

Waynesboro' Village Record.

Thursday, April 3, 1873.

Bedford county voted 156 against license.

Berks county has given a majority of about 8000 for license.

The Stokes case, in the Supreme Court of New York, has been set down for trial on the 26th of April.

Charles Mortimer, convicted at Sacramento of the murder of Mary Gibson, has been sentenced to be hanged on the 15th of next May.

Taking the popular vote of the State at the late election on the local option law, the majority in favor of license is thought will reach 40,000 to 50,000.

Jacob Ritter, son of the late Governor Joseph Ritter, died on the 21st, at his residence, near Mount Holly, Cumberland county, in the 72d year of his age.

A farmer now in Illinois, who thirteen years ago sold a load of potatoes in Maine, and short measure made 25 bushels out of 24, he sent his old customer $1.50, to return the dishonest gain, with interest at ten per cent.

Copper two-cent pieces will become precious keepsakes in the remote future. The new coinage act abolishes that coin, and no more will be put in circulation. A new silver dollar is to be issued.

A colored man named Richard Moon was killed by lightning during the storm on Friday, while driving a mule team on the Annapolis road, a short distance from Baltimore. Both mules were also killed.

The Illinois House Representatives has followed that of Ohio, and by an almost unanimous vote adopted a resolution severely censuring the Congressmen from that State who voted to increase their salaries at the end of the last session of Congress.

Thomas Holloway, of England, the proprietor of the famous patent medicines which bear his name, is said to be worth $60,000,000. He has recently built an insane asylum costing $500,000, and has other charitable schemes on foot on an equally magnificent scale.

The bill appropriating one million of dollars out of the State Treasury to the Centennial exhibition, to be held in Philadelphia in 1876, was promptly signed by the Governor immediately after it was presented to him, without going through the usual routine of a reference to the Attorney General.

Levi Harris and wife, from Detroit, Michigan left Harrisburg, Pa., a few days ago, for York, Pa., leaving under the mattress where they lodged the night previous, at the United States Hotel, their pocket book containing $19,000 or $20,000. Mr. Harris telegraphed to the proprietor of the Hotel, and recovered his money next morning.

Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines' long continued fight in the courts with the city of New Orleans has become known all over the land. The plucky lady has won a very substantial victory in the decision of the United States Supreme Court recently, by which she not only gets more than $125,000 from the city, but also has the broad principle of her rights affirmed by the highest legal tribunal.

Two of the "sawdust" swindlers, men who offer counterfeit money for sale, and after getting the money of various speculative idiots, return them a box-full of sawdust, were up in the New York Court of General Sessions on Thursday, and, being proved guilty, were sentenced to a $1,000 fine each and sent to prison for one year. For the protection of people who are inclined to dishonesty and not smart enough to escape being the prey of greater rascals, it is gratifying to know that this example has been made.

Mr. Jno. Hopkins, a millionaire of Baltimore, some time since deeded to trustees thirteen acres of land bounded by Wolfe, Monument, Broadway, and Jefferson streets in the city, for the erection of a hospital for the indigent sick and orphans. On Tuesday week, Mr. Hopkins notified a meeting of the trustees that he had further dedicated $2,000,000 worth of property for the maintenance of the institution. The hospital buildings will be commenced in the spring of next year, and are to be on a magnificent scale.

ANOTHER OLD MAN.—There is a colored man in Rockingham County, Virginia, who is over 130 years old. He talks on the subject of Religion perfectly sensible; can relate some things that took place 100 years ago, and can tell considerable about General Washington being in Richmond. He was born and raised near Richmond, and has 12 children, the youngest of which is over 50 years old. He was a slave of James Blackwell and Mrs. Shonemaker, the latter of whom set him free, and has been blind for ten years.

A joint stock company has been formed in Martinsburg, under the title of the "Martinsburg Independent Printing Company," and has purchased the material, business and goodwill of both the "Martinsburg Era," and the "Berkeley Union," and will hereafter issue the Daily Independent, a morning paper.

Hon. John Thompson Mason, Secretary of the State of Maryland, formerly of Hagerstown, died suddenly at Elkton, Friday last. The Baltimore American says "he had just finished an argument before the Circuit Court of Cecil county, in the case of John Marr vs. Ramsey McHenry, and the jury had brought in a verdict awarding his client (Mr. Marr) three thousand dollars for damages received by the falling of a wall of Renner's Hotel, when Judge Mason was stricken with an apoplectic fit, and one hour afterwards ceased to breathe.

Judge Mason was a very successful legal practitioner. He was not only an able lawyer and a distinguished jurist, but had considerable literary reputation, and for some time prior to his death was engaged in writing a life of the great Maryland lawyer, J. V. L. McMahon. He was eminently generous and impulsive, warm hearted and honorable in all the relations of life. No family in Maryland occupies a higher social position than the Masons, and few men leave so excellent a record of public services and private worth as the deceased. His death is a loss to the State, and a source of profound regret to a wide circle of admiring friends. He will be greatly missed at Annapolis, where his kindly greeting welcomed every one who entered the Executive Chamber.

Although born and educated a Protestant Judge Mason joined the Roman Catholic Church in his mature manhood, and became an active and zealous member of that religious denomination. He often appeared as a speaker at the great church anniversaries, and he delivered the principle oration at the Pope's jubilee two years ago.

NEWSPAPER POSTAGE.—The Washington Chronicle has been inquiring at the Post-office Department as to the exact status of the action of Congress on the postage question, and learns that the proposition to reduce letter postage to two cents failed in the Senate—also the proposition to require pre payment of postage on newspapers. There was attached, however, to the Postal Appropriation bill, the following clause:

Provided That all laws and parts of laws permitting the transmission by mail of any free matter whatever be, and the same are, hereby repealed from and after June 30, 1873.

This sweeping clause cuts off free exchanges, and also the distribution of weekly papers free in the counties where printed. Subscribers to such weeklies will, after June 30, have to pay postage on their papers, and editors will be charged with postage on all the exchanges they receive.

The members of Congress took good care of themselves, increasing their salaries to $7,500 per annum, ostensibly to compensate for the loss of the franking privilege; but have taken revenge on the people who asked for reform, by requiring them to pay postage on their county papers. It is a small business, and the members concerned will be very apt to hear of it in future elections.

The murder mania seems to be raging just now in Washington. Three men have been hanged within the last six or eight months, and another would have suffered the extreme penalty of the law if the President had not interceded and commuted his sentence to imprisonment for life. But the rage of violence is not yet abated. Mr. Frank Hahn, a drover, who resided at Woodstock, Virginia, left Baltimore for Washington on Friday by the 7:30 P. M. train on the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad. He had sold a lot of sheep to Maximilian Dietz, and received payment in a draft, which is supposed to be all the money he carried with him.

About two o'clock on Saturday morning he was found near the Baltimore and Potomac Depot in a dying condition, his head and face having been fearfully mutilated with a hatchet or some similar implement. The impression prevails in Washington that the murderer followed his victim from Baltimore. As yet there is no clue to the mystery.

GRANT'S CABINET.—The following is the list of the officers of the Cabinet as it is now constituted:

- Wm. A. Richardson, Secretary of the Treasury.
Geo. H. Williams, Attorney General.
Hamilton Fish, Secretary of State.
Wm. W. Belknap, Secretary of War.
John A. J. Creswell, Postmaster General.
Columbus Delano, Secretary of the Interior.
George M. Robeson, Secretary of the Navy.

THREE LITTLE CHILDREN PERISH.—A dispatch from Detroit says the house of Henry Peters, at Grass Point, six miles from that city, was burned last night while Peters and his wife were absent. Four children were in the house. The eldest, aged 14, escaped, but ran back to the burning house to rescue her younger sisters. She seized them and attempted to carry them out, but was overcome by the fire and smoke, and was only saved by the effort of neighbors who were called to the spot by her screams. All the children but the oldest perished, and the latter is badly burned. The fire is supposed to have been caused by the bursting of a kerosene lamp.

Hon. A. K. Syster has been engaged to defend Mr. Chambers, the man who killed Hagan at Harper's Ferry some time ago.

"HOW ARE THE MIGHTY FALLEN."—To-day there is a man going about the streets of this city, ragged, dirty, penniless, subsisting on free lunches and the charities of gamblers, and has not slept in a bed for months, who, during the war, was one of the most dashing cavalry officers in the Union army, and was promoted from the rank of First Lieutenant to full Brigadier and Brevet Major General, for brilliant exploits on the field of battle, and who for a long time had a large and important command.

He has been here for two or three months, under an assumed name, being ashamed to dim the brilliancy of his record in the service of his country by an exhibition of his degradation under his former honored name. He is generally very reticent, having little to do with any one or talking but little, save when "engineering" for a drink, at which he is remarkably successful.

Night before last, while lying helplessly drunk in the rear part of a Third street saloon, some men thought to play a joke on him by stealing his shirt, and proceeded to strip him. Underneath his shirt, and suspended by a string around his neck was a small canvas bag, which the men opened and found to contain his commission as brevet Major General, two congratulatory letters, one from Grant and one from President Lincoln, a photograph of a little girl and a curl of hair—a "chestnut shadow" that doubtless one day crept over the brow of some loved one.

When these things were discovered, even the half-drunken men who found them felt a respect for the man's former greatness, and pity for his fallen condition, and quietly returned the bag and contents to where they found them, and replaced the sleepers clothes upon him. Yesterday a News reporter tried to interview the man and endeavor to learn something of his life in the past few years, but he declined to communicate anything. He cried like a child when told how his right name and former position were ascertained, and with tears trickling down his cheeks said: "For God's sake, sir, don't publish my degradation, or my name at least, if you are determined to say something about it. It is enough that I know myself how low I have become. Will you promise that much? It will do no good, but will do my friends a great deal of harm, as, unfortunately, they think I died in South America, where I went at the close of the war."

Intemperance and the gaming table, he said, had wrought his ruin.—Kansas City News.

HORRIBLE OCCURRENCE.—It is scarcely ever within the province of a newspaper to chronicle a more sickening accident than that which happened to James Milligan, who was drawn feet foremost three or two massive iron rollers only three and a half inches apart, and which are used in flattening bars of steel for the plates of saws. Mr. Milligan was employed as blacksmith's helper in a steel rolling-mill at Middletown, N. Y. He was climbing upon a board laid across rods over the rollers, in order to place in position a wrench which is used to regulate the space between the heated steel and iron, causing him to fall. His feet struck upon the steep side in front of the rollers, which were revolving at the rate of sixty times a minute, and were instantly caught between them.

The fellow had only time to utter the single cry of "Oh!" while his body feet foremost, was being drawn through a space of only three and a half inches. Hardly a second had elapsed before the body was a shapeless mass of flesh, blood and clothes, presenting, as it did, the most horrible and sickening sight that eyes could look upon. It dropped from the rollers a limp and quivering mass, and when straightened out covered a space of ground that two men would occupy. Not a whole or perfect bone remained in the body, and many bones were protruding through the flesh and clothing at different places. The head was a frightful sight to look upon. It had gone through the rollers face upward, and it came out completely flattened and partially turned. Flowing from the smashed skull were the brains and blood in a stream sickening to behold. Strong minded, able-bodied men, were horrified and hardly able to stand and look at the scene, which really beggars description. His comrades who witnessed the terrible affair were struck dumb with awe, and rendered almost motionless and as silent as the corpse before them, except when questioned. The deceased served three years in the late war, was about 33 years old, and leaves a wife and two little children in moderate circumstances.

WHAT IT WILL DO.—If a mechanic or clerk saves only 21 cents per day, from the time he is 21 until he is three score and ten, the aggregate, with interest, will amount to $2,000; and a daily saving of 37 cents reaching the important sum of $22,000.

A six-pence saved daily will provide a fund of $7,000—sufficient to purchase a good farm. There are few employees who cannot save daily, abstaining from the use of cigars, tobacco, liquor, etc., twice or ten times the amount of the six cent piece. Every person should provide for old age, and the man in business can lay by a dollar a day and eventually find himself possessed of over $100,000.

The martins arrived in force and took up their "summer quarters" several days since.

The Maryland Court of Appeals meets at Annapolis, Monday next, when a decision in the Davis case will be rendered.

Abm. Stouffer, a well-known citizen expired at his residence near Chambersburg, on Saturday last, at an advanced age.

DELINQUENTS who failed to give us a call on the first are asked to settle their bills at the earliest possible day.—We do not wish to resort to extreme measures, but the money we must have.

Mrs. Jason Bell, on "moving day," a couple of weeks since, lost a gold chain with a half medalion attached to it. She values the article highly and will liberally reward the finder.

REMOVED.—Mr. John Ford, fashionable boot and shoemaker, has removed from the Walker basement to the front room in the Sleasman & Mort house, opposite the Bowden House.

APPOINTMENT.—Col. T. A. Grierson, of Chambersburg, has been appointed Deputy Collector of the 16th district, and will have sole charge of that portion included in Franklin, Fulton and Adams counties.

SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.—An entertainment by the Waterloo School was given in the M. E. Church at Pikesville on the evening of the 21st ult., consisting of prologue, declamations, dialogues, essays, etc. The entertainment is represented to have been very fine and reflected great credit on teacher and pupils. The church was crowded on the occasion.

RAIN STORM.—A most violent rain storm occurred on Saturday morning last. For several hours the rain fell in torrents flooding the streets with water. The streams in this vicinity were much swollen in consequence. Had the storm not abated about noon there would doubtless have been a great destruction of property along the water courses.

THE LOCAL OPTION LAW.—In the House of Representatives at Harrisburg, on Saturday last, a supplement to the Local Option law was favorably reported from the committee on vice and immorality, providing that the manufacturers and vendors of ale, beer and native wines, are exempted from the law of March 27, 1872.

VALUABLE TO BUSINESS MEN.—All will acknowledge the advantage of keeping a fac-simile of every important letter, and that by doing so heavy losses are often prevented and much difficulty avoided. To meet this great want, we would call the attention of all concerned, to the Penn Letter Book, of which C. H. Coon is agt. This Book does away with expense and labor of a Press, thus saving time and money; and brings this important feature of business within the reach of every business man and woman, since the cost is so inconsiderable that all can avail themselves of it. Price of Book and Ink complete, $2.25, and upwards, according to size.

THE FIRST.—Tuesday, the first day of April, was bright, balmy, really the first spring-like day of the season. There was an unusual stir on our streets occasioned by "fittings" to and fro, and by persons from the country who were drawn in to arrange for the usual spring payments.—Owing to the stringency in money matters the disappointments were doubtless numerous, and several days must yet elapse before all business engagements can be satisfactorily adjusted for another 12 months.

Under the "local option law" and in accordance with the will of a majority in the county, the public bars were closed, and the occasional glass of "lager," or something stronger, of necessity had to be dispensed with. Of course this new order of things is an experiment and we have but to abide the test of time to ascertain whether its effects will prove salutary or otherwise, whether the object of the law, the suppression of the vice of intemperance, will be thus attained. The advocates of total abstinence are sanguine that the most happy results will follow. Others, on the other hand, are of the opinion that it will rather increase the evil than abate it. But time, the arbiter of all things, will tell.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.—Espy Miller, the mail agent on the Southern Pennsylvania Railroad, arrested on Wednesday, the 19th ult., and taken to Philadelphia, charged with robbing the mail, had a hearing before United States Commissioner Biddle on Monday, and was fully committed for trial.

RECEIPTS.—The following is a list of our subscription receipts for March:

Total: 2720 For, 3573 Against.

On Friday the Constitutional Convention, after a full debate, incorporated the following important section in the Legislative article:

The sale of intoxicating liquors or mixtures thereof containing the same, for use as a beverage, shall hereafter be prohibited. The Legislature shall within one year from the adoption of this constitution enact laws with adequate penalties for the enforcement of this provision. The vote on the adoption of this section was decided, yeas 54, nays 16. Mr. Cochran advocated its adoption. The general understanding was that the section should be separated from the remainder of the article on legislation and submitted to the people as a distinct proposition, for rejection or ratification separately.

The unfinished portion of the Western Maryland Railroad between Hagerstown and Williamsport was put under contract on Thursday last, and work will be resumed in the course of a week or ten days and vigorously pushed to completion. The contractor is Mr. Greenberry Watkins, of Montgomery county, who has had large experience as a contractor, and has the necessary financial and executive ability to make short and sure work of his contract.

CONTRACT AWARDED.—Mr. E. C. Detrich, of Greencastle, has been awarded the contract for carrying the U. S. Mails daily from Claylick, via Welsh Run and Upton to Greencastle. The contract will go into operation on July 1, 1873. Mr. Detrich informs us that his facilities for carrying passengers will be ample and comfortable.—Echo.

The Hotel Keepers of Chambersburg have adopted the following scale of prices to take effect on and after Tuesday April 1st, 1873: For boarding Jurors or Witnesses, per day, $1.50; single meals, 50 cents; horse feed, 25 cents; horse per day, 75 cents; man and horse over night, $2.00; Oats per peck 50 cents; horse in stable, not less than 25 cents.

REMARKABLE.—On the 22nd of last December 9 hogs belonging to John Dearing, who resides in Milford township, strayed away from his farm and their whereabouts was not known until the 20th inst., when they were discovered by David Sulouff, Sr., in the snow bank on his farm in Milford township, where it is supposed they had remained since the day they strayed away—a period of 88 days,—with food, and only the "beautiful snow" which has fallen during the past three months, for a covering. When found 3 were living, the other 6 having died during the period of their incarceration.—They weighed before leaving the farm 100 pounds each, when brought home the living weighed 20 pounds each.—Milfordtown Independent.

THE BORDER BILL.—The measure (says the Public Opinion) was brought before the House on Thursday last. Mr. Mahon proposed "to dispense with debate on the bill, and by common consent pass it to third reading, and then to consider and discuss it thoroughly and fairly, and vote it up or down upon its merits." Mr. Brockway "wanted to hear some reasons why the bill should pass." Mr. Mahon referred to "the strong prejudice in the public mind in regard to this just claim of the people of his section of the State for the severe losses sustained during the war, and hoped there would be a fair consideration of the question. The result of the rebel invasion was the breaking open of every store and the taking of every horse and wagon within the reach of the enemy. All the property that could be gathered together by the invading thousands was carried away and for awhile over a hundred thousand rebels occupied the county of Franklin, carrying destruction on all sides. Whilst these people thus suffered at home, many of them faithfully were discharging their duty at the front, and in a single engagement thirty citizens of Chambersburg laid down their lives on the battle-field. He referred to the prosperity of the various interests of other parts of the State through the war, such as iron, coal and manufacturing, whilst the people of his section made the extraordinary sacrifices referred to, and to deny this claim would be extremely unjust." Speaker Elliott "declared himself unconditionally opposed to the bill, and that it was a violation of an agreement two years ago, when it was an understanding that further claims should be presented to the general government. If that should fail there might be some reason for calling on the State for further relief." Mr. Mahon replied, contending that the State was not only morally but legally bound to meet these losses, and that it was the duty of the State to apply to the general government for payment back into the State treasury. The several sections of the bill were then read, the title was agreed to, and the bill passed to third reading. It will come up a gain in order this week.

IMPORTANCE OF SLEEP.—A cotemporary says the cry for rest has always been louder than the cry for food; not that it is more important, but because it is often harder to get. The best rest comes from sound sleep. Of two men or women, otherwise equal, the one who sleeps the best will be the most moral, healthy, and efficient. Sleep will do much to cure irritability of temper, peevishness, uneasiness. It will cure insanity. It will build up and make strong a weary body. It will do much to cure dyspepsia. It will relieve the languor and prostration felt by consumptives. It will cure hypochondria. It will cure the blues. It will cure the headache. It will cure a broken spirit. It will cure sorrow. Indeed, we might make a long list of nervous maladies that sleep will cure. The cure of sleeplessness however, is not so easy, particularly in those who carry heavy responsibilities. The habit of sleeping well is one which if broken up for any length of time, is not easily regained. Often a severe illness, treated by powerful drugs, so deranges the nervous system, that sleep is never sleep—it is never sweet afterward. Or, perhaps, long-continued watchfulness produces the same effect. Or hard study, or too little exercise of the muscular system, or tea and whisky-drinking, and tobacco-using. To break up the habits are required: First, a good clean bed. Second, sufficient exercise to produce weariness, and pleasant occupation. Third, good air, and not too warm a room. Fourth, freedom from too much care. Fifth, a clean stomach.—Sixth, a clear conscience. Seventh, avoidance of stimulants, and narcotics. For those who are over-worked, haggard, nervous, who pass sleepless nights, we commend the adoption of such habits as will secure sleep; otherwise life will be short, and what there is of it, sadly imperfect.

MR. EDITOR:—I trust you will pardon me for once more troubling you with the "bell" subject. I fear your readers have already had a surfeit of the article, in your columns from time to time, in a series of fulminations from a chameleon correspondent who changes his name continually, but his nature, never. That terrible school-house "bell" weighs upon his conscience, like Bunyan's Pilgrim's pack. His purile efforts at commiseration must inspire all who read them with mingled feelings of pity and contempt. His cowardly assault upon your honorable Board of School Directors deserves no higher recognition than is accorded to the yelpings of an insignificant spaniel. In a former communication, I gave your readers a candid statement of my part in the purchase of that bell, and, also, an explicit account of the way in which that inscription came to be cast on it. Had your correspondent of the many aliases any higher purpose in view than to calumniate those gentlemen and, thereby, gratify a malignant spirit of revenge for crushed hopes, it is not apparent. My sole motive in deigning to notice his wild drivellings is to correct a vile, unmanly insinuation thrown out in his last two productions. He professes to have made the discovery, that the Temperanceville correspondent is a myth, or, as he calls him, a feigned one. It is scarcely worth while to attempt to force an idea through his obtuse brain, and I shall not make the trial. But your readers are intelligent; and have an impression that to feign, is to pretend, to dissimulate, to assume a false appearance. For instance, a brave knight is one who never resorts to the cowardly means of assaulting an enemy—which is habitual to a mid-night assassin—a brave knight never attributes to his foeman any motive, sentiment, or principle which is unworthy, without having some foundation for so doing—hence for any one to subscribe himself a brave knight when penning an assertion having no spark of truth to justify it, is improper; rather let the signature be a feigned brave knight—to assert or even insinuate that the correspondence which has appeared in your paper purporting to come from Temperanceville, has really been manufactured nearer home, or that it has been indited or even suggested by any authority in or about Waynesboro', is not alone cowardly and mean but false and contemptible. GEO. B. JOHNSTON.
