Helmhold's store on Broadway New York, has been sold for $148,000.

The Rebel Ex-General R. S. Ewell is dead.

The bridal outfit of the celestial young woman who, is about to marry the Emperor of China will cost, it is said, one million of dollars.

On the night of December 22d the steamship America was burned while on a voyage between Rio Janeiro and Montevideo, and eighty-seven passengers were either drowned or burned to death.

John Reed was arrested and committed to jail in Baltimore on Saturday night last charged with stealing coal. If John had stolen a whole yard coal and all, he would have been considered smart and would most likely have escaped punishment.

The Republican Convention will assemble at Harrisburg on the 10th of April next for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor and other State officers, and to select an electoral ticket and delegates to the National Convention.

The Board of Directors of the Anglo-American Telegraph company have issued a card stating that the insulation of the Atlantic cable is beginning to fail, but not to such an extent as to interfere as yet with the transmission of messages. Tests are to be made with a view of remedying the evil if possible to do so.

In the town of Thayer, Iowa, a place of one thousand inhabitants, the small-pox is raging to a fearful extent, no less than sixty deaths having occurred from the disease. Nearly every person in the town is afflicted with the plague, and no trains are allowed to stop at the place.

The widow of Gen. Lee wants Congress to pay her $300,000 for the Arlington estate sold while her husband was leading armed traitors and bought by the Government. This estate is now consecrated by the mouldering remains of thousands of loyal heroes who lost their lives in fighting these same traitors, and it is not likely that Congress will surrender the title or give much heed to this demand, which was submitted recently in the shape of a petition to that body.

Congress has appropriated $50,000 for the entertainment of the Japanese Embassy, which recently arrived at San Francisco. The Embassy in question is the most important one that has ever been sent to this country. At the head of it is the Prime Minister, and there are also several members of the Mikado's Cabinet. The whole party numbers one hundred and fifty persons. Among them are twenty-three youths who come as students, and five young women who are to be sent to some seminary. The official rank of the men of this Embassy gives it an importance beyond that of any former party of Japanese that has visited America and Europe. The Mikado, who seems to have become thoroughly imbued with the American spirit of progress, sends this deputation, with special instructions indicating this spirit, and the members are themselves said to be thoroughly progressive. The fact is, Japan is sure to become, to a large extent, Americanized, and the visit of this new body of enlightened men, on a mission to study our institutions, social and political, is destined to hasten the completion of the work.

WHAT A DREAM DID—The Forto Wayne Sentinel soberly narrates the following as a fact: A gentleman of high social position living in this country has a son engaged as a clerk in a large mercantile house in Omaha. A few weeks ago the father received a letter from his son to the effect that he had been robbed of $5,000 belonging to his employer while returning from a collecting trip into the country. The father was naturally troubled by the intelligence, and when he retired to his room for the night he lay awake for some time thinking of the occurrence. At last he fell asleep, and, as it seemed to him, he was sitting by a table in a bed-chamber of—Hotel, of Omaha, listening to the conversation of two young men who were recalling the particulars of a robbery in which they had just been concerned, while they counted over the proceeds of the same with an exultant air.

Learning the number of their room he descended the stairs, consulted the register, fixed their names in memory, together with the date under which they were written, and then awoke. He immediately wrote a letter to his son requesting him to call at the—Hotel look at the register, and if he found the names of John B. Wilson and James Frank inscribed on its pages under the date of November, to have the parties found, arrested and charged with the theft of the five thousand dollars. The son followed the directions, and from a letter received by the father yesterday we learn that the said John B. Wilson and James Frank were arrested at the said hotel, that they confessed to the felony, that $4,812 of the lost money was recovered, and that the offenders had been sent to the penitentiary.

Local News.

To OUR PATRONS.—In addition to our usual expenses during last year this office incurred a heavy indebtedness in the procurement of a new press and material, the bulk of which indebtedness falls upon us next spring, and the object of our present writing is to bring this fact clearly before patrons in arrears, either to large or small amounts. For the outlay we ask nothing but prompt payment of what is due, the subscription and advertising rates remaining the same as before the enlargement. We therefore intend this as an earnest appeal for payment on the part of ALL in arrears. It would be difficult for us in the midst of a throng season to draw off the accounts of individual subscribers living in distant parts of the country. They have an idea as to the amount of their indebtedness and can enclose the money, a check or P. O. order through the mail; where doubts exist as to the amount they can give us the benefit of them by sending enough, which will be properly placed to their credit. This notice, or their failure to comply with it, will tell us who our "dead heads" are.

DEAD.—John S. Pennell, a much esteemed citizen of Mechanicstown, Md. died on the 23d inst., in the 58th year of his age.

DEAD.—Capt. James Brown, a well-known citizen, died at his residence, near Brown's Mill, this county, on Saturday night last, in about the 68th year of his age.

An exchange says pulse warmers are pretty and proper protectors during this winter. Well, the question arises what are "pulse warmers"?

Be careful, Waynesboro' ladies, how you press a fellow's arm, now-a-days. It may be the unhappy lover has been vaccinated and is too polite to yell.

COLD.—A "cold snap" has been upon us since Monday last, the coldest weather of the season. Fortunately a light covering of snow protects the grain fields to some extent.

SOLD.—Abm. R. Kohler recently sold the well-known Tavern Stand, at Ringgold, Md., for the sum of $1,700, to Mr. John Hoffman, who is to get possession of the property on the first of April next.

OLD CUCUMBER.—Mr. Jno L. Newcomer, of Ringgold District, has a Cucumber in his possession in a perfect state of preservation, which beats our friend Good's. It was raised by Mrs. Mathias Stouffer during the summer of 1827.

The latest new thing out is the "Velvet Gaiter"—for the ladies, of course. They are said to be immensely popular in the cities—a kind of leap year attraction, with which the ladies expect to walk over the track this year, and everything before them.

Charles Wright, formerly of Chambersburg, was last week convicted of murder in the second degree at Hollidaysburg, and sentenced to the Penitentiary for five years and six months. His victim was a man named Devine, whom he murdered in a bar-room in Atlanta on the night of July 3d, 1871.

Col. Gray, (Rep.) was elected the 4th Senatorial District, Philadelphia, on Tuesday, over Col. A. K. McClure, (Ind.) by 850 majority.

LEGAL ADVERTISING.

A bill is now pending before the Legislature relating to legal advertising, having been reported favorably from the committee on Printing and Publishing on Thursday last. The bill provides that all legal advertising shall be published in the two newspapers of the county-seat having the largest circulation.

We warn the newspaper men of the State to be on their guard lest this bill become a law, when it will be a benefit to a few at the expense of the many. We but express the sentiments of the people of Franklin County in pronouncing the measure a monstrous outrage—and we believe that four-fifths of the citizens of the State, if they had an opportunity to express themselves, and that every journalist, not in the ring which is at the bottom of this job, will agree with us.—Public Opinion.

A similar law was enacted several years since for several counties, Franklin included, when the parties in this county, in whose favor the discrimination was made, at once doubled their advertising rates for such notices. Persons in this township, administering upon estates were compelled to pay the publishers in Chambersburg ten dollars instead of getting the same work done here for two dollars and fifty cents. This too, in the face of the fact, that our paper circulated generally in the section to which the business of the deceased was confined, whilst that of the selectees was confined to a scattered few. The law was felt to be odious and oppressive and the citizens of our county petitioned the Legislature and had it promptly repealed. What was true in this region at that day would doubtless again be enacted here and elsewhere should the bill under consideration be finally passed and become a law. The present movement is therefore only the renewal of an old piece of strategy among a class of mercenary publishers to get at the pockets of those who may have estates to settle up. The unfairness, if not down right rascality, behind this movement, is too apparent to escape detection. The member of the Legislature who would vote for the enactment of a law so unrighteous would merit the execration of men of all parties.

IMPORTANT R. R. NEWS.—Our Railroad news this week is of a cheering character. Our Railroad Committee are not only pushing successfully the work of taking subscriptions, but our information from the Harrisburg & Potomac Railroad Company is still more encouraging and leaves no doubt of an early commencement of the work of grading in this region in the Spring. Our Committee should use their utmost endeavors to finish up their work between now and the first of April.

Between twelve and thirteen miles of the road east of the mountain are already graded, and a large force of hands, despite the winter weather, are rapidly pushing forward the work, which is certainly encouraging to us who are on the line of a road of such magnitude in importance. A scientific gentleman who has traversed only in part the site of the line of this road gives it as his opinion that there are iron deposits enough along it to keep 100 furnaces in blast for a hundred years. Under such circumstances who among our citizens or farmers should hesitate to invest liberally in the stock of this Company? We say then to our R. R. Committee and citizens and farmers generally who have not yet subscribed, GET READY!

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—MR. JOSEPH KEEPERS, who runs a regular freight wagon between this place and Greencastle, met with a sudden and distressing accident, on Saturday morning last, at the Mill of Mr. Samuel Frantz, about one mile west of town. He had finished the work of loading his wagon with flour, and was in the act of shifting one of the barrels when his hold slipping and he was thrown out of the wagon his head striking the hard ground with such a force as to render him insensible, in which state he was conveyed to his home and continued unconscious for several hours. Drs. Frantz and Snively were in regular attendance his life being despaired of for several days. We are gratified to learn, however, that at last accented a change for the better had taken place, and that hopes of his recovery are now entertained. Mr. K. is an industrious and well-doing citizen, and in his serious affliction has the sympathy of our citizens generally.

The following verses, said to be the composition of a Waynesboro' School Miss, are not bad, in sentiment, at least. We publish by request:

THE MOUNTACHE.
O, Barber, spare that young mountache,
Touch not a single hair;
Your razor, brush, and other trash,
Must never venture there.

At last the bud has burst out,
By much caressing taught,
Its frail young tendrils how they sprout;
Then, barber, touch it not.

Though well laid out, and rich the field,
Whence this young mountache shoots,
The sickly soil no more can yield—
O, then guard well its roots;

For should thy murderous blade sweep o'er
That curv'd lip's shadowy moist;
The tender plants would bloom no more;
Then, barber, O, desist!

Think of the fair young girl whose lip
Was wont so oft to press,
That budding mouth, its sweets to sip—
O, think of her distress!

'Tis unfeeling manhood's pride and joy,
With sighs and tears 'twas brought;
Let no rude stroke its life destroy—
O, barber, touch it not!

Harrisburg Correspondence.

Harrisburg, January 20, 1872.
On this glorious day, for it is glorious, watching the sunshine on the sidewalks, through the windows as I am doing just now in the Senate chamber of the "House on the Hill," and watching the English sparrows, as in small flocks they settle in the graveled walks and busy themselves in picking up whatever of crumbs have been dropped by some kind and friendly hand. These foreigners right here in our Capitol in mid-winter, are little beauties with plump, round bodies of a russet hue, bright eyes and soft summer-like twitter, but they rise with a whirl into a neighboring evergreen, and I withdraw my eyes, and shall endeavor to fix my thoughts more on what I am endeavoring to do, and that is write a lively, gossipy letter about the Senate and House, and the Solons sent up this winter to adjust the rigging of the old ship of state, and properly trim her ballast (the Treasury) and under the skipper-ship of his Excellency the Governor, get "her" once more fairly before the wind on the sea of time. "So mote it be." The Senate chamber has been re-upholstered, as also the chamber of the House, and both are at present, with bright cheerful brussels carpets, lobbies with finely cushioned seats, desks, re-varnished and new cloth on top, window curtains costing two hundred dollars per window, bronze statues supporting the gas at the speaker's desk, in a really very comfortable, if not gorgeous state. The little bill handed in to be added for this work was only thirty-six thousand dollars, which of course the people cheerfully consent to pay. Thus far.

IN THE TWO HOUSES
but little business has been transacted, the rough lock which can be brought to bear in the Senate by the Democrats until after the election in the 4th District, no doubt keeping back any business of importance unless purely local, will be removed during the coming week, either Mr. Gray, (Republican) or Mr. A. K. McClure, (Independent) occupying the vacant seat, when the ball will no doubt go on quite lively until the adjournment fixed by a joint resolution for the last of March—a rather short time for much "boiling around."

of the battle of Gettysburg—seems likely to cause considerable merriment, and in fact has done so already in both Houses, as when discussed, in the Senate something about sending it around a-la-panorama in charge of some honest soldier on a fixed salary with a monkey and organ accompaniment, was talked of, the proceeds to go to building an asylum for destitute and suffering soldiers and seamen of the State, something that this great Commonwealth has not yet done; but for the present at least, it is settled.

A joint committee of 5 from either house have authority in the premises, and all questions (and they are divers in the extreme) are to be referred to this committee—Philadelphia will get it, though, as she has the reputation here of gobbling everything, Old Independence Hall, Independence Bell, Jackson Chair, Battle-flags, Battle Pictures, and in fact, everything, oh, she's an awful gormon, I tell you. While speaking of this City, I wonder if she has any "rings." Because the other day a member from Allegheny offered an amendment to a bill that was likely to seriously affect the various offices of the court of Philadelphia county, as well as Allegheny, and presto! here they were, all, sheriffs, prothonotaries, recorders, clerks, and a whole host of them crowding the lobby of the House. I am not sure but all the judges, and may be some of the criminals were here, fighting that bill, and they crippled it so that I think the poor bill hardly knew itself when they were done, and so they went away smiling.

BANQUETS AND RECEPTION
Last week two very elegant affairs passed off, one at the State Capitol Hotel, by the Governor to the Republican members of both Houses and his Staff, together with a few invited guests. The other at the Bolton was given by Mr. Dougherty, to his democratic friends, with a sprinkling of republicans. Both passed off in high style. Yesterday evening the Governor and lady received the members at the Executive Mansion. May write you again.

ALEXIS.
Some one whose head is level gets off the following: "People who sit nervously, in counting houses or behind their goods, waiting for customers to take them by storm and make no effort to let the world know the bargains they have to offer, will find the season very unpropitious. Many of those who have spent large sums in hiring drummers and paying for other well known appliances of trade, have effected larger sales, but swallowed up two large shares of the receipts in such enormous attendant expenses. The best remuneration has been by those who have returned to more legitimate old fashioned methods of pushing their business. We say it, not simply because we are interested in this line of expenditures, but as our best advice to all who wish to be enterprising and to secure a larger custom, that there is nothing now so effective to this end as judicious advertising. A little advertising may be like a gentle touch of the whip to poor Dobbin's horse, "a mercy thrown away," but a liberal outlay is almost certain to bring in a large return, and this will last even beyond the current season. We do not believe any one who has valuable services or desirable property to offer, can fail of reaping a rich harvest by continuous advertising on a large scale.

Examination Day in Quincy.
The sun rose clear on the morning of the first of August, eighteen hundred and seventy-one. That morning had long been the subject of our thoughts. It must be confessed, that it was looked forward to with some serious misgiving, by some of us at least. At the close of that day we expected to see all we knew summed up on a piece of paper.

I think we were all a little fearful of the result. Our worthy Preceptor, Mr. J. W. Brown, tried to keep us in good spirit about it. At length the eventful hour arrived. The school house was well filled with those who wished to engage in teaching school. Our County Superintendent arrived about nine o'clock. He proceeded to examine us, first in Orthography. Some of our class felt pretty nervous at first, but we soon partially regained our self-control. The next branch which our superintendent thought fit to examine us on was Arithmetic.

Some of the teachers did not seem to understand this branch very well. The next in order was Grammar. One of the sentences given us to parse caused some of the teachers a good bit of trouble. One teacher wished to introduce a new part of speech, called "goose feathers." Another tried to analyze a sentence and stopped to say that he had never studied books "with them things in."

Next came Reading. Some of the teachers seemed to think the louder they could yell the better the reading. The Superintendent then awarded us our certificates. When we received them we were all agreeably surprised. I think we all got along better than we expected. After examination day was over we came to the conclusion that it was not such a dreadful day, after all.
