

Thursday, Dec. 12, 1872.

THE MESSAGE.—The annexed is a brief review of the President's Message, which we copy from the Baltimore American: "It is a most comprehensive document, and touches upon all the great issues which for the last year have been topics of political discussion. It is not surprising that the President should refer to the settlement of the Alabama claims as one of the substantial triumphs of his administration, and if there is a tone of conscious satisfaction in the tribute he pays to the men who conducted the Geneva arbitration to a successful and honorable termination, it can easily be pardoned. The experiment of adjusting international difficulties by submitting the same to the consideration and decision of a peaceful tribunal has been tried, and the result has been such as to commend its beneficent methods to the whole world. President Grant might have retired at the end of his first term, and his fame would have been secure, even if it rested upon no other achievement than the inauguration of this mode of settling disputes, which heretofore have been submitted to the arbitrament of the sword.—Coming ages will bless the happy precedent."

Congress is asked to make whatever legislation may be necessary to provide for the disbursement of the money awarded by the Geneva Tribunal to the parties entitled to a pro rata share of the same; and it is also recommended that a Board of Commissioners be created whose duty it shall be to examine and make a settlement of these claims, subject to such regulations as Congress shall prescribe. Although the fifteen and a half million dollars owed by Great Britain is not payable for a year from the date of the award, yet it is important that the proper machinery for the disbursement of the money should be made in advance.

The President's comments upon the Cuban insurrection will be read with profound interest on both sides of the Atlantic. He takes the Abolitionists' view of the question, and charges the strife and bloodshed that have devastated certain provinces of the island of Cuba for four years to the account of Slavery, which already has a fearful balance against it.—The opinion is expressed that if Spain would abolish Slavery peace would be restored. Such Americans as have gone to Cuba for the purpose of keeping up an institution which our laws forbid will not find much comfort in the Message, and they are notified not to make any demands upon their Government for the redress of wrongs growing out of the "patriarchal" relation.

The President makes no sectional allusion whatever, except a few comments upon the Enforcement Act. He reiterates his firm purpose to suppress all combinations against rights and franchises of any class of citizens, and warns the Ku Klux and their apologists that the clemency which he may show toward particular individuals is not to be interpreted as an abandonment of his fixed determination to execute the law. Some of the convicted prisoners will be pardoned, but the murderers who are at large will not escape prosecution.

The most ardent champions of Civil Service Reform can certainly find no fault with what the President says upon this subject. He is anxious that the efficacy of the Civil Service rules should be tested by actual experience. We take it that such officers in the Civil Service as have acted honestly and faithfully need have no apprehensions about being turned out, and the President intends to so inform them in the last paragraph of his Message.

MR. BOUTWELL'S REPORT.—The Secretary of the Treasury makes some important suggestions in his annual report to the President. Regarding the vexed question as to how we shall preserve an equilibrium of the currency, and avoid that stringency at the Eastern money centres which occurs when it is wanted to move the Western crops, and the plethora which follows when that business is accomplished, he recommends that the circulation of the banks should be fixed and limited, and that the Treasury Department hold exclusive power to contract or expand the volume of paper in circulation, within the limits fixed by law. A degree of flexibility in amount of currency is essential, Mr. Boutwell says, for the proper transaction of the business of the Department, and to increase the volume when it is wanted to move the crops and to diminish it when there is no further need of it.

Believing that the country is not prepared to sustain the policy of contraction the Secretary considers the means by which the value of our currency may be improved. The basis of a policy of improvement must be found in a sturdy refusal to add to the paper in circulation until it is of the value essentially as coin. This being accepted as the settled purpose of the country, there can be no permanent increase of the difference between paper and coin, and an opportunity will be given for the influence of natural causes tending upon the whole to a better financial condition. All legislation limited in its operation to the paper issues of the Government, whether bearing interest or not, and which in its effects shall tend to diminish the market value of coin, will be found upon analysis to contain a plan for contracting the volume of paper currency, and all legislation so limited, which does not contain such a plan, will prove ineffectual.

The Secretary, without proceeding to the discussion of the subject of resuming specie payment, thinks all will have been gained that is of value when the Treasury shall be prepared to pay the demand notes of the Government in coin, and the banks shall be prepared to pay their notes either in coin or legal tender notes, and then our good fortune will clearly appear in this that our paper currency is not exclusively of national bank notes nor exclusively of United States notes.

The Secretary again recommends the passage of a bill to amend and consolidate the navigation and custom collection laws of the United States. As the leading pursuits of the country are now stronger than ever before in the possession of adequate capital and a supply of intelligent laborers, there may be a moderate reduction from time to time in the rate of duties, as the diminishing expenses of the Government shall permit, without either alarming capital or injuring labor.—Baltimore American.

GORED TO DEATH BY A BULL.—One of the most tragic deaths which has been recorded for a long time transpired recently, in West Deer township, sixteen miles from Allegheny city, Pa. The Pittsburgh Mail gives the circumstances as follows: A farmer named John Schwaab, (at the time named,) went into one of his fields for the purpose of catching one of his horses. In the same enclosure was a bull, and the animal showed signs of ferocity. After he had been in the field some time, the bull commenced charging in the direction where Mr. S. was standing, and in order to avoid being gored he climbed a tree. There he remained some time, until the bull wandered a short distance away, and watching an opportunity when he believed he was unobserved by the animal, Mr. S. descended, and commenced running towards a fence. The bull, however, had noticed him, and charged at him. Before he could reach the fence, the infuriated creature reached him and as he turned around to face it the horns of the creature entered the left side of Mr. S.'s throat. The bull then tossed him to a considerable height, his horn tearing away the throat and severing the jugular vein. Scarcely had the unfortunate man's body touched the ground, when the bull commenced goring him, tearing open his stomach and chest.

Some neighbors who saw the occurrence rushed to Mr. Schwaab's rescue, and when they had succeeded in frightening the maddened bull away, Mr. S. was found to be quite dead. The same bull some time since made an attack upon Mr. S., and it was his intention to shoot it. His delay in carrying out his intention cost him his life.

THE STEVENS MONUMENT.—The executors of Thaddeus Stevens have just erected a monument to the memory of the dead statesman. It stands in Shreiner's private cemetery at Lancaster over the grave, which was placed there in accordance with the request of Mr. Stevens, who wished to lie in a spot from which the dead were not excluded because of their race. The monument says the Express is of granite, and was designed by a citizen of Lancaster. The inscriptions are as follows: THADDEUS STEVENS: Born at Danville, Rockingham Co., Vermont, April 4th, 1792; Died at Washington, D. C., August 11th, 1869.

On the South Side, we find the following characteristic and noble words, written by Mr. Stevens himself for the purpose now used: I repose in this quiet and secluded spot, not from any natural preference for solitude, but finding other Cemeteries LIMITED AS TO RACE BY CHARTER RULES. I have chosen this that I might illustrate in my death the principles which I advocated through a long life—EQUALITY OF MAN BEFORE HIS CREATOR.

CHICKEN CHOLERA.—The chicken cholera has been very destructive in different sections during the past season. One of the heaviest losses is James Forsythe, of Colerain township, Lancaster county. His loss is estimated at $1,000. Of 140 turkeys, 12 survive; of 140 hens and roosters, but 7 remain, and about 800 little chicks were carried off.

One of the victims of the accident on the Philadelphia and Wilmington railroad, bought an accidental insurance policy for $5,000. It was a fortunate circumstance for his family, and shows the necessity of travelers providing for such exigencies as those of being killed or maimed on railroads.

Farming pays in Lancaster county. One gentleman raised on twenty acres of land 1,680 bushels of shelled corn, and made from the milk of one cow and two heifers, from May 4 to November 8, 629 pounds of butter, which sold at an average of forty cents per pound.

When Barnum was asked to what he attributed his great success in life, he unhesitatingly answered, "To printers ink. Without extensive and liberal advertising I could not nor could any man succeed in business. The age requires it. People expect it."

Local News.

Mr. L. P. Thompson, intending to go West, offers for sale a desirable private residence on Church street. See advt.

The Hartman property at Pikesville will again be offered for sale on the 27th inst. See advt.

Geo. C. Steiger, of Mercersburg, is feeding a hog which weighs 934 pounds gross.

FOR SALE.—Messrs. Russell and McGinley, Assignees, again offer for sale the John H. Miller property near this place. See advt.

SWEET POTATOES.—We acknowledge the receipt of a peck of "city" sweet potatoes from the new grocery store of Mr. M. Geiser, and tender our thanks for the present. Finer we never ate. For a choice article we advise the public to call upon Mr. Geiser.

THE LECTURE.—The Lecture on "Funny Speculations" by Rev. John McCron, D. D., of Hagerstown, announced for Friday evening last—proceeds for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association—comes off to-morrow (Friday) evening, 13th inst., in the Presbyterian Church. Admittance free.

OYSTER PRESENT.—We are under obligations to our neighbor, W. A. Reid, for a pitcher full of very choice Oysters.—During the pudding and sausage season a "family stew" occasionally does not come amiss. We advise our patrons to try the change. Mr. R. receives a supply every Wednesday evening.

BUSINESS RESUMED.—On Monday last business was resumed at the Steam Engine and Boiler Works of Frick & Bowman, in this place, with the usual force of hands. Since the suspension we understand work has been rapidly accumulating on Mr. Frick's hands. Among his recent orders is one from California for a steam engine.

A "DEER" PRESENT.—Wm. Hammett, Esq., of this place, and our self were last week made the recipients of a handsome present, a young deer (Spike Buck), which was expressed at Lock Haven, Clinton county, by our esteemed friend, a former citizen of this place, Mr. F. J. TROXELL. Being only a yearling and well frosted when it reached here, the meat was as tender and savory as that of the choicest fowl. A friend and experienced butcher, Mr. F. Wegley, dressed it in his usual good style. We assure Mr. T. that his gift was highly appreciated by Mr. H. as well as our self.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Sidney H. Johnston, a most estimable young man employed in Mr. Curriden's book store, was taken sick on Thursday the 28th of November of Typhoid fever, and died at the residence of Mr. Wm. H. Hiteshow on Saturday morning last about one o'clock. His remains were removed on Saturday to the home of his parents, near Baltimore, for interment. He was aged about 24 years. Mr. Johnston had been living in this place for a year or more, was a young man of quiet, reserved demeanor, highly respected by all who knew him, possessed fine literary tastes, exhibited decided ability as a writer and was very studious in his habits. The announcement of his decease was received with much regret by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.—Repository.

The deceased resided at Ringgold, Md., for a number of years, where he made many warm friends who will receive the nouncement of his sudden death with feelings of more than ordinary sorrow.

RECEIPTS.—The following is a list of our subscription receipts (cash and trade) for November: Catharine A. Hoover, $2.00; Geo. W. Sprengle, 2.00; Samuel King, 1.00; Peter Keckler, 2.00; S. J. The officers of the Evangelical Alliance have issued the annual programme of topics for the Week of Prayer, extending from January 6th to 12th, 1873. The following are the subjects selected:— Sunday, Jan. 6th.—Subject—The foundation; security and universal extension of the Christian Church.

Monday, Jan. 6th.—Devout Acknowledgement—Remembrance of God's mercies to the nation, to families and to the churches; providential and spiritual blessings to ourselves; confession of sin.

Tuesday, Jan. 7th.—Prayer for Christian churches; their increase in love, activity, fidelity to truth, and the clear manifestation of the unity in the faith; for ministers, missionaries and evangelists.

Wednesday, Jan. 8th.—Prayers for families; for sons and daughters of Christian parents; for a blessing on home influence and on the services and ordinances of "The Church of God" for schools, colleges and universities; for children at sea or in foreign lands; for men in business and professions; for servants and for all in sickness and tribulations.

Thursday, Jan. 9th.—Prayer for nations; for kings and all in authority; for the maintenance of peace; for the spread of religious liberty; for the growth of sound knowledge; for contentment, concord and good will among all classes; for the discernment of God's hand in National judgments, and for the removal of intemperance, immorality and the sins which are a "reproach to any people."

Friday, Jan. 10th.—Prayer for mankind; for the circulation of the Holy Scriptures, and the spread of pure literature, for the overthrow of all form of tyranny and oppression; for the removal of every form of antichrist; for all prisoners and captives, and for the increase of that kingdom which is "righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost."

Saturday, Jan. 11th.—Prayer for Sunday Schools; for missionary, tract and other religious societies, for raising up and sending forth of more "laborers into His harvest," and for the removal of hindrance to the gospel and the conversion of the world.

Sunday, Jan. 12th.—Sermons—"Let the whole earth be filled with glory. Amen and amen."

NARROW ESCAPE.—On Tuesday last at Weverton Mr. Garret, the postmaster at that place, met with an accident which for narrowness of escape from serious injury, if not death, is equal to anything of the kind that has come to our knowledge for a long time. He was crossing the track of the Main Stem of the B. & O. R. R. with a box on his shoulder and was watching an incoming train on the Washington County Railroad, when a freight train, which he had not noticed came up behind him, the cowcatcher striking his legs and throwing him back upon the bars which he instinctively grasped, and clinging thereto, thereby saved himself, although his legs were hanging down in front and dragging upon the ground.—The train slowed up when the fortunate man jumped off and walked over to his store, where he tumbled into bed and in two minutes was the worst scared man we have seen for some time. It certainly was one of "the most miraculous escapes on record."—Trice A Week.

SPECIAL APPEAL.—Persons owing this office are once more—some of them for the one hundredth time perhaps—asked to call and settle their accounts. We must have money to meet our office expenses. Our outlay for paper alone is upwards of $40 per month. This is but one item, and our receipts in cash are short of it. The accounts generally outstanding are not large, and we think most, if not all, might pay these dues if they had a disposition to do so. A small matter to each patron, but collectively a large one to us. Besides our subscription accounts, some running through a number of years, we have many advertising accounts long over due.—We make this appeal to the good sense and generosity of our friends, and trust that they will be induced to relieve us of our unpleasant situation by more prompt payments.

For the "Village Record." The Evils of the Tongue. In all ages of the world, men have allowed themselves to become subject to their passions, and have turned mind and body to unnatural uses.

In his normal condition, man is master of his mind, and all its manifestations are in harmony with that perfect manhood which God, his Creator, designed for him. But the power of habit—a power mightier than the greatest human spirit that ever existed—invites the mind's attention too much in one direction until one of its states controls all the others, controls man himself, and makes him unfit for the society of his fellow-men. The approach to this mental slavery is gradual. The boy or man who has been bred in innocence, is overcome with shame when he allows himself, for the first time, to indulge one of his evil passions. Perhaps he would never again show the same weakness if living in the society of the virtuous, and that one sin might make him a better and more noble man. What then makes him so shameless, besots his intellect and leads him down to degradation? It is the sanction of society.

But nice ladies and gentlemen are horrified, and commence to inquire, when and where did I ever sanction the fall of any man? I have been in the society of gentlemen (?—intelligent men, members of christian churches, and having a good reputation in the world—who would talk such obscenity, and tell such polluting stories, as are only fit for the demons of darkness.

These things falling from time to time upon the ears of the young and innocent, they are influenced by example, and allowed their memories to retain a mass of corruption which injures both mind and body and subjects them continually to temptation and sin. There can be nothing more disgusting than that disposition of men and women to turn to a vulgar meaning the expressions of others. It shows a vile, sensual imagination. It shows that they who do so have violated the laws of nature themselves, and that their thoughts are inflamed in consequence. It is plain that no christian can indulge in these loose conversations. When he so far debases himself as to countenance them, or to participate in them, he becomes only a little better than those who boldly defile the temple of the Holy Spirit.

Reader, for the sake of humanity, for the sake of decency, for the sake of your own soul, beware of filthy speaking. It is the first stage of a fast and bad life.—The precocity which it engenders in youth is the foundation of swearing, tobacco-eating, drunkenness, and many excesses.

If any one who is at all addicted to the use of foul language will take the pains to examine his own mental state, he will find that such language has become indeed a habit with him, and that when in the company of the pure and virtuous even, although he may be able to restrain his tongue, his thoughts will often go astray.

"But fornication, or covetousness, let it not be once named among you, as becometh saints; neither filthiness, nor foolish talking, nor jesting, which are not convenient; but rather giving of thanks."

"Unto the pure all things are pure: but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure; but even their minds and consciences are defiled."

Heaven is the enjoyment of a purely spiritual life. Only when mankind shall divest themselves of all forms of sensuality, will the New Jerusalem come from God out of heaven and dwell among men. YUGEND.

[COMMUNICATED.] Mr. Editor.—I would like to call the attention of your country readers to the subject of organizing a Farmers' Club. What good will it do?

By comparing the experience of one farmer with the experience of a score or more of his neighbors in the growing of certain crops, he may learn where he has made mistakes in the selection of the ground or manner of cultivation, when he has been unsuccessful. When he has tried some experience that has done well or not his experience may be of great benefit to others.

What crops grow, and the area? Here a great advantage may be gained.—Without any general understanding in the community very often too many potatoes are planted, too much oats sown, etc., that, with a fair yield, cannot find a market.

In this Club information would be had upon the different markets, rates of freight, etc., and thus demand of dealers a fair price. It would help to systemize labor, and regulate the pay of the laborer, and stimulate industry, giving the workman more steady employment, and in consequence better his condition.

In a friendly interchange of opinions, it would make people better acquainted with their neighbors, and open up social intercourse, which would make the long winters pass cheerfully. RUFUS.

There are thousands of persons die annually from consumption and other diseases of the lungs, who might have been cured, had they attended at first to what they thought was only a "slight cough" or a "bad cold." No one should neglect a cough or a cold, no matter how slight, for an hour. HASSON'S Compound Syrup of Tar never fails in curing the worst cases of coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, bronchitis, croup, Asthma and Chronic Catarrhs. It is an invaluable remedy for hooping cough in children. If you are suffering from any throat or lung disease, get a bottle and be cured. Ask for HASSON'S Compound Syrup of Tar, and do not allow yourself to be put off with some inferior preparation on account of its cheapness, or because it is represented to you to be as good as the above. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by all Drug Stores and Dealers throughout the United States. For sale by Dr. J. Burns Amberson, Waynesboro, Pa.
