

THE DEVIL ON THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD—He Runs the Philadelphia Express—A Phantom Train, &c. The Columbia Courier is responsible for the following:

The "debil am out on a big rampage" along the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He is seen at various places along the road, and in different shapes. One night last week, after the Philadelphia express left Tyrone station, his satanic majesty got on the engine with Soll, Hoffmaster. He looked around for a moment then taking the poker from the fireman, opened the fire door and stirred the fire, at the same time sticking his feet in. He then sat down stretching out his immense legs and bringing his tail around laid it between his cloven hoofs. Sometimes wings could be seen about his shoulders; he was very particular about the fire; some times he would put his head in the fire-box and look around, then throw in his tail, stirring the fire at a rapid rate. By this time he had got warmed up, and so had the engineer and fireman; who were nearly scared to death. The engine was making thirty-five miles an hour when the devil picked up the oil-can, went out and oiled the locomotive in all its parts. He then returned, and requested Mr. Hoffmaster to slack up and let him off at bridge No. 5; but Mr. H. told him he might get off the same way he got on. The engine was then running at a fearful rate of speed, and Mr. Devil stepped to outside and disappeared.

We learn since that a phantom train was seen in the vicinity of the Gap. Some nights ago, David Wayne, engineer of 477 had stopped for some purpose when a train was heartily approaching at a rapid rate. Knowing there was no train due at that hour, schedules were examined carefully; but the stranger could not be made out. At length it came thundering around the curve with an immense head-light and other equipments. The conductor, A. Bell, engineer, fireman, and brakeman all saw and heard the train coming. The flagman, John K. Newell immediately went back with a light and placed signal-caps upon the rails. The phantom train came, making the usual noise and lighting the whole track with its huge lurid glare, when in a twinkling the whole thing disappeared. Some say it was old Amos Clemson's train—the notorious leader of the Gap gang, who died several years ago—and that he was aboard swimming a red light furiously.

John Filbert, engineer of the Lancaster train, informs us that when approaching Pequea bridge, some nights ago, he saw the devil on the covecatcher of his engine. He was running at the rate of thirty miles an hour, he quickly shut off the steam and slackened up, but could not see anything more of the strange object. These stories are creating a great deal of comment among railroad men. We give them as told to us, and leave the readers to draw their own conclusion.

According to published accounts the number of people employed in the primary production of iron in the United States is set down at 140,000; of whom 58,000 are employed in rolling mills, 45,000 in preparing ore and fuel; 25,000 in preparing fuel for rolling mills; in blast furnaces, 12,500, and at forges and bloomeries, 2,500. In addition to this it is computed that 800,000 persons are employed in manufacturing articles of iron, which gives a total of 940,000 people connected in one way or another with the iron interests.

Free trade proposes to drive all these people out of employment, or to make them find employment at something else. Is it wise.

The breaking up of the ice on the Ohio and Mississippi river has been attended with fearful loss. At Cincinnati upwards of sixty barges freighted with coal and six first-class steamboats have been wrecked, in two instances the steamboats having been reduced to kindling wood by the great pressure of the gorged ice. On Thursday the ice was piled up fifteen feet high in a solid mass, and in other places huge cakes, after floating down the channel, would suddenly be hurled against steamboats and barges. Thus were gorges created, and in a short time thereafter a crash would take place, the boats crushed to atoms or forced high and dry upon the shore. It is estimated that the loss of boats, barges and cargoes thus far is not less than half a million of dollars.

The joy of the Londoners at the recovery of the prince of Wales, which is to find vent on the 27th inst., promise to be a noticeable event in London. Stores and dwellings will be elaborately decorated, and a royal procession through the streets will add to the demonstration. Seats are being erected in the streets through which the procession is to pass, and bouquets and windows are commanding fabulous prices.

The Chesapeake and Ohio canal is being thoroughly repaired, and it is expected to have it again in full operation by the 5th of March. Nearly 900,000 tons of coal were transported by canal to Georgetown last year. This year the officers hope, with the canal in order, to ship 1,000,000 tons.

Main is tending in the direction of female suffrage. A bill has been presented to the Legislature giving women the right to vote at presidential elections.

Thomas Scott is reported to receive $130,000 a year as the sum of his united salaries from the different railroads under his control.

The whole Mormon ticket was recently elected in Salt Lake. Croys of Mormon women and girls flocked to the polls and voted.

RAILROAD FEELING.—So far as we have been enabled to learn there is at present a better railroad feeling in our town and neighborhood than has existed for years. Should the Baltimoreans favor the move to connect our section with the Western Maryland Railroad, a ten strike, we think, may be safely predicted this time. The actual losses and inconveniences continually sustained for this great want—the want of railroad facilities—is more surely realized among all classes now than ever before. The friends of the Harrisburg & Potomac Railroad are ready and willing to join hands to secure this connection, with the conviction that the one will contribute to secure the other. This is the right feeling and we are glad that it prevails so generally. The interests of our agriculturists, merchants, mechanics and manufacturers especially, admit of no delay in this contemplated railroad movement; and a favorable report from the Committee which is expected to visit our town to-day or tomorrow may be anticipated. Franklin being one of the foremost agricultural counties in the State, with about one hundred and twenty-five merchant mills, and our township the "garden spot" of the county, such a road would beyond all shadow of doubt prove an important feeder to the Western Maryland Railroad and the city of Baltimore. We are therefore confident that our expectations in this view of the matter will be realized and that the shovel and pick will be brought into requisition at an early day. Our railroad men most particularly interested have cause under the circumstances to be of good cheer.
P. S. Since the above was put in type we have been informed that the gentlemen composing the Committee referred to above will visit our town to-day.

DECEASED.—Maj. Geo. Weaver, formerly of Mercersburg, died near Patterson, Ohio, on the 22d of January last, aged upwards of 70 years. A couple of Kenton (Ohio) papers handed us by a relative of the dec'd, contain tributes to his memory highly complimentary. It appears he was among the first Ohio soldiers under General Taylor to distinguish himself on the field of battle in Mexico, and assisting at the storming of Vera Cruz under General Scott accompanied the grand army in its triumphal march to the city of Mexico.
At the breaking out of the late Rebellion he was the first man to leave his county in command of a company of volunteers, and was afterwards promoted to Major of the 4th Ohio Regiment: The Republican says:
He was the first officer in the 4th Ohio to teach the soldiers discipline. He was also the first officer in that Regiment to demonstrate the necessity of his teachings. The soldierly gallantry and skill displayed by him while in command of the advance and rear guard and section of artillery at Romney on the 24th of September, 1861, were so flattering evidences of his efficiency as a soldier. The following extract from a letter written by one of his comrades, two days after the engagement will show his high appreciation entertained for Major Weaver by the members of the 4th Ohio. He said: "His great calmness and valiant courage, coupled with his military skill, commanded the admiration of all, and every soldier of the 4th Ohio felt grateful that they had contributed by their votes to his election as Major of the Regiment on the day before leaving camp."
He continued to serve with that Regiment until 1863, when impaired health and advancing years compelled him to tender his resignation.
In Richland county he held many civil offices of trust and profit and was universally esteemed for business integrity. He lost one eye in the Mexican war, and about three years ago was so unfortunate as to lose the sight of the remaining eye. This was a great calamity to a man of such a restless nature. He often expressed regrets that he had not been killed on the field of battle.

The N. Y. Independent says of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of N. Y.—"it is the largest corporation of the kind in the world. We have known this institution from its very beginning. Its officers and managers have always been good men, and its history fairly illustrates the growth and prosperity of this great metropolis." It will be seen by reference to our advertising columns that our friend, W. A. REID, is agent for the New York Mutual. The company has been fortunate in the selection of Mr. R. who is one of our most energetic and trust-worthy citizens.

WAG EGG.—A story is being passed around among the newspapers to the effect that a Wilmington, (Del.) pullet has produced an egg bearing upon its surface in raised letters the inscription: "War 1872 England and America." A Waynesboro' pullet some years since produced a similar egg with the initials U. S. G., and other characters not now remembered, the letters being raised and perfectly formed, but other pullets discovered the art and a number of specimens in imitation of the first curiosity soon made their appearance. Might not other Delaware pullets be as equally progressive and furnish more "war eggs?"

New Firm.—It will be seen by reference to our advertising columns that two enterprising young men Messrs. GEORGE BEAVER and MILTON JACOBS, have purchased the Town Hall stock of store goods, formerly owned by Mr. D. S. Smith, and purpose continuing the hat, shoe, stationary and notion business there as formerly.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL.—for March has been received. Its contents more than confirm our high opinion of that Magazine's character. The very instructive articles on "Fish culture in America," and "Ague and Fever" are alone worth more than a year's subscription, but besides these there is a long list of readable matter. Attorney-General Williams; Expression; Harriet Homer; Our House-Cars; will it pay? writing for the press; The Arctic regions; James Fisk, Jr.; Lord Brougham's Ghost, Rev. George H. Hepworth, etc., with fine portraits and numerous illustrations. Price 30 cents, or $3.00 a year. S. R. Wells, 389 Broadway, N. Y.

THAT FRIGHT AGAIN.—The mysterious visitant in animal form of the Greencastle Pine Hills, which was a few weeks since announced to have made its appearance in the neighborhood of Shady Grove was recently encountered by Mr. Samuel Barr of the Marsh. Mr. B. says it leaped the fence in front of him and commenced playfully rolling itself on the ground. It is described as about the size of a New Foundland dog, with a long bushy tail, white breast and belly.

A FATAL DISEASE.—A disease pronounced diarrhoea, but by some believed to be cholera, has been prevailing at our State Capitol for sometime with more than ordinary fatality. It is said scores have died of it and that thousands are prostrated with the infection. A gentleman direct from Harrisburg informs us that the popular belief there is that the cause lies in the impurity of the water. At last accounts the mortality was on the increase.

GO TO THE PARADE.—This morning about thirty members of the Waynesboro' Lodge Odd Fellows left for Mercersburg to attend the grand parade in that place to-day, at which Lodges from this and adjoining counties are to be represented.

Educational.
The good cause of education is still on the advance in Quincy township. The schools are all in a praiseworthy condition all over the entire township. The teachers have but few difficulties to contend with this winter.
It may be "poetically" said of them that they live in quite a congenial climate and breathe a pure and healthy atmosphere as far as pecuniary matters at least are concerned. The people of Quincy township have a very efficient and active corps of instructors of whom they have great reason to be proud. If the teachers still continue to do their whole duty the great cause of popular education will move onward in the great arena of life. We are living in a very progressive age and our Common School System is the crowning glory of this important age of progress. It is expected of those who have chosen teaching as their profession to inscribe upon the Common School System by their sound scholarship and proficiency in the theory of teaching that strange device "excellence." A new era has dawned upon the world of science and all those who intend to teach the young idea how to shoot must keep pace with the advancement made in the theory and science of teaching or else give way to more successful teachers. We have a very energetic Board of Directors who show by the interest they manifest in the cause that they have the good of the schools at heart. So long as the welfare of the rising generation is entrusted to such a generous Board of Directors education will not lag behind.—Last fall the Directors showed by their generosity that they determined to compensate good teachers better for their labor. This speaks well for our Directors and is conceded to be a good start from a right standpoint. It has had the desired effect anticipated by the Directors and has drawn some experienced and practical teachers who hold permanent certificates from different localities. If Directors would always compensate teachers well and then require of them better professional qualifications our schools would undergo a thorough change. If all Directors would pursue such a judicious course there would soon be more good teachers because those teachers who hold permanent certificates would be prompted to study more and qualify themselves better for their profession. The teacher's profession stands second to no other profession because the future happiness and prosperity of any people depend upon the instruction given in common schools.—There is no better method to diffuse universal education than by the free school system. The illiterate must be educated and the youthful mind must be trained for a proper discharge of life's duties.—Common school education is intended to prepare young persons for their duty in after life. Educated talent is always preferable in any sphere of life because it eminently fits persons for any calling.—Every teacher ought therefore to qualify himself professionally for the duties of the school room. The time has come when the old mechanical routine of imparting instruction must be dispensed with and a more systematic and philosophical method substituted in its stead or else the grand design of this system will be entirely frustrated. This great change must be wrought out by the teachers whose duty it is to perfect the system of education.

TO OUR PATRONS.—In addition to our usual expenses during last year this office incurred a heavy indebtedness in the procurement of a new press and material, the bulk of which indebtedness falls upon us next spring, and the object of our present writing is to bring this fact clearly before patrons in arrears, either to large or small amounts. For the outlay we ask nothing but prompt payment of what is due, the subscription and advertising rates remaining the same as before the enlargement. We therefore intend this as an earnest appeal for payment on the part of ALL in arrears. It would be difficult for us in the midst of a throng season to draw off the accounts of individual subscribers living in distant parts of the country. They have an idea as to the amount of their indebtedness and can enclose the money, a check or P. O. order through the mail; where doubts exist as to the amount they can give us the benefit of them by sending enough, which will be properly placed to their credit. This notice, or their failure to comply with it, will tell us who our "dead heads" are.
