Republican Ticket.

District Attorney,
M. A. CARRISER,
Tionesta Borough.

Would an election such as this promise to be really demoralize the women who took part in it—Franklin News. Phaw, no! There isn't enough fuss or feathers about it to touch even the menfolk.

A VOTE for the good roads amendment is a vote to take the load off your own shoulders and place it upon the broad shoulders of the state. The proposition is perfectly plain. If you would rather continue to carry the load, then vote against the bond issue. If you would rather the state should benefit and for all time carry that load without a penny's cost to you, then vote and work for the passage of the amendment. It is up to you, Mr. Taxpayer.

Why not be honest with yourself and say you are opposed to good roads, rather than hem-haw about the cost, when the extra cost in taxation to the individual will not amount to a nickel in a million dollars? Should the bond issue fail, however, and the roads already taken over and kept up by the state, fall back on the township, then you will have to go down into your pockets again and rake up tax money to keep up these roads. Isn't the proposition a perfectly plain one?

You have perhaps heard opponents of the good road proposition give as a reason for their opposition that they don't like the idea of the present administration handling the fund. In view of the fact that before a single dollar of the bond issue is spent there will be an entirely different administration at the head of the state government, and before the fund is finally spent in the construction of good roads, there will be several changes of administration, the argument falls flat.

FOREST COUNTY, which will be benefited to the extent of about seventy-five miles of state road under the law, should return a large majority in favor of the amendment at the coming election. These roads, which will be the finest in the world, will not add a single penny to any man's taxes, the money raised by state taxation paying all expenses. In other words, a clear donation of these great state highways to the people of the country districts largely. A vote against such a proposition would seem ridiculous indeed.

A NEW line of employment is opened by the passage of the income tax bill. A number of people will be paid to supervise the working and to see that there is no evasion of the tax. Here indeed is work for women. In each community some attractive, not necessarily young, woman may earn her living by keeping her eye on the $3,000 households. It will be work in which the diplomacy and shrewdness of woman may be effective. So wrote the editor of the Oil City Blizard, and when he reached home, it's a two-to-one chance he got his hair pulled.

Greatest Ocean Disaster Since Titanic.

The greatest ocean disaster since the Titanic horror, occurred last Friday morning in mid-Atlantic when the big steamship Volturno took fire and was burned up. The ship carried 654 passengers and crew. Of this number 562 were rescued—485 passengers and 77 crew. The missing are 76 passengers and 88 crew, a total of 164. In this great disaster the wireless telegraph has again demonstrated its usefulness as a life-saver. Not a living soul would have escaped had not the messages of distress been caught up by other vessels which went to the rescue.

Official Vote On Judgeship.

Complete returns in the contest for Superior Court judges show that considerably less than half of the electors of the state participated in the non-partisan primaries. With 15 candidates in the field the total poll was 562,609 votes, while 1,317,562 voters aided in the election of a President last fall.

The four candidates receiving the highest vote in the primaries will go on to the ballot for the November election. Two are to be elected. Unless the ruling of the secretary of the commonwealth is reversed, an elector will be allowed to vote for one nominee only. The complete vote of the state follows:

Henderson	96,071	Ames	23,595
Alcorn	76,514	Bacon	18,455
Grim	58,133	Daugherty	17,437
Kephart	33,500	Kiernan	15,716
Gashbreath	33,515	Fulton	15,648
J. B. Reilly	41,109	P. Reilly	11,013
Dickinson	32,835
Wallace	30,080
Conneys	28,288
Total vote		562,609

Judge John J. Henderson, who leads the ticket, lives in Meadville and is completing his first term on the Superior Court bench. James Alcorn is a former city solicitor of Philadelphia. Webster Grim of Bucks county was the Democratic candidate for governor in 1910 and was the nominee of his party for Superior Court judge in 1908. John W. Kephart is practicing his profession at Ebensburg.

The Palmer-McCormick Democrats, who are in control of the Democratic state organization, supported O. B. Dickinson of Delaware county and the candidate finished seventh in the race. If the vote cast for Dickinson, J. B. Reilly and E. E. Kiernan, the other Democrats on the primaries ticket, goes to Grim, he ought to be one of the winners in November. The friends of Judge Henderson are confident he will be elected.

Teacher's Memories.

Friday's Seneca Kicker contains an interesting article written by F. E. Allison of Nebraska entitled "Recollection of a School Teacher," covering a period of 70 years, when the place of learning was a house built of logs by men of the countryside who volunteered their services. Part of the article follows:

"The furniture consisted of seven slabs with two benches about eight feet long and two benches about eight feet long with legs 15 inches in length; two benches 16 feet long and legs 18 inches in length; two benches 18 feet long with legs 20 inches in length. These latter were used for the writing desks, which consisted of a two-inch plank 18 inches wide and 18 feet long. There was no provision made for 'the master,' neither seat, bench or desk; he took his seat wherever he could find a vacant place large enough to sit down upon.

"A stove about three and a half feet in length and three feet high was placed about the center of the room. The stove was lettered 'Crory and McCray, Oil Creek Furnace, A. D. 1838.' This stove was cast within 30 feet of the present site of the Union station at Oil City and cost $16.00.

"The architect, carpenter, contractor and builder, 'all in one,' was paid the enormous sum of 75 cents per day. The hardware bills for glass and nails were about $6. The house was thus equipped ready for the schoolmaster.

"Pedagogues were usually of homespun material, with an occasional 'brainstormed' young disciple of the rod and ruler from Ohio, New York or eastern Pennsylvania. (Among these we do not include Brother Bowen, of the Oil City Blizard, who wielded the rod and ruler at a later date.)

"Among the antecedent female teachers of 'ye olden times' were Miss Mary J. McKinney, Miss Jane Shannon, Miss Margaret Rose, Miss Louisa McKinney, Miss Elizabeth Smith, Miss Isabelle Shannon, Miss Lavastia Hitchcock, Miss Martha Gates, Rockland; Miss Lavinia E. Smith, Sandy Creek. Among the ancient pedagogues who taught the winter terms were James Beck, Edwin Allison, Dr. James Hall, William Ewing, I. Thomson Allison, Nathan Beck, John Rahl, F. E. Allison, Andrew McCurry and John Jolly."

One reason why the roads of Massachusetts have become so justly celebrated is that in that state the trunk line and state road ideas prevailed almost from the beginning. Had Pennsylvania been similarly fortunate in its early highway legislation this state would already have a system of highways unexcelled by any in the United States, and the money spent in the small towns of New England and the prosperity of Massachusetts farmers would be rivaled in Pennsylvania.

The system of State Highways created by the Sproul law is far and away an advance on any system designed by any other state, a fact which is justified by the leading population and resources. The improvement of these roads requires money and we cannot get sufficient money to improve them in our generation without the state loan—vote for it.
