Mr. Clary was a native of Allegany county, and was about 28 years of age. He died unmarried. A coroner's jury is now in session.

The following is the article which occasioned the murder: Considerable inquiry obtains among the public as to the calculation of the Clerk of the Court in arriving at the amount of costs due to the talemens summoned on the Lear case from several districts of the county.

The talemens from Lonaconing were paid $8.50 each; those from Frostburg $4.60, (the Clerk taking the trouble to tell them in Court to go down to the office and get their certificates.)

Those from Mount Savage and the country districts were allowed to go without being paid at all, and without receiving any intimation from anybody that anything was due them.

The talemens from Lonaconing and Frostburg were severally summoned after seven o'clock on Thursday evening. They came to Cumberland on the morning train and left in the afternoon, thus losing but one day.

Take the case of Lonaconing, the talemens from which district received eight dollars and a half each. The distance from that point to Cumberland by rail, the longest route, is twenty-six miles.

The law allows mileage at the rate of twenty-five cents per mile one way upon all distances over five miles. Therefore the mileage upon twenty-one miles should have been $5.25, which, added to the per diem, $2.50, makes $7.75, the sum these talemens should have been paid.

Again, the distance from Frostburg to Cumberland, by rail, is seventeen miles; five off would leave twelve, which would give the Frostburg men $3 as mileage. Add to this their per diem, $2.50, and we have $5.50 as the sum due, instead of $4, the amount received.

As before remarked, the men from Mt. Savage and the country districts were allowed to go without being paid. In the case of Lonaconing the money was handed over to Mr. Patrick Mullen, an earnest satellite of the present incumbents, for distribution; all of which gave rise to considerable comment.

An Editor Shot in his Office.

(Special Despatch to Baltimore American.) CUMBERLAND, October 27.—At two o'clock, this afternoon, a terrible tragedy took place in the office of the Daily Times.

John H. Resley, a son of Horace Resley, Esq., Clerk of the Circuit Court, felt himself aggrieved by an article which appeared in this morning's Times assailing the character of his father, and charging that there was fraud practiced in paying the jurors and talemens summoned in the case of the State against Lear, who was convicted of rape last week.

Young Resley went to the Times office, armed with a revolver, and meeting Loyd L. Clary, the editor, in the hall at the top of the first flight of stairs, he put to him the question, "Did you write that article?"

At the same time drawing his pistol, Clary exclaimed, "John, give me a chance." "No," and immediately fired two shots—the one passing through Clary's neck and the other entering his chest, just below the heart, inflicting a fatal wound.

Mr. D. Bradley, collecting agent for the Times, was in the editorial room, and the door being open, he heard the words that passed between Resley and Clary. He says that Resley came up stairs met Clary on the landing, and then the words passed which are given above. Clary had been in the press room on the third floor, and was returning to the editorial room when he encountered Resley.

Mr. McCordle, foreman of the composing room of the Times office, makes the following statement: About 2 o'clock Mr. Clary left the press room and went down stairs. In two minutes or less he heard two shots in rapid succession. He ran to the door leading down stairs, and found Mr. Clary on the second step, the blood gushing from his throat and breast, and was returning up stairs. He exclaimed, "Go for a doctor!" He had one hand to his throat, and in the other a pistol. He was falling or leaning against the wall. The words came from his throat in gasps.

There was no one on the stairs but Clary. Mr. McCordle ran down to the street and saw John H. Resley standing on the opposite side, gesticulating wildly. He said, "I did it and I am ready for any of his friends," and at the same time reached behind him as if to draw a pistol.

Mr. Clary was carried to the third floor and physicians summoned. Dr. Charles H. Ohr considered the wounds fatal, and was of the opinion that death would ensue in a few hours. Other physicians say that there is but little hope of his recovery.

Resley surrendered himself, and was committed to jail.

Mr. Clary made an ante-mortem statement to justice J. M. Beall, but it has not been given to the public. He was removed on a stretcher to the City Hotel. As soon as the fact of the shooting became known through the city a great crowd gathered in the street in front of the Times office, and much excitement prevailed.

The rite of baptism was administered to the dying man by Fathers Breunan and Ryan of the Roman Catholic Church. His father, mother, sister and brothers, who reside at Frostburg, were telegraphed for and arrived before his death, which took place at fifty-two minutes past 8 o'clock this evening. He will be buried at Frostburg.

Mr. Clary was a native of Allegany county, and was about 28 years of age. He died unmarried. A coroner's jury is now in session.

QUINCE WINE.—We acknowledge the receipt of a bottle of wine as a present from Mrs. John L. Metcalf of Quince, made from the pure juice of the quince. All who tasted the wine acknowledged it was a very superior article, but could not tell what it was made from.

ANOTHER SAD ACCIDENT.—It is with feelings of more than ordinary regret and sadness we announce the accidental killing of Mr. Wm. A. Johnston, son of Mr. Wm. Johnston of this vicinity, which recently took place near St. Joseph, Mo., under the following circumstances. It appears the deceased was out on a hunting excursion in company with Jacob H. Hoover, H. C. Hoover, (both formerly of this vicinity) and others. Mr. Johnston, says our informant, had a double-barreled shot gun. In passing along he discharged one barrel at some object from the wagon in which the party were seated, and in re-loading, having neglected to put down the hammer, the second barrel was discharged, the contents entering his head near the temple and causing instant death. He had been engaged in business in Greencastle up to a short time since, and at the time was on a visit to his friends at that place. He was a very fine young man and highly esteemed among a large circle of friends and acquaintances. A wife and four children we understand are left to deplore the loss of a kind husband and parent. At last accounts the remains of the deceased, which are to be brought home for interment, had not arrived.

NEW CEMETERY.—For the past two weeks Mr. HENRY T. KENDALL, C. E. of Reading, Pa., has been busily engaged, (assisted by our old friend Adam Flory as marker) in laying out the grounds for the new Cemetery on the Leitersburg turnpike. Under the supervision of Messrs. Simon Leclone and G. W. McGinley some twenty-five laborers are employed in grading walks, carriage roads, &c. Since the timber has been removed from the central elevation a beautiful view is had of the surrounding country; and the grounds with comparatively little labor will be found well adapted for the purpose designed.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—On Friday last the following properties were sold by Sheriff Greenwalt: A one and a half story log house and lot of ground in Quince township, belonging to Nancy Still, to Mary E. Metzger, for the sum of $130.

A two story log house and lot of ground in Quince, the property of Jere Metzger, to Mary E. Metzger, for $1,000.

A two story frame house and lot of ground on Church st., in Waynesboro, the property of Rev. J. W. Feight, to James B. Hamilton, for $1,500.

THE SITUATION.—There is at present an unusual amount of complaining or wailing about the situation of affairs financially, and there is certainly cause for it in some degree. It should however be avoided as far as possible. The experience of the past is that such a course tends to make the situation worse rather than to better it. The very natural effect is to produce a want of confidence, one man with another, where there is perhaps not the shadow of ground for suspicion; embarrassments and inconvenience in business follow, the disastrous effects of which are not infrequently felt throughout a whole community. It is generally found too that those who have the least cause for complaint are the first and loudest bewailers of the situation. There are others—a very respectable class in number—there is reason to believe take advantage of such seasons of depression in business circles and instead of paying their debts plead poverty and horde their means for selfish ends. Certainly nothing could have a more damaging effect than such a course. It withdraws that much money from circulation and thus contributes to the stringency or scarcity. $100 paid out to-day may be the means of paying twenty-five or more debts to-morrow. Less complaining and fewer persons to thus belie honest creditors and horde money that is so much needed would doubtless revive business in general. A contemporary says, "Let every man pay his debts, and keep the currency moving. Pay at once, and don't hesitate, and your creditor will be encouraged to pay his debts, and so good will be done all along the line." This is sound advice, which it would be well for the general public to heed.

DEATH OF MRS. HESS.—In our last issue we briefly announced the death of Mrs. Dr. Jeremiah Hess at Quince. The inharmonious relations, which are said to have existed between the Dr. and his wife for several years gave rise to suspicions of poisoning. Accordingly Dr. Hess was arrested on the affidavit of a sister of the deceased and was required to give bail to await further developments. A Coroner's Jury was summoned on Thursday last and a post mortem examination ordered. The examination in the presence of the jury was made by Drs. Samuel G. Lane and Sussessor, of Chambersburg. The stomach and other parts in which poison if administered would be found were, it is stated, forwarded to Philadelphia for analysis. The jury then adjourned to await the result of the investigation and the Dr. was held to bail in the sum of $1,000. All manner of unfounded rumors have been in circulation since the death of Mrs. Hess. From the long acquaintance we have had with Dr. Hess we cannot think otherwise than that the suspicions of poisoning are unfounded, and trust the finale of the unfortunate affair will fully acquit him of the commission of a crime so revolting in its nature.

THE TRUE WAY TO BUILD UP A TOWN is to encourage its labor—to increase its productive capacity and stimulate its enterprise. This rests upon buyer and seller. Each has a duty to perform in securing the operation of these essentials to prosperity. Liberality on the one side, a proper local pride and a true appreciation of personal interest on the other are what lead to the prosperity of a town.

JOHN C. HEENAN, a prize fighter of great renown, died on Saturday near Rawlins, on the Union Pacific Railroad, while on his way to San Francisco. His career as a sporting man was somewhat extraordinary. When twenty years of age he fought with John Morrissey and was whipped, at last his antagonist carried off the purse. His friends immediately proclaimed him the champion of the United States. He crossed the ocean and received an unmerciful mauling from Tom Sayers, but his American backers forthwith bought him a belt and dubbed him the champion of the world. Some years afterwards he went to Europe again and suffered another severe pounding from a pugacious Irishman. He came home a great hero, and since then has played the part of a sort of retired sporting gentleman who lived on the reputation acquired in his defeats. He was married to the late Adah Isaacs Menken, an actress who played "Mezappa" in Europe and America, and found time to write a volume of sacred hymns of considerable merit in the intervals between her engagements. While in Paris she was greatly petted by Dumas, the elder. Heenan was one of the most perfect specimens of physical manhood that ever entered the prize ring and his pluck was never questioned. The severe training to which he subjected himself, while it developed his muscles and gave him amazing strength, no doubt shortened his life. He could not have been more than thirty-five years of age at the time of his death.

PEOPLE who care what they dream about had better keep away from Bald Mountain, Tennessee, where a noted den of rattlesnakes has long been the terror of the country. Forty have been counted under a single rock, and on any sunny day the heads of five hundred may be seen projecting from beneath a circular ledge.

SAD AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—The Fulton Republican (McConnellburg), furnishes the particulars of a fatal accident which happened to Mr. David A. Mellott, who resided in Licking Creek township, in that County. It appears Mr. M. left home on the afternoon of the 17th inst., with a sled load of corn drawn by oxen, intending to take the same to Saluvia Tannery. After proceeding part of the way, he concluded to go with the team alone and procure a wagon for the corn; it is supposed that the oxen became frightened and unmanageable, having "to pass a very rough road and descending grade, the difficulties were thereby increased, and by some unknown means he was precipitated under the wagon, the wheels of which must have passed over his head. From surrounding circumstances, and the serious injuries he sustained, death must have been almost if not altogether instant. The wagon was found close by, locked amongst sapling trees and the team disengaged therefrom. The discovery was not made until the following morning. Mrs. Mellott, passed a fearful night of suspense and could not leave her helpless children to go in search. As soon as day broke she went to the nearest house, and J. W. Hannon made the discovery. Mr. Mellott was an industrious citizen and about 30 years of age.

ONE OF THE notable features in the machinery department at the Frederick Fair, was that of a Rye Thresher exhibited by Messrs. Stewart & Price, of Frederick city. It is a machine to thresh rye without injuring the straw. It attracted the attention of a great many farmers. It being quite an ingenious and valuable invention. They had also on exhibition much other improved machinery. Fodder Cutters, Corn Shellers, Wheat Fans, Threshing Machines, Farm Grist Mills, &c. Their assortment was well displayed and drew quite a crowd of admirers during the exhibition.—Clarion.

HOW TO LIGHTEN WOMAN'S LABOR.—If "time is money," then everything that tends to facilitate labor is a positive pecuniary benefit to mankind. The best sewing machine or churn is not a "good strong woman" as experience proves. So Sappolo, in enabling one woman to easily do as much cleaning of every kind in one day as two women can do in two days with the scrubbing brush and soap, is a positive blessing to the human race. No woman who has once used it will ever use anything else as a substitute. Sold by all dealers. The cheapest as well as the best cleansing substance in the world.
