Wayne county votes on Local Option on the 21st inst.

On the 24th ult., Judge Ingraham, of New York, sentenced Easter, who killed Putnam with a car-buck, to be hanged on the 7th of March.

Resolutions have passed both houses of the Legislature directing the clerk of each to exclude all spirituous or malt liquors from the hall or rooms attached.

In the United States Senate on Friday a message from the President was submitted vetoing the bill appropriating $18,500 to the East Tennessee University for property destroyed during the war.

Congress has finally agreed upon a bill absolutely abolishing the franking privilege after July 1st, 1873.—The Senate voting 33 yeas to 15 nays, and the House 143 yeas to 48 nays. The bill now only needs the President's signature to become a law.

The jury in Mrs. Wharton's case, at last accounts, had failed to agree on a verdict, tea favoring conviction and two acquittal. It was thought the jury would be discharged and a new trial ordered.

A later account states that the jury was discharged at 2 o'clock on Monday after being locked up for three days and nights. They stood eight for conviction and four for acquittal. Mrs. W. gave bail to answer the same indictment at another trial.

An explosion of boilers occurred at the American Iron Works, Pittsburg, on Monday, killing seven men and injuring more than a dozen others. The works were the largest in the country, and employed thirty-three hundred men. At Conshohocken, Pa., there was another boiler explosion, and eight persons killed. The coincidences of disasters is almost as remarkable as terrible.

Stokes' counsel submitted their bill of exceptions to Judge Boardman on Saturday, who struck out some of the more absurd and irrelevant points. A number of affidavits in support of the motion for a new trial were exhibited, among them one from a certain Mary Bean, who swears that she saw Fisk writing at the door of the Grand Central Hotel with a pistol in his hand.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.—The emigrant ship Northfleet, which sailed from London about the 20th inst., for Australia, with 412 passengers, exclusive of her crew, was run into by an unknown foreign steamship in the English channel, on the night of the 22nd, and was cut to the water's edge. Three hundred and twenty-one persons on board the Northfleet were drowned, as only ninety-seven lives are known to have been saved.

So far as legislative enactments can secure a return to specie payments, we are approaching that restorative of values.—The Banking and Currency Committee of the House of Representatives have instructed the sub-committee on specie payments to report a bill naming Jan. 4, '74, as the day for resuming specie payments and the redemption of all legal-tenders in gold, and to further provide for issuing six per cent. gold bonds to secure gold in case it should be needed for redemption purposes, and to allow free banking under the National Currency act.

The murderers of Mrs. Lampley in Baltimore have confessed their guilt.—Nicholson and Whalen agree that Tucker had nothing to do with the murder. They say they went to the house, Whalen smothered Mrs. Lampley with a carpet and both then robbed the house of twelve hundred dollars. When leaving Whalen noticed signs of life in the dying victim and kicked her to death. Both are desperate characters. Whalen was the instigator of the murder and robbery.

Georgia, true to her disloyal record celebrated the birthday of General Lee with marked enthusiasm, and the day throughout the State was kept as a holiday. These evidences of the spirit of the people of that State, says the Mechanicsburg True Republican, are not very strong guarantees that they have accepted the situation in such a manner as to inspire the friends of the nation with full confidence in it. Would it not be well for us to take the advice of Senator Sumner, with regard to the erasure from our battle-flags of the names of our victories, in order to remove all irritating causes.—These people who celebrate the anniversary of the birthday of their leading rebel chieftain, and make that day a holiday certainly deserve this little piece of lunplianity at our hands.

In the United States Senate on Monday Mr. Sherman's bill for the resumption of specie payments on the first of next January was discussed, and an amendment adopted making it obligatory upon the National Banks to redeem their notes in coin or legal tenders after that date. Without final action on the bill the Senate adjourned.

President Grant on Friday signed the bill abolishing the franking privilege, and it is therefore a law.

The snail race has broken out Smithsburg, Md.

The papers still contain accounts of the suffering in the North-west, during the recent almost unparalleled snowstorm. One of the saddest incidents is reported from Fort Bridgely. The schoolmistress discharged her scholars, telling them to run home. Some escaped with but slight injuries, but seven of the little ones lost their way in the blinding drifts and were found dead, one with his books under his arm and his little foot lifted for a step—a step which had proved a step beyond the confines of life. Two others were frozen to death in each others' arms; tears, which the latter cold or the near approach of death, had wrung from them, standing in little leads of ice on their innocent cheeks. Hugh Jones, a teacher, near New Ulm, kept the forty scholars of his school in the school-house from Tuesday till Friday, risking his life like a practical, unselfish hero every day in a two mile x 2 m p through drifts four or five feet deep to get food for them.

A stage left Madelia for St. James, having eight passengers and a driver. On Wednesday morning, not having arrived, a search was made for it. It was found on the road, the horses frozen to death, and the driver a grinning corpse on the seat, with the reins still in his hands, and eight bundles of robes and clothes in the bottom of the sleigh, each of which contained a soulless lump of icy flesh.

Mr. A. K. Jenkins, of the Cleveland, Ohio, Bridge Company, who was superintending the building of an iron bridge at Rock Rapids, Iowa, was traveling by stage thence to Sibley. Arriving at the latter place the other passengers disembarked.—He did not stir. They called him, they touched him, and lo! death had ridden with them for some time, and the body was already rigid.

President Grant (says the Baltimore American) informed some Georgians who called at the White House on Monday that about the 20th of March he will start on a Southern tour with the members of the Cabinet, taking in the principal cities on the way and going as far as New Orleans. We suppose that the intention of this trip will be to afford the President and his official advisers and the Southern people an opportunity of meeting each other face to face, of giving them a chance to have personal talk upon the relations of the South to the Administration, and generally to permit of that better acquaintance which is certainly to promote the interests of good government. There could not have been a better time selected. Then General Grant will have entered upon his second term of office, the Cabinet will be constituted for another four years, and the country will know from his inaugural address the objects, views and policy of the Administration. We do not doubt that the President will in every way open to his influence seek to aid the prosperity of the South, and the hearty words of encouragement and fraternity that Southern men will hear from him and the members of his Cabinet will do much towards effacing the last remnants of fast fading sectional hostility.

The jury in the trial of Tweed reported to the Court that they were unable to agree upon a verdict, and they were accordingly discharged. It is said they stood seven for conviction and five for acquittal, and so held out during Thursday morning. The American says:—In view of the result of the trial, the inquiry will be whether there is any possibility of convicting and punishing a thief who does his stealing by millions of dollars? No sane and honest man in New York or anywhere else doubts Tweed's guilt, and yet the defence were able to place upon the jury five individuals who were either sufficient fools or knaves to vote to send him scot free into the world with his pockets filled with plunder from the municipal treasury. This vulgar, cunning and unblushing rascal, for whom there was not even the shadow of a decent defence, is practically justified in all his crimes, for it is not probable that he will be any more righteously served by second trial.

Many of our exchanges in the State have commenced the agitation of the license question in view of the election next spring under the local option law. It may interest them to learn that a strong combination is being formed in the Legislature for the immediate repeal of that act. A bill for the purpose is now in the hands of a Republican member of the House and will probably be read next week.—The apprehensions that the great majority of the counties of the State will abolish liquor licenses have strongly increased since the result of the election on the local option law in Clearfield county was announced.—Harrisburg Patriot.

Some individual proposes that instead of licensing dealers, the persons who drink should be made to take out a license. His idea is, at least, original. He says:—No man should be entitled to drink unless he first got a license; and any bar-keeper who should sell to an unlicensed party, should be subject to fine and imprisonment. The license should be annual, the sum charged should be from twenty to one hundred dollars. No young man should be allowed a license till he was sixteen, and then until twenty-one years old only bear license at a moderate charge. After twenty-one he should vote, drink and chew tobacco on payment of license, and the same privilege should be extended to strong-minded women.

Homely Misses are scarce in town, but money is scarce.

Did you ever notice that folks born up the last of the month are mostly small?

People who sell hay do business on a "large scale."

When a lady faints what figure does she need? You must bring her 2.

Don't forget to square that account with the Printer before the 15th.

Sleasman & Frantz have dissolved partnership.

Be kind to the dumb animals, and throw a few crumbs to the poor birds, which are suffering this hard weather.

The "oldest inhabitants" have no recollection of severer weather than the recent cold snap through which we have passed.

Our "cash receipt list" for January is disgracefully small. If that for February does not make a better showing, we will expect to "mire" financially, sure.

Old delinquents who have effitted their necks against our appeals, are once more invited to call at the editor's quarters and "shell out."

Several more large sales of personal property will be found in our advertising columns to-day, to which we call special attention.

Sleighing, pronounced the finest for a period of twenty odd years, came to a sudden ending on Tuesday evening.—Sleighs and their trappings are now at a discount.

RENTED.—Mr. S. P. Stoner this week, notwithstanding the probability of a ratification of the "local option law" by the people in March next, rented the Bowden House Hotel property for another year.

OLD CITIZEN GONE.—Mr. James Richardson, an aged and well-known citizen of our town expired at his residence on Sunday morning last after a painful and protracted illness of several months.

DECEASED.—We regret to learn that little CARRY, daughter of Mr. David Patterson, of Pittston, Pa., died of Croup on Friday of last week. She was in her 8th year, and an unusually sprightly and interesting child, the idol of fond parents, brothers and sisters.

PERSONAL.—Dr. A. J. Snively, of Hanover, Pa., spent several days with his brother, Dr. I. N. Snively, in this place, last week. The Dr. looks none the worse of his active labors, and we are pleased to learn that he has been very successful in the practice of his profession since located in that part of York county.

RAIN.—A warm rain commenced falling here on Tuesday afternoon and continued for several hours. In the evening the streams in our vicinity were much swollen. The sudden "thaw" will doubtless, should it continue, cause serious damages, if not loss of life, along the larger water courses, owing to the accumulation of immense bodies of ice.

HURT.—A lad called "Gus," son of Mr. Geo. Morganthal, on Monday evening was knocked down by a couple of boys sledding on Geiser's Hill, and so severely injured about the head and face that he has since been lying in a critical situation. This is a dangerous kind of sport, and particularly in a narrow alley like that in which the accident occurred. The practice should not be tolerated in the future.

The "spook" is still reported around of evenings. The locality most frequented by the strange visitant is said to be Mechanic Street. It is represented as a very tall figure in female attire. Mischievous boys do not frequent that part of the town after nightfall and citizens thereabouts are enjoying quiet evenings. It would be well if the "spook" could be induced to visit other parts of our town for a season.

VALUABLE PREPARATIONS.—We announced last July that we had received from Messrs. Schrock & Knepper, Drugists, of Somerset, Pa., a handsome Medicine Case containing remedies for most all ailments to which human flesh is heir.—During this interval we have had an opportunity to test the virtues of at least some of the preparations, and are so well pleased with the effects produced that we have ordered a second supply of their healing ointment, Italian counter-irritant, headache pills, etc. For $5.00 a case will be expressed to any address.

DAVIS TO BE HUNG.—The decision of the Maryland Court of Appeals in reference to the case of Davis, tried for the killing of Abram Lynn, and convicted of murder in the first degree, at Hagerstown, was last week made public. It confirms the decision of the Washington County Court. The prisoner therefore only awaits the action of the Governor as to the time of his execution; which will take place at Westminster. The following, in reference to the unfortunate young man, we copy from The Daily News:—

"About noon on Saturday we called at the Jail, and through the courtesy of the Sheriff, were admitted by Deputy Masters. When we entered, the prisoner Davis was not in his cell, but he soon made his appearance from one of the rooms in the rear end of the building, advancing with rapid strides to the grate-door which looks out into the Jail yard. Here he stood for a few moments looking out and up to the sun, which was shining brightly into his face. As we drew near him, he turned suddenly, with the remark, "How do you do, gentlemen?" We were then introduced by Deputy Masters to Davis, who extended his hand and bowed gracefully.

While we did not visit the Jail for the purpose of harassing Davis with an "interview," we casually entered into conversation with him. We found him looking very pale, dejected, and apparently with no disposition to be communicative—an unusual circumstance indeed, for the prisoner, since his confinement in our Jail, has always been noted for his talkativeness. He replied, to every remark we made, in a quick, decisive manner, but politely.—His whole demeanor indicated that he was endeavoring to appear bold and care less, but his pale features and nervous twitching of the muscles of his face, belied him, and told too plainly of the struggle going on within. Upon referring to his counsel, Davis remarked that they "had worked hard for him;" and in reply to a question about Shue, who was tried and acquitted as accessory to the murder, said that "Shue had returned to Carroll county, where public feeling against him was beginning to be allayed, and had gone into business again in the old shop near the scene of his difficulties."

Davis upon reading the decision of the Court turned pale, but remarked to Deputy Sheriff Masters, that "it was done now, and he did not intend to trouble himself about it, as it was no use to worry."

Davis made no reference whatever to Lynn, and upon our turning to leave him, walked into his cell and threw himself upon the bed."

COLD WEATHER.—The weather in this latitude, on Thursday morning last, is very generally admitted to have been the coldest experienced for many years. Some aged citizens say the coldest of which they have any recollection. The thermometers varied somewhat according to location. In this place they marked seventeen degrees below zero, and at the residence of Mr. Samuel Frantz, about one mile West of town, twenty degrees.

THE MEETINGS of the Young Men's Christian Association on Tuesday and Wednesday, afternoon and evening, were well attended. Rev. Mr. Morse, Secretary of the Executive Committee of the United States and the British Provinces, Rev. S. A. Taggart and Professor Johnson, were present. The exercises were of the most interesting character, a more extended account of which we expect to publish in our next issue.

Sunday last was Ground Hog Day. The day was a clear one, and as a matter of course the H. G. could not have escaped seeing his shadow. This being the case, according to the convictions of many given to superstitious notions, we are to experience six weeks more severe weather. The last few days, however, have been rather damaging to those who thus theorize on the subject. The snow and ice are fast disappearing and the indications favor a reverse state of weather.

On Tuesday last the County Commissioners made the following appointments:—Clerk, Harry S. Shade; Court House Janitor, Nicholas Snider; Mercantile Appraiser, Philip Hamman; Counsel, Geo. W. Brewer; Jail Physician, Dr. S. G. Lane. On Monday the Directors of the Poor elected Joseph Middour as Steward.

THE DAILY NEWS.—This is the title of a spicy little daily paper, the first number of which was issued at Hagerstown on Saturday last. The publisher is Mr. M. EMMETT FECHTIG. The little candidate for public patronage should receive a cordial welcome among the citizens of that town.

An election for Mayor was held at Clearspring, Washington county, Md., on the 3d inst. A correspondent of the American says:—"The candidates were John A. Miller white, and Elisha Cantion, colored. Mr. Miller was successful by a majority of only six votes. The contest was animated and excited, and the friends of both parties worked hard for success."

The change in the temperature of the weather yesterday was more remarkable for mildness than that of Tuesday, taking away most of the snow.

SAD PICTURE.—On Wednesday night last a little girl was found on Eutaw St., near Lexington, by a policeman, so benumbed with cold that she could scarcely walk. The officer conducted her to the Station House, and after she had warmed herself, she stated to Captain Leppan that she had been sent out by her mother to obtain a bottle of cough syrup for a little brother who was not expected to live.—The child had a paper given her by her mother, and upon it was written "Please let my little child have a bottle of Jayne's Expectorant, I have no money, but will pay for the medicine when I get the money."

The little girl went from one apothecary store to another, the clerks and proprietors all refusing to furnish the medicine unless the money was paid, and finally she wandered so far from her home in quest of the medicine that she lost her way. She stated that her mother lived in Lemon street and was very poor, that her little brother was very ill, and that her little sister had died a short time ago in Frederick city. Captain Leppan believed the story of the child, and procuring a bottle of the medicine mentioned on the paper, placed the child in charge of a policeman and had her conducted home. The officer states that the sight which met his gaze, when he entered the house, was one which would have wrung tears from eyes strangers to evidences of pity. The room was almost destitute of furniture, and there was just fire enough in the fireplace to shed a sickly glow about the room. The little boy, for whom the medicine was intended, was stretched upon a miserable excuse for a bed, the emaciated and half-starved mother endeavoring to soothe his pains by words of endearment. Neighbors were quickly acquainted with the condition of the poor mother and her children, and what the poor neighbors could share from their scanty cupboards was freely given, and a small amount of wood and coal was placed in the room. On Saturday morning the little boy died, and two young gentlemen—bearing of this new misfortune, succeeded in collecting money enough to have the body enclosed in a neat coffin, and furnished the broken-hearted mother with funds enough to defray her expenses and to carry the corpse to Frederick—the little boy in his last moments having requested his mother to bury him beside his sister.—Baltimore American.

KILLED BY COAL GAS.—The boarding house of Mrs. L. Majors, in Toledo, Ohio, was on Monday the scene of a terrible case of asphyxia. A family, consisting of a mother and daughter, with some four or five boarders, had spent the previous evening pleasantly, and all had retired excepting Mrs. Mary Majors, Miss Majors, her daughter, eighteen years old, and Mrs. Quance, a young married lady; they were preparing to retire when they were suddenly taken ill, where upon a physician was summoned, who prescribed for what he supposed to be their ills, and the parties becoming quiet the physician retired. Nothing more was heard until next morning when a Mr. Seely called to see them, and finding no one up and the door open, entered the house, where he was rendered almost senseless by the deadly gas which filled the room. The alarm was given and upon examination Mrs. Quance was found dead upon the floor; also Miss Ida Majors, while her mother was found on a lounge, just alive; three gentlemen sleeping up stairs, named M. Addison, John Charey and A. Paine, were found insensible, but may recover. The gas came from a defective coal stove in the sitting-room.

AN ARTFUL WOMAN.—A few years ago, a young man was arrested in Massachusetts, for implication in some large robbery and sentenced to a long term in prison. His wife was a very lovely woman, cultivated and lady-like bearing. She was completely stricken by the knowledge of her husband's fate, but she clung to him devotedly and persistently visited all who had any influence with the government. Her beauty and general loveliness of character won every person to whom she applied, and each one did his utmost to assist her. Her husband's pardon was obtained, and it was not for some time afterwards that it was discovered that she was as bad as her husband and his accomplice in every crime. "But," as one of the gentlemen remarked who had taken the greatest interest in her, "she would deceive the very elect."
