The redoubtable Captain Jack is suffering from confinement. Possibly he may never survive to be arraigned before the military commission, or to suffer death upon the scaffold.

Mrs. Marię Lapidin, aged 35, a few days ago deliberately threw herself upon the rails in front of an engine, a short distance beyond Glen Rock, Pa., while laboring under mental aberration, and was crushed to death. She leaves a family of several children.

Jesse R. Grant, the father of President Grant, died at his residence in Covington, Kentucky, on Sunday evening the 29th ult. He was a very old man, and his death resulted more from natural debility than acute disease. The President was expected, but did not arrive in time to see his father alive.

Mrs. Avery D. Putnam, the widow of the victim of the car-hook murderer in New York, has recovered in the Superior Court of that city $5,000, against the Seventh Avenue Railroad Company for negligence of the car driver and conductor for not putting Foster off the car when requested by Mr. Putnam.

The Second Auditor of the Treasury has at last completed the settlement of the accounts of Jacob Thompson, who was Secretary of the Interior under President Buchanan's memorable Administration. It appears that there is a deficiency of exactly $821,000 to be accounted for, quite a respectable sum, even for these days of great deficiencies.

Disasters from heavy floods are reported from Illinois. A despatch from Jacksonville says the heaviest rain storm ever known in that vicinity raged Monday, the rainfall measuring twelve and a quarter miles. The streams were swollen to destructive torrents, and bridges and embankments were swept away and crops ruined. It is feared that the wheat crop will be totally destroyed unless fine weather at once sets in. Similar despatches are received from other points.

At New York on Saturday Frank Walworth, the young man who shot and killed his father, was sentenced to the State Prison at Sing Sing at hard labor for life.

Judge Davis, in addressing the prisoner, said he had fearful doubts whether his case did not justify conviction of murder in the first degree. The prisoner stood the trying ordeal with firmness, without moving a muscle of his face, and left the Court with his mother immediately after the Judge had concluded.

A duel was fought near Montgomery station, Louisiana, on Tuesday a week, between ex-Judge Wm. H. Cooley, and Col. R. B. Eckett, Jr., chief editor of the New Orleans Picayune, in which Cooley was killed at the second shot. Eckett was the challenging party, and the duel was fought with double-barreled shot guns, loaded with ball; distance, forty paces.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 6.—There were three distinct shocks of earthquake here this morning, one quite strong about five o'clock, another about seven o'clock, and the third, quite strong, at half-past nine o'clock causing considerable alarm by the rocking of buildings and shipping in the harbor.

Mrs. Maria Parker, of Stamford, Vt., is the happy mother of ten sons and sixteen daughters. She might be termed a woman of the period, if there was any indication that she had come to a full stop.

CALL AND STYLE.—As another harvest season is about over we trust those of our patrons who have so long deferred a settlement of their accounts at this office—some of them promising payment from harvest to harvest for years—will not fail to give us an early call. These scattered dollars are sadly needed and we make this appeal with the expectation that all who are not lost to a sense of honor will respond in some shape. Those not within bounds can enclose Checks or P. O. Orders.

It is proposed and generally accepted among the different Fire Companies of Hagerstown to unite in a grand picnic at Monterey some time during the present month. So says the Daily News.

A CALL.—We understand Rev. H. H. W. Hibbsman of this place has received a unanimous call from the Reformed congregation at Shippensburg, Pa. to become their Pastor. We are not advised as to whether the Rev. gentl. man will accept the call or not.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Harper, son of E. W. Washbaugh, a lad about 10 years old, was thrown from a colt on Monday morning, receiving a severe gash on the head and several bruises upon the body. The hurts were fortunately not serious ones.

At the last annual session of the State Medical Society of Penna. Dr. Jno. Montgomery, of Chambersburg, was chosen one of the Vice Presidents for the current year. Dr. I. N. Snively, of this place, was appointed a delegate to the next annual meeting of the State Medical Society of Maryland.

SCHOOL EXAMINATION.—The examination of the Public Schools began on Monday morning, and is still in progress.—So far as we have heard the examinations have been very satisfactory, reflecting credit upon Principal and teachers. The exercises are to conclude with a literary entertainment.

HERCULEAN LIFTING JACK.—We call special attention to the advertisement of this simple but useful invention. For hoisting vehicles and even the heaviest wagons it is most admirably adapted, far surpassing anything of the kind yet produced. Its simplicity and utility commend the little contrivance to special favor.

Mr. Alex. Leeds, for several years Telegraph operator in this place, recently received the appointment of Mail Agent on the Washington County Branch Railroad at a salary of $500 a year. He accepted the appointment and last Saturday entered upon the duties of his office. Mr. L. was formerly of Hagerstown, and during the late war was a faithful soldier in a Maryland regiment.

VISITORS.—Hon. J. M. Weakley, State Senator and editor of the Carlisle Herald, one of our most valued exchanges, paid us a visit recently. He was just from the steam engine and boiler works of Messrs. Frick & Co., where he informed us he had purchased an engine for their extensive printing establishment.

George H. Knoek, Esq. of the Hagerstown Daily News also honored us with a call. A clever gentleman and spicy editor. We was glad to make the acquaintance personal.

When you hear a man running down his home paper, instead of looking kindly at its defects, you can safely conclude that he is an offensive, conceited member of society, and most likely owes the publisher.

A DAY IN THE MOUNTAIN.—We had a pleasant trip to Waynesboro' Station on the W. M. R. R. one day last week in company with a jolly good friend, Mr. D. W. Mickle. The Station is much easier of access than we had supposed. Indeed we have no knowledge of a better mountain road, which is solid and comparatively easy of ascent. It can however be much improved with little expense. As it is four hours are ample to draw one hundred bushels of wheat to the Station.

We remained for sometime at the warehouse of Messrs. Rouzer & Shover, feasting our eyes and imagination upon the wild beauties that surrounded us, and were pleased to learn that this enterprising firm are driving a prosperous and growing business. More accommodating and gentlemanly business men are rarely met with. At this point the mountain scenery is grand, and from which one of the finest views is afforded, covering a large area of country to the North and Northwest, said to be not much excelled by that afforded from the famous "Franklin Cliff," not far off. Directly in front of the warehouse is a well seventy-five feet in depth, from which the purest water, almost ice-cold, is obtained. The buildings however lack one very essential means of comfort—shade trees—being exposed on all sides to the scorching rays of the sun.

After fully satisfying our curiosity as to Waynesboro' Station, we withdrew our "nag" from the bushes and started for "Beautiful View Springs, at which place we turned up about 4, P. M. having had another pleasant drive without encountering a single snake or mosquito. Here, as usual, we found everything cozy and comfortable, with many added improvements, and a pleasant society, about as many boarders as the house will comfortably accommodate. Mr. McCourt—who has been on the mountain for more than twenty years, winter as well as summer—being among the number.

Location and conveniences considered, Beautiful View Springs as a summer resort is excelled by few if any mountain houses. A fine spring and bath house close to the buildings, two wells of excellent water in the yard, (one hard and the other soft or sulphur) one of the finest grape arbors perhaps in the county, extending from house to barn, and all other surroundings neat and trim, avorably impress the visitor. All that is required to make it a place of more general resort—is a new building or an enlargement of the present one, for the accommodation of boarders. The worthy host, Mr. V. B. Gilbert, is always about and leaves nothing undone to make his guests comfortable. Supper over, we returned to town feeling loath indeed to quit so attractive and pleasant mountain retreat, having thus passed the pleasantest day of our "harvest week."

We purposed a ride since to the Monterey and Clermont Houses, on the summit, but failed to carry out our intention, at both of which we learn all the rooms are taken for the season.

THE FOURTH.—On Friday last, the 4th of July, business was suspended and our town partially deserted of citizens.—Some were out on fishing and hunting excursions, others visited the Mountain Houses, whilst the Band with a squad of citizens at an early hour started for "Franklin Cliff" or High Rock. It appears that a number of those accompanying the Band members from some cause or other—perhaps from being too overly patriotic—became separated in the mountain, and after wandering through bushes and brush for five or six hours in search of the Cliff and their lost companions, turned up on part of Raven Rock, near Smithburg. We have received a communication recounting the adventures of the "lost party," but it covers almost a dozen of letter pages, which will account for its non-appearance. It would be well for these contemplating visits in that direction in the future to secure the services of a guide familiar with the route. The point is difficult to find, but when reached the view afforded more than compensates the visitor.

REAL ESTATE SALES.—George J. Balsley and Wm. B. Raby, assignees of A. S. Monn, sold in front of the Union Hotel, in Quincy, nine tracts of land, as follows: 16 acres to H. E. DECEASED.—The death of an estimable lady, Mrs. Barbara Newcomer, wife of Daniel Newcomer, sen., formerly of this vicinity, is announced among the obituary notices in this issue. She had many devoted friends and acquaintances in this section to whom this announcement will prove one of peculiar sadness. Thus has passed to her final rest, in the fullest sense of the term, another christian wife and mother.

SUDDEN DEATH OF WM. BELL.—It is with deep anguish we learn that while Wm. Bell, a farmer residing between Hunting creek and Fishing creek, at the widow Myers' well known old tavern stand on the road from Creagerstown to Frederick was out in the meadow in the early part of last Saturday morning, with his mowing machine, mowing grass, all at once he complained of being unwell and laid down. He called his little girl to his side, and told her to run to the house and get some camphor. She complied with his request, and his wife hurried to his relief with the camphor, but he soon swooned away, uttering for his last words 'give me some camphor,' and before he could be carried to the house he died. He was aged 57 years, 2 months and 27 days. He was an excellent citizen and very industrious man. He leaves a widow and some four or five children to sorrow at his demise. His remains were interred in the Utica Burying Ground on last Sunday evening followed by a large concourse of relatives and friends. The funeral obsequies were performed by the Rev. J. Summers of the Lutheran Church.—Clarion.

Mr. Bell will be remembered by many citizens as a resident of this vicinity. He lived on the farm now owned and occupied by Henry M. Hess.

We were shown a few days ago on Dr. I. N. Snively's buggy, Mr. H. Latshaw's patent apparatus for detaching horses from carriages which is the most complete safety arrangement we have ever seen. If a horse becomes unmanageable or a buggy should break, by pulling a strap along side of your seat you can detach your horse in an instant, thus many valuable lives may be saved. We do think in view of so many accidents constantly occurring every buggy should have this attachment, especially when ladies are driving. We can't help recalling to mind some painful accidents such as the killing of the lady in Dr. Kauffman's buggy, which could have thus been avoided.

A courteous gentleman, Dr. R. B. Elderdice, of McKnightstown, Adams co., Pa. has for sale state and township rights.

THE FRANKLIN COUNTY BIBLE SOCIETY.—The agent, Rev. F. Dyson, is now in our midst. His object is to visit every family, to supply all not having a bible, with a copy by sale or gift, as the case may require; and also, to furnish all that may need them, at cost prices. The rule of the Pennsylvania Bible Society is that the visiting agent shall ask each family for a donation to aid in carrying on this great work. It is hoped that all friends of the bible cause, will contribute towards carrying forward the work in our midst. What may be given will be credited so that each denomination will get credit for what it gives, and can be reported as their annual bible collection for the year. Their bibles are sold at cost prices.

School bible leather bound, 40 cts. Testament cloth " 10 " Family Quarto bibles gilt edges $3.75.

Miller & Co's store to-morrow (Friday) evening. The Lutheran Choir will take part in the concert, Miss Ella Weagly performing on the Organ. The elder Mr. B. is a music teacher of many years standing. The entertainment will no doubt prove a creditable one.—The public are cordially invited to attend.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A young man about nineteen or twenty years of age named Henderson halting, it is said, from New York city was killed on Wednesday of last week at Weyertown Junction. He slipped in attempting to get upon a train that was passing, and falling beneath the wheels was almost instantly crushed to death.

The telegraphic despatches tell a woful tale of a fearful storm of wind and rain which swept through the west on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday last.—Its limits are not precisely defined, but we hear of it extending northward to Minnesota, thence eastward through Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, southward into Kentucky and westward to the borders of Kansas. Buildings and forests were leveled to the ground by the mighty force of the tornado, the standing growth of the crops was swept away like chaff before the wind, the rivers were flooded and inundated the adjacent country, the railroads were interrupted and the telegraph wires blown down for miles upon miles. The storm seems to have gained its extreme power at various points at different times, but its general tendency was towards a culmination on Friday. The storm centres were variable, and were determined as if the hurricane were divided up into a number of cyclones, each embracing a certain extent of territory. The amount of damage, if the first accounts are not overstatements, must be immense. Through the vast stretch of country embraced, the wheat, corn and other cereals were either just ready for the sickle or were within a week of ripening. Their value represented millions of dollars, and it is only to be probable that the yield will now be but a fraction of what it would have been but for the destroying agent which has devastated the fertile fields.—More definite intelligence of the disaster will be eagerly awaited, and if its proportions are as immense as reported it cannot but have a sad effect upon that country.

The Tomstown "cherry train" has been on time every day for the last week.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK, LANCASTER, PA.—The Thirty-eighth Annual Commencement of Franklin and Marshall College was very properly and appropriately opened with the baccalaureate sermon by the venerable President, J. W. Nevip, D. D., on Sunday, June 22d.—This exercise was followed by the address before the Literary Societies, on Tuesday evening, by the Hon. James Pollock, ex-Governor of Pennsylvania, and now connected with the United States Mint, Philadelphia. On Wednesday, the Alumni of the College held their annual meeting in the College Chapel, disposing of the business pertaining to their organization. Previous to this meeting, there were Reunions of the Literary Societies held in their respective Halls. After these meetings, came the Alumni Dinner, bountifully spread by the tiny hands of Lancaster's fair daughters. Among the distinguished guests present were seen the manly form of Gen. J. F. Hartranft, Governor of Pennsylvania, Gen. B. Frank Fisher, Prof. J. P. Wickersham, State Superintendent of Public Schools, Hon. J. B. Linn, Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth, with a goodly number of others, illustrious in church and state. In the evening, our minds were again feasted with the literary address by W. Leaman, Esq., of Lancaster City, delivered before the Alumni Association. The Commencement exercises proper took place on Thursday, at which time speeches were delivered by the graduating class, numbering fourteen. Among the honorary degrees conferred was that of D. D. on the Rev. G. B. Russell, of Pittsburg, Pa., editor of "Our Church Paper." Thus ended one of the most interesting and enthusiastic Commencements it has been our privilege to attend.

A VISITOR. H. & P. R. R.—This formerly much talked of road—says the Oakville Enterprise—is again coming into mention, and it now appears that the work of grading is commencing in earnest. A large lot of tools (shovels, picks, quarrying tools, etc.) arrived at this place this week, consigned to the contractors in charge of the work opposite this place, who, we understand, want seventy-five hands, and a number of horses and carts, to go to work at once. It will take several months yet to complete the large cut at Mr. Holly; that done, however, the grading will soon be completed. We learn from a gentleman connected with the road that the iron will be laid and the road completed as far as Mt. Holly, very shortly. Our south side friends are not to be disappointed in their expectations, as another year will undoubtedly find the Harrisburg and Potomac railroad extending from river to river.

We extract the following from a truthful exchange: It is a great pity that so many mantlemakers are such poor judges of the length of their customers.—Two-thirds of the dresses of their patrons are made apparently for huge giants of women instead of dear little ducks not much bigger than a flour barrel; consequently great lengths of stuff are dragged through the putrid quids, filthy gutters, dust and dirt of the streets. It is strange that cleanly women do not revolt against such extravagant and distasteful dress makers.

Prof. Wise, the aeronaut, says the Harrisburg Telegraph, evidently means business in regard to that balloon trip to Europe. He had a chance to retire gracefully from the field with his prospective laurels when Boston buttoned up her pocket after the second scorching she got a few weeks ago. But the gallant professor having insisted that he was full of faith and only wanted means to enable him to try the experiment, friends and patrons are not wanting, and he may have his chance yet.

The Daily Graphic, of New York, has been the Professor's most devoted champion all along. It has endorsed his plan and urged its readers to help make a fund for his grand experiment, starting a subscription list itself with a liberal sum.—The appeal has not been in vain, and now the building of the mammoth balloon has begun under the supervision of Wise himself. The trip will be made it is said some time in August by the professor and his young disciple, Mr. Donaldson.

CHEAP SUGAR.—The Pittsburg Dispatch says: It will be gratifying to all consumers of sugar to learn that the prospect is that for some time to come the supply will be abundant, thus causing cheap prices. The American Grocer says that the sugar crops in all producing countries are very large. The beet root sugar production of Europe will yield eleven hundred thousand tons, a crop that is one-fifth larger than last year's. The increase will go far towards supplying the European market, and will lessen the demand there for American sugar, so that a greater amount than ever before will seek a sale in the country, and keeping prices low during the summer. These effects have already been plainly visible for some time.

BLACKBERRY WINE.—The blackberry is used for medical purposes, particularly for disease of the bowels, we therefore copy the following plan, used by Swiss settlers in the United States, and it is said to make the most excellent wine: To one bushel of berries put two gallons of water, and express the juice; to each gallon of the liquid add one pound of white refined sugar. Put into a cask a peck of freshly burned charcoal, broken into small pieces; then pour the liquid upon it. Let it ferment. As soon as the fermentation subsides close the cask tight and let it remain until January or later, then rack off and bottle, and set it in a cool cellar.
