

Waynesboro' Village Record.

Thursday, Oct. 24, '72.

Gen. Butler has been renominated for Congress.

William H. Seward leaves $200,000 to be divided between his four children.

O. E. Dalton, who served his country through the war without receiving a scratch, choked to death on fried beef at Evansville a few days ago.

The result of the recent elections in America is very generally discussed by the British press, who regarded the result as a certain indication of the reelection of President Grant.

The Titusville Press says: It is reported that a farmer near Enterprise while pulling his turnip crop with a stump puller a few days since, came near losing his life by the breaking of a chain which let a large turnip settle into the bed suddenly.

The State Executive Committee of the Straight-out Democracy of this State, met at Harrisburg on the 16th inst., and resolved not to form an electoral ticket, but recommended that all "honest Democratic voters" keep out of the Presidential contest, and vote for neither Grant nor Greeley.

The effort to establish a local option law in Philadelphia, giving the right to the several wards to vote on the question whether licenses to sell liquor should not be granted, has resulted in defeat. The proposition was voted on at the election, on Tuesday of last week, in six wards and a majority in favor of license in the usual way was given in each case.

The remains of the late Secretary Seward were interred with becoming honors, at Auburn, New York. The funeral was very solemn and imposing—business was suspended, houses draped in mourning, flags at half mast, and the people assembled in great numbers, from all quarters to pay the last sad tribute of respect.

Among the oldest relics at the Berks county, Pa., fair were a lady's belt three hundred years old, which served for four weddings; a dark glass bottle two hundred and sixty years old; a brass teakettle two hundred years old, and a German copy of the New Testament three hundred and forty-five years old.

The official returns of the late election in Ohio, show that the vote was the largest ever cast in the State. Richard R. Porter, Republican candidate for member of the Board of Public Works, has a majority of 16,455; Allen Wickoff, Republican candidate for Secretary of State, has a majority of 14,055. The Republicans elect twelve Congressmen, the Democrats seven, including one Liberal Republican (H. B. Banning).

The business men of the West do not favor the Currency Contract theory of the National Board of Trade. A movement has been started among them to urge the Secretary of the Treasury to reissue the $40,000,000 of greenbacks recently withdrawn, and a public meeting was held in Chicago in furtherance of the project. The business men of Pittsburg have petitioned the Secretary of the Treasury to the same effect.

TWO MURDERS IN BALTIMORE.—During the torchlight procession in Baltimore on the occasion of Mr. Greeley's visit to that city, two murders were committed by desperados in the procession. As the Seventeenth Ward Club was passing the Republican headquarters in Gay st., there were shouts for Grant given by persons on the sidewalk, when a pistol was fired by some one in the ranks, the ball of which struck and killed Capt. Samuel Barret, an employee in the United States Appraisers office, who was spectator in the crowd.

Later in the evening, while the procession was passing through Aisqueth street, a difficulty occurred with a party of colored men, when another pistol was fired, striking George W. Barret, a colored boy, aged 15 years, who died a few hours after his wound.

Capt. Barret, the murdered man, was only about 25 years of age, and leaves a wife and one child. He served in the Fourth Regiment Veteran Volunteers during the war. These murders caused great excitement in the city. The funeral of Capt. Barret on Sunday was attended by an immense assembly of people.

Governor Whyte and Mayor Vansant, of Baltimore, have each issued a proclamation offering a reward of $500—making $1000 in all—for the discovery, arrest and conviction of the murderer of Capt. Barret, and a similar sum for the apprehension of the murderer of the colored boy, George W. Barret.

REWARD.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company offer $10,000 and a lifetime pass, over all their lines to any one who will impart information that will lead to the arrest of the guilty parties implicated in the Garrettsiding affair about ten days since, whereby the engineer and fireman were killed. We sincerely trust that they will be speedily brought to justice and receive the punishment they so richly deserve.

DYING YEAR.—The Hanover Herald thus discants upon the "Dying Year." The progress of time has again brought us to the season when nature passes through the valley of death. The summer was bright and joyous; beautiful green fields and forest foliage; delightful the flowers and blossoms; charming the fitting, twittering birds; nature was enchantment. But, with October comes a change. The death of vegetation begins. Each bud and blossom, having fulfilled its allotted task in the great and harmonious work of creation, droops and withers and dies.

True, the forest gleams in its gorgeous sheen of scarlet and gold, but its gorgeousness is not the brightness of health and life; it is the hectic flush of death and decay. The birds are gone; the solemn whir of the partridge and the mournful cawing of the sombre crow alone break the solemn stillness of wood and field.—Insect life, too, is almost unheard; the few droning sounds that still linger on the air have naught of the busy hum of the bright summer; they are void of cheer, and seem prophetic of the dreary times to come. The flowers whose graceful stalks and beautiful blossoms were our admiration, now lie drooping and neglected, the life-quenching frost having destroyed their charms. The fields are bare, desolate and drear; the meadows "brown and sere"; the young grain alone gives a slight glimpse of life. The trees bare their mighty arms for the wintry warfare with the elements, and the leaves, withered and dead, are scattered hither and thither, by every idle wind. Thus speedeth away that life, so buoyant in the spring, so joyous in the summer, so transient in its existence.

But, O Autumn, saddest of the seasons, thou hast thy lessons for man, if he will but stay his busy haste after lucre to study out their meaning. Not only nature, but man, too, must die. When his work is done and his mission fulfilled, according to the plan of the Great Designer, whether we think that work done and that mission fulfilled or not, the end cometh, and man is no more. Then shall the autumn of death come to him, and its chilling frosts shall bear away all the brightness, the joyousness of his life.

How like the forest leaves are human hopes; To-day green with the promise of a full fruition, promising to endure forever; to-morrow, dead, withered, and strewn by the fitful careless breeze, wither it listeth. And as the birds fly away to the sunny southland, and thus escape the cold blasts of our cheerless winter, so may man, if he but will, send away his thoughts, when troubles assail and griefs abound, to that promised land, even an heavenly, prepared for the sick at heart from the beginning of the world.

Amid this almost universal death of the vegetable kingdom, man is reassured by the knowledge that it can not endure, that the tide of life will again flow, as full and as free as ever, but a few short months hence. So, too, is he consoled at the thought of the resurrection of his own body, after the winter of death, when in that joyful spring-time of the Resurrection, he shall arise to live forever.

A DAY OF THANKSGIVING.—President Grant has issued the following proclamation, appointing Thursday, the 28th of November next, a day of thanksgiving and praise to God by the people of the United States:

Whereas the revolution of another year has again brought the time when it is usual to look back upon the past, and publicly to thank the Almighty for His mercies and His blessings; and whereas, if any one people has more occasion than another for such thankfulness it is the citizens of the United States, whose government is their creature, subject to their behests, who have reserved to themselves ample civil and religious freedom and equality before the law, who during the last twelve months have enjoyed exemption from any grievous or general calamity, and to whom prosperity in agriculture, manufactures and commerce has been vouchsafed: Now, therefore, by these considerations I recommend that on Thursday, the twenty-eighth day of November next, the people meet in their respective places of worship, and there make acknowledgment to God for His kindness and bounty.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this eleventh day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, and of the independence of United States the ninety-seventh.

STATIONS.—The following are the names of the stations on the Frederick and Pennsylvania Line Railroad; Frederick, Harmony Grove, Johnson's Station, Georgetown, Woodsboro', New Midway, Ladiesburg, Loat's Junction, Taneytown, Shue's Station, Kingsdale and Littlestown. The distance from Frederick to Littlestown is thirty miles, and the fare is $1.20. Loat's Station is where the road intersects the Western Maryland, and is seventeen miles from Frederick.

From New Zealand comes the intelligence that the administration of kerosene has met a decided effect in the cure of chronic rheumatism. The Williamsport (Md.) Pilot says that Joseph Cunningham, a gentleman from Pennsylvania, visiting at the house of Mr. William Snyder, a short distance below Williamsport, died suddenly while sitting in a chair on Wednesday of last week.

Local News.

Presidential election, one week from Tuesday next.

The mountain foliage has suddenly changed its beautiful green for the more somber hues of autumn.

Mountain patrons short of "stamps" can pay their subscription with chestnuts or shellbarks.

James Hersh, Republican candidate for Sheriff of Adams county, was elected by a majority of six.

The recently seeded grainfields was much benefitted by the fine rains of yesterday, and many a town matron no doubt rejoices over a full cistern of pure water.

Mr. B. F. Barr, Administrator of Susan Barr, offers for sale a new brick house and lot of ground in this Borough. See advt.

MILINERY GOODS.—Mrs. K. G. Stover has just received a full supply of new Milinery goods. Ladies are invited to call and see the new styles.

SMALL FARM FOR SALE.—D. H. WILES, Esq., as trustee, offers for sale in to-day's paper a valuable small farm adjoining Leitersburg, in Washington county, Md.

RECOVERING.—Mr. Andrew Wilson is recovering from his injuries, referred to in our last issue. The attending physician, Dr. John M. Ripple, informs us that his hip bone was not dislocated, the cap of which was only broken.

A young lady who is receiving the addresses of one of Waynesboro' sprucest clerks was somewhat taken back Sunday night, when he suddenly dropped down on his knees, and drawing a paper from his pocket blushing read off his declaration of love.

A CURIOSITY.—Mr. Jacob R. Wolfenberger the Mail contractor from Mercersburg to Blue Ridge Summit, has in his possession a Ruber horse which is quite a curiosity. This horse is about 14 or 15 hands high and is considered by all who have seen him a fine specimen. Jake says that the best part of the horse is that he is tough.

FARMS SOLD.—On Tuesday of last week Mr. S. B. Garver, administrator of Henry Byers, dec'd, sold the farm belonging to the estate of said deceased, near Ringgold, containing 51 acres, for the sum of $109, 95 per acre. Purchaser, Mr. John L. Newcomer.

On Saturday last Mr. John Wiles, Assignee of Jacob Wiles, sold the farm on the Ringgold road, long known as the "Snively farm," containing 62 acres, for the sum of $128,70 per acre. Purchaser, Mr. Jacob M. Barr.

The purchasers of the above farms and those who purchased the Shockey farms are all subscribers to the Record. A fact worthy of note to persons who may yet have farms for sale.

IN ARREARS.—JOHN MENTZER, Quincy township, is one among our careless patrons. We don't think he designs in his heart to wrong us or perhaps anybody else out of a cent, but owing to some cause or other he has failed for the last half dozen or more years to give us anything on his subscription account.

DAVID CARBAUGH, Dixon, Lee county, Ill., is another of this class. His intentions may also be good, but during the last ten years he has failed to give us any evidence that such is the case. We have on several occasions forwarded a few lines to his address without receiving a line in reply. By this means we hope to be able to reach him and secure, at least, his attention.

LIFE INSURANCE.—Our neighbor, Mr. W. A. REID, is still in the Life Insurance business. The New York Mutual, for which he is operating, is the oldest company in this country, and if we mistake not, in the world. If any company in existence may be considered safe and reliable to a moral certainty, it is the old New York Mutual, and we therefore have no hesitancy in recommending any of our patrons to Mr. Reid, who may wish to secure a life policy. Where the circumstances of either men or women will admit of their getting such an insurance the propriety is undoubted. No better possible investment can be made. This much from honest convictions, and outside any compensation fee, we can say for Mr. Reid's company, the N. Y. Mutual.

IMPROVED STEAM ENGINES.—The last Scientific American contains an illustrated article of some length, with cuts No. 1, 2 and 3, on the improved steam engine recently constructed by Messrs. Frick & Bowman of this place, which has been on trial and operates most admirably. Mr. Frick's son, a young man about 20 years of age, has invented a balanced slide valve, which is very favorably regarded and commented on by the editor. The device, or improvement, he adds can readily be attached to any engine, either locomotive or stationary, and for railroad locomotives he regards it as peculiarly valuable, the wear of the valve owing to the high pressure of steam used and rapid speed combined, is thus obviated. We understand young Frick has applied for a patent on his improvement.

HELP YOURSELF.—Fight your own battles. Hoe your own row. Ask no favors of any one, and you'll succeed five thousand times better than one who is always beseeching some one's influence and patronage. No one will ever help you as you can help yourself, because no one will be so heartily interested in your affairs.—The first step will be each a long one, perhaps; but carving your own way up the mountain, you make each one lead to another, and stand firm while you chop still another out. Men who have made fortunes are not those who have had five thousand dollars given to them to start with, but boys who have started fair with a well-learned dollar or two. Men who have acquired fame have never been thrust into popularity by puff's begged or paid for, or given in friendly spirit. They have outstripped their own hands and touched the public heart. Men who win love do their own wooing, and I never knew a man to fail so signally as one who induced his affectionate grandmother to speak a good word for him. Whether you work for fame, for love, for money, or for anything else, work with your hands, and heart, and brain. Say "I will," and some day you will conquer. Never let any man have it to say, "I have dragged you up." Too many friends sometimes hurt a man more than none at all.

"AND BEHOLD HE STOOD SPEECHLESS."—The question is sometimes asked—"How is your young men's christian Association getting along?" To all such I would say, come and see. But now let me put this question to each member of the association. How are you getting along? Does the love of Christ and of souls fill your heart? Are you attentive to the means of grace, as afforded in your church, and in the association? Do you attend its meetings? Do you as an individual member of the association do what you can? Do you pray? Can it be said of you he is instant in "season and out of season, fervent in spirit serving the Lord"? Do you try to point others to the cross? Do you say to your neighbor, "come with me I have found the Lord"? Do you preach to your people telling them to take part in the Association's work, and stay away yourself? Now my christian brother, here is a list of direct pointed questions, let us each answer as if to God. "Why stand ye here all the day idle." "Behold, the fields are already white unto the harvest." "MARA!"

TRANSFERS OF REAL ESTATE.—The following transfers of real estate were filed for record in the office of H. T. Snyder, Register and Recorder of Franklin county, during the last week: John Ervin to John Phillips, 25 acres and 13 perches of land, in Washington township, for $5000. William Hammett to John Phillips, a lot of ground, in Waynesboro', for $200. Levi Sanders to John Phillips, 16 acres and 110 perches of land, in Washington township, for $417. Levi Sanders to John Phillips, a lot of ground, in Waynesboro', for $370. Levi Sanders to George Pilkington, a lot of ground, in Waynesboro', for $350.

OFFICIAL.—The following is the official majorities on the state ticket at the late election: Harttrauff's majority is 35,627. Allen's majority is 36,780. Mercer's majority over Thompson for Supreme Judge is 40,443. Of the Congressmen at large, Todd's majority over Wright, the Democratic candidate who had the highest vote, is 43,729. Albright, who had the largest Republican vote, has a majority over Wright of 46,532. Scofield's majority over Wright is 43,999.

The following gentleman were elected Directors to manage the affairs of the W. M. Railroad company for the ensuing year at a meeting of the stockholders in Baltimore on Tuesday a week: J. K. Longwell, George W. Harris, John Walty, Isaac Metter and Joshua Jiggs, all of whom are members of the present board.

The regular quarterly sessions of the Medical Society of Franklin county, was held at Mercersburg on the evening of the 1st inst. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—Dr. I. N. Snively. Vice Presidents—Dr. J. M. Gelwix, Dr. T. M. Kennedy. Corresponding Secretary—Dr. S. G. Lane. Recording Secretary—Dr. W. H. Boyle. Treasurer—Dr. T. J. M'Lanahan. Censor—Dr. A. H. Strickler. The next meeting will be held at Chambersburg, on Tuesday, January 7.

The meteorological records of the Philadelphia Hospital at Philadelphia, which go back to 1790, show that the Summer which has just closed with the month of August has been the hottest ever known in the history of the city. Taken together, we find an average mean temperature for the three Summer months of 79.68 degrees, which is three quarters of a degree, above the figures for the Summer of 1870, which heretofore enjoyed the distinction of being the hottest known in Philadelphia.

Building School Houses

The great importance of building good substantial and commodious school houses is attracting the careful attention of the public and is becoming more apparent to the tax payers as the free schools meet the approval of the people. School houses in which the young and tender minds are to be educated should not be built as farmers build sheep folds merely to protect their flocks from the inclemency of the weather or from winter's stormy blasts.

Do farmers need better barns to shelter their domestic animals in than teachers in these enlightened days of science, art, progress and literature, need comfortable and suitable school buildings in which to impart instruction and intellectual culture to those who may frequent our country schools? Are the patrons of our common schools willing to acquiesce in having their children spend their youthful days in school buildings far inferior in some respects to many fine barns built after the most improved style? Reason and better judgment say no, yet on a careful examination it will be found that the most of the barns that are now being built are far superior to many of the school houses that are now building. Ought our country school houses not to be as pleasantly situated and be built for as much comfort and convenience as our dwellings? Will our school Directors show to the public the truth of this interrogatory by building good school houses?

Just as long as the people neglect the duty which they owe to their offspring just so long will they subject their children to the necessity of spending the best days of their life in old dilapidated school houses. Reform being the popular cry" in this progressive age, how much better it would be for the community if corrupt politicians would cry reform in building good country school houses instead of reform in political matters? There is no department imaginable in which reformation is more needed than in building school houses. The Directors of the township are building two new school houses, one in Pikeville and the other in Waterloo. Had the Directors exercised a little more judgment or forethought in deciding upon a plan for building they would in all probability have decided to have built only one house instead of two. The school sites are in no way suitable because the play grounds surrounding the buildings are not sufficiently large, and the result will be that scholars will of necessity be compelled to trespass upon the adjoining premises. Another very objectionable feature is the houses are entirely too small to accommodate the number of scholars who will be in attendance. But any place is good enough upon which to build a little village school house eight by ten if it should not be a fit situation for a pig sty. The only play grounds about these buildings are those of the public roads. Do the scholars of Washington township deserve no better treatment than this? To be turned out on the highway to play and be exposed to danger every moment just like cattle that are turned out on the roadside to graze. How much better it would have been for the citizens of Pikeville and Waterloo if the Directors had selected a central location with not less than two acres of land upon which to build a large two story building. Such a course would have been a more judicious one, and had such a commodious building been erected with two large rooms, then there could have been two schools organized, one for the primary scholars and one for the more advanced students. What a fine opportunity this would have been for the people to have had a better facility for a more thorough course of instruction? The expense of putting up such a building would not have been as much as it is by putting up two smaller ones and then the people would have had the advantage of a good graded school.—I believe my friend D. D. Fahrney who always manifests a deep interest in school matters and more especially in building fine school houses called the special attention of the Directors to this important matter. Mr. F's suggestions are not always to be disregarded by any means. The public should always be willing to "render honor to whom honor is due" for future experience will establish the fact beyond a doubt that Mr. F. is perfectly right in his opinion, and his suggestions relative to such a contemplated building should have had the favorable consideration of the Directors.
