

There is a state of feeling between the whites and blacks of Vicksburg, Miss. which may lead to a collision at any moment. In that city and State the negroes are in the ascendancy, and they are carrying matters with a high hand. They have endeavored, but unsuccessfully thus far, to force the two white militia companies in Vicksburg to disband, and thus leave the city at the mercy of the negro company organized there and armed with rifles. This antagonism between the two races has been intensified within the past few days by the public declaration of a mulatto officeholder of the right of negroes to take the daughters of white men for their wives, in opposition to the will of their parents, and at the mouth of the pistol, if need be. Since this whites and blacks have both armed, and unless more prudent counsels prevail a conflict seems to be imminent.

The Washington Monument Association have a new plan of completing the monument, viz: that of securing from individuals, associations, &c. subscriptions, with payment contingent upon the bona fide subscription of the entire amount necessary to complete the monument. In this way no one need fear the waste of his money, and may contribute with the assurance that if he contributes he contributes to an early completion of the monument. It is expected, if this plan be promptly concurred in, to complete the monument in time for laying the cap-stone on the 4th of July, 1876. Seven associations in Washington are already pledged to make contributions in accordance with the proposed plan.

On the 17th, upward of four hundred Mennonite emigrants arrived at New York from the Crimea. The women all wore blue calico gowns, with a blue handkerchief thrown over their heads, and no signs of ribbons, or earrings, or brooches, or even wedding rings were visible, these things being all considered too worldly. The children were dressed like their mothers, with this exception, that some of their caps were surmounted with a kind of topknot or ornamental tassel. The men were all dressed like ordinary German peasants, but, in spite of the seeming poverty of their apparel, had well filled wallets. One of them had a draft for $26,000 in gold, another had a draft for nearly the same amount, while many of the others held letters of credit for sums varying from $1,000 to $2,000. They intend to settle in the West.

On Saturday Mrs. Charles C. Herring, wife of a carpet dealer, corner of Second and South streets, Philadelphia, received an infernal machine containing three pounds of powder. A note accompanied the box, stating that it contained a new patented article. The circumstances being suspicious, the box was carefully opened without accident, the entire family being stationed around at the time. The box, which was a foot long and eight inches wide, was filled with powder. On top, run through holes in a strip, were about fifty matches, with heads arranged so as to almost touch a sliding lid, which was covered with sand-paper. If the box had not been cautiously opened, an explosion would have occurred, injuring and probably causing the death of the entire family. Edward Wagner, son-in-law, was arrested on suspicion.

BOY ABDUCTED.—Some ten days since a small boy, named Charles Ross, was abducted by a couple men in Philadelphia, since which time diligent search for him has been made by the police, but to no purpose. Several letters have passed between the abductors and the father of the lad, the former demanding $20,000 for his safe delivery. Mayor Stokely has offered a reward of $20,000 for the capture of the abductors of the child. The description of the child and the robbers is as follows:

Age, four years, dressed in brown linen kilt suit, with short skirt, broad brimmed unbleached Panama hat, with black band, laced shoes, and blue and white striped stockings. The boy has long flaxen curly hair, hazel eyes, clear skin, round full face, and no marks except those made by vaccination on the arm. His appearance, as above described, may have been greatly changed by cutting off his hair or changing his dress, to that of a girl, or in some other way. The child was decoyed by two men into a falling-top yatch bodied buggy, painted dark all over, lined with dark material, drawn by a dark bay or brown horse, about fifteen and a half hands high, driven, it is believed, without a check rein by two men, who as nearly as can be ascertained, answer to the following description: No. 1 was a man of rather large size, probably five feet eight or nine inches in height; he was only seen sitting; age believed to be from thirty-five to forty-five years; mustache and full beard of whiskers, rather long on the chin, of brown or sandy color, and brown hair; wore a ring on the little finger of his right hand. No. 2 was a man five feet eight or ten inches high, about twenty-five or thirty years of age, of light, or with a tendency to sandy complexion, mustache and red nose and face, having the appearance of a drinking man. One of the men wore a broad brimmed straw hat, looking as if it had been worn a season or two, and unbrowned. The other wore a high crowned, dark colored straw hat. One wore a linen duster, and the other a gray alpaca duster. One of the men wore large glasses or goggles of dark color, probably as a disguise.

Of the twenty-eight districts of the counties of Queen Anne's, Caroline, Talbot and Dorchester, which voted on the local option question on Tuesday of last week, only eight voted in favor of license, while a large majority of the popular vote was cast against the sale of liquor. The local optionists celebrated their victory at some places by a torchlight procession bonfires, firing salutes, &c.

A SWINDLER AND IMPOSTOR.—Look out for him.—A fellow claiming to be J. C. Hoffman, a late graduate of Wirttemberg College, Ohio, of whom mention is made in the Lutheran Observer of a late date, landed in our town on Thursday last. He exhibited what appeared to be reliable papers of identity, and carried a sample bottle of a choice grape that he was selling, in connection with a rare and valuable strawberry, by means of which he was trying to earn money sufficient to enable him to complete his theological course. He preached at Rays' Hill several times, and was there met by Rev. Poffenberger, of this place, and on his arrival here was kindly invited to preach in the Lutheran Church on Sunday morning. With such high aims and honorable record, he had but little trouble in selling his grape cuttings at two dollars on delivery, or fifty cents cash and one dollar and twenty-five cents on delivery, and strawberry plants at one dollar per dozen on delivery, or twenty-five cents cash and fifty cents on delivery. His operations on Friday and Saturday must have been quite profitable. But on Sunday morning, D. W. Ebert, Esq. of this place, student at Ursinus College, in the absence of service in his own church, attended Lutheran service as a party who had spent two weeks in his institution and decamped to save himself from arrest on the charges of the grossest liberalism. The services were allowed to proceed and Mr. H. spoke a tolerable sermon and made several fervent prayers, and afterwards attended the M. E. Sabbath School, and then Presbyterian services at the Reformed Church, where Mr. Ebert renewed his acquaintance and privately made him own to his former acts at Ursinus. Mr. E. informed several others of what he knew of the following, and while at tea in the Union Hotel, where he was stopping, P. G. Morgart, Esq. went into his room, and abstracted one of his grapes from his sample bottle, which on examination was found to be a half-grown grape, or egg-plant, with large seed, preserved in alcohol. The news was soon common property, and Mr. H. was wailed on by his landlord and asked to pay his bill and travel as speedily as possible. This he did from a back door, but was caught by Mr. Morgart and made to refund the grape money advanced him, and then allowed to pass on towards the river. He was followed afterwards by several parties, but beat a hasty retreat and evaded them, and continued on his way through the rain and mud. He is about 25 years of age, 5 feet 5 or 6 inches tall, heavy build, short neck, dark curly hair and beard on his chin, small piercing eyes, dark complexion, with blotches, or pimples on side of face and neck, and is an easy, fluent speaker, with a slight German tinge in his enunciation. He may try something else and people should be on the lookout for him.—Everett Press.

Theodore Tilton made his threatened statement before the Beecher investigation committee on Monday night, and on Tuesday it was furnished to the city papers. The charge made by Tilton are in detail, and he gives letters, etc., in support of them. The sum and substance of the statement, is that Mr. Beecher, taking advantage of his position and influence as a pastor, led Mr. Tilton's wife into guilt with himself and that after she had made a full confession of the wrong to her husband, Mr. Beecher, to escape exposure and ruin, so wrought upon her mind again as to cause her to revoke that confession, and that now she has openly deserted her home and arrays herself with Mr. Beecher and his friends in a conspiracy to overthrow the credibility and good repute of Mr. Tilton as a man and a citizen.—The attitude of Mr. Tilton is clearly given and the charges which he brings against Mr. Beecher are unmistakably plain. Mr. Beecher and Mrs. Tilton both at once published denials of the facts alleged, and promise to sustain their denials with full statements of the facts. Mr. Beecher is understood to be preparing his defence. Mrs. Tilton's was published on Friday last. She claims that Tilton had long been a free lover, that he had frequently for years expressed his malice against Beecher, and his determination to ruin him. In his own words, says "that he lived to crush out Mr. Beecher; that the God of battles was in him; that he had always been Mr. Beecher's superior, and all that lay in his path, wife, children, or reputation, if need be, should fall before this purpose."

On Monday a week, the Oriental Circus exhibited at Nicholson, Wyoming County, Pa., and after it had left a Mrs. Robinson discovered that her two daughters, aged twelve and fourteen years, who had gone to see the show, were missing. On Wednesday Mrs. Robinson caught up with the circus at Dunmore, where it was exhibiting, and inquired for her children. She was almost crazed by anxiety. To her horror she learned that the men who had abducted her daughters had been discharged the day before, and no one knew whether they had gone. The police of Scranton are tracking the miscreants.

Hon. A. R. Boteler and Hon. C. J. Faulkner, have both announced themselves as independent candidates for congress in the Charlestown (W. Va.) district.

Family sickness will account for lack of customary varieties in this issue of the Record.

RELIGIOUS.—Rev. Prof. P. M. Bikle, of Pennsylvania College, will preach in the Presbyterian Church, next Sabbath morning and evening. In the same church on the following Sabbath, the Trinity Reformed and Presbyterian congregations will unite in service. Preaching by Rev. H. H. W. Hishman.

PERSONAL.—Dr. T. D. French and family, from Vicksburg, Miss., are at present on a visit to their friends in this place. The Dr. is none the worse of Southern life, presenting a picture of good living and good health. On this occasion he makes a short stay. He will leave tomorrow for his southern home.

DESTRUCTIVE DELUGE.—Pittsburg and vicinity on Monday last was visited by a terribly destructive rain storm, involving a fearful loss of life. Houses and whole families were swept away. At last accounts the number of persons lost was estimated at considerably over two hundred. The deluge it appears was caused by a water-spout. In the suburbs of the city the flood is said to have been twenty feet deep, entering the second stories of dwellings. A private despatch states that Geo. B. Johnson, (formerly of this place) or rather the business firm with which he is associated, sustained a loss of between $7,000 and $8,000. Wm. H. Zeigler, formerly of this place, is also reported to have sustained a loss of about $4,000, not a vestige of his dwelling or its surroundings having been left standing. The extent of territory damaged is said to be about twenty-five miles in diameter and the loss of property immense of course.

Local News. —Roasting ears at 20 cents per dozen. —Have you paid your last year's subscription to the Record? —Among the varieties of the season just now is "hot corn."

NEW LIVERY.—Mr. J. S. Funk has added another livery to our town. See advt. in another column. —See advt. of John H. Cook's steam cracker factory, Hagerstown, Md. in this issue.

BACK.—Rev. C. L. Keedy, Pastor of the Lutheran church in this place, returned last week from his Western tour. He preached as usual on Sunday. —Rev. R. F. McClean, Pastor of the Presbyterian church in this place, took his departure on Monday for a visit among his friends. We understand he will be absent about five weeks.

APPOINTMENTS.—If the ministers of our town will furnish us from week to week with their appointments for Sabbath services, we will cheerfully give them place in our columns. —Two sales of real estate will be found among the new advertisements in this issue—one by John F. Hess and Julia A. Greenawalt, the other by Abram K. Knepper (of G.)—to which we call special attention.

RELIGIOUS.—Rev. Prof. P. M. Bikle, of Pennsylvania College, will preach in the Presbyterian Church, next Sabbath morning and evening. In the same church on the following Sabbath, the Trinity Reformed and Presbyterian congregations will unite in service. Preaching by Rev. H. H. W. Hishman.

FISHING PARTY.—A party from this place visited the Potomac river last week on a fishing excursion and spent several days along its banks. We understand they were very successful, securing about 150 pounds of fish, about 50 of which was bass. They report the enjoyment of a good time in general—having a natural inclination for things "gay and festive"—and commend very highly Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cheney, of Falling Waters, for their kindness and hospitality. Among the amusing incidents connected with their visit the following is related: One of the party it appears was victimized something after the style of the Tom Collins "sells," by being induced to dive into the river after a large but several days dead turtle. Another rather laughable mishap to a Washington County official is reported. Seated on the bow of the boat with rod and line a sudden "bite" or pull at the line captured him into the river. He was promptly rescued, says our informant, and his prize proved a sunfish, and not a very ponderous one at that. Persons not very frequently lose their equilibrium from other causes than fish bites, but the gentleman referred to being rather diminutive in size the sudden jar on the line may account for it.

MERCERSBURG, July 23, 1874. Dear Editor: I notice in your paper a brief article in reference to Mercersburg College, which is well calculated to mislead your readers, and therefore I hasten to inform you that it is a gross misrepresentation, not intended I trust by the writer.

Mercersburg College was never more prosperous than during the past year, numbering over one hundred students, and graduating the largest class which it has had since its organization. Its Board of Regents saw fit to reappoint Rev. M. Sangree as the regular agent, and asked the Mercersburg Classis to consent to the action, and dissolve the pastoral relation of the good brother to the Charge which he is serving. The Classis found that great injury would be done to the new Charge which was prospering under his ministrations, and urged the Board to appoint in his stead, its stated Clerk, Rev. Wm. M. Deatrich, a minister of unblemished character and great influence. Subsequently the Board followed the advice of the Classis.

The President reported to the Classis that with the utmost economy there had been a deficit, owing to the fact that all the endowment of the College was not yet available, and that some action must be taken to increase the current fund to insure the continued prosperity of the College. Action has been taken, and there is every prospect that the deficit will be more than met, by the earnest Christian liberality of the friends of the College. I am convinced that it will give you pleasure to insert this in your paper; for it should be a source of gratification to the citizens of Franklin County to know that there is a thorough, and well disciplined College in their midst, which, without doubt, grow in influence and power from year to year. Mercersburg College is not "blown up" as the article referred to seems to imply, but on the contrary is growing up to greater significance and usefulness from year to year and deserves the encouraging sympathy of the press and literary men of Franklin County. Yours Respectfully, E. E. HIGBEE, President of the Board.

BROKE JAIL.—On Saturday morning last, two colored persons named Sandy Johnson and James Turpine, by some means not known to the officials, made their way into the jail yard sometime during the night, scaled the wall, and are now at large. Johnson is accused of rape and Turpine with larceny. Sheriff Greenawalt has offered a reward of twenty dollars for the apprehension of either, or forty dollars for both.—Opinion.

VANDALISM.—We learn from the Mercersburg Journal that some miscreants entered the grounds of Mercersburg College, recently, and girdled about forty young forest trees. All has been done since its discovery, to save the trees from destruction, but with what result remains yet to be seen.

MISSIONARY TO CHINA.—Miss M. L. Sellers, of Fayetteville left on the 27th inst., for San Francisco, on her way to China, where she will engage in missionary work under the auspices of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of New York. Miss Sellers is well adapted, both by inclination and culture, to the work she has undertaken.—Repository.

We call special attention to the advertisement of the agent of the Christian Age in to-day's paper. The handsome premium engraving, containing 250 portraits, entitled "The Founders and Pioneers of Methodism," is given to every subscriber.

NOTICE.—On last Sunday evening an Umbrella with silk edging around it was taken by mistake from the vestibule of the Presbyterian church. The person having it will please return it to the Record office.

THE ERROR ONCE MORE. It is not material who "Justitia" of July 16 is, suffice it to say, that he does not reside in Waynesboro, and that no one there is responsible for his article. "H" in his reply overlooks the distinction between "being engrafted" and "appropriating." No one would say that the two are identical in natural grafting, the first act is grafting or setting, the second, taking up or appropriating the life of the tree, so now in spiritual grafting. First, the engrafting, as all Protestant confessions say, then the appropriating of the divine life of Christ into which the subject was engrafted. What "H" says of this appropriating is all true, but he overlooks another equally important side, viz. the engrafting. It would have assisted the reader if, with his quotations of Ques. and Ans. from the Catechism he had also quoted Ques. 68, 70, 72, 73 and then given the exposition of Ursinus, where, among other things he says, "There is in Baptism a double washing; an external washing with water, and an internal, washing with the blood and spirit of Christ." Very much like Dr. G's tract. Then further, from the Art. "Baptism," from the confession of faith, Presbyterian, * * * "a sign and seal of the covenant of grace of his engrafting into Christ, of regeneration, of remission of sins, of his giving up unto God through Jesus Christ to walk in newness of life," &c. &c. Then also the Methodist Cat. Ques. 71, 72. In addition to all these, the subject will be made still clearer, if the thesis concerning Baptism from the commentary of Ursinus is added, thus: "2. The first end of baptism instituted by God is, that he might thereby declare and testify to us, that he cleanses those who are baptized by his blood and spirit from all their sins, and therefore engrafs them into the body of Christ and makes them partakers of all his benefits." This now by the double washing as before quoted. This language sounds very much like Dr. G. who says, as "H" had it printed in small cap, "that by baptism they are engrafted into Jesus Christ" & so all the Protestant confessions say, and are therefore made partakers of Christ and all his benefits." So Ursinus says, pretty good company. It would perhaps be difficult to tell, had Dr. G. and Dr. U. lived at the same time, which one copied from the other, the two expressions being nearly alike. Queer reading this commentary of Dr. Ursinus, the Westminster confession and rather good, healthy theology, Bomberger, Good, Nast, &c. and the miserable, wretched travesty of Schneck to the contrary notwithstanding.

Now, Mr. Editor, "Justitia," reiterates what he said in his former article, and emphatically asserts that in this one-sided way this ecclesiastical warfare in the Reformed church has been carried on for years. Is it any wonder that there is no peace? We look for the right and shall abide the time of the Good-Lord when he shall bring it in. JUSTITIA.

SURE CURE FOR HYDROPHOBIA.—Hydrophobia can be prevented, and I will give you what is known to be an infallible remedy, if properly administered, for man or beast; a dose for a horse or cow should be about four times as great as for a person. It is not too late to give the medicine any time before the spasms come on. The first dose for a person is 1 1/2 oz. of oleum campane root, bruised, put in a pint of new milk, reduced to one half by boiling, then taken all at one dose in the morning, fasting until afternoon, or at least a very light diet after several hours have elapsed. The second dose the same as the first, except take 2 oz. of the root; third dose same as the last, to be taken every other day. Three doses are all that is needed and there need be no fear. This I know from my own experience, and I know of a number of other cases where it has been entirely successful.—This is no guess-work. These persons that I allude to were bitten by their own rabid dogs, that had been bitten by rabid dogs and were penned up to see if they would go mad; they did go mad, and did bite the persons. This remedy has been used in and about Philadelphia for forty years or longer, with great success, and is known as the Goodman remedy. I am acquainted with a physician who told me that he knows of its use for more than thirty years, but never knew a case that failed where it was properly administered. Among other cases he mentioned, was one where a number of cows had been bitten by a mad dog; to half the number they administered this remedy, to the other half not, the latter all died with hydrophobia, while those that took the oleum-campane and milk showed no signs of the disease. R. C. SIGSMAKER.
