The Holtdays.

The holidays seem to have been joyously observed all over the land. Shop-keepers have reapt a plentiful harvest of greenbacks, young and old feasted on "fat things," and the little ones were made rich in toys and sweetmeats. Not even the gallant soldiers were forgotten, but were remembered by , a household, village and neighborhood.

The Editor's Cow.

The Senior Editor of the Messenger is the unfortunate owner, (as the sequel will show.) of as fine a Muley Cow as ever graced a dairy or put her foot in a cedar pail,-a golden-skinmed, Durham half-breed, affording, ten months of the year, an abundant supply of rich and delicious milk to a half-doz en doating and expectant urchins,-a mug, now and then, to needy neighbors, and an occasional roll of as sweet yellow butter as has tempted or greased the appetite of an epicure "within the memory of man." Such a cow !-but language fails to do her justice. Well, for two long months past we have been trying to prevail on every other farmer we have met within a circle of five miles of our village to furnish us with enough hay, fodder or straw to winter the invaluable animal, offering, in return, fabulous prices in "icabs," "greenbacks" or "puffs." Touched by our appeals, we have in some instances drawn tears from their eyes and ample yellow sotion handkerchiefs from their breeches pocketa, but never yet a straw from their rye stacks or a stalk from their corn shocks! if we except a single load of fodder sent us by our amiable and sympathizing friend, Morgan R. Wise, Esq , of Franklin, (long be his memory green 'n Brindle's soul, if she has one, and we are half inclined to believe this cow has.)to accommodate us, but he had broken his of carroway seeds." wagon,"-another "hadn't a straw more than he needed." (a close calculator that,)-another "hadn't time to haul," but could spend two days in the week loafing about town or toasting his shins by his back log, -and so on till mere "bosh" in nine instances out of ten, but last legs," and is barely plump enough to cast a shadow on a clear day, and has not been able, for a fortnight past, to "lift her voice" in vain protest against her owner's ill-treatment. But for the precarious subsistence eked, by highclimbing, from country wagons, her course would trave long since been run, and she would have been browsing in the green and luxuriant pastures and by the quiet waters of cowparadise. Louth to leave our caressing "little ones," however, and fertile and enterprising in in, what is to be done? Do none of our subscribers care enough for the poor brute to bring us a load or two of hay, straw, fodder or feed If not, will they come and take the cow as a gift? and come quickly? for starvation, at an early day, is inevitable. And if she die thus, "let no man write her epitaph!"

The Banquet at the Hamilton House.

The Supper and Hop at the Hamilton House on New Year's evening passed off most delightfully. Young and old participated with the keenest zest in the festivities, and They want to be indemnified in case legislabetween wit, and dance, and choice viands, tion is not procured, legalizing the act, and scription Law. Office in the Register's Office kept up the fun till the "wee, small hours." The turn out was as large as expected, notwithstanding the inclement weather, and the cat hauling from Republicans hereabouts for arrangements reflected much credit on the not doing what the Beaver Board refused to Committees having them in charge, and on do. A child was once walking through a strange country, led by his father's hand. The loving parent had pointed out to him, far away 4. Persons who were not twenty years of in the distance, the home to which they were age or over forty-five on the 2d day of July going; and now the child's mind was troubled, for the road seemed to lead quite another 5. Persons who were over thirty-five and way. "Are you sure we are in the right But his father's only answer was, "Trust to

Again the little questioner spoke: "I can not see how we shall ever get there by climbing this steep mountain side." Still the reply was, "Keep fast hold of my hand, and fear nothing." So the father and son went on their way until, when the little feet were very weary, a sudden turn in the road wed them that they were at home.

Now, it is in such a way that God often leads his children. They are like the little one who was so puzzled about the way .-"What will become of us?" they often ask, "What will be to-morrow? or next year? or twenty years to come?" Now, such questions are like the child's. The proper anso when to-morrow comes you will find that God is taking care of you and helping you still, and in the end all will be well."
