Thursday, March 27, 1873.

The county jail of Somerset county is entirely empty and has been for two or three weeks.

The convicts in the Western Penitentiary of Pennsylvania manufactured 545,430 cigars last year.

Rev. Dr. Huston, tried at Baltimore for immorality, has been expelled from the church.

A man at Grand Rapids, Mich., lately paid for an axe which he stole twenty years ago. His conscience was slow but sure.

Geo. Francis Train has been pronounced insane, and Judge Daly will shortly decide upon sending him to a lunatic asylum.

Jesse Upperreue, recently tried for the murder of his aunt, Mrs. Wheat, in Baltimore, and acquitted, was married on Thursday last to Miss Laura Hildebrandt of that city.

Two ruffians named Coughlan and Green, attacked a man named Antoldi in a street car in New York on Sunday night a week. They have since been tried, convicted and sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment.

The Bull's Head Bank in New York suspended on Thursday. The loss will be about $200,000, which will fall upon the stockholders. A defalcation by one of the tellers and a book keeper was the cause of the failure.

VERO.—Governor Hartranft has vetoed the $75,000 Somerset relief bill. His main objections appear to be that the Somerset sufferers, having had the full benefit of their insurances, are no more entitled to the aid of the Commonwealth than any single individual would be; that if the Commonwealth pays from her treasury to the losers by one fire, she is bound so to do to the losers by every fire.

EXECUTION OF FOSTER.—Foster, the car-hook murderer, was executed at New York on Friday last. The despatch says: Foster awoke at seven o'clock, and partook of a cup of coffee, but ate nothing. He was very pale and his strength seemed fast falling. He was attended by Rev. Dr. Tyng and Rev. Mr. Schoonmaker, the Chaplain of Sing Sing. He engaged in devotional exercises until nine o'clock.

At eleven minutes past nine he was led out, supported by Sheriff Brennan and the under Sheriff, Foster walked unflinchingly to the scaffold. His face had a hectic flush. Arriving beneath the scaffold, Rev. Dr. Tyng, assisted by Rev. Mr. Schoonmaker, read from the office for the "Visitation of Prisoners" as laid down in the Ritual of the Episcopal Church the Miserere, being the 51st Psalm of David. The service concluded with this solemn form of benediction by the Rev. Dr. Tyng: "Unto God's gracious mercy and protection we commit thee. The Lord bless thee and keep thee. The Lord make his face to shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee. The Lord lift up his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace, both now and evermore. Amen."

During the reading of the service Foster stood beneath the scaffold, his head bowed down and his left hand shading his eyes.

Rev. Dr. Schoonmaker shook hands with Foster, and said: "God bless thee, my friend."

At seventeen minutes past nine o'clock the bolt was drawn and the soul of the unfortunate man was launched into eternity.

A later New York dispatch says: A statement is published based on information derived from a Tombs official, that Foster took poison the night before his execution. About eight o'clock yesterday morning the matron of the Tombs found Foster sick, and in explanation he admitted that he had taken poison. The man's symptoms in every way confirmed the suspicion. On this account the Sheriff hastened the execution, and while many believed that the duration of the religious exercises was tending on Foster's nerves, it was in reality weakness caused by the poison that was acting on him. The Tombs physician says that Foster would have died if the execution had been delayed until 10 o'clock.

The time is within the memory of school children, when the United States Supreme Court solemnly declared that a black man had no rights which a white man was bound to respect. Just now, however, Mississippi, then numbering more slaves than whites, has had a law enacted prohibiting any discrimination between the two races, by common carriers, hotel keepers, theatrical managers, or the lessees of other places of amusement. The world moves!

The new militia law passed by the Legislature of this State provides that the number of the National Guard of Pennsylvania shall not exceed ten thousand officers and men, to be accomplished in drill and discipline, and that the State shall pay the legitimate expenses of these organizations, being at least five hundred dollars per annum for each company, and that if additional amounts shall be considered necessary by the State Military Board which is to be composed of the Auditor General and State Treasurer, they may be allowed.

Lorenzo Dow Huston has been convicted of the heinous and disgusting crimes with which he has heretofore been charged by the Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and formally expelled. When this community was first startled by the appalling charges against this man, we were inclined to discredit them—and were one of the few who appended for a fair hearing and cool, temperate investigation. We revolted at the thought that any human being, who had ever come in contact with God's word, or who was imbued, ever so slightly, with the decencies of society, could be guilty of anything approaching the shocking, soul-renting infamies alleged against him.

We do not believe now there is room for the shadow of a doubt as to his guilt. His case has been carefully, thoroughly, and prayerfully considered by a large number of his former colleagues in the ministry; men who, if they had an interest in, are enjoined by their oaths and their calling for harboring a bias toward his conviction; men who, for the sake of the church, and in behalf of the Christian religion, would gladly, cheerfully, eagerly have availed themselves of any avenue that would lead to his exoneration, and with one accord they adjudged him guilty. The vilest wretch that God's sun can look upon. A moral leper, forever unclean in the sight of the angels and men. A hypocrite, "who stole the livery of the court of heaven to serve the devil in." A "serpent heart, hid with a flowering face," that dragged its cold and spotted skin around the holiest fanes of the sanctuary, and defiled with sickening pollution the consecrated resort of Almighty purity. Outcast from the homes and hearts of God's people; filthy, licentious ghoul, whose accursed track has been ever the pulpit and into the home circle; whose Satanic breath has blasted and blighted the fair flowers that decked God's temple, a scourge of scorpions should be in the hands of every man woman and child in the land, to lash him into a realization of the monstrous infamy his rotten heart and brutalized conscience has heaped upon his name. Despised, hated, loathed by mankind, there is a pleasure in the knowledge that the justice of an outraged God shall requite him as man cannot.—Sunday Telegram.

The Lancaster Express has the following: "There lived in Salisbury township, Lancaster county, a man named Henry Eaby, a miller and well-to-do and respected citizen. He was a member of the Mennonite Church, which sect predominates in the vicinity. About two years ago his wife and two children were taken suddenly sick, about the same time and in the same manner. Medical aid was summoned, and the physicians pronounced the symptoms those of poison. How the poison got into the systems of the victims was a mystery. The physicians examined the premises, and said it might have come from the well, which was adjacent to a stagnant pool of water. Mr. Eaby had the well thoroughly cleaned. The victims, however, all died. About two months ago, Mr. Eaby, after eating supper, was taken with sickness, and remarked while drinking the last cup of coffee, that it tasted different from the former cup he had drunk, and inquired from the others if theirs tasted so, they answered in the negative. The same physician that attended the others that died was dispatched for, and upon his arrival asked if Eaby had any enemies, to which those who were around answered that he had not an enemy to their knowledge. The physician said the man was poisoned. He lingered a but few days and died. It is now believed that the whole family was intentionally poisoned. It is conceded that circumstances point strongly to the guilt of a certain party in the neighborhood.

In his Sunday sermon, Mr. Beecher, touching upon the crime and punishment of Foster, declared strongly against capital punishment in enlightened and civilized communities. It may do well enough in a barbarous state of society, but it does not prevent crime here. He denied to society the right to punish when it does not prevent crime. When it licenses grog-shops and drunkenness, when it delays the punishment of crime and thereby emboldens the criminal, and when individuals calmly surrender to robbers in their own homes, they do not deserve to have homes at all, nor does society possess the right to punish, and especially it should not punish criminals as beasts, but as men. Mr. Beecher believed that forty years' imprisonment would prevent murder much more effectually than hanging a man and then forgetting him. He also deprecated the prominence given to criminal news in the press, and he did not believe that young persons can read the daily record of crime and not be injured by it.

Foster's crime has cost the sacrifice of two lives, and the third is trembling in the balance. His unhappy widow is falling under the weight of the disgrace and bereavement and it is believed she will die.

The N. Y., workmen are preparing for the general strike which is announced for May.

Sixty cattle belonging to Smith & Fowler, of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, were poisoned recently by some malicious person. Forty-nine are dead.

Under "local option" distillers are allowed to retail at the rate of five gallons and upwards.

Three attempts were made to fire Hagerstown on Sunday evening last. One stable with its contents was destroyed.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Edward J. Evans & Co., Nurserymen and Seedsmen, York, Pa.

EARLY—Mrs. Jacob Hoover, of Willow Grove, made garden two weeks since, planting onions, lettuce, etc.

The marble mania still prevails among the juveniles of our town. Rain or shine, there seems to be no abatement of the disease.

APPOINTED.—Among the appointments at large of cadets to the United States Military Academy, is Samuel Douglas, son of Joseph Douglas, Esq. of this place.

If any of our patrons this spring have more money than they can put to profitable use, they will find one who can thus apply it about the first of April in the person of the Printer.

From the Mercersburg Journal we learn that the services of Geo. W. Brewer, Esq., of Chambersburg, have been secured to deliver the annual address before the Literary Societies connected with Mercersburg College in June next.

Wild Pigeons are said to be very numerous in this region just now, more so than was ever known before. Some of our sporting gentlemen have been in pursuit of them, but with what success we have not learned. We noticed one individual with an eye blackened and his face otherwise disfigured, the result of overloading his fowling piece on one of these excursions.

THE WEATHER.—The weather during this week has been of a most disagreeable character, an admixture of rain, snow, sleet, ice and mud, with a damp chilling air to boot.

On Wednesday we had the March equinox in reality. At an early hour a hail storm of more than ordinary severity set in, which was afterwards turned to a regular mid-winter snow storm. At 10 A. M. the ground was covered and the "beautiful snow" still falling.

ARRESTED.—We learn from the last Opinion that E. S. Miller, route agent on the S. P. R. R. was arrested on Wednesday of last week by a Government Detective and committed to jail for tampering with the mails and abstracting money from letters. Miller confessed to his guilt. He is respectfully connected and has parents and brothers in Fannettsburg, in this county.

ANOTHER ROGUE.—ADAM S. EICHEBERGER has swindled us out of an account of $11,50 for printing sale bills and advertising in February 1872. Adam last spring removed to Catoctin Furnace, Frederick county, Md. Some few weeks since he returned and collected the money due from his sale notes, but failed to call according to promise and settle his account. If this was the result of oversight and not downright rascality we will make the name honorable when the 11.50 comes to hand.

A BETTER DAY COMING.—The first of April demands for prompt settlements are inexorable. The "times" are not so "hard" as some people predicted, nor so bad as might have been expected from the shortness of the crops and other causes. There have been fewer failures than for several years past. The people, at least all prudent people, have been preparing for the scarcity of money by economic living. By greater care in business, economy, industry and a reasonable extension of time to honest debtors, we can bridge over the present stringency; and should a kind Providence grant a favorable harvest, all will go well again.

We would advise all who have payments to make, to deny themselves some things if necessary to make payments; and where it is impossible to pay all, at least pay a part promptly. Those who have money to lend should not hesitate to put it in safe hands at a reasonable rate of interest. Assist worthy farmers and industrious mechanics; and foster your manufacturing interests. Thus the whole community will prosper, and a year later, every good citizen will be richer in money and happiness.

The Senate on Thursday last confirmed the nomination of Edward Scull, of Somerset, as Collector of Internal Revenue in the 16th District.

WOOD'S HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE.—Mr. Samuel J. Gordon has been appointed canvassing agent for this cheap and desirable publication. As its title indicates, it is devoted to the instruction and entertainment of the family circle, and the low price at which it is furnished—one dollar per year—places it within the reach of all. From a hurried examination of its contents we have no hesitation in recommending it to our readers, the lady portion especially. It is furnished to subscribers at $1.00 per year or $1.50 with two handsome premium engravings. The specimens before us, "Our Hope" and "Our Joy," are worth the price of the magazine twice over. Mr. G. is a deserving young man, and a cripple, and the public we think should patronage him generally.

ARREST OF HORSE THIEVES.—Two men from Bedford county, with Mr. George Smith of the Gap in this county, on Wednesday night of last week arrested two horse thieves at the public house of Mr. V. B. Gilbert, (Beautiful View Springs) on the South Mountain, and the next morning passed through town with the captives and their booty, four horses and a buggy, on their way to Bedford. We understand two of the horses were taken from a stable near Hollidaysburg and the others from Old Town, near Cumberland, Md. One of the parties arrested was named Lyons, a citizen of Bedford county, and was in possession of his own horse and buggy. He represented that the other persuaded him to accompany him saying that he would sell the horse and buggy for him. The latter may have been thus duped, but little the circumstances his story seems a little too "thin."

FAMILY BIBLE.—Rev. John Fohl, of Chambersburg, assistant agent of the Franklin County Bible Society, exhibited to us on Tuesday an improved Family Bible containing a Pronouncing Dictionary, which is of great value, and over four hundred engravings. The impression, illustrations, etc., we consider unsurpassed. Mr. F. is engaged in canvassing the county, and, according to the society's circular, will supply the destitute, by sale or gift, as circumstances may require, with Bibles and Testaments. The Rev. gentleman will be in town for a few days. Families in want of a Family Bible can secure one of him upon the most reasonable terms.

AN ACCIDENT.—Mrs. George Foreman in company with her husband met near an accident on Sunday evening last near the residence of Mr. Crilly on the pike West of town. The horse took fright at some clothing on a wagon, and by a sudden leap to the side of the pike threw Mrs. F. out of the buggy, the vehicle passing over her person. We understand she was very seriously bruised and for sometime rendered quite helpless, but fortunately no bones were broken. This was certainly a miraculous escape from more serious if not fatal injuries.

QUINCY.—The following persons were elected at the election in Quincy township on Friday last:
Judge, Henry Ogle; Inspectors, Jacob Munn, John S. Stull; Supervisors, Alex Johnston, Emanuel Ruck, Henry Row; School Directors, John Funk, Abraham Stanny; Assessor, John R. Smith; Assistant Assessors, James E. Cook, H. E. Wertz; Justice of the Peace, Ephraim Small; Constable, Calvin Krome; Auditor, Levi J. Heffer; Township Clerk, G. B. Beatty.

Rev. Dr. Daniel Zacharias, for more than thirty years pastor of the Reformed Church of Frederick, Md., died recently aged 75 years.

Resolutions passed by Phrenakian Society on the death of CHRISTIAN HOOVER:
Death has again laid his cold hand upon one who was but lately of our number. The soul of Christian Hoover has winged its flight and returned to Him, who gave it. Naught remains of our once genial companion but the never dying influence of a Godly life. He was cut down in the prime of youth, with fond expectations of working for his Master unrealized. Like a flower he was plucked but only to be transplanted in the more congenial soil of his Father's Kingdom. As an expression of our sorrow at the loss of one so near, he resolved, That, while we mourn the loss of our brother and deeply sympathize with his relatives in their affliction, we recognize the hand of the One who doeth all things well.—That Phrenakian Society has lost a faithful member and trusty friend. That we wear the usual badge of mourning thirty days.—That a copy of the above resolutions be sent to his parents and that they be published in the Lutheran Observer and the Village Record.

The Phrenological Journal for April, take it all in all, is one of the best numbers yet issued of a Magazine that is justly distinguished for usefulness. The table of contents is of a character to attract all classes of readers, although "sensationalism" seems to claim no place therein. The following subjects seem to us of more special interest: Charles P. Kimball, the well-known Carriage-maker of Maine; Inborn Strength, an essay on the elements of human advancement; Educating the Sexes Together; The Foremost Problem; From Whence to No Whither, or the future Considered; Allmentiveness, Its Use and Abuse, illustrated; Wilderism Phenology; Its Worth to Me, a Frank Admission; A Dream Not All a Dream; A Temperance Allegory; Tejada, the President of Mexico; The Civil Service and Its Tendencies; The Cheerful Face; Thomas Guthrie, D. D.; The Maple Tree; Origin of "April Fool"; East Tennessee and Its Resources, etc.; also an excellent list of recent publications. Terms $3 a year. Single Numbers, 30 cents. S. R. WELLS, N. Y.

HOUSE AND BARN BURNED.—On last Monday the house and barn of J. Wilson McCleary of St. Thomas township, occupied by Geo. W. McCleary, were entirely destroyed by fire.

Mr. McCleary went to St. Thomas on that night and Mrs. McCleary, not wishing to remain alone, went across to Wilson McCleary's to remain and left the house unoccupied.

When Mr. McCleary returned home accompanied by his brother, he found the stove cold and concluded to have something to eat and go to bed. While eating, one of them remarked that he smelled something burning, and upon going up stairs and opening the door of one of the rooms he found it in a sheet of flame. Upon going outside it was found that the barn was also on fire.

Nearly everything was consumed before it could be removed. The barn contained a considerable amount of hay, clover-seed, grain, &c. There is hardly any doubt that this was the work of an incendiary. Mr. McCleary also lost $400 in money, which he believes to have been stolen by the person or persons who fired the buildings. The property was insured.—Spirit.

FREE TRADE IN MONEY VS. USURY LAWS.—Three of the New England States, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts have abolished the usury laws.—The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, one of the most prosperous and enlightened states of the Union, after five years experience, speaks through the President of the Boston Board of Trade, as to the results and effect of the new system. He says that the average rate for the use of money is lower than before, and the amount of loanable capital has greatly increased, and that borrowers are supplied with greater ease at lower rates; and further that the change has essentially profited a large class of borrowers by increasing the volume of available capital in the market at lower rates—and that the tendency is in the direction of ease and steadiness—the changes being more gradual than formerly. He says spasmodic changes are unknown under the new order. Altogether the new law is so satisfactory that the restoration of the usury laws, in his opinion, would be utterly impossible in Massachusetts.

The Hon. John Jay Knox comptroller of the Currency, remarks in his last annual report of December, 1872, that the rates of interest fixed by the State laws are not governed by any sound economical or business principles. That the rate in the New England States except the three States above named, has remained for a half a century at a uniform standard, which is less than the present rate of the Bank of England—while in the States of Minnesota and Virginia the rate is limited to twelve per cent.—in Illinois, Wisconsin and Missouri to ten per cent.—in Alabama and Ohio to eight per cent.—in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Kentucky the rate is fixed at six per cent.—and New York at seven per cent. He says it would be difficult to give any good reason why the rate of interest should be limited to ten per cent. in Washington—to six per cent. in the neighboring cities of Philadelphia, Baltimore, Wilmington and Raleigh and to twelve per cent. just across the Potomac in Alexandria and the capital of Virginia.

Will some of our distinguished financial fathers answer some of these questions and inform the people of Pennsylvania why they should not expect to see the same results follow the repeal of the usury laws, as in Massachusetts.
—J. P.

IT IS THE FASHION.—Thin, scraggy, badly-made women invented hoop-skirts and puffed out dresses which gave the hips huge proportions, and they said: "It is the fashion."

Beautifully-formed women, who required no stuffing, consented to the disfigurement, and they, too, said: "It is the fashion."
Short little women invented high heels and high head dresses, making the face in the middle of the body, and they said: "It is the fashion." Tall and graceful women with a sigh, said: "It is the fashion," and so made themselves too tall, giving the dwarf-like stature that nature, without high heels and high head-dresses, had bestowed upon them.

Women with large, fat feet, thick ankles and low insteps said, "We must hide our feet and ankles." They invented long dragging dresses, and said: "It is the fashion." Then all women with dear little feet said, "O dear! it is the fashion, and we, too, must wear long dresses."

That long dresses have a certain style about them is not to be denied, and a pretty woman can manage to show just a glimpse of a small foot, a high instep and a well turned ankle. Dresses with trails may be worn in a drawing-room (the carpet supposed to be clean) and in a carriage, but in the street, dragging through mud and dirty water, making the stockings filthy, it is the very height of folly and extreme of vulgarity. The opposite of cleanliness in a woman is a crime so great that, like the absence of a law against paricide in the code of Lycurgus, it is not to be supposed possible.—E.

REMEDY FOR MAD-DOG BITE.—A highly respectable gentleman of this city advanced in years, informs us that there is an infallible remedy for bite of a mad-dog put up and sold by one of the Druggists at Hanover, Pa.—that it has been thoroughly tested in every possible way, on man and beast, and has never failed in a single instance. Our friend informed us that some years ago when he, farming in Adams county, Pa., two of his cows and five of his hogs had been bitten by a mad-dog, and that he applied the remedy to the cows and four of his hogs and they recovered entirely, while the fifth hog, to which he did not apply the remedy, in order to satisfy his mind fully as to the merits of the Medicine, was seized with hydrophobia and died a horrible death. Such a remedy as this, for such a dreadful disease, should be made known far and wide.—Maryland Union.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS.—It is perhaps not generally known by school directors that an act was passed two years ago by the Legislature of this State, making it obligatory upon directors to publish yearly the receipts and expenditures of their respective school districts. Without a compliance with this law, taxpayers may with propriety refuse to settle their school tax. It would be well for school boards throughout the county to bear this in mind.
—Fresh fish at Reed's this evening.

Thomas F. Anderson, cashier of Lambertson's Bank, at Franklin, Pa.—

one of the eldest cashiers in the oil region, last Friday opened the bank as usual waited on several customers, took all the special deposits and bills received out of the vault and put them on the fire, ran home drew a pistol in the presence of his wife, told her he was going to commit an awful act, rushed into the yard and blew his brains out. It is not known what amount was destroyed in the fire, but $38,000 in United States bonds was in the mass. Anderson had been carrying a large amount of overdrafts for the accommodation of his friends, and was crazed by the dread of impending exposure.

ACCIDENT.—While Mrs. Susan Lantz, wife of Mr. John Lantz, of the Union Hotel, was passing down stairs to dinner, on Tuesday last, she became faint, and fell to the floor, breaking her collar-bone and otherwise bruising her body. Dr. Senseny was called and set the fractured part, and at last accounts, we are pleased to say, she is as rapidly recovering as the nature of the injuries will allow.—Opinion.
