Of all its surroundings nothing appears more to the disadvantage of a town than bad pavements. Let property holders move in this matter in time, and by putting down substantial brick pavements in place of those worn out or half laid with stone, they will contribute to their own and the public's comfort, the churchgoing portion more particularly. Don't procrastinate, for the probability is that brick will cost more per thousand next season than they do now.

DRESSING FOR CHURCH.—The Bloom field (Pa.)
