From Sherman the news is still favorpble. He is making good time, being now in possession of Kirgston, Rome, . Cassville and the line of the Eutowah, The telegraph and railroad keep peace withhim. The next important town Marietta, a city of considerable manufacturing importance. The Eutowah Iron Works lie only ten miles beyond Cassville. From these, numerous and extensive, come almost all the rebel supplies for cannon, ball, shells, &c.-The rebel army keeps pretty clear of his front, and it is likely that Johnston has gone on to Atlanta to make preparations for a desperate defence. There will be, undoubtedly, a severe struggle for that very important point, and we should not be surprised if Gov. Brown of Georgia, who has always been fractious and troublesome to Jeff Davis, should not allow another Georgia soldier to go to Virginia even if he does and a thousand prisoners. not demand that those who are now with Lee should be sent back. Georgia her demands amount to laws.

Gen. Crooks is gradually retiring, having destroyed vast amounts of supplies and the railroad so that it cannot be repaired within three grouphs. This, if true, puts an end to the belief and hope that he will advance against Lynchburg, the great rebel depot for supplies and devository for their wounded. The conduct of Griffin, who furnished a coffin for the body in order that its burial might be a proper one, is highly appreciated by our officers.

From North Carolina.

A letter from North Carolina states that the enemy are sending all of their available forces from that State to Vir North Carclina railroads to the relief of Opposite the Greene House,

General Palmer who defended Newburn so successfully last February against a formidable attack of the enemy, is now in command of that strong-hold. He is an old army officer of accomplished skill and bravery, who enjoys the entire confidence of all the Departments. If the navy will take care of the rebel rams, General Palmer will take good care of Newburn.

Washington dispatch, midnight May 17th, says Gen. Grant's reinforcements amount to 29,000. The indications are that he will avoid a battle at Spottsylvania, by a flank movement, and move towards Richmond. Lee is massing his right, evidently anticipating such a design. He is declared to be depriving other points of rebeldom of troops, to check Grant, and will contest every trees and all other claims against the Government promptly collected. design.
