BEMERRANCE.

"Man hath a weary pilgrimage As through the world he wends, Quevery sings from youth to age Still discontent attends; With heaviness he casts his eye Upon the road before And still remembers with a sigh The days that are no more.

"To school the little exile goes, Torn from his mother's arms,-What then shall soothe his earliest woes, When novelty hath lost its charm? Condemn'd to suffer through the day Restraints which no rewards repay, And cares where love has no concern: Hope lengthens as she counts the hours Before his wish'd return.

From hard control and tyrant rules, The unfeeling discipline of schools, In thought he loves to roam; And tears will struggle in his eye While he remembers with a sigh, The comforts of his home."

"Youth somes; the toils and cares of life Townest the restless mind: Where shall the tired and harass'd heart Its consolation find.

Then is not youth as Fancy tells, Life's summer prime of joy? Ah, no! for hopes too long delay'd, And feelings blasted or betray'd The fabled bliss destroy;

The careless days of infancy. Meturer manhood now arrives.

And other thoughts come on. But with the baseless hopes of Youth Its generous warmth is gone; Gold calculating cares succeed, The timid thought, the weary deed, The dull realities of truth; Back on the past he turns his eye; Remembering with an envious sigh The happy dreams of youth."

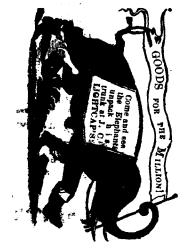

"So reaches he the latter stage Of this our mortal pilgrimage, With leable stop and alow; New ills that latter stage await, And old experience learns too late That all is vanity below. Life's vain delusions are gone by, Itadile bears are o'er, Yet age remembers with a sigh, The days that are no more."

Example is a living lesson. The life speaks. Every action has a tongue. Words are but articulate breath. Deeds are the fac-similes of the soul; they proclaim what is within. The child notices the life. It should be in harmony with goodness Keen is the vision of youth; every remark is transparent. If a word is thrown into one balance, a deed is thrown into the other. Nothing is more important than that parents should be consistent. A sincere word is never lost; but advice, counter to example, is always suspected. Both cannot be true, one is false.

MUTCH IM A SMATL PLACE.—A very celebrated Scotch divine says :-"The world which we inhabit must have had an origin; must have consisted in a cause; that must have been intelligent; that intelligence must have been efficient; that efficiency must have been ultimate; that ultimate power must have been supreme; and that which always was and is supreme, we know by the name of God.

Third and Market Street.

We, the undersigned, take pleasure in recommending Mr. GBO. P. WERTZ, manufacturer of "Venetian Blinds," to the favorabla notice of our friends and the public generally. His work is executed will much taste and durability; in fact, it surpasses anything we have seen in the Blind business, East or West. He uses nothing in his line but the set of material, such as can be relied upon. Mr. West is very prompt, and always ready to oblige his customers. Price reasonable. In short, he is the excelsior of our city, and most worthy of our influence and patronage.
