The Morgantown, (Va.) Post says there are now eighty-three apple distilleries in full blast in that Congressional district composed of 18 counties.

A Persian paper says that the famine which raged so fearfully in that country some time ago, was the means of causing one hundred thousand souls (men, women and children) to perish in the Persian capitol alone, while throughout the country not less than three millions of human beings fell victims to the famine and pestilence.

Mr. Greeley publishes a card, in which he gives notice of his return to the editorial management of the Tribune. He promises "to treat all parties and political movements with fairness," which we are glad to hear. Mr. Greeley, although a very indifferent Presidential candidaté, is a great success as an editor, and his many thousand friends will welcome him back to his old chair.—Ex.

the election in New York State, by trundling her on a wheelbarrow around an entire block of the city. He wheeled her from the corner of Baltimore and Paca Streets, down Baltimore to South Eutaw, down Eutaw to Lombard, up Lombard to Paca, and up Paca to place of beginning. Thousands of persons witnessed the novel proceeding.
