A visit to different savings banks in N. Y. last week, shows that all fears on the part of depositors have vanished, and large numbers who drew out money the previous week have returned it. There are about $13,000,000 in greenbacks in the vaults, which, when all signs of any run are passed, will be distributed through other channels.

The county of Clay, in W. Virginia, (says a Staunton paper), has coal hills nearly a mile high, with cannel, splint and bituminous veins ten feet thick; walnut, maple and oak trees six feet in diameter and 70 feet to the first branch, and yet, for want of railroad development, the whole value of the county lands, buildings and all, is only assessed at $116,758.

A Wilkesbarre letter says: An Englishman, named George Law, was last night caught in the act of stealing cabbage from the patch of Frank Espy, in Hanover township below the city, and while an effort was being made to arrest him he fired three shots at Espy, without hitting him. Espy then fired and shot the thief dead. At the coroner's inquest Espy was exonerated from all blame.

The first Ku-Klux trial before a State court, came off before Judge Watte, in the Johnson County, N. C., Superior Court, this week, and resulted in the conviction of the parties. Two men, one white and one colored, went in disguise to a colored man's house, dragged him out and whipped him to death, on the 6th of September. They were convicted and sentenced to be hanged November 13th.

It is reported that the Constitutional Convention, will conclude its labor within two or three weeks. Provision will be made for the printing of the proposed Constitution in the newspapers and pamphlets, so that a copy of it will be placed in the hands of every voter. It is altogether probable it will be submitted as a whole, but a separate vote may possibly be called for on one or two articles. The special election will be ordered in December, so that if adopted, the Constitution may be proclaimed the supreme law of the State before the meeting of the Legislature in January.

The oft-mooted question whether the purchase of a railway ticket entitles the passenger to a seat, has again been decided in favor of the passenger by the courts in Indiana. The plaintiff in the case refused to give up his ticket until provided with a seat, and was removed from the train by the conductor. It was shown on the trial that the cars were crowded, and there was no seat which the conductor could have furnished the plaintiff; but the court held that the company having taken the passenger's fare, was bound to provide him with the usual and proper accommodations. The damages were assessed by the jury at the sum of $2,000.

The financial storm which commenced some two weeks ago, is about over. Dispatches from all parts of the country report returning confidence in financial affairs. Many of the banks which had suspended during the panic are resuming, and the outlook generally is becoming quite favorable. While the failure of so many large Banking Houses is a most lamentable affair in many respects and will no doubt prove disastrous to many, it will yet not be without good fruits also. It will serve to put a check upon some of the wild and visionary schemes for making money rapidly that have engrossed the minds of so many of our people since the war. There will be more of a demand for safe investments, in Real Estate securities, or home enterprises, which though they may not promise so large a percentage of income, will be safe and sure, and will tend to give the financial atmosphere a healthier and more substantial tone.

A man has just died in Brooklyn who had long been a monomaniac from the neglect of a person to whom he had lent the money he had saved by hard work, to repay it. The debtor's promise was to return the money with interest, at a certain day at noon, in front of the city hall, and for five years the disappointed, poverty-stricken man was a regular visitor to the appointed place, an hour before the time when he expected his debtor to appear. When the clock struck twelve, he moved mournfully away, but re-appeared, on the successive day, to go through with the same experience of expectation and disappointment. The case of the "twelve-o'clock man," as he was called, had some features of resemblance to those which are constantly occurring from the failure of people to meet their obligations. There may not be many cases of positive mental disease resulting from such neglect, but there is a vast amount of suffering which would disappear if debts were paid with as much readiness as they were contracted.

John Edgar Thomson, Esq., President of the Pennsylvania Railroad communicates the following items to a personal friend:

The financial panic which we have just passed through is almost wholly due to the construction of railways, either in advance of the requirements of the country, or in building lines as rivals to existing works, where less capital applied to enlarging the facilities of the older lines would have produced far better results for the public and those more satisfactory to the money-lenders.

The commercial and manufacturing interests of the country are generally in a very healthy condition, and if the banks and capitalists continue to extend to them the confidence and generous support all will do well. The failures that have taken place among our large capitalists, in consequence of embarking in these great enterprises, will serve as a warning to all who have extended the credits of the importance of taking in sail, and thus avoid a general crisis, which it seems that every generation is liable to.

The Barnesville (Ohio) Enterprise says: An old gentleman and lady from Pennsylvania are visiting our fair whose life-history is somewhat singular. It appears that a widow lady took an orphan boy to raise, and when he arrived at the age of eighteen she married him, she then being in her fiftieth year. Ten years ago they took an orphan girl to raise. This summer the old lady died, being ninety-six years of age, and in nine weeks after the old man married the girl they had raised, he being sixty-nine years old and she eighteen.

THE MODOCS.
EXECUTION OF CAPT. JACK AND OTHERS.
JACKSONVILLE, OREGON, October 8.—The correspondent of the Associated Press left Fort Klamath this morning at 11:30 o'clock, and by hard riding arrived here late this evening with the following report of the execution of Captain Jack and his band. Boston Charlie and Black Jim, were led on the scaffold first, and Schonchin next. They trod on it with apparent indifference, having evidently resolved to die as bravely as they have lived. Captain Jack, went easily up the stairway, but looked wretched and miserable. The manacles had been struck off, but their arms were securely pinioned with cords. At precisely 9:45 o'clock A. M. the interpreters, Captain O. C. Applegate and David Hill, explained to the prisoners the nature of the order to be read to them by the Adjutant, and at 10 o'clock Adjutant Kingsbury read the order promulgating the sentence of the Commission, and the President's order thereon, with the orders of the Secretary of War and the Department Commander.

The two reprieved prisoners, Barncho and Sloluk, yet stood on the ground in front of the scaffold, shackled and under guard. During the reading the pinioned victims were seated on the platform of the scaffold with their feet in the drop, listening anxiously, but of course understanding nothing not a word of it. The reading occupied ten minutes.

Then the Adjutant read the order and commutation in the case of Barncho and Sloluk, and the poor fellows were taken back to the stockade, evidently rejoiced at not accompanying the others to the happy hunting grounds.

The chaplain then offered an earnest and fervid prayer for the souls of the culprits, which was listened to attentively. At 10:15 the fatal noose was placed around their necks under the direction of Capt. Hodge. It was necessary to cut off a little of Captain Jack's long hair, which was in the way of the rope. Capt. Hodge then bid farewell to the prisoners, and a black cap was placed over the head of each of the culprits.

At 10 o'clock and twenty minutes they stood on the drop, and the rope was cut by an assistant at a signal made with Capt. Hodge's handkerchief. Their bodies swung round and round, Jack and Jim apparently dying easily.

As the drop fell with a terribly deadly thug four wretched human beings fell into eternity, and a half smothered cry of horror went up from a crowd of over five hundred Clamath Indians who witnessed the awful spectacle. Wails of deep and bitter anguish went up from the stockade where the wives and children of the poor fellows had fair view of the shocking scene. The coffins, six in number, had been placed directly in rear of the gallows, two of them destined to be unoccupied, as the order commuting the sentences of Barncho and Sloluk only arrived at 10:30 o'clock last evening, and preparations had been made for their execution with the others.

Across the Atlantic.
[Special Despatch to the Balt. American.]

NEW YORK, October 6.—The Graphic's balloon has at last made start for its voyage to European shores. Prof. W. H. Donaldson has given a practical example of his faith in the exploded balloon, which burst during the inflation a few weeks ago by mending it and trying his luck in it. The balloon sailed off about nine o'clock this morning, and despatches since received, tell of its passage over Connecticut. If it has kept in this course, it is well out over the Atlantic to-night. Contrary to precedent, there was no noise made over this ascension, and even the Graphic had little to say, probably feeling that after its former failure, modesty would best become it. Donaldson had with him an Englishman named Albert Ford, and George Ashton Lunt, correspondent of the Graphic from the aerial regions. Not many persons witnessed their departure, and few still will know of it until they read their papers to-morrow morning.

NEW HAVEN, October 6.—As near as can be learned in this city at present the Graphic balloon reached Canaan, about eighty miles distant, in the northeastern corner of the State, at 1:25 P. M., where it was caught in a violent storm for a few minutes. Before that time it was near to the earth. Donaldson and Ford jumped out. Hunt was caught in some trees, but finally succeeded in reaching the ground unhurt. The balloon escaped and had not been captured at last accounts. Later in the afternoon the storm visited this city and was extremely violent. The balloon was traced through Stamford, Bethel, Bridgeport, New Haven, Ansonia, Watertown, Waterbury and Litchfield.

P. S.—A later despatch says the balloon was recovered near Canaan.

DEDICATION.—On Sunday morning last, according to announcement made in our last issue, the Town Hall room was dedicated to public worship for the Second Reformed congregation (St. Paul's) of this place. The exercises were conducted by Rev. M. Keifer, D. D., and Rev. W. E. Krebs, a former pastor of Trinity Reformed Church. In the evening the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to about sixty communicants. The room has been repainted and handsomely papered; new seats or pews have been added and the whole carpeted. It presents altogether a neat and comfortable appearance and will doubtless well answer the purpose for which it has been refitted.

On Saturday next, the 11th, the Brew House property will again be offered for sale. This is one of the finest as well as the most pleasant and desirably located properties in our Borough. The buildings are new and handsomely finished, inside and out, with a well of the finest water, arched cellars, new and commodious stabling, etc. There is a handsome speculation for somebody in this sale. Who will see it?

FINE POTATOES.—Mr. Michael Morgal the other day presented us with a half bushel of the finest potatoes we ever saw, and we are sure their quality for table use cannot be excelled. They are called the "King's Extra." A specimen weighing two pounds and a half can be seen at Mr. Reid's Grocery. Mr. M. has upwards of sixty bushels which he purposes preserving for seed.

OUTRAGE AND MURDER.—A young girl, ANNIE BUTLER was outraged and then murdered in Cunningham's woods near Falling Waters, Va. A negro is suspected. Parties are in pursuit and if found the fiend will be executed on the spot.

A VERY INTERESTING WORK.—We have just received from the National Publishing Co. of Philadelphia, a copy of Prof. O. S. Fowler's great work, on Manhood, Womanhood, and their Mutual Interrelations; Love, Its Laws, Power, etc. We hail its advent with undisguised satisfaction, and cordially commend it to the perusal of all classes of our community. Forty years experience as a teacher and lecturer on science, and a long life devoted to consultations and advice in connection with subjects concerning which men and women hesitate to confide—even in their physicians—have enabled Prof. Fowler to give to the world the most remarkable and useful volume of the day, and one which should find its way into the hands of every conscientious man and woman.

As its title indicates, it is devoted to an explanation of the laws which govern the sexes in their relations to each other; the ignorance of which causes so much sorrow and suffering in the world. Thousands will thank the author for his disclosures, and we predict that the book will mark the beginning of a clearer understanding of the subjects whereof it treats. Men will be arrested in their heedless course, and made to think of the misery they are entailing upon their families and themselves through ignorance. Wives will find in this volume a sure and safe road to the accomplishment of every true wife's desire. Women who wish to retain their health and beauty in mature life, will be taught in this volume the secret of doing so, and will also learn here the true means of keeping their husbands faithful.

There would be fewer firesides made desolate by the loss of a loved life; fewer rendered unhappy by a prematurely old, broken and enfeebled wife, if the laws of "Sexual Science," which are laid down and explained in this book were better understood and more generally acted upon. The best guarantee of its excellence is the fact that its suggestions and remedies meet the approval of every intelligent physician in the country. It exposes quacks and patent medicines unmercifully, and by its common-sense views will save many a dollar for those who follow its instructions, as well as put them on the sure road to health. It will show how mothers can avoid much of their suffering and how they can raise daughters fit to be wives and mothers. It will show men how to develop their manly vigor, and women how to promote the growth of those charms which render them so attractive to men. It will show how happiness may be made to reign supreme in the domestic circle, and how it may be brought back to those from whom it has fled. The book appeals to every class, and to people of all ages, tastes, and habits, and we hope it will be read by every man and woman in our broad land. The author addresses himself with especial force to those contemplating marriage, and we most cordially commend his book to all such. It is pure and elevated in tone, and abounds in the most useful information concerning the sexes. Its low price brings it within the reach of all, and information it contains is beyond value. Its circulation will be a benefit to society.

The book is issued by subscription only and Mr. D. D. FAHNEY who is the authorized agent for this section, is now canvassing for it.

FIXING UP.—Now that the cool mornings and evenings are upon us, housekeepers, merchants, and others, are having their stoves, &c., brought into requisition to meet the approach of winter. To guard against the many dangers and accidents that happen during the season of fires, persons could not be too careful in examining their flues and chimneys. Too often is it the case that a house or store takes fire and is consumed with all its contents, and often to the hazard even of life, from a defective flue or a foul chimney. Let every one look to this matter and thus avoid the dangers that beset them. Remember—"a stitch in time saves nine."

GROUND HOGS.—An exchange says: A dog belonging to a gentleman in East Bradford township, Chester county, has killed over one hundred ground hogs the past summer. One day he killed four in six minutes. The largest one weighed 20 pounds, and several of the others weighed 12 and 15 pounds each. A couple of men in Lancaster county have also shot about one hundred of these animals during the past summer. The natural conclusion is that it must be very Ground Hoggy in those regions. So many shadows less to disturb the weather.

A LITERARY CURIOSITY.—The York Republican publishes the following as an exact copy, verbatim et literatim, of a will recently proved in the Register's office of that county. Only the name of the testator and of his "Administrator" are omitted:

"April 11 1873 — — — — —, all I use money And nodes Shel Bee divided Among my Children as Ch S Shel have equal S hear After ex penses pats of my funeral and all the rest of the proBrdy and use proBrdy shel Blongs to mi we da As long as she dond marry the same As she was my I was loved, Bud As one as she may demotededly shel Bee sold And she shel have in money And aney won i dem and ind safe with woi weld to dem and will law A Boude id shel, have nosing.

WHAT CAUSES HARD TIMES.—Too many spend money, and too few earn it.

Too much money is spent wastefully and needlessly, and too little saved and made productive and accumulative.

We buy too much abroad that we ought to produce at home.

We buy too much that we do not pay for cash down—too much of what we buy being what we do not actually need.

We are too wasteful, know too little how to economize, and have too little disposition to do so.

We are too speculative, unscrupulous, and actually dishonest in our efforts to make money.

Too many of us prefer idleness to industry, and too few of us know how to work and derive pleasure and profit from our labor.

We know too much of politics, spend too much time and money as politicians and know too little about political economy and the science of a stable, economical, successful public policy.

We depend too much upon our "sharpness" and "cuteness," and readiness to take advantage of circumstances, and not enough upon earnest, honest labor.

We talk and read too much, and think and act too little.

We lack in that higher morality which frowns down venality and elevates and encourages purity of life, probity of conduct, and a scrupulous regard for a good and honorable name.

We do not teach our children that they must know how to earn their own living, and are too willing to commit them to a life of easy unscrupulousness, depending on their skill as make-shifts rather than their solid acquirements as men and women.

We adhere too closely to what we ought to depart from, and refuse to take hold of that to which we ought to cling.

In short, we are too much what we ought not, and not enough what we ought to be.

A woman is either worth a great deal or nothing. If good for nothing, she is not worth getting jealous for; if she be a true woman, she will give you no cause for jealousy. A man is a brute to be jealous of a good woman—a fool to be jealous of a worthless one—but he is a double fool to cut his throat for either.

KILL WARTS.—The following is said never to fail if properly applied; Make a strong steep, from red oak bark, in hot water; when cold, apply as convenient, the oftener the better. In a few days the warts will disappear.

The Hollidaysburg Standard relates a circumstance wherein six persons lost their lives by drinking from a cup which had been used by a person who died from diphtheria.

Two hundred and seventy-five men were discharged from the Locomotive works at Paterson, N. J., on Monday last.

George Francis Train has an income of $28,000 yearly from rents alone.

Rock Island, Ill., claims to have the largest blacksmith shop in the world.
