USUALLY "decisive" battles do not occur until late in a war. And seldom has it been possible to tell one until after it was over. MR. SULZEr shows a greedy disposition.

Not content with the Prohibition nominstion he is running in about all the other primaries. THE nations are now vying with each other in courteous treatment of American

And in reading the editorial flings in some of our exchanges one is led to the belief that Herman is not the only one who falls to maintain a strictly neutral attitude in this colossal scrap,

WHILE politics has had to take a back seat on account of the hot weather and the alarming situation in Europe, sufficient sentiment is being expressed to warrant the assumption that Pennsylvania will take her usual place in the Republican column this year and that the Republican ticket will be elected by a more than ordinary large off-year majority.-Punxy Spirit.

FIVE new assistant surgeons in the Public Health Service have just been appointed by Secretary of the Treasury Mc-Adoo. As usual, they are all from the South. They are: Thomas Francis Keating, of Maryland; Charles Henry Waring, of Mississippi; George Alexander Wheeler, of North Carolina; Henry Charles Yarborough, of Alabama; and Roland Edward Wynne, of Mississippi.

THE ballot to be voted in November State election will again be an unwieldy and cumbersome affair, there being eight straight party tickets on the ballot at the present time and the chances are that before the time expires for filling nomination papers that there will be several more tickets placed on it. The labor organizations of the state are planning to hold a state convention for the purpose of placing a full state ticket; which, of course, must go on the ballot by nomination papers. There is talk of another faction of the Socialist party putting a ticket in the field.

In order to establish and have paid by this Government millions of dollars of Civil War claims in the South, the leader of the Democratic majority in the House of Representatives has proposed that it shall not be necessary to prove the "loyalty" of the claimant to the Government at the time of the war. This is the entering wedge. Once this proposition passes the Congress, the Treasury will be swamped with claims from every crossroads south of Mason and Dixon's line, and Uncle Sam will be forced to pay what actually amounts to a money premium upon the disloyalty of men who are no longer content with his generosity in long ago removing all civil disabilities that they justly incurred by their rebellion sgainst him.

Palmer's Limited Fusion.

Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, the Democratic nominee for United States senator from Pennsylvania, favors a fusion on the governorship by which Vance C. McCormick, the Democratic candidate, will also be made the Washington party nominee. On the senatorship he declares fusion to be impossible for the reason that the several parties stand for national policies.

If Mr. Palmer wished to be consistent he would say that the objection to fusion on the senatorship applies with equal force to the gubernatorial contest. He knows well that the election of Mr. Mc-Cormick, if that were in the wood, would be hailed by Democrats from one end of the country to the other, whether the Washington party joined in his support or not, as a vindication of the national administration and an indorsement of its each and every case of Catarrh that can-policies, including passage of the Under-not be cured by the use of Hall's Cawood tariff law. COPELAND, Rachel Connelly Copeland, wife of D. . Copeland, died at the home of her son, Dr. Copeland, Cumberland, Md., August 23, 1914, of a complication of diseases.

Mrs, Copeland was a daughter of James F. and Elizabeth Connelly, and was born near Stewart Run, Pa., Dec. 9, 1845. She was married to Daniel F. Copeland in May, 1868, and most of her married life was passed in Forest county, notil about twenty years ago, when the family moved to West Virginia, where she had since resided. She was one of God's noblest creatures, a most loving and lovable, unselfish wife and mother. Her eldest daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Getty, preceded her to the grave only a couple of months. Beside the husband three children survive, Dr. H. P. Copeland of Cumberland, Md., G. L. Copeland of Blaine, W. Va., and Mrs. John H. Bowers of Stillwater, Okla., all of whom were with her in her last hours.

George Riley Johnson was born at Neversink Flats, Sullivan county, N. Y., October 20, 1847, and died at his home in Kellettville, Pa., at 2:45 o'clock Sunday morning, August 23, 1914, of liver trouble. He was married March 20, 1872. to Lucretia J. Lamont, at Claryville, N. Y., and took up housekeeping at Denning, N. Y. He also resided at Bainbridge and Coventryville, N. Y., where he was interested in the tannery and mercantile business. Twenty-five years ago he came to Kellettville and was superintendent of the tannery until it was discontinued two years ago. Four children were born to this union, all of whom, with the stricken wife, are left to survive him, as follows: James W. Johnson of Harrison Valley, Pa., Oscar L. Johnson of Sheffield, Pa., Mrs. Luella Cunningham of Kellettville, and Mrs. Fannie E. Murphy of Ridgway, Pa. He is also survived by seven grandchildren. Funeral services will be conducted at the family home Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock and interment will be made at Sheffield, Thursday. In the twentyfive years that Mr. Johnson had lived in Kellettville he had made many friends. He was a man who was not only liberal in beiping those in need but had the tact necessary to get others to help out, and many philanthropic movements were successfully carried out by his efforts, He had been a great sufferer for the past year but was so patient, cheerful and optimistic through it all that few people realized his condition. Those who knew the facts could but admire and respect the fortitude thus manifesced. Mr. Johnson is the last one of his family, his brother Winfield having died several months ago. The following poem was found in the old family bible of the de-

Albaugh Family Reunion.

A reunion of the Albaugh family was held at the home of D. C. Albaugh of Endeavor, Friday, Aug. 21, 1914. Members and friends of the family to the number of 132 gathered on the lawn at au early hour, the older living members of the family present being Elias, Charles, William, Mary (Taylor) and Jonathan, (James being very sick and not able to attend.) In the shade of the lolty maples the tables were spread with an abundance of food both substantial and dainty, as the ladies of this family are noted cooks and their reputation was well sustained in this instance; noticeable among the fine cakes was the reunion cake in the form of a pyramid and bearing the name of the family and date of meeting. After all had pariaken of the bount ful repast they repaired to the verands where Jonathan Athaugh, chairman and speaker of day, delivered a very interesting address and gave a short history of the family. He said that while the Albaughs lay no claim to tracing their ancestors back to the Mayflower, as that good ship has al-ready been overloaded many times, yet be could easily follow the family ancestry to their home in Holland. He also named different members of the family who took an honorable part in the de-fense of their country during the Revototionary war. The speaker also called attention to the common mistake of pro-nouncing the name Al-a-baugh, when it is Albaugh. J. E. Albaugh and L. G. Mervin each gave a short talk, after which an organization was formed and the next meeting appointed for the sec-ond Thursday in August, 1915, at the home of Elias Albaugh of Albaugh Hill. A pleasant feature of the afternoon was the very fine music rendered by the sons of J. W. Albaugh, also the violin music by Charles Albaugh, who is well past four score years. Artist Zuver took a a number of photographs of the entire crowd and several groups. Among them was that of Elias Albaugh, 86 years, with Forest Albaugh 2d, 8 months, oldest and ******************* youngest members of the family present Another noticeable group was that of the nine stalwart sons and daughters of J. Words fail to express with justice the manifold beauties of George Kleine's latest photo drama success "Antony and Cleopatra." It is one of those rare achievements that occur once in a life time, where every attribute meets the requirements of public fancy. Historically it is the most important production that has yet been presented in this country, and the story has an equally powerful attraction to all readers and students. In point of spectacular beauty it has never been approached. Made by the Cines Company, who made "Quo Vadis," it has all the bigness that characterized that wonderful subject, coupled with the realization of dramatic romanticism afforded by Egypt and the famous love tragedy of Antony and Cleopatra.

It is superbly acted, with many of the original "Quo Vadis" players in the cast. Sig. Antony Novelli, who will be remembered as Vinitius in the earlier production, appears as the soldier-lover, Marc Antony. Sig. Ignazio Lupi is cast for Augustus Caesar Octavius; Signora Gio-vanna Teribili Gonzales is the beautiful Cleopatra, while Signora Elsa Lenard appears as Octavia, wife of Antony, and Signorina Matilde de Marzio as Charmain, the handsome maid who paid her among the minor characters in Cleopatra, particularly in the great Senate scene. This is only another proof of the perfec-tion to be found in all the Cines pictures.
