TERRIBLE TRAGEDY IN BUFFALO.

On Thursday morning Moses Mernard, a Frenchman, accidentally shot his wife under the supposition that she was a burglar who had entered the room. He states that on his return home the night before, he was informed by his wife that some men had endeavored to gain admission to the house during his absence.—She persuaded him to load his gun, which he placed by the bedside. In his statement he says:

"I was wakened by some noise in the morning, and found that the light on the table had been put out. It was almost dark in the room, but I could see some body standing between the little table and the head of the bed. I was so excited that I didn't think of its being my wife—remembering what I had told her when I went to sleep—and snatched my gun from the corner, raised quickly, and with my back to the foot of the bed, fired at the shape. I didn't know whether I aimed at the head or where. I heard a fall after I had fired, and getting up and slightly opening the front door to let the light in, saw it was my wife. The curtain over the window made the room so dark before.

The discharge of the gun attracted the attention of some officers who entered the house. The room was a small one, about fifteen feet square. At the further left hand corner stood a bed, and in front of the bed, prostrate on the floor, with face downward, lay the corpse of a woman.—Half the upper part of her head was shot off, and a pailful of blood and brains surrounded it. The wall beside the bed, about six feet above the floor, was spotted with brains and perforated with shot, and a chair directly beneath held the mass of brains that had fallen. Standing just in front stood Mernard himself, half dressed, and holding his trowsers in his hand. In the middle of the bed lay an infant slumbering.

Mernard was taken into custody.
