RELIEF POURS IN ON SALEM

Homeless in Fire Swept City

5,000 TENTS ARE ERECTED

Six Deaths Occurred During Fire, Four of Them Being Directly Caused by Flames-$12,000,000 Estimated Loss.

Measures for the relief of the 18,000 persons made homeless in the con liagration at Salem, Mass., are proeding with military precision.

More than 3,500 were directly de pendent upon the relief committee for shelter, while 4,500 waited patiently in the various bread lines for the food which streamed into the city in abundance. Five thousand tents have been erected.

Those cared for in the tented camps were of the poorer class, mostly for eigners. Nearly all the well-to-do had ound refuge with friends.

The value of the property destroyed by the fire is from $12,000,000 to $15, 000,000, according to the insurance men, and a little more than one-half was insured.

So far as is now known only four persons lost their lives in the fire and we more died as a result.

The charred body of the infant child of Mrs. Mary Hassel was found in the ruins of 27 May street. Samuel P. Withey, a paralytic, lost his life at 26 Prospect street and Mrs. Sarah Abbott of 131 Lafayette street perished. An unidentified body was also reovered, the sex of which has not been Those who died were Sarah Fiske, a nurse, who passed away while being moved from one hospital to another, and Mrs. Edward McGlone, who died of heart failure when her house caught

More than 1,000 homes were de stroyed, many of the larger industrial plants, schools, churches and several business buildings.

The fire, which started in the leather district, got beyond control and raged until the water of South river would allow it to go no farther.

The principal part of the devastated district includes all that section west of Boston street and east of Essex street. The burned over section is mile to a mile and a half wide,

The fire started in the plant Karn Leather company in Boston street, where seventy-five hands were were obliged to jump from second Charles Lee, had both legs broken. in the leather district had been burned the fire spread to the residential section in ward 4 and destroyed from fifty to seventy-five Then it continued swirling through the frame dwellings into ward 3 and finally reached ward 5, the fashionable section. The flames licked up the handsome homes almost the entire length of Lafavette street. The public schools Saltonstall and Ropen went down before the flames. All the houses on the side streets west of Lafayette street were destroyed.

The fire leaped over into the French district, which is populated by at least 10,000 persons.

From this point the fire attacked mill No. 5 of the Naumkeag Cotton company, which gave employment to 3,500 persons. The mill was destroyed. Five plants in the lower part of ward 5 were burned. St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church. which was recently completed at a cost of $250,000, was burned. St. Joseph's convent and St. Joseph's parochial school were also wiped out. The sisters and children escaped. The orphan asylum conducted by the city also caught fire after twenty-five sisters had escorted their 150 charges to St. Mary's school. The asylum property was destroyed. When the Salem hospital was threatened physicians and nurses, pressing automobiles, wagons and ambulances into service, took all the patients to various public institutions, where they were as comfortable as possible on cots. The fire got such a terrific headway early that calls were sent to nearby owns for firemen and policemen. Fire companies from Boston, Haverhill, Lynn, Lawrence, Beverly, Peabody, Marblehead, Danvers and even as faas Quincy, Newburyport and Gloucester helped the local fire department stay the blaze. Five companies of local militia were ordered out to police the city, help the homeless and prevent looting and they were supplemented by two companies of militia and one company of naval cadets from Lynn.

All autor shile owners in the city gladly placed their machines at the disposal of rescuing parties and many of the well-to-do joined in helping their poorer fellow-citizens save what furnituse and other personal effects they could. H. O. Benson, a director of the Naumkeag Steam Cotton company, announced at a mass meeting of citizens that the mills, employing 5,500 operatives, would be rebuilt immediately. Other manufacturing concerns also announced they would rebuild.

RUYAL CUUPLE ASSASSINATED

Archduke Francis Ferdinand and Wife Are Killed

BOMB MISSES, BULLETS HIT

Heir to Austrian Throne and Dutchess Meet Death While on Annual Visit to the Annexed Province of Bosnia.

Archduke Francis Ferdinand, nephew of Emperor Francis Joseph and heir to the Austrian throne, and the Duchess of Hohenberg, his morganic wife, were assassinated at Sarayevo, the capital of Bosnia.

Two attempts were made on the lives of the royal party.

A bomb thrown at their motorcar was warded off by the archduke. Later a young Servian student emptied his revolver at the royal car and the archduke and the duchess were killed. The archduke was struck full in the face and the duchess was shot through the abdomen and throat. They died a few minutes after reaching the palace, to which they were hurried. Those responsible for the assassina tion took care that it should prove of fective, as there were two assailants, the first armed with a bomb and the second with a revolver. The bomb was thrown at the royal automobile as where a reception was to be held. The archduke saw the deadly mis sile hurtling through the air and wardgates to the conference held at Ni ed it off with his arm. It fell outside the car and exploded, slightly wounding two aid de camps in a second car and half a dozen spectators. It was on the return of the proces sion that the tragedy was added to the delegates representing the parties | the long list of those that have darkbetween which internal argument in ened the pages of the recent history of the Hapsburgs.

As the royal automobile reached a prominent point in the route to the palace an eighth grade student, Gavrio Prinzip, sprang out of the crowd and poured a deadly fusillade of bullets from an automatic pistol at the archduke and princess.

Prinzip and a fellow conspirator, compositor from Trebinje named Gabrinovics, barely escaped lynching by the infuriated spectators. They finally were seized by the police, who afforded them protection. Both are natives

One of these, ers on account of damages sustained that it fell directly beneath the following car, the occupants of which, Count von Boos-Waldeck and Colonel Merizzo, were struck by slivers of iron.

Archduke Francis Ferdinand stopped town hall. There the burgomaster began the customary address, but the archduke sharply interrupted and snapped out: "Herr Burgomaster, we have comhere to pay you a visit and bombs have been thrown at us. This is altogether an amazing indignity."

After a pause, the archduke said "Now you may speak." On leaving the hall the archduke and his wife announced their intention their suite at the hospital on their way back to the palace. They were

Business to Get Its "Constitution of Freedom"

WILSON SEES ROSY OUTLOOK

President Addresses Gathering of Editors and Assures Them That Business Depression Is Passing.

"A new constitution of freedom for business" is the object of the administration's trust legislation program, President Wilson declared, addressing a party of Virginia editors at the White House. He predicted the country was on the verge of a great business revival.

The president said that a temporary business depression at present was sure to pass as soon as business realized that the anti-trust legislation is sure to be enacted. The president in his address said: "I want to say to you that the signs of a very strong business revival are becoming more and more evident from day to day. "On all hands it is admitted that there are processes of business or have been processes of business in this country which ought to be corrected, but the correction has been postponed and in proportion to the postponement the fever has increased

-the fever of apprehension. "There is nothing more fatal to business than to be kept guessing from month to month and from year to year whether something serious is going to happen to it or not and what in parthe wing over wing drop and flying ticular is going to happen to it if anything does.

"The guessing went on, the air was full of interrogation points for ten years or more. Then came an administration which for the first time had a definite p-ogram of constructive correction. And the administration proceeded to carry out this program." The president referred to the enact-reform bill and the opposition encountered to their enactment and said: "Then we advanced to the trust program and again the same dread, the ment of the tariff bill and currency

"It will not be postponed. We know what we are doing. Lightning Strikes Woman With Infant In Her Arms.

Mrs. Charies Matheny, aged twentythree, of Allison, a small coke town near Uniontown, Pa., was injured when lightning struck her house, splitting it into halves. In her arms was her three-month-old baby, which fell to the floor uninjured. The mother was standing in the doorway of the house during a severe thunderstorm when the lightning hit the roof and went to the cellar, completely dividing the house into two parts. The infant in the mother's arms was lying on a pillow, which broke the force of its fall. Mrs. Matheny, who was attended by a physician, failed to recover consciousness. Her condition was reported serious.
