2,800 FEDERAL GIVE SELVES UP

Three Generals of Ojinaga Garrison Got Safely Away

REBELS TAKE MEXICAN TOWN

Rush to United States as Villa's Men Come Up and United States Army Officers Have Their Hands Full.

Now that General Villa is in possession of Ojinaga, Mex., it is the rebel leader's intention to begin his campaign against Mexico City at once.

Today saw thousands of Villa's loyal army take trains southward for Loreon, with a view toward bringing that stronghold into subjection at the earliest possible moment.

As Villa did at Juarez, after the battle near there, he refused to permit foreigners to enter Ojinaga, so it is not positively known how many federal prisoners have been executed.

Twenty-eight hundred federal soldiers, six Mexican generals, 200,000 rounds of ammunition, two cannons, four large fieldpieces and 15,000 civilian refugees are in the custody of the United States army border patrol.

It is now generally agreed that Generals Pascual Orozco, Jose Salazar and Antonio Rojas, the federal volunteer generals most wanted by Villa, have with 300 or 400 loyal followers made their escape.

The rebels captured between 300 and 400 prisoners, the most of them volunteers and all of these have been executed.

The total rebel loss in killed is said to have been fewer than fifty. The federal loss on the battlefield will be over 100, not counting executions. The list of wounded on both sides will be heavy. There are more than 300 rebel and federal wounded now being cared for by the Red Cross in Presidio and of these the great majority are federal.

The distress of the refugees is intense. They have scant food and no shelter. Men, women, children, dogs, chickens and cattle are packed together in a space covering several acres. About them are scattered all the goods and baggage which they brought in fleeing from the Ojinaga battle.

Urgent requests for the immediate removal of the soldiers and refugees to some other place were sent by Major McNamee to the war department.

General Francisco Castro, one of the federal generals, declared that men deserted when the rebels began charging and that it was impossible to hold them, but the men insist that they ran out of ammunition and were told by their officers that they might make their way to the United States as rapidly as possible.

MANIA TO KILL PRESIDENT

Young Philadelphia Man Goes to the Hospital.

Joseph Gorman, the twenty-four-year-old Philadelphia street car conductor, who wants to kill President Wilson, was sent to the Philadelphia hospital after he was declared too dangerous a man to be at liberty.

Gorman walked into the office of Chief Postal Inspector Cortelyou and calmly announced that he had an uncontrollable desire to kill the president of the United States.

The doctor who gave him the medicine was summoned. He said that the man was suffering from alcoholic dementia with a homicidal mania and should be locked up.

$125,000 IN BELT

Messenger Carries Radium to Hospital in Germany.

A small quantity of radium, valued at $125,000, has been sent from Canonsburg, Pa., where it is manufactured, to a hospital in Berlin, Germany, where it is to be used in experiments to cure cancer.

This is said to be the largest shipment of the element sent out of the United States. It was dispatched by a special messenger, who is said to travel with the radium belted about his body in a specially devised container.

Apples Held in Storage.

Awaiting a price of $2 a bushel, many thousand bushels of apples grown in Lawrence county, Pa., are in storage in New Castle, Pa. The owners expect the price will reach $2 before spring, owing to the scarcity of the fruit, which now retails at about $1.50 per bushel.

Auto Thugs Steal Chickens.

Leaving the heads of ninety chickens, thieves robbed J. A. Martin and James McMillan, farmers of Linesville, Pa., of all their fowls. That the robbers came in an automobile is the belief of the police.

FIND IT SAFE TO FREE THAW

Commissioners Make Report on Harry's Condition

DECLARE HE'S NOW ALL RIGHT

Federal Judge Aldrich Is Told That Man Who Killed Stanford White Is Better and Would Not Be Menace.

Harry K. Thaw would not be a public menace if he were released on bail, according to the report of the commission appointed by Federal Judge Aldrich at Concord, N. H., to inquire into the state of Thaw's mentality.

The report says the commission finds Thaw is not now afflicted with any of the mental disease from which he was suffering when he slew Stanford White.

The commission further states by its written report that its members have formed a unanimous and positive opinion as to the state of Thaw's mind at the time of the homicide, but refrain from expressing that opinion because the scope of its inquiry does not permit of an opinion on this point.

The report is signed by all members of the commission. In its opening page of the somewhat exhaustive report the commissioners say that they went carefully over the case book of the Matteawan hospital covering the period from Feb. 1, 1908, to Aug. 17, 1912, when Thaw escaped.

It also examined transcripts of all other legal proceedings, including various direct and cross examinations of Thaw for homicide. The commission refers to the public hearing which it gave on Jan. 7 at which only witnesses in favor of Thaw appeared and then concluded its report as follows:

"To determine the immediate question before us our inquiry was necessarily directed to these points: "First, careful physical examination to determine the presence or absence of structural or functional disturbance of the nervous system.

"Second, the conduct of Harry K. Thaw since his commitment to the Matteawan state hospital on February 1, 1908, to the present time.

"Third, whether he is now suffering from such a disease of the mind or whether his condition of mind may be of such character as to predispose to acts of violence independently of the narrower question whether such acts actually have been committed since his confinement or not.

"In its studies and deliberations the commission has in the main confined its attention to facts, preferring to attach little importance for its purpose to the conflicting opinions of expert and other witnesses.

"In our opinion it is reasonably probable that Harry K. Thaw's liberty under bail would not be dangerous or a menace to the public peace and safety."

TURNING POINT NOT REACHED

Little Change to Business—Steel Outlook Encouraging.

Dun's Review of Trade says this week:

"There is little tangible evidence as yet that the turning point in business has been reached, but sentiment is more hopeful. Wholesale trade is rather more active, while retail demands have broadened under the stimulus of the usual clearance sales and more reasonable weather in some sections.

"Many buyers are beginning to appear in the dry goods market, and although conservatism is the rule in the matter of future purchases, stocks are low and requirements large. Woolen and worsted mills are fairly well engaged on old orders and wool is moving steadily.

"While the demand for iron and steel is still confined mainly to actual needs, some increase in business is apparent and the situation is more encouraging."

$500,000 FOR PARDON

Loan Shark Tolman Makes Offer to Governor Glynn.

A new proposition for the pardon of Daniel H. Tolman, money lender serving a six months' term for usury, is under consideration by Governor Glynn of New York. It amplifies the previous offer of Tolman and his assignees, proposing to surrender unconditionally approximately $500,000 in notes, embracing principal and interest, in return for the remission of the remainder of the sentence.

The notes are those of nearly 20,000 borrowers from Tolman in New York. Tolman's term has a little more than two months to run. It is said the new proposal, if accepted, will remove the possibility of any future attempt to realize on the notes.

SAYS PRISONERS ARE MISTREATED

Congressman's Charges Rouse Attorney General; Probe Started

A representative of the department of justice is now in Atlanta making an investigation of the charges against officials of the federal penitentiary contained in data received at the department from Congressman Howard of Georgia.

Attorney General McReynolds gave out this information, intimating that a searching inquiry would be made. The charges that Congressman Howard alleges are not considered as of great importance by Mr. McReynolds, but it was felt by the department that there should be a thorough probe.

"The evidence I presented to Mr. McReynolds was of so serious nature that a rigid investigation must result," said Mr. Howard. "I shall see that the affair is not 'whitewashed.' Among accusations made by persons said to be familiar with prison conditions is the statement that Deputy Warden W. C. Hawk has a model country farm from which he supplies Atlanta people with eggs and chickens."
