding the giant squid and cuttlefish upon which these enormous animals feed. The squid seldom gets away from the whale's currents; hence the sperm whale's remains in the tropics.

How to Look Young. She—I sent a dollar to a young woman for a recipe to make me look young.

He—What did you get?
She—A card saying, "Always associate with women twenty years older than yourself."

Never. She—We women are all misunderstood. He—Well, you never saw one who tried to make herself plain, did you?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

No, Indeed. Stillens—Do you believe any man is rich enough to do absolutely as he pleases? Cynicus—Not if he's married.—Philadelphia Record.

A coward never forgave. It is not his nature.—French Proverb.

Ill Fated Explorers. Among the Spaniards who won fame as discoverers and conquerors in America only a very few died peacefully. Here is a list of some of the more important who suffered at the hands of fate: Columbus died broken hearted. Balboa and Bobadilla were drowned. Ovando was harshly superseded. Las Casas sought refuge in a cow. Ojeda died in extreme poverty. Enciso was deposed by his own men. Nicuesa perished miserably by the cruelty of his party. Vasco Nunez de Balboa was disgracedly beheaded. Narvaez was imprisoned in a tropical dungeon and afterwards died of hardship. Cortes was dishonored. Alvarado was executed in ambush. Almagro was destroyed. Pizarro was murdered and his four brothers cut off, and there was no end to the assassinations and executions of the secondary chiefs among the energetic and daring adventurers.

Power of a Sunflower. "One of the most remarkable exhibitions of plant life I ever saw," writes John Burroughs in an Atlantic Monthly article, "was in a western city, where I observed a species of wild sunflower forcing its way up through the asphalt pavement. The folded and compressed leaves of the plant, like a man's fist, had pushed against the hard but flexible concrete till it had bulged up and then split and let the irrepressible plant through. The force exerted must have been many pounds. I think it doubtful if the strongest man could have pushed his fist through such a resisting medium."

Remedies That Don't Remedy. "What's the matter, old top?" "Lumbago." "I have a remedy I wish you'd try." "I'll put your remedy on my waiting list. At your present rate of progress I'll get to it in about two years."—Kansas City Journal.
