TREASON AND DISUNION IN 1848. The following from the Elmira (N. Y.) Gazette makes the following extracts from the New York Tribune, June 6th, 1848.

Resolved, That if the Governor or the Legislature of this Commonwealth shall do any act to aid the government of the United States, in prosecuting the infamous invasion of Mexican territory and rights, obey its requisition for troops, or co-operate in any way to assist in this war, or to give it countenance, they will deserve the contempt of all honest men, and be recreant to duty, to liberty and to the Constitution.

Resolved, That we, the people, of Massachusetts, do here now deliberately assert that there is no longer a Union of the States, a National Constitution, a National Executive; that no citizen of these States is under any kind of obligations of patriotism or of honor to aid the act of unparalleled outrage upon a sister republic, that a participation in this war is an act of conspiracy with lawless marauders and murderers against that nation; and that we announce for ourselves, and recommend to our fellow citizens the adoption of these three measures as alone suitable to the present crisis:

1. Individually and collectively to pledge ourselves in no way to countenance, encourage or aid this inhuman and impious robbery of Mexico. 2. Individually and collectively to pledge our contributions to support the families of those who, being drafted for this war, refuse to serve and take the penalty. 3. To meet in primary assemblies of the people, and in county, State and general convention, for the end of re-establishing the prostrate republic; of forming a new band of free men only; of adopting a new Constitution which shall be founded upon principles of universal justice, and fitted in all its articles to secure the equal rights of every citizen to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," and of organizing the people in to a nation which God in his providence designed it to be, a nation of united freemen.

CLOTHING. As a general thing, Clothing has advanced considerably since the war began; but Wm. A. PORTER has just shelled one of the cheapest lots of garments for men and boys we have ever examined.

CAPTURED AND ESCAPED.

Capt. DAVID BRADEN, of Indianapolis, well known to many of our readers, and at present Aide-de-Camp to Gen. Dumont, was recently captured by a body of rebel cavalry, but subsequently escaped. He had gone out foraging, from Gen. Dumont's headquarters, which were about five miles on the Murfreesboro' road, and while attempting to make a purchase at a farm house near by, was caught by about sixty of Morgan's band, a set of marauders armed in the style of the Texan Rangers, and composed partly of Texans, but operating as, and really being little else than, regular banditti.

The Constables of the several Townships made their reports. The Grand Jurors were then called, sworn and charged in a lucid and able manner by the President Judge.

The committee to examine David H. Lilly preparatory to his admission to the Bar, reported favorably, and applicant was admitted.

Tried and found guilty; and sentenced to pay a fine of $25 to the Commonwealth; George Gardner, William Swan and Sam'l Reynolds each to pay a fine of $15.—Thurman Crago $35 and Marion Franks $35.

OLD ABE'S LAST STORY. An old friend from Springfield lately called to see the President. After the usual greeting, etc., "Lincoln," said he, when you turned out Cameron why didn't you turn out all the rest of your Cabinet?" "That," said the President, "makes me think of something that took place near home, in Illinois. An old farmer had been pestered with a colony of skunks that depredated nightly on his poultry.—He determined to be rid of them, and finally succeeded in getting them all into one hole, where he could draw them forth at his pleasure. He drew one forth by the tail, and executed him, but, said he, in telling the story, 'this one caused such an infernal stench that I was obliged to let the others go.'"

The rebels are evidently in a peculiar mood of mind. They are dissatisfied with everything. They abuse Jeff Davis, abuse the style and shape of their own flag, complain that the Tennesseans are deserting and turning Unionists, and so on. South Carolina has been called on for five thousand more troops, and if not furnished by the signing of the work, the Governor was obliged to enter upon a conscription. The rebels try to appear sanguine and confident, but in all these outpourings, upon the systems of their waning cause.

THE RESTORATION OF THE CONSTITUTION.

Judge Parker, in his introductory address to the students of the Cambridge (Mass.) law school, at the opening of the term, expressed regret at the absence of students from the South, and gave his views of the restoration of the Union as follows:

"When the insurrection shall be suppressed, and the civil war ended, let us be prepared to welcome once more the seceding States, as they are called, under the State administration of such Union citizens, to the united fellowship from which, as States, they have been nominally forced by the treason of the unworthy portion of their inhabitants. Let us not attempt, or countenance in others, any attempt to make what has been called a conquest of those States and the government of them by the United States as territories. Such doctrine finds no support in the Constitution or in the history of the Constitution, but is nearly as revolutionary, though not so flagitious, as the insurrection itself."

A Formidable Expedition. We learn by a letter written on the 10th on board the Mississippi, off Ship Island, that an expedition is being organized there to act against New Orleans, independent of Com. Porter's gunboat and mortar fleet, and that it is to be of the most formidable kind.

The writer says: We are going to take our topmasts and yards down, two hundred and fifty tons of coal oil, cables, extra anchors, &c., so as lighten her up to eighteen feet; we are then going back to the Pass, over the bar if we can, and up the river with the rest of the fleet, to attack and take Forts Jackson and St. Philippe, and then further up to bombard New Orleans. At the same time we understand that Foote is to come down and meet us. So you can judge what a formidable undertaking it is going to be. We have to pass within three hundred yards of Fort Jackson, and if I am not very much mistaken we will be either blown out of the water or else scalded to death, for our engines and boilers will be away above the water line, and no coal in the bunkers to protect them. The fleet will be ready to attack in five or six weeks, so it is not likely you will hear from me again until it is all over; and by that time a good many of us will be gone to our long homes. There are at least fifty vessels here now, and others coming in every hour. The Harriet Lane has just arrived from New York with Com. Porter on board.

Within Forty Miles of Knoxville. The Louisville Journal has received a letter from Barbourville, Ky., giving the particulars of another victory over the rebels, achieved by Gen. Carter, at Big Creek Gap, near Jackboro, Campbell county, Tenn.—Two rebels were killed, four wounded, one of whom died subsequently, and fifteen were taken prisoners, including Lieut. Col. White, who was in command. All the stores, munitions, camp equipage, and animals of the rebels were captured. General Carter, with his Tennessee regiment and one hundred of the Ashland cavalry, commanded by Capt. Milward, of Lexington, after the battle, took possession of Jackboro, which is this side of Knoxville. The prisoners were sent back to Barbourville, Knoxville county, Ky, and Gen. Carter has a large number of loyal Tennesseans who have flocked to his standard and are anxious to be led against the rebel foe. As soon as Gov. Johnson's proclamation has reached that part of the State and arms can be forwarded to the Unionists there, they will be able to take possession of some point on the Tennessee & Virginia Railroad, and cut off the rebel facilities for intercommunication.—Letters state that our friends are in the highest spirits and confident of success, hoping soon to obtain weapons and reinforcements to carry the war further into the insurgent territory.

OBITUARY. Died, March 7th, 1862, of Lung Disease, WM. BAILY, in the 83d year of his age.

When BAILY professed religion, and in the arms of the C. P. Church, in Carmichaels, in March, 1842, in the communion of which he has lived a consistent member for 20 years. He is so well known that I deem it useless to dwell on his life. He closed his life in full hope of eternal life at God's right hand.
