A foolish man down in Chester ate a dozen bananas on a wager and in a short time died. -Clearfield Journal. Most die after such a measly performance. We knew a man who ate twenty-six on a wager, and then stopped only because the loser wouldn't pay for any more.

The well on the McIntyre farm, Harmony township, was finished and shot last week, but failed to respond with anything like an oil production. George Holman, who drilled the well, has a contract for drilling at another location on the same farm and expects to get started within a day or so.

Farmers' week at the Pennsylvania State College will be from Dec. 29, 1913 to Jan. 3, 1914 at the College. So if you are interested in any branch of farming you will doubtless want to attend the meeting the courses of which are free and open to all women as well as men. Send to the College for a program of the week's work.

Concrete abutments for the culvert over Council run, on Daniel Walters' lot, are being built at present and if not stopped by weather conditions the S. & T. roadbed will be completed almost to its terminus north of Bridge street by the first of the year. It is likely, however, that grading will soon be brought to a close from present appearances.

We note with pleasure that our veteran friend, Charles C. Van Giesen, of President, in among those who will receive an increase of pension from Uncle Sam, his allowance having been fixed at $25 per month, dating from Aug. 6, 1913. He was one of the company G, 81st regiment boys, and went through the thickest of the fray with his comrades in the civil war.

Anyhow there's comfort in the thought that we're working up close to the short day of the year, and that in less than two weeks hence we'll be traveling toward the long day again, when you may sit on your back porch and watch the garden truck grow, while snapping your fingers at the high cost of henfruit. Why not smile and look pleasant over the prospect.

A street row in which four or five combatants were involved, most of whom more or less boozed, was pulled off in front of the Morgan store Saturday night, ending in two of the men getting pretty badly battered up, and another, acting more in the capacity of a peace-maker than a contestant, having his jaw bones broken in two places. He was taken into the office of Dr. Bovard and given surgical aid, and on Monday morning was taken to his home near Lock Haven. His name is Lewis Geyer and he will doubtless be laid up for some time. No arrests have followed the row.

A team of oxen belonging to I. Gaddy of Reddyffe, Pa., passed through town Thursday on their way to the lumber woods. The sight was a novel one and one that will be remembered for some time. First it was the ox then the horse and now comes the motor truck. There may be a time in the future when the appearance of a team of horses will create as much excitement as this pair of oxen. -Warren Times.

According to a clipping from a St. Petersburg, Fla., paper, J. J. McCaslin of Pleasantville, who is spending the winter in that place, has just sold a fine property to Edward Garow of Warren, formerly of Tionesta, and who is also in the south for the season. The purchase price is said to have been between $5,000 and $6,000 and the residence is one of the best at the winter resort so largely patronized by people of this section.

Hon. Joseph C. Sibley and Miss Ida L. Row, daughter, of O. L. Row, were married at the new River Ridge residence of Mr. Sibley, at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, by Rev. Herbert A. Ellis, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, of Franklin. The ceremony was witnessed only by the members of the two families. Miss Row was a favorite niece of the first Mrs. Sibley and is aged 38. Mr. Sibley is 63 years of age.

Dr. M. C. Kerr, of Lenoir, N. C., is spending a few days with old friends in this vicinity, having been called north as a witness in the damage suit of Frank Sestito against the Pennsylvania railroad, which was on for trial in the Warren courts this week. Sestito, who was a section hand, was injured about three years ago when a hand car on which he and others were riding was struck by a light engine. He had sued for $5,000, but the Warren papers report an amicable settlement of the case on Monday on the payment of $150.

Our annual thanks are due Mrs. Henry Sibley, of German Hill, for the big tin of nice rich sausage left on the editorial table last week, reminding us that fall butchering time, the most glorious to many of us, has again slipped around. And again brings to mind a verse of the school boy's composition: I would not die in springtime; I would not die in fall, When sausage meat is fryin' And hick'ry nuts is thick - Oh, who would think of dyin', Or even gitlin' sick?

In every city and town in the United States, Red Cross Seals are now on sale. Business men make a practice of placing these seals on all their correspondence often putting them on each check for each man in December. Christmas shoppers have learned to use these little emblems of health on all their gifts; in fact they have become so well known and so popular that it seems only natural for everybody to buy a few. It has become part of the holiday spirit to help the sick consumptive in this way. Stamps will be found in most of the stores in every town.

The tail end of the big western blizzard switched around into this latitude last Sunday evening and gave us the first real touch of winter that we have had, covering the ground with a mantle of snow to the depth of 3 to 5 inches, and sending the mercury down nearer the bulb than it has been any time this winter, thermometers registering 12 degrees above the zero mark at six o'clock yesterday morning. The back channel of the creek froze over for the first time Monday night. But we've had a fine fall anyhow, and if now we have to let the gas throttle out a notch or two, thank fortune we have the gas to burn. So cheer up.

The cases of the U. S. Banking Commission vs. I. M. Shannon and Milo C. Shannon, president and cashier of the Second National Bank of Clarion, which failed upward of two years ago, were heard last week in the U. S. District Court, at Pittsburg, G. F. Whitner, Esq., represented the Messrs. Shannon and made a masterful argument in behalf of his clients and evidently carried great weight as the charges of making false statements and entries, embezzlement and conspiracy to defraud were not pressed as to Milo C. Shannon and the case against I. M. Shannon was postponed until the second week of January. -Clarion Democrat.

It is reported that the charges of involuntary manslaughter against the officers of the Bayless Paper Co., because of the 84 lives lost when their dam at Austin, Potter county was torn out by the flood Sept. 30, 1911, will all be dropped for the reason that the company has arranged to settle all the cases civil and criminal, for damage and loss by the payment of money and the leasing of stock in the company to the 67 claimants who have instituted suits. This was one of the most terrible dam catastrophes that ever occurred in this country, practically wiping out two flourishing towns. The suits for damages had been stayed off for one reason or another for more than two years.

Rev. J. H. Summerton, formerly pastor of the Hydstown Methodist Episcopal church, received a surprise one day last week when Rev. A. R. Rich, superintendent of Franklin district, asked him to take the Tylersburg charge for the balance of the conference year. There is a promotion in it of $200 a year better than Mr. Summerton has ever received. He had hoped to remain with the W. C. T. U. until Christmas but Superintendent Rich ordered otherwise. Mr. Summerton has five charges. The town of Tylersburg was named after President Tyler and is in Clarion county, 30 miles from Hydstown via Pleasantville and Tionesta. His family will not join him until the Durant, Ill., school closes. -Titusville Herald.

A Harrisburg dispatch under date of Dec. 5th says: The fact that many justices of the peace throughout the State do not seem to be aware of the fact that their terms do not begin until the first Monday of January, is causing the mail of the State Department at the Capitol to assume large proportions. The justices-elect appear to hold the idea that their terms of office began on the first Monday of December, when the change in municipal officers took place, and have been demanding their parchment. The commissions are being made out now and the magistrates are being informed that the constitutional amendments of 1900 changed the beginning of their terms from the first Monday of May to the first Monday of January. The commission about to be issued will call for six year terms instead of five as under the old laws.

J. G. Richards, with a full crew, started the drill yesterday in the well on Little Tionesta creek, expecting to penetrate to the depth of the Kane sand at least. After passing through the Speelchey sand last spring the well was abandoned and plugged as no good, but that did not satisfy Joe and some of his partners, and it is for the purpose of testing their faith in that territory that the drill was again started in the well. Here's hoping Joseph, that she pours forth rivers of oil.

Some excitement has been occasioned by an oil strike on the Frazee tract, near the County Home, in Hickory township. The operator on this rather well known tract this time is Michael Finnegan, and reports say the well, which was shot last Friday a week ago, showed up for a good one, having pumped 15 barrels on the first day after being tumbled. Since then it has been shut in because the drilling rig is being used to put down another well before cold weather sets in. The old Frazee tract may turn out o. k. yet.

So far as we have been able to learn not a single deer was killed in Forest county during the open season this year, and it would seem that this noble species of wild game is well high extinct in our borders. All this has happened within the past thirty-five years, as about that time not less than a thousand deer were shipped out of this county in a single season. This condition of things is not all the fault of the relentless hunter, but is due largely to the cutting of the big timber forests, the natural habitat of the deer, and without which there is little propagation in the deer family, which does not do well in redbrush or barren regions.

Wheeler of Endeavor is one of the delegates from Pennsylvania appointed by Governor Tener to attend the convention of the American Road Builders' association, which is now in session in Philadelphia. Schottenberg of Watson Farm, Howe township, this county, in which township the bridegroom has heretofore taught school. George and his bride have the best wish of many friends in this community.

Our old friend W. A. Hughes, who left this section nearly eight years ago to locate and "grow up" in the far western country, is back east on a visit, and on Saturday gave the REPUBLICAN office a welcome call. Mr. Hughes located near Colville, Wash., where he and his family homesteaded 60 acres of valuable land, to which he has since added 200 acres by purchase. On this property is located one of the finest water-power sites in that state, being the falls on the Little Pendorelle river, and for which he has refused a fine offer. Most of the property is covered with a good growth of timber, and considerable of it is under cultivation, for Mr. Hughes is not one of those who will loaf on the job, but has gone about to till the soil and has carried off about all the prizes having with his exhibits at the county fairs. Our old friend had not changed in the least during his absence, and although up in the seventies he is hale and hearty and was feeling like a boy of twenty-five. He expects to remain in the east till about the first of March visiting relatives and old friends.

Forest County Again Ahead.

"After two days of fine bird work as was ever shown in a field trial, the English setter gyp, Fanny Russell, owned and handled by Frank Mellon of Pittsburg was declared the Grouse Dog Champion of the World on Thursday night, at the conclusion of the first event of its kind in history, which was staged at Killarney Park in the Indian Creek Valley.

"The judges had to draw a hair line decision between the first four dogs, in order to place them properly, Queen, owned and handled by Charles McDowell of Millvale; Simonds Cyclone, owned by H. E. Kilgus of St. Mary's, handled by James McMackin of the same place, and Dot Lanson, owned and handled by Jared M. B. Reis of New Castle putting up fine exhibitions of searching, finding and pointing birds.

"For many years admirers of the bird dog have been agitating for some sort of a test of dogs on the ruffed grouse, commonly called pheasants, and everywhere admitted to be the greatest game birds of the world, and the Pennsylvania Field Trial Club in staging this Ruffed Grouse Championship, aroused interest all over the northeastern part of the United States. There were spectators at the little inn at Killarney from Boston, Philadelphia and other distant points, and they went home satisfied that a grouse trial could be and had been successfully run.

"The trial began on Wednesday morning about 10:30 and within five minutes of the time the first brace were cast off they were on birds and from that time on, every brace that was run had an opportunity to locate and point grouse. In fact, only two dogs of all the starters failed to find birds. -Pittsburg Gazette Times, Saturday.

So Forest county again leads. In the foregoing account the English setter gyp, Fanny Russell, is none other than a dog which Nelson Russell of Kellestville raised and trained, and "Dot Lanson" is a pretty little setter once owned and trained by our townsman Charlie Lanson, who sold her to Mr. Reis of New Castle for the neat sum of $50, two years ago. When looking for the best come to Forest county.

Recent Deaths.

ZUENDEL.
Catherine (Mealy) Zuenzel, wife of Christopher Zuenzel, was born at the old homestead near Wolf's Corners, or Johnstown, Clarion county, Pa., Oct. 19, 1845, and died at the home of her daughter at Irwin, Pa., Saturday, Dec. 6, 1913. She was a daughter of John and Catherine (Krisely) Mealy, pioneer settlers in Clarion county. She was united in marriage with Mr. Zuenzel, Sept. 10, 1869, shortly after his discharge from the civil war, by reason of wounds which disabled him from further service, and not long after their marriage they settled upon a farm near the mouth of Ross Run, Kingsley township, Forest county, where they continued to reside until last spring when they sold the farm and moved to German Hill, near Starr postoffice. On Thursday last Mrs. Zuenzel went to visit her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Davis, at Irwin, reaching there on Friday. The following day about the noon hour, while conversing with her daughter, she was seized with an acute attack of heart failure and while passing from one room to another was seen to reel as though in the act of falling. She was quickly supported by her son-in-law, who led her to a couch where she almost instantly expired without uttering a word. A physician was quickly summoned, but the spark of life had fled. The remains were brought here Monday and conveyed to her home, and on Tuesday funeral services in her memory were held at the Zuenzel church, German Hill, where the interment was made. Rev. M. E. Wolcott of the Tionesta F. M. church, conducted the services, being assisted by Rev. T. B. Hauvermale of the Lickingville Evangelical church.

Mrs. Zuenzel was one of the best of women, patient, loving and kind to all about her, and above all a devout Christian. Early in life she was converted to the Lord and for more than thirty years she had been a consistent member of the Free Methodist church. As a neighbor, friend and helper in every time of need, she was always to be depended upon, and she was held in loving esteem by all who knew her. She was the mother of ten children, six of whom, with the stricken husband, are left to mourn their great loss, as follows: Mrs. Boyd F. Winans of Cambridge Springs, Pa.; Mrs. Benjamin J. Wellier of Starr, Pa.; Miss Christina at home; Forest Mead Zuenzel of Meadville, Pa.; Mrs. Samuel Davis of Irwin, Pa.; and Mrs. David F. Carrier of Herminie, Pa. One sister, Mrs. Samuel Whittom of Newmansville, Pa., and the following brothers also survive: John K. Mealy, Clarion, Pa.; Moses, Aaron and Joseph Mealy, residing in Clarion county, the latter on the old homestead, and Elijah Mealy, located in Oklahoma. The deceased is also survived by thirteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild.
