All About the Wheat Crops.

WHEAT IN INDIANA.—The Plymouth, Marshall county, Indiana Republican says of the wheat crop of that county:

Several intelligent farmers in this county, of whom we have made inquiries the past week concerning the growing wheat crop, say it is badly damaged, and cannot possibly make half a crop.

WHEAT IN KENTUCKY.—The Henderson (Ky.,) Reporter says of the wheat crop in that section:

It gratifies us to state that the wheat in this section is not injured so badly as at first supposed. In many places where it was thought the wheat was entirely killed by the cold, it is coming out again and promises to yield an average crop. Only in low places is the wheat seriously hurt.

THE OHIO WHEAT CROPS.—Col S. D. Harris, of the Ohio Cultivator, reports to the Columbus Statesman that in Eastern Ohio, the prospects for a good wheat crop are not very cheering.—Wherever the snow was blown off the fields by the bitter wind in January last, the seed was frozen and the young sprout killed. In places where it is evident there was heavy drifts of snow the crop looks bright and promising.—A few days of warm weather will develop the extent of the injury, and enable a better judgment of the prospects.

THE WHEAT CROP IN IOWA.—We understand, and are sorry to learn, from farmers in various parts of the country, that the winter wheat was materially injured by the cold, dry, windy weather, a few weeks since.—There was a larger extent of land sown in this variety of grain than usual, and the prospect for a big crop was excellent until the period we speak of.

A Singular Contest.

Two Gentlemen of high birth the one a Spaniard, and the other a German, having rendered Maximilain II. many services, they each, for recompense, demanded his natural daughter Helena in marriage. The prince, who entertained equal respect for them both, could not give either the preference; and, after much delay, told them that from claims they both had to his attention and regard, he could not give his assent for either of them to marry his daughter, and they must decide it by their own powers and address; but as he did not wish to risk the loss of either, or both, by suffering them to fight with offensive weapons, he had ordered a large bag to be brought, and who was successful enough to put his rival into it, should obtain his daughter. This strange combat between two gentleman was in the presence of the whole imperial court, and lasted half-an-hour. At length the Spaniard yielded to the German, Andre Elhard, Baron of Tethera, who, when he had got his adversary into the bag, took him on his back and placed him at the Emperor's feet, and on the following day married the beautiful Helena.

Sty on the Eye-lid.

An exchange says:—Put a teaspoonful of black tea in a small bag; pour on it enough boiling water to moisten it, then put on the eye pretty warm.—Keep it on all night, and in the morning the sty will most likely be gone; if not a second application is certain to remove it.

The Publishers or "The Age" could easily fill their columns with the unsought and most liberal commendations throughout the country, but they prefer that it should stand altogether upon the claims to public confidence, well known and established. They believe it has this reputation by the candor, fearlessness and independence with which it has been conducted, through times of extraordinary confusion of ideas on public subjects, and latterly of almost unexampled public trial. It is now, and will be, as heretofore, the supporter of truly national principles, opposed alike to radicalism and fanaticism in every form, and devoted to the maintenance of good government, law and order.

The Publishers of THE AGE conceive that it thus renders peculiar services and has peculiar claims upon all men by whom its principles are valued, and who, by the proper means, look to promote and secure the Constitutional restoration of the Union. These can best show their sense of the untiring efforts of the publishers, in behalf of this great and unparalleled cause, by earnestly sustaining this paper, in all its business relations.
